SATURDAY, MAY 20.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

JAMES E. PARKER.

According to a dispatch from Fort Apache, Arizona, the White Mountain Indians seem to have been given permission to go to a place outside the reservation for the ostensible purpose of planting corn, but manifestly with the view of murdering some white settlers who are already there. Why this permission should be granted, and above all why the Indians should be permitted to go there well armed, it is difficult to imagine. This looks very much like the inauguration of another redskin butchery with the connivance and direct permission of the officers of the reservation. Why are the Apaches permitted to carry arms, anyhow? They only use them for murderous purposes. The Government is greatly to blame in this matter.

It is reported that Bennett had under consideration plans for another Arctic expedition, which he was cogitating when the news came of the finding of De Long and his party dead. It is understood that, in obedience to public sentiment, Bennett will abandon the intention, unless there should appear reasonable grounds for the search for the remains of Lieutenant Chipp and party. The contemplated expedition was to be on a much grander scale than that of the Jeannette, and was to be under the combined direction of army and navy officers. The naval officers were to be supreme on board the vessel, while the army officers were to head the sledge expeditions in conjunction with others.

The decision of the Judges in the appeal of Guiteau's counsel on the question of jurisdiction and upon the exceptions taken to Judge Cox's rulings has been rendered. They have concluded to deny all the points claimed by the defense. As the Court adjourns over till the October term, and there is no appeal from it, we may lay it down as a certain proposition that Guiteau will expiate his great crime at the time appointed for his execution. Nothing can save him but the interposition of the Executive, and that is an impossible contingency for many obvious reasons.

Work is about to begin on the Washington monument. The appropriation will enable the addition of seventy-five feet to the height, making the total 325. About ninety memorial stones are waiting to be placed in the wall. Among the number is one from the original chapel of Wm. Tell, built in 1388, at Lake Lucerne, when he escaped from Gessler, and one from the Temple Æsculapius, on the island of Paros.

A gentleman recently from the East has informed a Reno Gazette reporter that he met Mark Twain in New Haven, Connecticut, a few weeks ago, and that Mark looked very cadaverous—like a dry nurse in a marine hospital. He was bilious and cross; his humor had turned into a mange, and he was crosser than a hound pup doped with turpentine. In fact his defluxion of fun has culminated in a rash of sourness.

In Tombstone, Arizona, lately, a Mexican named Antonio Fejuarda, while drunk, fired at officer Poening while the officer was going to arrest him. The ball struck Poening in the groin and his life is endangered. Chief of Police Dave Nagle pursued the Mexican, who fled, and refusing to surrender was shot and killed. Chief Nagle resided at Panamint in old times.

The ninety days after which Chinese may not come here save as the new law provides will expire on August 6th, so that on and after August 7th the anti-Chinese law will be in force, and in the meantime these Mongols will be poured in upon us at the rate of nearly 2,500 a week, so that the President's failure to sign the former bill will give us at least 30,000 additional Chinese.

A redwood tree, nineteen feet in diameter, was felled near Guerneville, and a correspondent says that when it fell more than two hundred tons struck the solid earth and the concussion rattled the dishes in houses a mile away.

An excursion train containing several hundred Missouri editors and their families came into collision with a loose engine near Oswego, Ky., lately, but no one was killed. Sorry about that.

The suicide of E. W. Kingsland, Treasurer of the Jersey City Provident Institution for Savings, caused a serious run on that bank, lately.

The House Committee on Commerce recommends an appropriation of $12,000 for a steam fog signal on Lime Point.

The River and Harbor bill contains liberal appropriations for the Pacific Coast.

The Pension Appropriation bill appropriates $100,000,000.

The San Francisco Chronicle very pointedly says: "It would be interesting to know the exact proportion of the population of California practically engaged in production. How many people have we in the State who do not produce anything? We have a population of about 850,000, and out of that number there are probably less than 250,000 actual producers. The cereal yield of the State, considering the number of persons engaged in it, is something extraordinary, altogether without a parallel in the industrial history of any State or country. Notwithstanding the fact that our resources of wealth are almost without limit, cities and towns contain nearly if not quite, one-half our entire population. This cannot be regarded as a healthy state of affairs, or a healthy sign of prosperity. Neither laziness on the one hand or the airy glamour of kid gloves on the other can possibly succeed in coaxing Nature to yield her hidden wealth for the use of man. The potent instruments to such work are the crowbar, the pickax and the plow. California wants a better system of economy, more general industry, better work and less palaver. The laboring force of the State has never been more than half utilized."

California comes to the front as a producer of petroleum. A well lately bored in Santa Barbara County produces 2,000 barrels per day, with a prospect of a long continuance of the flow. It was bored to a depth of 162 feet, when the oil pressure was so great that further boring had to be discontinued. Very productive petroleum wells have been sunk in the mountains of Ventura County. From some of these the oil is conveyed in pipes, six or seven miles, to Newhall, where large tank cars, constructed expressly for the purpose, are filled and transported to refineries in San Francisco and Oakland. The statistics of California production for the past three years stand as follows: For the year 1879 the yield was 568,806 gallons; in 1880, 1,763,215 gallons, and last year, 4,194,102. We believe the time is not remote when large fortunes will be made from the oil deposits of this State.

The astronomer of the New York Sun gives the following directions to those who desire to find the comet: Late in the evening, say about eleven o'clock, you will see pretty well up in the northeastern heavens the bright star Vega, in the Harp. It may be certainly recognized by means of two faint stars close by it, with which it makes a beautiful little triangle. The comet is almost on a line drawn from Vega to the Pole star, and you can find its place by noting that it is below and a little to the left of the Head of the Dragon, which is marked by a lozenge shaped figure lying a few degrees northwest of Vega.

The Kern County Democratic Central Committee met and elected T. E. Harding, D. R. Miller, D. W. Walser and J. O. Miller Delegates to the State Convention. The Delegates were instructed to join with the other Delegates from the State Senatorial District, in holding a Convention to nominate a State Senator. It was ordered that a primary election be held August 19th, to elect Delegates to a County Convention, and that the County Convention, for the purpose of nominating county officers, meet in Bakersfield August 26th.

The sub-committee of the House have labored all Winter with the railroad land grants and brought forth a mouse. The large corporations are to be turned over to the courts and a few small roads in the South that never had public land grants worth speaking of, are to be dealt with severely. The report looks as if the committee found very little difficulty in swallowing a camel while they strained at a gnat.

It is a subject of general remark that the Philadelphia excursionists are as fine a set of men as ever came here in a body. They are full-spirited, sociable and bent upon receiving and giving pleasure. Such a crowd can not only realize the maximum of enjoyment to be derived from travel, but make it a genuine pleasure to their hosts to entertain them.

The following items are found among the record of real estate transfers in Mono County: J. McDonald to J. J. Kelly, 500 feet of Golden Band and 750 of Sword Fish, Homer District; James Showers, Sheriff, to V. G. Thompson, Lowelio 1 and 2, Buena Vista, Golden Era and Tender, Pinte District.

The Resources of California is the best paper to send East or to Europe. It saves letter-writing. Every number is a volume in itself, and it is, without question, the finest paper published in the State.

The bill for the repression of crime in Ireland, though bitterly opposed by the Parnellites, meets with general approval in England, and will probably pass, after a severe struggle in the Commons.

[From the Times of Saturday last.]

H. J. Lent, who has just returned from Mammoth City, reports that snow is twelve feet deep in the streets of that place. Messrs. Hinklebine and Townsend are now the only residents of this once prosperous camp. In Mineral Park the snow is five feet deep at the toll-house. At Mill City the total fall of snow, up to the 4th instant, was twenty-seven feet, four inches.

Superintendent M. L. Cook, of the Valley Queen mine, informs us that their tunnel is now in 100 feet, and is still being pushed ahead at the rate of three feet every twenty-four hours. Three shifts of men are at work in the tunnel, and as soon as the main ledge is tapped—which will probably be reached within 30 days—a number of extra men will be put to work sinking.

H. J. Lent will start a tunnel, which will probably reach a length of 200 feet, in the Dark Horse mine.

The tree men have lately come out in force and held a "Forrestry Congress," at Cincinnati, characterized by much enthusiasm and earnestness in the interest in the future wood and timber supply of the country. So numerous were the papers prepared on different jects pertaining to the central idea of "tree-culture," that the Congress was divided into four sections of hearers. Most of the topics were very suggestive; some were valuable for one section and some for another. The active members ranged from Mobile to Montreal in point of latitude, and from Florida to Minnesota. "Forests and Health," "Forests and Rainfall," "The Southern Pine," The Walnut Tree," Historical Sketch of the Developments of Forest Policy in Germany," were some of the subjects of the carefully-prepared papers, the names of whose authors were a guarantee for their excellence. The whole subject of tree-planting and tree-culture ought to be a topic of much interest to the dwellers on the great central plain of California. Just here there is a sufficient supply until young timber can grow for fuel; but, at the present rate of consumption, a few years hence wood will be scarce and high. Provident farmers will plant a few trees, or a few acres of trees, from time to time. There is something very attractive in the idea of a "Timber Claim," and the worth of land covered with wood will soon make such plantations of trees extremely attractive in a utilitarian sense. —Visalia Delta.

Henry P. Rogers is now on trial in Aurora for stage robbing. Last week the Sheriff of Esmeralda County summoned sixty gentlemen to act as jurors. When the case came up Rogers' attorney, Patrick Reddy, challenged the whole panel on the ground that they were illegally summoned by the Sheriff, that officer being prejudiced by reason that he was a party to the prosecution. In this case if a conviction is made the Sheriff will receive Wells, Fargo & Co's. reward. The court ordered them discharged and summoned a new lot of jurymen. This little episode cost the County about $2,000.

We learn from a late bulletin from the Census Bureau that the lakes and ponds of California cover an area of 16,000 square miles. Tulare Lake is the largest of any wholly within the limits of the United States, its area being 650 square miles. In fact, there are a great many things in which California is leading the other States, and, we have no doubt, some future census will show that the State has become the most conspicuous of all for the wealth of her agricultural products.

"OUR LITTLE FOLKS."—The entertainment on Thursday evening, in Mairs' Hall, freely given for the purpose, by "Our Little Folks," under direction, principally, of Mrs. Emma Willis, was a very pleasing affair throughout, and especially to all who take pleasure in childrens' pleasures—and he must be a very sorry scrub who don't. The opening pieces—song and pantomime—though executed by a dozen or so of little girls, who had executed it for the first and only time together but once before, was very good indeed and creditable to all. Miss Carrie Willis' rendering of "Woman's Lot" was well done, while the singing and elocutionary powers of Miss Della and little Ruth, of the same family, elicited universal praise. Mr. Wm. Barrows was pressed in for two solos, with organ accompaniment by Miss Nettie Thompson, thereby adding materially to the enjoyments of the entertainment. Of the little volunteers who took part, little Maggie Crough and Mattie Wallace each won fair praise. Without further remark as to the performances it may be stated here that the object in giving these entertainments is simply to raise funds wherewith to pay off certain liabilities incurred in repairing the parsonage in this place and in the construction of the new one at Bishop Creek, that or "begging" being the only alternative. The entertainment, without regard to the object, is well worth anybody's four bits. An entertainment, one or more, beginning to-night will be given in Lone Pine.

HEARD FROM.—Until quite recently not a word has ever been heard from those "bull-pouts," or catfish, with which the Owens River was stocked two years ago, and, in consequence of this silence, interested persons generally had about come to the conclusion that that enterprise was a failure; that the native born chubs had destroyed all the catfish spawn. Such is not the case. Numbers of young catfish, six or seven inches in length, have lately been seen and caught in the sloughs and irrigating ditches up toward Bishop. So there is no doubt that this valley is quite as safe upon the bull-pout as it is upon the trout and carp question. As fish are said to afford the greatest amount of brain nutriment, there will be no risk of an undue percentage of idiots among the rising and future generations of Owens Valley people.

THE O. L. M. & M. CO. MILL.—Since the loss of the Bessie Brady Supt. Wheeler has hung up the stamps of the Hawley Mill until a supply of wood can be got down from Cerro Gordo, which he has contracted for. The mill had worked 136 tons of Palma ore, but with what results we are not informed. Supt. Keeler has his men engaged in repairing and increasing the capacity of the old barge, with which will be tried the experiment of getting the wood supplies across the lake.

THE INYO CONSOLIDATED.—This company shipped about $4,000 worth of bullion the first of the month, and on completion of the run toward the last of the month, will ship about $15,000 more. Some half a dozen different mines have been working and contributing to this run of the big mill. There is a shoot of ore in the Hemlock, on the hanging wall, that is now promising to develop a fine bonanza.

Beveridge—Saline Valley.

This little valley is one of the remarkable places among the most remarkable on the Coast. If the lofty intervening Inyo range were out of the way it would not exceed fifteen miles distant from this, Owens Valley. Yet it undoubtedly lies at one or two thousand feet lower altitude. It is simply an immense basin, say 12 by 25 miles in size, in the earth, surrounded on all sides with great mountains. At its lowest point of depression, immediately at the foot of the Inyo range, is found some 1200 acres of pure salt—millions of tons of it, glistening like crusted snow. Bordering on this on all sides, except the west, comes miles square of sandy, dusty lands, caustic with alkali, borax or some similar deposits, and presumed to be valuable on account of the same. On the opposite or western side is found a strip of rich, alluvial lands, one by three miles, perhaps, in extent, affording fair grazing throughout, a good portion of it being nutritious swamp grasses. Near by, on higher ground, is found one or two "ranches" fenced in, and claimed by a co-partnership of Indians of

SHOSHONE EXTRACTION,

Not of our Piute stock. These ranches are in a superior state of cultivation, being largely devoted to the production of onions, pumpkins, cabbage and all such. The climate is essentially tropic; frosts never occur at any season, and there is no doubt that the orange and other tropic fruits would flourish there grandly. These ranches and the swampy grass land adjoining, as also the salt lake directly in front, receive a bountiful supply of water from a sparkling mountain stream, apparently of about forty (miners) inches capacity. This stream varies but little in volume, one season with an other, and as compared to mountain streams generally its water is warm—too warm at first to satisfy tastes accustomed to the icy waters of the Sierra's, yet said to be eminently satisfactory after a few days use. The small black gnat does business in the vicinity the year through, sometimes on quite an extensive scale, at other times not so much so, but is not a comfort at any time. Very

PRETTY MESQUITE TREES

In line along the stream and in groves on the plain, afford welcome shade as well as quantities of equally welcome beans, both plain and of the twisted or screw style, to natives and sojourners; also a good hard timber, but small, and of use in many ways. The Indian proprietors of the ranches referred to are industrious and skillful farmers, and decidedly business-like in their methods of carrying on the same. Their watermelons are ready for market before the vines on this side of the range are fairly blossomed out. On this account these Indian farmers could do a thriving business in supplying this valley with melons, etc., were it not quite so difficult to cross the intervening Inyo range. Though, as above stated, the distance between the two vallies on a level line might not exceed fifteen or twenty miles.

THE ACTUAL DISTANCE

To be traveled by any existing road or trail is not less than 40 miles at the shortest, and over a mountain as near straight up and down on either slope as it is possible for any hoofed animal to get over. This explains why Cæsar and Tom and other Indian farmers over there hope for an influx of whites to work mines and mills on that side, thereby giving them a home-market for their products. Their hopes are likely to be fully realized in that respect. Just above the ranches referred to, with the same stream to furnish power, is the site of the Laura four-stamp mill, now nearly completed. Another small mill is said to be in actual operation in the deep gorge two or three miles to the southward. Though so near, this new mill is still very far—full a half day's hard travel distant, owing to the nature of the intervening ground, impassable in a direct line even by the most accomplished mountain billy-goat. Not very much further in apparent distance, but nearly a day's travel by the trail, is found the Taylor & McEvoy five-stamp steam mill—a wonderfully complete little institution, in a still more wonderfully deep and rugged gorge. Along the precipitous sides of the Inyo's, facing the valley, with its glistening salt beds for the central object lies

BEVERIDGE DISTRICT.

In this District are situate numerous ledges of quartz, some of which, if not all, being rich to an extraordinary degree in pure gold. The most notable of these at present is the famous Keynot, which gives profitable work to a large number of persons. Two miles northerly, but cut off by a deep canyon, is the Laura mine, its extensions and neighbors, likely to yield as fully as well, perhaps better than the Keynot. The Laura mill is being built to work these ores. Southerly from these mines, but across deep gorges, are found numerous other locations of like character. In one of these gorges is found the Hughes & Hunter steam arastra, and in still another the alleged four-stamp mill spoken of as being so near and yet so far from the Laura mill. Altogether, Beveridge District is too "grand, gloomy and—gorgeous" to be described in words. It must be seen and traveled over to be appreciated. This is true, too, regarding the even more remarkable peculiarities of the little valley lying below it. While noting the stupendous works of nature, the observer will not fail to give heed to the works of man in his efforts to overcome the difficulties of the situation, bearing in mind that this word "man" is a representation of a mere handful of enterprising individuals, possessed of an abundance of hope, energy and splendid engineering abilities, but scarce any other capital whatever, strong arms excepted. Peculiar as Beveridge District is in its physical aspects, it is no less peculiar for its rich gold ledges, for rich they undoubtedly are and will continue to prove for years to come.

PREACHING.—Rev. F. M. Willis will hold services in the school house in this place next Monday evening.

The School Picnic.

After conversing with a number of persons we are enabled to arrive at the following facts in connection with the grand May-day picnic at Camp Independence, given by the Independence, Milton and Union school districts. Various exercises were rendered during the day to the great satisfaction of those present. Early in the day numbers were seen coming to the scene of festivity, like pilgrims to the shrine of Mecca. Towards the middle of the forenoon, an assembly was on the grounds eager for enjoyment. At 11 o'clock the first May-pole dance took place and was duly appreciated, not only on account of its novelty in this part of the country, but for the actual merit of the exercise. The participants in the well-executed dance were: Misses May Shepherd, Julia Cook, Maggie Crough, Caroline Walters, Maud Cook, Sarah James, Lena Harris, Masters Henry Wright, Alvah Conklin, Harry Cook, Frank Sherrer, Chas. Robinson, Frank Densmore and Chas. Hamilton. The red, white and blue streamers formed a huge canopy, which gradually grew less as the dance proceeded, on account of the streamers being beautifully plaited down the May-pole. The bright colors dazzled the eye, and was enough to inspire patriotic enthusiasm in the dullest heart. This exercise of plaiting the May-pole may properly be called an old and time-honored custom, for it had its origin far back in the world's history. However, it grows no less interesting with its age.

The literary exercises were as follows: the salutitory, delivered by Miss May Shepherd, was admired by all present. The force of expression and enunciation were prominent features. The Queen of May was Miss Minnie Harris. In a well-written and well-delivered address she did great credit to herself and her able instructor, Mr. Dan Crough. She was appropriately crowned by Mr. Frank Densmore who also gave a very pleasing address. The maids of honor were Misses Sarah James, Lena Walter, and Sarah Kispert. The Queen and her maids were tastily and beautifully attired in white. Perhaps we could not fill the office of fashion critic for a Paris magazine, but we say decidedly, on this occasion, as did others, the dresses were magnificent. The music furnished for the occasion, by kind volunteers, was appreciated, and we know that the teachers and community are truly thankful for the valuable and timely service. The speeches of the Queen and Bishop deserve mention for their true merit. They were the original productions of Mr. Dan Crough. The language was concise, and admirably adapted to the occasion. Little do those who listen to an exercise of this kind imagine the amount of labor required to produce it. During the day the May-pole was plaited several times successfully. The most important pastime, between times, was that of grace hoop. Old and young participated alike. In this game the activity of the older people was wonderful. It was more than wonderful; it was interesting to see Uncle John Lank cutting a pigeon wing, and to see Bill Grant gyrating around after having thrown the grace hoop over some pretty girl's head, trying to catch her to claim his just reward. The girls say Bill never had a leg broken. But poor Con they say was not skilled enough to get even a single kiss, and Mrs. Shepherd fought to save her still cherry lips, equal to a girl of sweet sixteen. V. G. Thompson was progressing finely when Mrs. T. put in an appearance and Tomp's hair was saved. Our County Clerk, they say, was a skilled dodger, kissing the girls every time Mrs. Crough could be caught waiting on the table. Johnnie has not forgotten to throw the hoop yet. Even District Attorney Laird lost his usual seriousness for the time and "Caust his duddies to the wark and linked at it like all fury." There was a great deal of labor incurred in this undertaking, but to see every one enjoying themselves was a double compensation for all. Of course the greatest portion of the work fell to the lot of Mr. Crough. He has a large school and also experience in these matters. A number of outsiders contributed their aid towards making everything pleasant. Mr. E. Chenot served, gratuitously, a great amount of lemonade to those wishing that delightful beverage. Towards evening the crowd gradually melted away, sorry that the day was gone but still anticipating a good time at the ball in the evening at Mairs Hall. The music struck up about 8 o'clock and found willing feet to tread its measures. There was a large number present from all parts of the country. Quite a number of young ladies from Lone Pine were present who, we are sorry to say, could not arrive in time for the picnic. It was enjoyable to see how the teachers enjoyed themselves—all brain work with its usual load of anxiety being past, no donbt they felt relieved. There is real labor connected with picnics, and one naturally feels elated afterwards, especially when the result proves a decided success. The music for the ball was excellent, especially the selection, "The Lost Charley Ross."

Supper was announced (that welcome word,) and a supper it was. Chicken in abundance—in fact everything to tempt the appetite. Dancing was kept up till morning, and the dancers seemed reluctant to quit. A great deal of credit is certainly due to the teachers—Mr. D. Crough, Miss Eva Shepherd, and Mr. Charles Groves, who tried their best to make all pleasant and agreeable.

For a number of years Mr. Crough has lived among us, and his influence as an educator is plainly to be seen on this occasion. He has proved himself an able and earnest worker in the cause of education. All are satisfied, and many will jot down in memory's note book, the chronicle of a good time, remembered, though numbered with the past.

THE COLD.—Since the Spring of the great earthquake there has been no season when the farm and garden interests have suffered so much as at present. The cold and dry winds have set every thing a month or more behind time, although, if we escape early Fall frosts the crops bid fair to be as good as the average—fruit, grain and vegetables.

MINERAL SURVEYING.—We were favored with a call yesterday from Mr. J. B. Treadwell, U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor. Mr. Treadwell is well-known on the Comstock, in Bodie and throughout the State. In the places named, from surface and underground surveys, he prepared the most elaborate and correct mining maps extant. He has made official surveys here of the Brown Monster, Hirsch, Keynot and the Hidalgo mines, together with other properties. He at present engaged at Cerro Gordo, and will go to Darwin and probably to Panamint. In his capacity of Court Commissioner for the United States Circuit and District Courts he can save applicants for patents considerable costs usually incurred in getting witnesses before the County Clerk or a Notary, to prove posting of notices, etc., and in cases of contest. His charges for such work are materially less than heretofore exacted in this county, while his long connection with official circles enables him to considerably expedite business. This mention is not made in his interest, especially, but for the information of those mine-owners who ought to get a regular Government title to their properties—without which it is becoming impossible to sell a foot of them in this country.

PERSONAL MENTION.—Peter Taylor, the mining operator, has returned from a round of observations at Keeler City, Cerro Gordo and old Lee District. He was accompanied out by W. L. Hunter, Medway and Woods, who went over to Death Valley borax hunting....Geo. M. Gill was in town for a day or so, and leaves his better half here visiting.... J. B. Price has left for his home in Delaware, and expects to go by sea from San Francisco....Billy Lake and G. W. Brady returned from their long and rough trip to the Calico desert regions, very well satisfied to get back and really don't want any more of that country. N. L. Fuller and Jack Welch started out yesterday to Beveridge....Crittenden Hampton leaves to-day for his home in Tuolumne, going via. Yosemite. Glad to say that he expects to return again to take charge of the Big Pine school again the next term....Johnny Stoutenborough passed a few days in town on business.

PERSONAL.—Rev. F. M. Willis, wife and daughters, are here on their first visit together since their removal to Bishop Creek, the occasion being chiefly on account of giving the series of entertainments referred to elsewhere. George, the eldest son, has recently returned from a year and a half of student life at the Pacific College, San Jose, to which he hopes to return in due time to finish his full course. Mr. Willis' pastorate in this valley closes this Fall, when he expects to remove elsewhere, but to what work is to be decided by the next M. E. Conference of Nevada.

SCHOOL CENSUS.—The report of the School Census Marshal of Independence District for the present year summarizes as follows: No. of children between 5 and 17 years of age, 43; of which one is colored; No. under 5 years of age, 24; total 67. Of these, the parents of 36 were native born, both parents of 19 were foreign born; while in the cases of 10 others one of the parents was native, the others foreign born, and two children, in addition to the foregoing, were born in foreign lands.

CAUGHT.—Señor Santiago B. Arguello, a Los Angeles County Deputy Sheriff, passed through town yesterday on his return home, having in charge four captured horses and a prisoner—one Telementes, who had stolen them. The peculiar part of the business, as we observed, was that the prisoner was actually in the work of driving back the jaded horses, rode quite cavalierly around the streets, his six shooter appearing quite as prominent as that of his officer in charge.

SPECIMENS.—Mr. Woodhull, in response to a letter from the Geological Department of the State University, has forwarded a handsome lot of mineral and geological specimens from this county to that institution. He accompanied the donation with a technical description of each piece, and if other counties will do as well the students there will acquire plenty of material upon which to make practical studies.

SHEEP.—Immense bands of sheep are constantly passing up the valley, on both sides and through town. After leaving the desert country south, when they strike feed here, the herders don't manifest much of a disposition to hurry to any great extent. The result is that every growing green thing is almost dug out by the roots.

A DELAY.—The Taylor & McEvoy mill at Beveridge met with an accident to the engine last Thursday, causing a shut-down for repairs until to-day. The break was the strap holding the piston rod to the cross-head, and a new one has been sent for.

THE name of Hon. P. Reddy has been mentioned in prominent Democratic circles in connection with the State Senatorship to represent the California counties of Inyo and Mono. They could make no better selection for the position; but if the Democracy have the strength, why would it not better serve the interests of the people of the district in which those counties are situated to run Mr. Reddy for Congress? —Aurora Herald.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MAY 20 1882

As it seems to be the fashion to abuse the troops, with what justice we are unable to determine, it affords much pleasure to be able to give credit to any army officer to whom it is absolutely due. Captain Forsythe, by good judgment and rapidity displayed in the movements of his commands and energy and persistence in holding the trail of the savages, has obtained splendid results. The celerity of his pursuit forced the Indians across the line, and even then he did not stop. Although killing thirteen hostiles in Guadalupe Canyon, he found them too strongly intrenched to dislodge, and rested until night, when he endeavored to surround them. The Indians succeeded, however, in stealing away, upon the discovery of which in the morning, the troops continued the pursuit, driving the savages upon the Mexican forces which annihilated them. Captain Forsythe is entitled to much credit and praise from the people of Arizona and the country generally.—Tombstone Epitaph.

THE leaching process for the reduction of silver ores is being tested in various localities in Nevada. An extensive works has been constructed on the Geddes & Bertrand Mine, Secret Canyon, near Eureka County, Na., and tests have thus far been successful, showing that low grade ores and ores poor in lead that could not profitably be worked by either amalgamation or smelting can be worked to a profit by the leaching process.

THE Eureka Con. has let a contract for the furnishing of the furnaces with charcoal for a period of one year, at the rate of 100,000 bushels per month. The lucky contractor is a saddler of Eureka, to whom the coal-teamsters have got so deeply in debt for repairs to harness and other things in that line that he practically controls the charcoal business of Eureka Mining District. The price per bushel is not stated.

GILBERT CLEMENTS, Agent of the Inyo Con. M. & M. Co., Panamint, Cal., received, on Tuesday last, four bars of bullion, valued at $4,000, the product of four days' run of the mill, exclusive of clean-up. Supt. Pheby writes that important developments have recently been made in the mine, and that the outlook is good for a first-class mining property.—Stock Report.

A wonderful discovery of native copper and silver ore, 17 miles southeast of Laramie, Wy. T., has just been made, directly across the old overland stage road. The ore runs from 60 to 100 per cent. copper, with gold and silver in paying quantities. Parties are stampeding to the new discovery from all directtons.

FROM Mr. H. L. Nickels we learn that a back channel has been struck by Superintendent Yule in the Lewiston Company's Mine on Park's Bar, and what is better that the new channel prospects well and promises to be extensive.

A coal mine has been discovered on the San Jose River, forty-three miles from Albuquerque, N. M., on the Atlantic and Pacific Road. It shows a vein of eight feet or more. The mine is only one-quarter of a mile from the railroad.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT:—Since my last screed on the anti-Chinese issue, the Gulch has held a meeting and resolved that whether King Arthur signs the ten year bill or not, our Chinese cook and washman will have to stay. His services are indispensable—the Gulch cannot possibly do without him. There are about thirty old Irish and American born stiffs crippling around the Gulch with whisky rheumatism, balsam-copaiba and want of coin, who could be well spared; but the industrious, law-abiding heathen is a crying necessity in this tag-lock end of Hell's Half-Acre, you bet! In my last, reference was made to certain Janus-faced specimens of journalism, with which this much bedeviled State of ours has been proverbially cursed. I said all the leading papers, except one, were owned or run by Stanford & Co. That one is the Chronicle, and the reason it is not so owned is because Stanford did not want to give what it asked for itself. It is too long a story and too unimportant to relate in this short contribution. Suffice it, the Chronicle, of necessity, had to, first and last, squirm around out in the cold and indulge in many unpleasant truths respecting the army of railroad flunkeys, tide-waiters and anti-Chinese dead beats. It has been as a red rag to a mad bull to the Sacramento organ of the railroad king. Only recently the Record-Union indulged in a column of vituperation in answer to the Chronicle's charge that the railroad monopoly was the head and front of the so-called Chinese evil. The organ figured up that its masters employed only nine per cent. of the Chinese at work in this State in whatever capacity. That may be the case now, but what of it? Is this State alone concerned? Are not all the States and Territories of the Coast, British Columbia and Mexico included? And have not these same railroad powers pushed their tracks out in every direction by aid of Chinese slave labor, and lined every public avenue, street and highway with the cabalistic signs of the Six Companies? Has it not become almost impossible, apparently, for anybody to build a mile of railroad without calling on the Chinese? But yesterday, so to speak, the Carson & Colorado Co. had to fight their way out of Storey County, Nevada, and the little wood road from Bodie to Mono Lake had to hide its Chinamen in the craters of the old volcanoes until the eruption of the labor leagues subsided. There are no less than 30,000 Chinese employed on the Canadian Pacific Railroad in British Columbia; how many on the Northern Pacific this side the line, is not so definitely reported. So it is and has been over all the Coast, the example set and followed by Stanford & Co. has permeated every corporate power until it is next to impossible almost for even individuals to get along without Chinese help. When the people see how the politics of the State are conducted in spite of themselves, year in and out, from bad to worse, they naturally lose heart and fall into line—every one for himself and the devil for all. I did not mention the Bee newspaper of Sacramento, chiefly owned and edited by a flannel-mouthed anti-landlord screecher from Cork or Tipperary. This foreign-born rooster is a self-imposed anti-land monopolist of California. Yet never a word—not a chirp in opposition to the boss land grabber, the railroad ring, whose creatures in Congress voted the railroad corporations about all the spare lands, and at least the best of the homestead resources of the country. And how well have they used or abused their privileges? Wherever a well-established town or community could be crushed, or harassed by rival enterprises, the case has been pressed for all that was in it. It is not necessary to ring in the Mussel Slough settlers—that string has been harped out. In fact, it never was a fair case in point. But to return to the shallow cant of anti-Chinese. About the last tune has been played on that string, for whether the ten-year or any other bill goes, the heathen Chinee will not go. He has come to stay. His back is strong enough to carry any number of one horse statesmen into clap-trap notoriety as far as Sacramento or even Washington. A more useful being in both public and private life the Creator of all things never conceived. He is the boss racket, and on Stanford's 20,000-acre farms will continue to do thorough-bred work and furnish matter for newspaper toadies by the column at regular intervals. Let the Chronicle proceed to stir up the animals accordingly, and believe me.

ANDY JOHN.

The Main Line Extension.

With the same persistent action that has characterized all its doings ever since ground was first broken, the Carson & Colorado Railroad is extending its line toward the southern end of this County. A large supply of material is now on hand at the Junction awaiting transportation, as fast as required, to the end of the track. There are many stacks of rails and cords of ties; boxes of spikes are laying near the track or piled up at a convenient distance from the Y which is laid at this station. The company use the ground about the Junction as a depot of supplies for all the heavier materials and have on hand at present enough to lay about forty miles of track. It is thought some of the rails may be used in constructing the branch to Bodie. In the event of this being done the point of intersection will probably be placed a little south of Pat Forey's toll house, on the Belleville and Benton wagon road. The grade of the road now laid is fully one hundred and forty feet to the summit of the hill west of the Junction. The engine Candelaria toils not a little in making the ascent with two car loads of rails and three of ties. The course of the road is nearly parallel with the stage road for this distance, the latter being to the north of the track. Soon after reaching the first summit the stage road is seen to the south, in fact, it keeps up a see-sawing process, crossing the railroad five or six times before the end of the track, now about fifteen miles from the Junction, is reached. After the hill is surmounted the train begins to descend and the ride is one of real enjoyment as the rocking and swaying motion given the train by the numberless curves begins to be felt. Seated upon a carload of ties one has a fine view of the surrounding scenery and needs to look well after the flying cinders thrown backward regardless of the eyes of the individual so situated, and the sure possession of a hat is also a matter of consideration. About eight miles down the road a magnificent view of Teal's marsh is had, with its long line of white borax surface fairly glistening in the sunlight, affording a scene that would make glad the heart of many Eastern people who, without realizing the desert surroundings, eagerly long for such a sight so common as to pass unnoticed by many within the borders of the sage-brush State. The town of Marietta is visible, as also the borax refinery of Messrs. Smith Brothers. The smoke from these works floats away gracefully and would lead the uninformed to think it was that of some mine or mill in operation. However, there are liable to be numerous sights of hoisting works and of mills along this road, as it is now nearing a section of this county not yet thoroughly prospected. The road at this distance begins to enter a canyon, and winds in and around the natural passage of it without having to do a great deal of grading or defacement of its original walls. It was, nevertheless, a fine piece of civil engineering to put the narrow gauge, even, through such a narrow canyon. At a point about twelve miles from the Junction a well is being sunk for water. It has attained a depth of seventy-five feet, without finding even a trace or a spot of dampness indicating the nearness of the much desired liquid. Leaving the canyon the road runs out upon a long, level plain for a distance of nearly two miles, and on which the end of the track was reached at the time the visit here mentioned was made. The construction train was found here and many familiar faces were seen among the road builders; and in the absence of Mr. Laws the writer was very pleasantly entertained by Hy Doane, his gentlemanly and obliging clerk. The road is now approaching the timber, and the sight of a tree is not an unpleasant one to the average resident of Candelaria, especially so if that person has been in the volcano crater, where the town is situated, for any length of time. The force of graders is scattered along a distance of nearly three miles, there being some four or five different camps in advance of the construction train. The pipe of the White Mountain Water Company will be tapped near where the road now is, and an ample supply will be obtained, of a quality much sought after and far superior for steam purposes to that being used on this end of the road, except such as is had at the station here. Some of the heaviest grading on the whole line will be made in the vicinity of Mr. Forey's toll house, and the progress at that point will necessarily be slow. The fine weather will materially aid in its completion, and instead of building trestles, as has been the case heretofore in crossing deep canyons, the gap will be filled in, over wooden or stone arches for the passage of water during winter or in case of a cloud-burst. The snow on the White mountains is plainly visible from the train, near which this section of the road is rapidly approaching. A station will probably be established at the toll house and will prove very convenient to those who are now and those who contemplate prospecting in the hills at the foot of the mountain range just mentioned. If the station is not located at that point, it will be but a little farther away, at the junction with the branch to Bodie, which will be a shipping point of no mean importance. The trip to the front has disadvantages and inconveniences of comfort compared to what is generally expected in traveling by rail, but these are all forgotten in the cordial treatment received from the boys on the construction train, who are both generous and courteous to all sight-seers who come into their company.—Candelaria True Fissure.

Phosphorescent Rock.

At a recent meeting of the San Francisco Microscopical Society, Mr. H. G. Hanks, State Mineralogist, read the following paper:

Some time since, D. B. Huntly, of the Geological Corps of the Tenth Census of the United States, brought to the State Mining Bureau a mineral, with the statement that it had shown certain peculiarities which led the miners to call it by the rather startling name of "Hell-fire rock."

The property known to mineralogists as phosphorescence is not confined to one mineral species, nor is it very uncommon. But in this specimen it is so strongly marked that there is some excuse for the refusal on the part of some of the miners to work in the mine. When striking their picks into this formation, flashes of light were seen, which they regarded with superstitious alarm.

The locality in detail is Shenandoah mine, Snake Creek District, Wasatch County, Utah.

A chemical examination shows this mineral to be an impure dolomite. It is interesting, not only from its remarkable phosphorescence when rubbed with any hard substance in the dark, but from its beautiful crystalline appearance under the microscope, and the ease with which it can be reduced to a crystalline powder, even by crushing between the fingers.

THE necessity of an occasional revision of figures relating to the national debt of the United States does not seem to strike the mind of the average British editor in China and India. In a table of national debts which forms the basis of some instructive remarks in the Friend of India, the debt of the United States is set down $2,899,401,955. These figures were evidently abstracted from an American almanac published, perhaps, in 1870. As a matter of fact the indebtedness of the United States is now only $1,711,850,598. A trifle of a billion dollars or so is nothing, however, to editors accustomed to the financial methods of countries whose policy it is to keep on owing.

AUSTRALIA is evidently a country where a person can become an extensive land monopolist on a small investment. For a block of land comprising 4917 square miles in the north of South Australia, only $4 75 a square mile was offered, and for another of 5058 square miles only $3 65. In the first instance the land brought 7.4 cents an acre; in the latter a little over 5.8 cents. Here is a splendid opportunity for our enterprising desert land grabbers to emigrate to Australia, and acquire a principality for a mere bagatelle.

PROFESSOR LIPERKINS of the Colorado State University, writing to the Denver Tribune from No-Mouth Lake, Mich., tells of the successful propagation of oysters by a lumberman in a fresh water lake by means of artificial salting. The lake is located in a dense forest, and derives its name from the fact that it has no outlet. The industry has been successfully conducted for a year or two, and the professor suggests that there is no reason why lakes in the interior of various States could not be used for similar purposes.

COL. J. J. AYERS, of the Los Angeles Express, is spoken of as a candidate for Railroad Commissioner. The Kern County Californian is pleased to speak of him in the following complimentary manner, and it is a pleasure for us to endorse the same: "Mr. Ayers is one of the most honest and able men of the Southern part of the State, and has been frequently spoken of as a successor to General Stoneman, provided that gentleman is nominated for Governor."—Santa Ana Standard.

ENGLAND will cut down her army—Boston Post. The Indians save us the trouble.—New Haven Register

THE stovepipe joke was original with Hamlet when he remarked, 'The time is out of joint."

THE Humboldt Hill mine is looking good, and the superintendent feels encouraged. A force of fourteen men at the mine keep the company's twenty stamp mill running night and day. A clean up for the month's run will be made about the first of the month.—Esmeralda Herald.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, MAY 27.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

HAD "this weak and misgoverned County of Inyo" years ago been fortunate enough to have a Court House "ring"—meaning by that the Board of Supervisors and the various County officers—like the present one, much of the debt which is now being so steadily extinguished would not have been incurred. Through the strictest economy, consistent with a proper administration of County affairs, the present Board of Supervisors has reduced expenses to the minimum and far below those of any preceding year. On greatly depreciated assessment rolls they have relieved the County of a load of debt and augmented the value of scrip without increasing the rate of taxation. In fact, owing to increased levies by the State, the County's proportion of the taxes collected has been growing less. Yet this awful "ring" is reducing the County indebtedness all the same.

THE Chicago Tribune calls attention to the increase of political assassination within the past twenty-five years, and claims that since the Orsini bombs exploded under the carriage of Napoleon III. twenty-five years ago, two American Presidents, a Russian Czar, a Peruvian President, a Spanish Dictator, (General Prim,) and two British Cabinet officers have been murdered in cold blood, every other European sovereign shot at at least once, Sweden excepted, to say nothing of a Sultan of Turkey and a Viceroy of India, both of which were in communities where assassination is uncommon.

OH, shadow of Court House rings! your blighting curse, we fear, falls with damning curse on the weak and misgoverned County of Inyo.—Bishop Creek Times.

Yes, dear Times, your fears are too utterly quite. In order to display the adumbrate, in all its æsthetic beauty, it has been arranged that upon some bright Summer morn, when the sun's clear rays are shed askant from the east, that the "ring" be poised upon the plains of the valley—to the end that its extent and grand gradations of color may be scientifically determined so far as it affects county printing. Fetch on your audience.

WILLIAM SHERER, of the Sub-Treasury at New York, has reported to the Treasury Department on the result "of an examination of the silver profit fund account" of the several coinage mints; and has also submitted statements of the silver bullion and silver coinage accounts for the fiscal years 1879, 1880 and 1881, from which it appears that the total amount placed to the credit of the silver profit fund during the period covered by the investigation was $10,081,496 31, of which amount $9,776,020 20 has been deposited in the United States Treasury.

MR. H. Z. OSBORNE, editor of the Bodie Free Press, having been mentioned in connection with the Republican candidacy for the Legislature from this district, politely intimates that he prefers to attend to his editorial business instead. Brother Osborne is right on general principles; besides, he cannot afford to lose his position in the land office, nor neglect his newspaper business for the dear people's sake. And then this County will elect the man anyhow, if some one can be found who will take it.

AT Washington, May 22d, Justice James announced the decision of the court in banc upon the exceptions in Guiteau's case, denying a new trial and affirming the judgment of the court below. Justice Hagner in a separate opinion discussed the bearing of the old Maryland law, and held that even after the Maryland act of 1785 the indictment would have been good in the district. Judge Carter stated that the opinions given were the unanimous opinion of the court.

THE Texas Legislature has passed a law imposing a tax of five hundred dollars on every person selling the Police Gazette and the Illustrated News in that State. This tremendous tax will do much toward keeping the obscene New York picture papers out of circulation in the Lone Star State.

THE Tagalblatt states that the German Embassy at St. Petersburg have been warned that the German Crown Prince Frederick William will run great danger if he attends the coronation of the Czar at Moscow, and that there is a deep, undiscovered conspiracy against the Czar and his guests.

THE President has nominated Gen. Samuel W. Backus to be Postmaster of San Francisco, and Hon. W. H. Brown, of El Dorado, to be United States Surveyor General for California.

VIGILANTES are making short work of a band of horse thieves in Missouri.

POLITICAL AGRICULTURE.

The House has passed a bill to create a Department of Agriculture, and to give one "practical and experienced" farmer a seat in the Cabinet. There is no reason why the President should not have the advice of such a man, if he needs it. Neither is there any reason for denying to the President the aid and advice of a Secretary of Manufactures, and a Secretary of Transportation; in fact, inasmuch as the measures placed before him for approval affect either of these branches of industry far more frequently and directly than agriculture, the Executive might easily stand in greater need of experienced and practical advice on those subjects than upon the comparatively few measures which have special bearing upon the interests of the farmers. The Department or Bureau might be made in every respect as effective and useful to farmers, without placing its head in the Cabinet, and the selection of the head of the Department would not in that case be governed by the political and personal considerations which unavoidably have great weight in the selection of Cabinet officers. Hence, there is reason to believe that, as a practical help to industry, the organization might be kept more free from political bias and demoralization, more zealous and single-hearted in promoting the interests of agriculture, and more truly useful to farmers, if it should not be represented in the Cabinet. If the President needs the advice of a practical farmer, he should be permitted to have that advice; if not, he should not be compelled to admit to his official family a member not needed there. Also, if this country was solid with the Stalwart of Stalwarts, we might as appropriately ask for a seat in the Cabinet for a Commissioner of Mines and Mining. Any way to get up some more fooney offices.

"'THE present County printing contracts run till next May, when the Board are compelled by law to advertise for proposals', dated January 2, 1882."

Foregoing is quoted by the Bishop Creek Times as part of a letter from the publisher of this paper. At the time of writing we believed such to be the case, but a subsequent examination of the law and the power thereby conferred upon the Board resulted in the same conclusion that that body arrived at finally. While we would not presume to question the prescience of such legal luminaries as the Times publishers, we are somewhat constrained to defer to the judgment of the Board, District Attorney Laird, Judge A. R. Conklin and S. P. Moffat, Esq.—whose opinions are that the Board have a general duty to perform, i. e., to conduct County business in the most economical manner possible. Thus, they declined to incur the expense of advertising for proposals, knowing that no other office save this could do the work. These legal gentlemen mentioned also say that the statute intends simply to provide that in case the Board concludes that it is to the best interest of the County to contract for printing they may do so, but if they do so decide the proceedings must be had in the manner set forth, etc., notwithstanding the able opinion of "Taxpayer"—who, by the way, has never yet contributed even the amount of a poll-tax to the County funds. But, referring to the sentence of the "paper" quoted by the Times, do the proprietors of that paper desire their letters published? Yes or no?

IT seems to be generally conceded that the railroads have effectually laid the Reagan bill, which proposed to regulate railroad traffic by the power of the Government, on the shelf, and that action cannot be had upon it by the House this session. The supporters of the Reagan bill feel, however, that if they can get a chance they can defeat the plan that the Commerce Committee will recommend of putting the railroads in the hands of a commission. Reagan says that should the Commerce Committee ever report such a substitute to the House, and seek to get it passed, he will move action on his bill as a substitute, and that he has no doubts of the House adopting his bill. He has but little hopes, however, of action of any kind, knowing that this combination against his bill is powerful and well organized. Cassidy of Nevada said: "I think the Pacific Coast is more interested in this measure, as a whole, than any that is now pending in Congress, and I think the railroads have got us just where they want us—powerless. The Pacific Coast States are solid for this bill, as they were for the Chinese bill, but we don't seem to be able to do anything, and possibly will not be this season."

THE "utter fallacy" of having the county printing done in a well-equipped, well-established concern, located at the county seat, was emphasized by the Legislature and Governor of the State of California, when the County Government law was made. It provided that no newspaper not having been published for more than one year could be contracted with.

THE Committee on Public Lands reported favorably on Senator Farley's bill to extend the time for making proof and payment on desert land entries. The bill provides that in all cases where declaration of intention to reclaim desert land has been filed, or may hereafter be filed, and satisfactory proof of the reclamation of the land has not been made, or shall not hereafter be made, within three years after filing the declaration of intention, and the failure to make proof is due to the difficulty in getting water, or to the great labor and expense in constructing irrigating ditches, or to some other cause not prejudicial to the validity of the entry or the good faith of the party making the same, the time for making proof and final payment is extended two years. Proof of good faith and intention in the application for extension must be made to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of the Land Office, under such regulations as he may prescribe.

OUR esteemed Bishop Creek cotemporary, with a freshness born of a desire for some recognition and notoriety, attempts to involve this journal in one of those old-time, senseless local newspaper controversies about something that can be of but the slightest interest to an intelligent and well-informed public. The thing appears so puerile and distasteful to the general reader that we scarcely know how to apologize for paying any attention to the matter. The gentlemen filling the official stations—Republicans and Democrats from several parts of the County—laugh at it and need no defense. THE INDEPENDENT is in exactly the same fix.

THE Stockton Independent very concisely says, and with unanswerable force, that it ought not to require much effort to convince the dwellers in small towns and villages of the reasonableness and propriety of organized or concerted effort in order to secure better hygienic conditions, and fringe their roadsides, sidewalks, school grounds, churches and railway stations with ornamental shade-trees and shrubbery.

THE Tulare Telegraph says: "In a true sense this writing up the country is an advertisement, and should be paid for the same as a business man pays for advertising his wares for sale." That is putting it strongly, but it is true. There is no greater obligation resting upon the journalist to expend money to extol the advantages of a section than upon any other citizen.

FOLLOWING is the pledge of the Anti-Chinese Pacific Coast League of Deliverance, as adopted by the late convention at San Francisco: "I hereby pledge my honor that I will not employ or patronize Chinese, directly or indirectly; nor will I, knowingly, patronize, directly or indirectly, any person who does employ Chinese."

CONGRESS is in the sixth month of its session, and we cannot remember as many as half a dozen bills that it has yet passed of national interest. This is slow work. About 8,300 bills are on its files, 6,200 of which are credited to the House. It is not supposed that one-tenth of these bills will get through.

THE small hoisting works in the Shoo Fly Mine, Ruby Hill, Nevada, caught fire on the morning of the 22d, and the flames were communicated down along the wooden work of the shaft and the ladder. Four men were working at the bottom of the shaft, 100 feet deep. They all started to climb out, but finding they had to climb through the fire, and for the last three feet up grasp the flaming rungs of the ladder, two of them went below. The two miners who made their way out were horribly burned, and were so crazed by the pain they suffered that they threw themselves over the dump pile and rolled to the ground. One of them, in his agony, rushed blindly about in the sage brush, until he was captured and brought into camp His name is John Barton, and his skin and finger nails fell from his hands, being broiled off, and he is burned severely in the face and body. There are chances for his recovery. The other miner, Peter Campbell, suffered less, and his injuries are not considered fatal. The two men below were nearly suffocated, and would have died for the want of air had not a crowd of miners thrown snow down the shaft first, and afterward forming a line of 100 yards to the pipe of the water works, which they tapped, formed a bucket line, and cast water down as rapidly as possible.

POOR Schenck! They have not forgotten him in England yet, as the following from Vanity Fair will show: "To General Schenck, who less than ten years ago first brought poker to England, and at the request of the late Lady Waldegrave wrote out the rules of the game, we are undoubtedly indebted for the present gambling mania in private life, which, as we have already shown, is doing such serious injury to the poorer members of society. Surely it is possible to amuse one's self after dinner without trying to ruin one's friends or enrich one's self. Poker in moderation is an excellent moderation safety-valve, no doubt, for after dinner excitement, but carried to the length which it has lately reached, it becomes a serious social scandal. There are plenty of gaming clubs and to spare for those who choose to frequent them. In the meanwhile it should not be possible to say that any hostess can offer greater inducements to play in a private house than those provided by the keeper of a public hell."

THE present Congress has been conspicuous for the absenteeism of its members at voting time. It is often difficult to get a quorum when the members are required to put their names on record for or against a measure. Take the instance in the House of the bill to place the Commissioner of Agriculture in the Cabinet. The vote stood, ayes 172, nays 7, with one hundred and fourteen members absent! A few of these members were out of the city, but only a few; and the presumption is so strong as to amount almost to a certainty that the greatest number were present at the Capitol, and as the question was new, and might probably involve responsibility one way or the other, they dodged, to avoid committing themselves to, or opposing the measure. This style of legislation may be personally judicious, but it is certainly indefensible.—S. F. Call.

COMMENTING on a recent fatal case of lead poisoning in an English factory, Dr. William Webb, of Werksworth, Derbyshire, tells the Lancet that twenty-five years ago poisoning by lead was of frequent occurrence at the lead smelting works in that part of Derbyshire, and that since that time it has seldom been heard of. He attributes this immunity from poisoning in men constantly exposed to the fumes of lead to the fact that they were advised to partake freely of fat bacon, butter, and other fatty substances, and to drink copiously of lemonade or dilute sulphuric acid in water. The hint was first obtained from Sir Thomas Watson's admirable lectures on the "Practice of Physic."

IT will be sad news to many a prudent housewife to learn that every time she pricks a hole in an egg with a pin she is violating the patent of an American inventor, but such is the case. Years ago an inventive genius devoted himself to discovering a method to prevent eggs from cracking during the process of boiling. He solved the problem by pricking a pinhole in one end of an egg, through which the air in the shell was allowed to escape, and this pinhole he duly patented according to law. Precisely how he managed to collect his royalty is a mystery, but the fact remains that he has a legal claim for royalty on every pinhole made in an egg before boiling.

Some Inyo County Minerals.

We opine that no other section of the State can present so attractive a field to the students of mineralogy as this old county of Inyo. The number and character of minerals found so far, both as curiosities and useful products, are almost innumerable.

Among those having an economic value—aside from the ores of the different metals—are clays, marbles and building stones, gypsum, salt, soda, borax and slates. Nearly all of these materials are found in the Inyo and White Mountain ranges. But very little attention has heretofore been paid to the fact of the existence of these mineral products, but now that we have a good prospect of seeing a railroad built through Owens River Valley during the present year the materials mentioned may after a while be shipped to other points and thus become an important source of wealth to this portion of California.

We print below the names of some of the minerals found in this County. Specimens of which are to be found in the collection at the Independence assay office.

Gold is found to a greater or less extent in all parts of Inyo.

Silver—Native silver, argentite, ceraргyrite, embolite, antimonial silver ores, and other silver ores in almost endless variety and compositions.

Copper—Native copper, Cuprite, Azurite, Chalcopyrite, Chrysocolla, Atacamite, Dioptase.

Lead—Galenite, Anglesite, Cerrusite, Minium, Chrocoite.

Iron and Zinc ores.

Compounds of Calcium—Calc spar Iceland spar, Dog-tooth spar, Brown-spar, Stalactite, Stalagmite, Fibrous Gypsum, Plumose Gypsum, Selenite, Anhydrite, Aragonite, Rock Milk, Calcareous Tufa, Magnesian Limestones, Granular Limestones, Marbles, and other massive varieties.

Quartz—Rock Crystal, Amethystine Quartz, Rose Quartz, Milky Quartz, Ferruginous Quartz, Chalcedony' Hornstone, Red and yellow Jasper, and other varieties.

Miscellaneous—Asbestos, Ligniform Asbestos, Actinolite, Barite, Graphite, Obsidians, Talc, Steatite, Garnets, Pumice Stone, Fossils, and a great many other minerals that have not been determined.

A CURE.—The following, under the caption of a "Cure for Scandal—a Terrible Disorder of the Mouth," emanates from "Simon, M. D.," at Camp Independence: "Take Good Nature, one ounce; an herb called by the Indians Mind your own Business, one ounce; mix this with a little Charity for Others and two or three sprigs of Keep your Tongue Between your Teeth; simmer them well together for two hours in a vessel called Circumspection. Let it cool and it will be fit for use. Application: The symptoms are a violent itching in the tongue and the roof of the mouth, which invariably takes place when you are in company with a species of animals called Gossips, residing at Camp Independence. When you feel a fit of the disorder coming on take a teaspoonful of the mixture and hold it in your mouth, which you must keep closely shut till you get home, when you will find a complete cure. Should you apprehend a relapse keep a small bottlefull about you, and on the slightest symptoms repeat the dose.

MINING SALE.—According to a deed placed upon the County records last Thursday, Theodore Wibbelt, of this County, has sold to Edward Reilly, the noted copper mining capitalist of New York, the following mines, situated in Sherman Mining District, which is about 25 miles northeast of Darwin: The Bonanza King, North Star, South Point, Natolia and Star mines. Also, several water rights and some land adjacent. The consideration named is $12,000 cash, which from reports we have heard from the mines is next to getting them for nothing. These properties were examined by Mr. Reilly's expert, Wm. R. Chadsey, and were sold by John H. Ely, who had them under bond. We believe that Reub. Speer went to Los Angeles to receive the money.

HIS DEATH.—Our Darwin letter gives some particulars of the unfortunate death of George Burkhardt, of Lone Pine, which occurred on the 20th inst. The deceased was a native of Wurtemburg, Germany, and had attained the age of fifty-seven years. Only last month his sister, Mrs. Jacob Philippi, who is visiting in Germany, telegraphed to Mr. Burkhardt news of the death of their mother, and on the 17th she also telegraphed news of the sudden death of their father. There is something pathetic about such sudden extinction of a family. Mr. Burkhardt possessed a fine mechanical genius, and though somewhat eccentric, his kindly disposition commanded the friendship of every one who knew him. Peace to his ashes in his lonely desert grave.

ANDRESS.—According to the Bodie Free Press "Charles Andress, the showman, has made a homestead entry of 160 acres of land in the southern part of Inyo County." The Kern County Gazette says about him: "Prof. Andress owns a nice little ranch near Weldon, where he has trained his birds and prepared himself for a tour. He states that he has now started on a trip around the world." Weldon don't happen to be in this County, but may be in this land district.

DYING.—Uncle Abe Parker received last evening from his neice, Miss Mamie Parker (who paid Independence a visit last year), the sad intelligence that her father—"Uncle" Abe's younger brother—was dying. He had long been a prominent and highly respected citizen of Knight's Ferry, in old Tuolumne.

DARWIN.

Sad Death of George Burkhardt—General News Items and Comments.

DARWIN, May 22.

At 2 o'clock P. M., on Sunday, the 21st inst., a report reached us to the effect that Mr. George Burkhardt, of Lone Pine, had left the New Coso stage station (eight miles distant from here) after 5 o'clock in the afternoon on Saturday, in an unconscious state of mind, and started for the Coso Mountains. Mr. J. C. Eddy and myself procured the services of two Indians to take the trail and hunt out the missing man which they did, and in a few hours reported to us that they had found him dead. We then sent one of the Indians out to guard the body until 8 o'clock yesterday morning, when Judge S. P. Reid arrived on the ground with a coroner's jury, who held an inquest on the body, and finding it in such a condition as precluded removing it any distance, and being prepared with a coffin and tools for digging a grave, etc., they proceeded to dig a grave and bury the deceased on the ground where his body was found, which is about one mile in a westerly direction from the station.

Mr. Burkhardt paid our town a visit on Thursday evening, the 18th inst., remaining over night, departing on the Lone Pine stage Friday morning, and stopped at the Coso station to examine some water-pipe there, and during Friday started off for the mountains apparently in an unconscious state of mind, without hat or shoes, but soon returned and remained with the man in charge of the station until Saturday evening, when he took his final departure while the station-keeper was taking care of the horses.

OUR TOWN

Is very quiet at present—there being but few people here to make a noise other than the clamor of the pick, shovel, drill or wheel-barrow, a noise that seldom disturbs the quiet slumbers of your humble servant—being a mile away from the town.

Messrs. Reddy & Gorman are getting in supplies preparatory to making another successful run of furnaces which they intend to commence in the early part of June.

Frank Fitzgerald, "the hero of Modock," started the furnace yesterday, having five hundred tons of excellent ore at the furnace and a good supply of coal, etc., and more coming in. Undoubtedly, he will make a very successful run in time to make things lively with his numerous patri(ck)otic friends in San Francisco on the glorious Fourth of July; and Frank is the boy that can do it, having a peculiar tact for these things and a heap experience in that line of business, as well as the "tin" to put up for it. May his shadow grow bigger, his purse longer and fuller.

J. C. Eddy, who is operating at Snow's Canyon, evidently means business from the fact of his having twenty men employed at that camp, besides a pack train and two teams packing ore and hauling wood, etc.

Supt. Pheby is making things lively at Panamint just now, running the twenty-stamp mill on high grade ore from the famous Wyoming and Hemlock mines. He also has a fine lot of high grade ore from the Ida mine, which is said to excel all the mines in Panamint for quantity and quality of rich ore, Judge Russell's mine excepted.

I could give you a mail sack full of news, and would do so with the greatest pleasure had I not learned that you are on the eve of taking in this country yourself; and if I were to tell you all I knew you would have nothing to do during your sojourn among us but to sit down and eat strawberries and cream, and drink mint juleps, which luxuries, when indulged in by editors and preachers prove disastrous to restaurants and saloon-keepers, so you will see that self interest and an eye to "biz" has something to do with the untimely winding up of this news business.

Yours truly, ——

AN IDYL OF CERRO CORDO.—Fair and lovely broke the Sabbath day over the sunkissed brow of Cerro Gordo's lonely peak; golden shafts of light shot quivering through the balmy air, and a silence deep and sweet as a benediction rested on the sullen slopes of the Inyos. Hush! hark! a roar as of thunder smites the quiet air, sounds of terror are heard in the neighborhood of Ygnacio. Affrighted, the solitary citizen of Cerro Gordo rushed to the scene and beheld a picture whose tones of horror and tints of despair will be carved upon his memory forever. In the doorway of the Potosi House stood Phillips, (Gentleman George, whose name in this climate is most usually spelled Fill-up, and it has been noticed that frequently upon an introduction he has been heard to softly say, "I don't care if I do"); his brow contracted with agony, his eye afire and his lip aflame, the air dark with flying household goods and a voice like a falling star was heard: "I thought Woodhull said there were no bedbugs here." "Shades of Bitter Creek;" thud—a mattress strikes the earth—"Holy Moses,"—a pillow cleaves the sky—"Now I lay me down to sleep,"—an avalanche of blankets plunge down the grade. * * * * "Oh, God! that my esthetic soul should behold such as this, my Apollo limbs be so scared and my sweet blood drunk up by such beasts as these!"

Just then the fall of flying feet distracted the solitary citizen's attention, and turning, he beheld another vision of despair: Treadwell, running down the slope, pale with excitement, and trembling in every limb and shouting as he ran, "my kingdom for a gun, quick, boys, I saw a grizzly climbing the hillside."

Turning upon him a look of unutterable anguish, deep emotion and profound despair, yet mingled with such sweet pity, Phillips thus soothed his perturbed spirit: "Grizzly be d——, you had your transit on one of these Cerro Gordo bedbugs; they are thicker here than hair and bigger than mudturtles;" then overcome with emotion these great souls, like David and Jonathan, fell upon each other's necks and wept. Curtain.

Bishop Creek Bill's Billet.

BISHOP CREEK, May 26.

Things about Bishop Creek are unusually quiet, so much so indeed that an episode of any kind throws our people into intense excitement.

Madame Rumor plays sad havoc with some of our neighbors occasionally, and particularly when she happens to get hold of something out of the ordinary run of things, like weddings, loose affairs and so forth. It has been reported quite recently that we were to be favored with an event of a social nature before many days in the shape of a wedding, the contracting parties being our eminent Judge and a lady of Mexican persuasion, whose name I cannot recall at present. The Judge wears a complacent countenance and a speckled suit, and a close observer can detect a subtle smile issuing from the southwest corner of his mouth whenever the subject of matrimony is alluded to, even going so far (not the smile, but the Judge) as to often carelessly invite those present to have a cigar—an imported one. The report is also current (though it can scarcely be credited) that his Honor has been seen to invite some of his more intimate friends to join him in a social glass, expending on one occasion as much as seventy-five cents. If any credence is due to this report, the fact can only be accounted for upon the hypotheses that if the fair lady has reciprocated his affection he has become crazed with joy; if she has not, and feels disposed to give him the G. B., he has become reckless and concluded that his worldly accumulations will bring him no pleasure, save through the medium of the social cup.

Thus the Judge's friends the genial day prolong
In feasts ambrosial and celestial spree;
Apollo twangs the cat-gut, and the boys around
With voice alternate in the chorus join,
While God-like Stewart shakes the festive heel.
Oh, Bob!

ETCETERA.

Miss Josephine Hughes, who for some time past has been dangerously ill, is reported to be slowly recovering.

The latest arrival in our town is a Miss Ober, whose first name has not yet been announced. Your correspondent made some inquiry in reference to the young lady, but receiving a very Curt answer deemed it prudent to say no more upon the subject.

Louie Munzinger declares that his beer is getting better all the time. Suppose it is due to the exuberant growth of alfalfa in and around Bishop, and the fact that the firm have just erected a new well upon their premises, which insures good, pure water. Nothing like it (the beer I mean.) They manufacture various qualities of the beverage, the price ranging from twenty-five cents to one dollar per bottle.

The mashers purchase the costliest brand. Don't they, Judge? BILL.

Pointed Panamint Paragraphs—Facts, Fun and Fancy.

PANAMINT, May 18,

Our mail service is as regular as usual. Coming in, it is a question of some one losing the way and turning up here by accident. Going out, it is a case of by guess and by God.

The big mill has shut down after running through a batch of tailings, flue-dust, etc., and a clean up of three or four bars or as many thousand dollars is the result. The tramway connecting with the Wyoming and pack train connecting with several other mines, have been busy supplying ore for a more prolonged run, which will commence on Saturday the 20th. It is probable that full 200 tons of $100 ore will be put through. The shute of ore in the Hemlock referred to in a previous item, still looks well.

The man supposed to be lost in the desert has been heard of on a spree at Bishop Creek. Strange circumstance, considering there is no whisky there, except what the people concoct themselves, and also considering that work and them fell out long ago.

Bill Johnson, the boss moonshiner of Panamint, keeps up the supply of "mountain dew."

It is still an open question with Gomer Jones whether he will go across Death Valley on a prospecting tour or to hell across lots.

Mr. Hunter and partner, from Cerro Gordo, arrived to-day on a prospecting tour for the other side of Death Valley.

Mr. Wagner, his mare-mule and Dutch John started west toward the Slate Range this morning.

John Ely was last heard of at the Junction, where he was anxiously awaiting a car load of U. S. bonds and the like securities from the East in exchange for his venture on the west side of Panamint Valley.

Tom Pheby is busy erecting a derrick for the purpose of raising some late vegetables for general use in Surprise Cañon.

Among the latest society notes is the rumor that Mrs. Eddy, of Darwin, exchanged cards with Mrs. Ah Fung. Mr. Hunter having brought word that that side-whiskered snob, Arthur, had signed the ten-year bill, Mrs. Fung will probably postpone the grand ball proposed by Dwight Andrews and Pete Gallagher.

Judge Hanson has got the dead wood on the only white shirt for sixty miles around.

Old Jack Johnson has started a singing school, assisted by Mrs. E. and the entire camp of Washoe Canaries.

BROWN MONSTER.—With a pretty good force of men Mr. P. A. Chalfant has taken in hand the work of restoring the Brown Monster Mill property into shape for working operations. During the week he has repaired the long ditch so that the water is running on the wheel, and is being utilized to sluice out the accumulated debris of the old concern.

FOR SALINE.—W. T. Grant left this morning for his silver mines near Saline Valley, where he proposes getting out a quantity of the richest ore for shipment.

REGULAR.—There will be a stated meeting of Inyo Lodge No. 251, F. & A. M., at the hall to-night.

The "Cats" Heard From.

MR. EDITOR:—I send you the head of a catfish that was caught by J. T. Aistrop and S. A. Densmore out of Owens River, about opposite his farm. This head has been examined by that "Preacher from the bogs of Illinois" and pronounced a genuine cat, whiskers and all. This is one of two that were caught last Saturday. It was almost ten inches long, the other was perhaps a foot in length. E. M. W.

Accompanying the above was an ocular demonstration of the fact that the catfish first planted in the river some three years ago have flourished—at least, there is no mistaking the character of the fish from which the head, horns and all, was taken. As further evidence that the aforesaid have fairly multiplied and replenished the waters we have it on good authority that one was taken Wednesday last in the tail-race of the Brown Monster Mill, measuring eleven inches in length; that one was turned loose, and given a chance to grow larger before he dies. Bully for the "bull-pouts."

"That's All Right, Any Time."

* * * * * * * * * * I know that I am behind on my subscription to the paper, but I suppose it won't make much difference if I don't send it just now. * * * * * * * * *

That's all right, partner, any time will do. We know that you are perfectly good for it, being a business man, property-owner and all that. It makes no difference, even if your are over two years behind. An editor's family never has occasion to eat anything except old exchanges, and interest-day can always be postponed. Any time reasonable, say within the next ten years, will do.

JUSTICE'S COURT.—The Court of Thos. Parker, Justice of the Peace for the Third (this) Township, was engaged during last week and pretty much all of this in adjudicating criminal charges brought by Ezra M. Goodale against James Hines and Robert Arnold. The parties are neighboring ranchers, and their differences grew out of water questions and general disputes. At the conclusion of a trial before the Court without jury a fine of $50 was imposed upon Hines for assaulting Goodale. Arnold was arrested for malicious mischief, in having filled up certain post-holes alleged to have been on Goodale's land. Two venires, or thirty-five jurymen in all, were exhausted before twelve men could be found who could swear that they were not so much prejudiced against the defendant as leave them acceptable as jurors. When the evidence began, however, a ruling of the Court virtually decided that the complaint was defective, whereupon the case was dismissed. It is said, though, that Arnold will not move any more post-holes, as the operation is expensive.

BEE BUSINESS.—We noticed a few days ago the arrival by freight of several cases of goods for Mr. Muth-Rasmussen, the bee-keeper. They contained 5,000 one pound sections or frames for comb-honey, with cases to hold them in the hives; also samples of shipping crates and a number of other appliances for the bee business, chief among which were a mandrel and two circular saws for a machine which he is fitting up for the manufacture of bee-hives, frames and other light carpenter work. He has also sent for and expects shortly to receive a machine which makes embossed sheets of wax, from which the bees produce perfect worker-combs, which prevents them from raising a host of useless drones in the hives. Those having bees-wax on hand would do well to see Mr. M-R., and have it manufactured into comb-foundation.

THE SCOUT.—W. A. Greenly was in town from Deep Springs. Scott Broder and himself have been at work on the Indian Scout ledge, having extended the shaft to a depth of 75 feet, at which depth the ledge is wide and perfect, but does not at present show much ore. There is little work now going on in the district. Mr. Elise's mine has developed remarkably well, and shows a three and a half foot ledge of splendid ore. It is thought his company will put up a mill.

HERE.—We enjoyed a call last week from S. D. Thurston, a prominent business man of Havilah, Kern County, who was here bent upon investigating the question of whether to leave his business in that country and take charge of the Blaney House here. Upon his departure, we believe, he was not altogether decided upon the matter.

DISGRACEFUL.—Were our pleasant principal street graced last night with some strangers, lady and gentlemen tourists for instance, how highly entertaining and edifying it would have been for them to have witnessed the howling fight amongst the drunken squaws. This time the all-pervading, semi-civilized sheep men are to blame for it, but?

The Care of the Eyes.

At the recent Sanitary Convention at Ann Arbor, Mich., Dr. C. J. Lundy, of Detroit, read a paper on "Hygiene in Relation to the Eye," which should have the widest circulation, especially among teachers and school officers. A fruitful source of eye troubles is shown to be the excessive strain upon the muscles and nerves of the eyes due to faulty educational methods, the ill-planned and insufficient lighting of school-rooms, poor ink and fine print in school books, and other causes, which education might correct.

In conclusion, Dr. Lundy lays down the following rules for the better care of the eyes:

1. Avoid reading and study by poor light.
2. Light should come from the side, and not from the back or from the front.
3. Do not read or study while suffering great bodily fatigue or during recovery from illness.
4. Do not read while lying down.
5. Do not use the eyes too long at a time for near work, but give them occasional periods of rest.
6. Reading and studying should be done systematically.
7. During study avoid the stooping position, or whatever tends to produce congestion of the head and face.
8. Select well printed books.
9. Correct errors of refraction with proper glasses.
10. Avoid bad hygeienic conditions and the use of alcohol and tobacco.
11. Take sufficient exercise in the open air.
12. Let the physical keep pace with the mental culture, for asthenopia is most usually observed in those who are lacking in physical development.

THE French Cabinet Council has approved the scheme of M. de Lesseps for cutting a canal through the neck of land dividing the Gulf of Gabes from the salt marshes and low lying parts of the Desert of Sahara to the south of Tunis. It is expected that the sea will in virtue of this cutting once more fill up a considerable portion of the Sahara. The political advantage to be obtained by the scheme if it succeeds will be the insulation of Tunis and Algeria by creating a water barrier between them and Tripoli. The cost of the canal, it is estimated, will be 65,000,000f.

THE bride of a Green Bay, Wis., wedding was astonished by receiving from a friend a pair of trousers, with the message: "Loaned for the part you are to play." The bridegroom construed the garment as an insult, and the guests unanimously agreed that some decisive form of resentment ought to be shown. While the excitement was high, the friend arrived in equal perturbation, and explained that the trousers should have gone to a fellow for wear in an amateur entertainment, while a piece of silverware should have come to the wedding.

AN extract from a private letter of the late British Vice-Consul at Port-au-Prince, published in the Times, gives a terrible picture of the recent ravages of smallpox in the Island of Hayti among a population of less than a million people. It appears that the disease carried off at least 5,000 persons within about three months of its prevalence, and it is calculated that not less than 20,000 persons have perished from it.

The Mine or the Superintendent.

There have been more failures in superintendents than in mines on this Coast; there is no doubt about that whatever. In fact, when you come to think of it, a mine cannot be a failure; it is man's method of working it, or his inability to treat the ore economically, that constitutes a failure when such occurs.

We all of us can remember numbers of instances where mines have proved unprofitable under one superintendent, but which, when worked by a conscientious man who understood his business, have yielded good returns. This is no uncommon circumstance by any means. It was the man who failed, not the mine; yet such mishaps are laid to the mine every time.

In truth, many a good mine has been brought to ruin by a poor superintendent, and many a poor mine been brought to profit by a good superintendent. When both are thoroughly bad it is a hard case, but under such circumstances there is the stock market to fall back upon, and the mine itself need not be worked necessarily.

The ability, integrity and economy of the superintendent is as much a factor in the matter of profits as is the character of the ore. We have in mind an instance of a mine which was paying dividends at the time the superintendent was changed under a new management. The ore was just the same exactly, but in two months dividends stopped, and for a year the mine only just held its own, with the mill running all the time. Then there was another change for a more practical man, and in three months the mine began paying dividends again, and is doing so to-day.

If stockholders would insist that perfectly competent men only should be chosen to manage their properties, and that favorites of the principal directors should not be considered for the position, unless perfectly qualified, we would have fewer failures in every direction. Taking men out of offices and stores in cities to send them to mining camps where they must manage a lot of men, look after endless detail, judge in matters requiring technical knowledge, decide disputes, purchase supplies, and attend to the multifarious duties of a frontier mining superintendent, is only tempting ill-fortune and disaster.

This is often done under the mistaken idea that, as long as you have a lot of good miners, the mine will run all right. The superintendent is sent to look after the business or stock interests of the principal shareholders rather than to manage the mine, as a mine. Of course, all this is understood by those who have had experience in the business: but new men are constantly coming to the front, not many of whom commit new blunders, for there are few to invent, but nearly all make the old mistakes, of which the lack of care in choice of superintendents is the commonest and widest spread in its results. —S. F. Press.

THE text of the colored preacher (Rev. J. H. Davis) of San Francisco, who recently preached on the Chinese, has been admired for its appropriateness. It was from the Book of Jeremiah, and is as follows: "Lo, I will bring a nation upon you from far, O house of Israel, saith the Lord; it is a mighty nation, it is an ancient nation, a nation whose language thou knowest not, neither understandest what they say." "And they shall eat up thine harvests, and thy bread, which thy sons and thy daughters should eat."

THE House Committee on Naval Affairs unceremoniously sat down upon Calkin's scheme to start another expedition to the North Pole. The Committee took the broad ground that science had not been benefitted by any of these expeditions, all of which cost a great deal of money.

BOSTON mourns the loss of its oldest printer. His successor has not yet been appointed.

The Largest Copper Mine in the Country.

The Copper Queen now yields thirteen tons of ingot copper daily. The net profits on last month's run was $105,000. At the 250-foot level a strong body of water is encountered, below which the copper ore increases in richness, changing greatly to red and black oxides. These lower workings show immense ore reserves, estimated up into the millions in value. The Holbrock and Cave mines, recently purchased by Edward Reilly, owner in the Queen, for $30,000, have developed into most splendid properties within the last month, whereupon he was offered $100,000 cash for his bargain, which he promptly declined. These two mines lie near the Queen and presented very indifferent surface indications for good properties, but the expenditure of a small amount in sinking on them has exposed large bodies of the same class of ore as the Queen, averaging 23 per cent copper. Smelting works will be soon placed on them and the flow of metal will doubtles be second to the great Queen. The body of ore on the Cave is breasting up on the Belle Isle ground, which fact, together with a fine body of high grade copper ore already out on that mine, gives it a great prospective value and its possession by some enterprising capitalists would doubtless work it up into one of the big bonanzas of the camp. The Empire mine, east of the Holbrock, is also a promising claim. Splendid bodies of high grade carbonate and black oxide copper ore has been cut in several places on it, over which its owners are much elated, and settles the question that this great copper deposit extends beyond the Copper Queen hill proper. The Atchison & Topeka Railroad surveyors have already completed their final survey to this camp and expect to commence construction at an early day, which will be pushed to completion as soon as their ready and ample appliances will do it; which will greatly facilitate the interests of the great copper center of Arizona.—Star, Tuscon, Arizona.

The Mild Professor.

A VERY good story is told of an eminent Oxford professor who at one time had very considerable influence over the minds of many of the young men of the University, and was supposed to pursue a Socratic method in eliciting the dormant powers of the young men. The professor knew how to be silent, and also how to talk, especially in the salons of the great and wealthy. One day he invited a promising undergraduate of the great intellectual college to take a walk with him. The young gentleman was slightly flustered with the honor of the invitation, and was prepared to pick up any golden grains of truth which might be let fall on his account. They walked out as far as Iffley, but to his great surprise a stolid silence was consistently maintained by the mighty being whom he was prepared to accept as his guide, philosopher and friend. At last, as they turned back from Iffley Lock, the undergraduate ventured to observe: "A fine day, Professor." The Professor vouchsafed no reply, but strode back silent into Quod, and the young fellow did not have strength of mind to renew his attempt. As they entered beneath the archway the Professor fixed his keen philosophic glance upon him, and mildly said: "I did not think much of that remark of yours."—From London Society.

HIGH OR LOW-GRADE ORES.—A six-feet ledge of $30 or $40 ore, even should it be free milling, is too small a thing for most prospectors. What they are after is a big ledge of $1,000 rock. They have not time to look at the small things. Experience teaches them nothing. If they have a prospect on which they have sunk a half dozen feet, that shows ore of a high grade, they will not look at less than $100,000 or so for it. Hundreds of bursted prospectors can be found who own locations from which rock that will assay $1,000, or more, can be obtained, but these rich streaks are scarce. Capitalists have discovered that large ledges of low-grade ore in the end prove the most profitable and permanent, and it is into these that they are putting their coin, on general business principles. It would be better for a prospector to spend his time on a mine that he thinks something of than to fool around twenty. People who have too many irons in the fire generally come out at the little end of the horn, and this is true in prospecting as in everything else.—Grantsville Bonanza.

CARBOLIC acid is known to have great power as a disinfectant, and contagious diseases are often suppressed by its use. It is clalmed for it now that even consumption will give way before it. One R. B. Madison, an Englishman living in Yorkshire, writes in support of Professor Tyndall's letter on Dr. Koch's discovery concerning tubercular disease, that in the Spring of 1871, being then a consumptive patient in Madeira, apparently beyond recovery, he tried the use of carbolic acid as a protection at his bedside from mosquitoes and at once found that it had a beneficial effect on his lungs. Seeing this, he continued its use, and in the Summer went to England, where he has remained in excellent health. He has no doubt that the carbolic vapor inhaled destroyed the bacilli. The remedy—if remedy it be—is so simple that persons afflicted with this disease would do well to give it a trial.

Engineer Melville.

Chief Engineer George W. Melville, who is making the harzardous and almost hopeless search for the missing boat and party of the Jeannette under command of Lieutenant Chipp, is a man of very striking appearance. He was born in this city, and in his young days his family was well known among the old Knickerbockers. He is a heavy built man, weighing about 190 pounds, and is about five feet eleven in hight. Of large and powerful frame, he is of light complexion, and has bright, piercing blue eyes. He is supple and a skilled athlete. When he returned from the Arctic in the Tigress, in 1873, he visited the engineer's office in the Navy Yard, and when met by his brother officers the natural question was asked, "Well, George how do you feel." He answered, "As bright as a new uniform, and I never felt better," and to prove his assertion turned a hand-spring without the least difficulty. When serving his time in the machine shop he could do more work in the same time than any other man, and when passing through the shop if he met an obstruction no higher than his shoulders he would spend no time in going around it, but would jump over it with the greatest ease.—New York Tribune.

Two blooming ladies, fair to look upon and elegantly dressed, rode down on the street-car together to attend to their duties on the Woman's Stock Exchange. One was a blonde, the other a pronounced brunette. They were very much interested in the condition of the grain market, especially the decline of wheat, and so deeply engaged that they did not stop to think how extraordinary the conversation sounded in the ears of the uninitiated listeners. Said the blonde: "Oh, this drop is to be accounted for in many ways. The millers have shut off grinding, and, because of the late fall, farmers will not need so much grain for feed. besides there is a good deal of monkey husiness among speculators, and they are banging away at each other without regard to the proprietary of things or actual condition of supply and demand." "I tumbled into a pretty good thing on that last," said the brunette; "I don't care if the whole bottom falls out." "I do," replied the other. "I'm an awful big bull. I believe in crowding. I'm long, now, and stood in for $1.30." "Maybe I'd better straddle," suggested the other. "No; don't you straddle anything. That'll break up the best of them. You might as well try to ride a buzz saw." This was too much for one of the passengers, a Board of Trade man, who smiled so ardently that the ladies were confusedly interrupted and signalled to the conductor to stop. There was a twitter as the two got out.—Ex.

IN times of prosperity a wise people makes provisions for the uncertainties and the destructive disaster which experience has taught, may be expected in the vicissitudes of human experience. Our nation presents the spectacle of a country richly provided with the grandest deposits of mineral wealth that history has ever shown, blessed with such an abundance, that it need never again in its existence be without means of bringing plenty to the hands of its people, blindly ignoring the records and the experience of the past, and conspiring to rob its citizens, people whom it should protect, of the benefit which would flow from the development of its mineral resources, and the coinage of its precious metals into currency to meet the demands of increasing commerce and prosperity, cutting off the sources of its strength and wasting the substance of its power.

IT was Artemus Ward, we believe, who declared that he would willingly sacrifice all his wife's relations to stop the war. The editor of the Salt Lake Tribune is equally magnanimous. Referring to the rumor that one of Brigham Young's sons contemplates an Arctic expedition, he suggests to the aspiring explorer that he make up his crew from the heads of the Mormon Church. "There's nothing stingy about us," he says, "and we are perfectly willing that the crew should be a big one, embracing all the apostles, bishops and elders. They will be handy to have around when polar bears and icebergs are hungry."

A BILL suspending the coinage of the silver dollar, with the existing restrictions which practically abolishes our silver currency, the prohibition of the issue of silver certificates, taken in connection with the fact that the shipments of gold to Europe has already began, showing that the ebbing tide of the balance of trade is draining our country of its gold, reveals in the strongest light, the animus of legislation in favor of the money lenders. A financial panic that ruins the industry of a nation and wrecks the enterprisss of active and energetic men, is the harvest time of the usurer and the shylock who fatten upon want, disaster and misfortune.

Two young lady teachers in San Francisco have been acquitted on a charge of cruelty to a boy of eleven, but they have been informed that it is not necessary to remove his garments in order to make an impression upon his cuticle. In other words, the Board objects to the women teachers engaging in the study of male anatomy while applying corporeal punishment.

THERE are occasional disadvantages connected with living in this highly-favored land of ours. There was a total eclipse of the sun May 17th, but it was invisible in this country. The people of Asia and Africa were more highly favored.

SATURDAY, JUNE 3.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

JAMES E. PARKER.

THE St. Louis Post publishes a statement showing that Gov. Crittenden has been in negotiation with Frank James for his surrender and the noted outlaw is to be pardoned. Sheriff Timberlake and Police Commissioner Craig, of Kansas City, and the attorney representing the James family, accompanied by Frank James and three of his friends, were in St. Louis, recently. It is stated that Frank James has nominally surrendered to Sheriff Timberlake under a flag of truce, and that Gov. Crittenden has promised full pardon and unconditional pardon to the famous outlaw. Sheriff Timberlake was registered at a hotel under an assumed name, but was recognized by the Post-Dispatch reporter, and both he, Police Commissioner Craig and the attorney admitted that negotiations were pending for Frank James' pardon. They were in St. Louis for the express purpose of meeting Gov. Crittenden on his return from New York, but the latter passed right through to Jefferson City. They further stated that the delay in negotiations is occasioned by the friends of Frank James insisting that full pardon should be secured from the Governors of Minnesota and Texas, where the outlaws are under the ban of the law, and steps are now being taken to that end. These pardons are necessary for fear that Crittenden's successor might deliver up Frank James on a requisition from either of said States. There is scarcely a doubt but that the negotiations will be successfully consummated. And there is scarcely a doubt but the whole business of this compromising with murder and crime is absolutely disgraceful to the whole country.

A NEW YORK dispatch says that Mr. Roscoe Conkling, according to the observation and belief of many of his old friends, is meditating the design to run for Congress from the Utica or Oneida District, which he represented fifteen years ago, at the next contest. If Mr. Conkling does this then Mr. Blaine will doubtless recall his determination not to be a candidate for the House from Maine, and will go down to the old scenes where he met Mr. Conkling fifteen years ago, and meet him again. In this event there would be no need of going abroad from this country in that two years to find something interesting.

SENATOR EDMUNDS, writing in the Christian Union on "How to Succeed in Public Life" uses these brave words: "There is, perhaps, no one thing so valuable to the right progress of civilized society as the courage of sincere individual opinion; and, as regards public affairs, the man who tries honestly to form an accurate conclusion, and bravely to maintain and advance it, without counting the number of adversaries, will fulfill the best mission of a citizen, and will be, whether in public or private station, the true politician, often the real statesman, the best teacher, and the noblest leader."

HON. WM. H. BROWN, State Senator from El Dorado County, has been appointed and confirmed U. S. Surveyor-General for California. The Spirit of the Times says that he is a merchant, a successful business man, upright and honorable in his dealings; public-spirited, clear-headed and of thorough executive ability. It is to be wondered whether or not in a year or so he will build a $60,000 residence in San Francisco, out of an annual salary of $4,000, as his predecessor, Gen. Wagner, has done.

SENATOR MILLER has introduced a joint resolution declaring martial law to exist in Alaska, and authorizing the President to detail an officer to have command of the land and naval forces. Miller has received a number of telegrams from San Francisco in regard to the troubles in Alaska. Among those who have telegraphed are William T. Coleman & Co. and Thos. Brown. It is believed that the reported troubles are probably at an end by this time, but they are liable to be repeated at any time.

THE jury, in the case of Hank Rogers on trial at Aurora for stage robbery, was discharged. After being out three days they were unable to agree, standing nine for conviction and three for acquittal. A new trial is set for October 10th, 1882. The case illustrates some of Mr. Reddy's powerful work in court. We should not be surprised if something happens to Rogers before he costs Esmeralda county many thousands more.

THE Burlington Hawkeye says that when the United States navy goes out alone it ought to have a man sent out with it or be put in charge of the conductor.

USE YOUR OWN JUDGMENTS.

Experts and practical mining men have been and will be sent into the country this season, by and in the interest of capitalists, to invest in properties and to establish and erect the necessary works for converting the crude ores into bullion. These agents will be, generally, men of proper technical qualifications, capable, when they have examined a prospect or ledge, to form an estimate of its probable value, and competent enough to take in all the surroundings and select a site for any proposed works, having due regard to the tributary material for carrying on productive operations. Where they really possess experience, and are left wholly to their own unbiased judgments, they will be governed in their choice by a careful consideration of such facts as the accessibility of fluxes, charcoal, and other essentials to the business. But there will be some who will listen to town claquers and runners for "wild-cat" mines, who will be drawn in and stuffed with all sorts of bogus bonanzas and holes in the ground, attracted more by the number of locations in the "group" than by any tangible evidences of ledges or ledge matter.

Mining, perhaps, opens wider the doors to the sinister play of designing men than any other legitimate industry; because on the flanks of the real prospector there always hang a species of parasite, who hope as middle-men and promoters to get their fingers in, and make thrift of the labors of men of industry. It is the interest of the substantial men to prevent rather than promote mistakes by the men who come as the representatives of capital. A few blunders, either in the purchase of mining properties or in fixing the location of wokrs, and it will require, perhaps, a year or two of time wasted to correct the impressions created by disaster, which might readily have been avoided by proper vigilance and good judgment.

THE Clerk to the House Committee on Public Lands is preparing a tabulated statement of all the grants and donations of land by Congress to the States and Territories. This statement will show a grand total of 302,788,693 acres that have been donated for all purposes. The table will show the following: Total swamp land grants, 69,358,737 acres, of which 52,885,301 acres were patented, and 16,473,236 acres were claimed but unadjusted; saline lands granted, 550,965; grants for school purposes under the grant of the 16th section in each township, 10,791,565; under the 16th and 36th sections, 57,102,354; to universities, 1,165,520; agricultural colleges in place of 1,770,000; in scrip, 7,830; to aid in the construction of canals in the States of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin, 4,424,073 (in Wisconsin, 302,930;) to aid in the construction of railroads in all the States and Territories, 154,067,553, in Wisconsin, 3,453,865, Minnesota, 9,820,450, Dakota, 8,000,000, Montana, 17,000,000, Washington Territory, 11,700,000, New Mexico, 11,500,000, Wyoming, 4,500,000. In September, 1841, 500,000 acres were granted to each State for educational purposes on their admission into the Union. These grants amounted to 7,806,554 acres.

IT is admitted that nothing but a generous harvest can save us from a period of depression, if not from a panic. The gold is slipping back across the Atlantic, and there is no prospect that it will stop before we sell our new crops and there is no certainty that it will wholly cease to go there. The shipment was $4,500,000 last week, and $23,000,000 in gold has gone back to Europe since the first of January. The balance of trade is against us, and it behooves us to inquire the cause of the change. A consideration of the question must create the conviction that the nation is living a little too fast. Prosperity has begotten recklessness and the people are making their expenditures on the basis of the best possible crops and prices. It is strange that the panic of 1873 did not eradicate such madness, but the people seem not to have learned the wisdom of living within their income and saving for a rainy day. The shifting of the balance of trade is a warning it is the part of wisdom to heed, but is to be feared that the nation will rush madly on, heedless of the disaster which nothing but a halt on their part or a great harvest can avert. And the danger that ambitious foreign competitors will injure prices by seizing markets which hertofore we have controlled threatens to embarrass us, even if the harvest of 1882 is unprecedently bountiful. As a nation we need to "slow up," put a curb upon extravagance and cultivate thrift.

HON. E. F. BURTON, lately appointed Superintendent of the Mint, will enter upon the discharge of his duties on July 1st. Mr. C. O. Leech, from the parent institution at Philadelphia, is in San Francisco, and has commenced a count of the coin and bullion on hand.

THE transfer of the noted Chowchilla Ranch, in Merced and Fresno counties, is understood to have been recently consummated. The property extends over an area of some five townships aggregating about 117,000 acres, lying between Borden and Merced. The consideration is said to be somewhere between $800,000 and $1,000,000. This tract is a part of the Friedlandrr estate, while the Nevada Bank and Faulkner, Bell & Co. also had certain proprietary interests in the land. The land is somewhat rolling in character, though largely adapted to general farming purposes. Nearly all this particular tract is more or less under cultivation. Water is easily obtained from the Merced River, which runs through the heart of the property. All over the grounds are scattered houses, barns and other incidental farming accessories. The investment of so great an amount of money in California country lands will tend to largely develop the agricultural interest.

It shows that capital is seeking fresh fields for investment. The property, however, was neither bought on individual account, nor purchased wholly with American money. It is understood that a syndicate, composed largely of rich Englishmen, was organized to buy and run the concern. This financial combination took shape by the organization a few days ago of the California Pastoral and Agricultural Society, with a capital of $1,250,000, for the purpose of leasing, buying, selling, cultivating and irrigating lands, as well as raising cattle and stock of all kinds. The company is now said to be in full possession of the Chowchilla Ranch.—S. F. Bulletin.

LAST Sunday a party of gentlemen connected with the White Mountain Water Company, and having mining interests in this district, arrived by the Carson and Colorado Railroad from Carson. The party consisted of John Abendroth, S. B. Smith and Colonel W. J. Sutherland, of New York. The former gentleman is of the firm of Abendroth and Root, manufacturers of the spiral riveted pipe used by the water company. Mr. Smith is a large stockholder in the enterprise, and Colonel Sutherland may be said to have been the instigator of the scheme for supplying the town of Candelaria and vicinity with water from the White Mountains. Governor J. H. Kinkead, Judge O. R. Leonard, of the Supreme Court of Nevada, and A. C. Ellis, all of Carson, were also members of the party. After remaining three days all departed for the north, those from New York going to San Francisco for a brief visit, the others returning to their homes in Carson. While here a trip was made to the head of the pipe line and a general inspection made of the various mining interests.—True Fissure

THE "olfactory treatment" is one to which a leading medical specialist in Paris subjects his patients. A very good story is told of this eccentric doctor and of a wealthy Englishman, who a short time ago paid a visit to Paris for the purpose of consulting this specialist. Having asked his visitor a few curt questions respecting his symptons and subjected him to careful auscultation, the doctor extracted a bottle from a drawer in his writing-table, uncorked it and handed it to the Englishman with the words, "Smell it!" adding, as soon as his command had been obeyed, "That is well; you are cured." Whatever surprise the patient may have inwardly experienced at having been relieved of his malady with such astounding promptitude and ease, he is said to have exhibited no external sign of amazement, but adopting the laconic style of his professional adviser, to have ejaculated, "How much?" "A thousand francs," was the reply; whereupon, producing a bank-note to that amount from his pocket book, our imperturable countryman held it under the doctor's nose for a few seconds saying, "Smell it." The astonished Æsculapius mechanically complied. "That is well; you are paid," calmly observed the Englishman, pocketing the note. "I have the honor to wish you a very good morning." So saying, he bowed politely, turned upon his heel and quitted the room, leaving the olfactory specialists nothing to remember him by but the scent of a fee.

IF not already done, every owner of a grape-vine or of a vineyard should not allow anything to delay putting sulphur on his vines. Without sulphur there is no certainty of a crop of good grapes, while with sulphur there is but little danger of failure of a good crop. No work or expense pays better than the work or expense of sulphuring the vines. Sprinkle sulphur over the leaves and tender shoots and blossom-stems of the vine in the early morning, when the dew is on them, and nature will do the rest. In the course of a week or two repeat the operation, and when the grapes are ripe their improved size, flavor and condition generally will convince you that your labor and money have been well invested.—Record-Union.

A NEW office building, in New London, has just been named in honor of Mr. Blaine, by its owner, a young insurance man, and the ex-Secretary has thus responded to a letter conveying information of this fact:

MY DEAR SIR: You pay me a very great compliment in naming your office building for me. All the more gracious and grateful because we are not personally acquainted. I trust that your business may prosper in the new office, and that you may write 1,000 policies for one fire—and in the end be securely underwritten yourself for this life and the life to come. If your should visit Washington, pray, pull my door-bell.

Very hastily and sincerely,

JAMES G. BLAINE.

He might pray that or "Now I lay me down to sleep, etc." Prayers are appropriate in Washington, but why "pull" a door-bell when an umbrella or overcoat would come handier?

THE alfileria on the hills surrounding Los Angeles is fast drying up, and the brown color of summer is tinting the the country that is not irrigated by natural or artificial means.

VIEWS FROM CERRO GORDO.

The breadth and sweep of the continent does not furnish a more splendid scenery than stretches before one who stands upon the mountain platform at Cerro Gordo, and looks off over hill tops through gorge and rift of hills, across lake and valley to where the cliff and chasm, crag and summit of the Sierras stand in their silent placed power. The grand, the terror and the beauty of nature's handiwork are woven with vigor and life into the surpassing scene. Glorious zones of color, awful reaches of distance, the slash and scar of volcanic tempest clasped in the framework of mountains, whose solemn fronts of majesty are set forth in the severity of precipice, the tower and uplift of summits whose shapes of splendor shine in the clear and serene heavens with the sheen of eternal snows.

Behold! The swift upheaval, the glorious height of crag and pinnacle, the gorge and chasm of cañons, the sweep of lonely slopes that make the background of lake and valley, and by the supreme features of dignity glorify and adorn the western horizon. No dim outlines mar the scene, no shadow creeps across the lines of vision, but clear cut as a cameo face each element of beauty which gives a power rises on the view. There lies Owens Lake, wierd and sullen waste of waters, washing the feet of mountains, stirred by mysterious tides, its white shores shining in the sun, now calm as death, now wild with the fury of rushing winds wallowing in its volcanic bed and lashing its waters into foam. A wild creation with defiant moods and face of wonder holding the senses by the force and fascination of things terrible.

Yonder the Alabama hills, volcanic puffs, along the Sierra's run, roll like spent waves against a massive shore.

Here, the level wastes of valley stretching from range to range, its desolate sands pulsing with heat, its distant glimpses of meadows and woodland, spreading like oasis in a desert land. Now splendid with morning; now, glaring in mid-day; now, softened and subdued by the gold and glory of evening.

We have stood within the mighty shadows of Hood and Shasta; watched the play of light and shadows along the slopes of St. Helens and Panier; dreamed along the wooded shores of Puget Sound; floated upon the bosom of the mighty Columbia; wandered amid the gloom and desolation of the desert and felt the stir of things glorious, fair and sweet. With these garnered pictures of awful and glorious things within the memory we have hung this new picture to remain for ever an inspiration toward things divine.

THE danger of a war between Germany and Russia seems to be averted for the present; yet it is believed at Berlin that such a catastrophe might at any moment arise from either of the following causes: The growth of the Russian Empire, and the consequent arrogance of its people; the movement among its neighbors to recover lands taken by Germany, and Prince Bismarck's conviction that a Russo-German war is as inevitable as a Franco-German one after 1866. It is also possible that the Czar may believe a war with some foreign power to be popular, and as being the best means to quiet the Nihilist troubles. Roumania and Sweden are increasing their military establishments, with a view to being ready when the time comes for the recovery of Bessarabia and Finland. Turkey is believed to have urged Germany to attack Russia, in the hope that she might reconquer Asia Minor, the Caucasus and the Crimea.

A PRESS dispatch, dated at Candelaria, May 30th, says: Omizime Levigne shot Joseph Ricard through the body this morning while quarreling about the possession of some ore taken from J. Bizanz's mine. Ricard died within a few minutes, but returned the fire before he expired, putting a ball into Levigne's shoulder. In trying to escape, Levigne fell over some rocks, and broke both bones of his left leg just above the ankle. Both men are old residents of Virginia City, and Ricard leaves a family there. Levigne's condition is serious, but is not considered dangerous at present.

THE largest fire that occurred in the city of Chicago last year, was the Osborne Reaper Works. Last week the owner received from the insurance companies $150,000. INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, JUNE 3 1882

THE INDIANA.—Mr. Johnson, who has for some months been working the Indiana Mine, has invented an original and novel racket for sorting rich ore. Some of the rock is of very high grade in silver, necessitating careful work. However, he says of his arrangment that "It is made for a lazy man like me, and for a good many more who like to sit down to work. It is so arranged that when filled it screens the ore as it is being moved forward and only handling it once. A man can make as many different grades of ore as he likes. The machine consists of a few boards, a piece of screen about two feet square, one joint of stove pipe, one coal-oil can, a few nails and a piece of old rock-breaker, a few boxes and a pillow; yes, a pillow. I suppose you know what it is used for—it is much needed to perform the work; for a box is rather hard even on the soft side of it. All the power required to work the machine is the muscle of one strong man with plenty of patience and a willing mind to work."

CHANGE OF LANDLORDS.—On the 1st instant the Blaney House passed under control of Mr. S. D. Thurston and lady. Mr. Thurston comes among us with the reputation of being a man "who knows how to run a hotel," and there is no question but that the new management will fully maintain the high popularity this old stand-by hotel has attained through the many years of excellent management of V. G. Thompson, the retiring landlord—a management that has certainly made the Blaney the most popular hotel in the county. Mr. Thompson and family have taken up their residence at the Post. Their withdrawal from our little community after such a long period of prominent identification with it causes a general feeling of real regret, almost of sadness. But the new-comers are none the less welcome, and especially by numbers of our citizens, former acquaintances in Havilah, Kern County, with the varying fortunes of which locality Mr. Thurston has been intimately associated as a mining man and hotel-keeper from its pioneer days down almost to the present. The new administration of the Blaney consists of Mr. Thurston, wife and son, a lad of some 14 years of age, and Mr. J. H. Ferris as chief aid and mixologist in charge.

FOR PANAMINT.—Mr. Parker, editor and proprietor of this journal, departed early yesterday morning for a brief visit to Darwin and Panamint. The visit to the latter place is timed to meet Hon. Jos. Wasson and Geo. M. Pinney, the last named having just reached there direct from New York, the former having been in the camp for several days previously. Mr. Pinney, as our local readers are mostly aware, is the manager and principal owner in the Inyo Con. Mining Co, of Panamint, the most regular dividend paying mining property in the County. Mr. Parker, as soon as may be, after his return next week, will publish the observations of his trip in full.

THE LAURA MILL.—This new four-stamp mill, located in Saline Valley, is reported complete and ready for operations, save that a section of the water-pipe designed to conduct water on the turbine had "come up missing" in the invoice of machinery with which it should arrived several days ago. Steps have been taken to replace the "missing link" in the most expeditious manner possible. Upon the start the only appliance for amalgamating the gold will be an ample expanse of silvered-copper plates of the very best quality obtainable; but as soon as they can be obtained and put in place a concentrator and pan will be added so that silver ores may be worked, and also to make the reduction of the gold ores as perfect as it can be done anywhere.

ABSQUATULATED.—For some weeks or months past two men, nameless for the present, have been taking out and reducing by arastra process, gold ores from a prominent mine in the Alabama Hills, between this place and Lone Pine. During all that time these operators bought all needed supplies from a number of different establishments and persons here and in Lone Pine, and elsewhere, all to be paid for "when we clean up." The other day they made a final clean up, obtaining a bar or two of fine bullion amounting to more than enough to liquidate the said liabilities. But soon after the clean up the two cleared out, taking the bullion with them. The numerous creditors are now more than ever confirmed in the belief that cussedness is inherent in some people, especially in these two, and that even penitentiary treatment will not eradicate it—but should be tried on these rascals by all means.

BULLION FROM TAILINGS.—At intervals during the Winter and Spring, Mr. J. H. Holt, a man without a superior in working Inyo County ores, has been running the Rex Montis Mill on tailings. Much of them were scattered along the creek far below the mill, having for years past been allowed to run into the stream and be washed away as of too little value to bother about. By regrinding them, some portions two or three times, he has secured nearly $2,500 in bullion, as shown by the sum of numerous express shipments made during the period named. This reworking is still being carried on and quite as profitably as ever.

ANOTHER ONE READY.—For several days past Mr. Ward has been engaged in securing pack animals to be used in packing tailings from the old Kearsarge mill and ores from his own mine for reduction at the Pioneer Mill which he and his partners have been rebuilding as mentioned heretofore. The mill is ready for operations, only awaiting the pack-animals, to commence active work. We are confident the enterprise is going to prove a very profitable one to all concerned.

BETTER TIMES IN PROSPECT.—Though no big mining sales are to be chronicled nor has "capital" ordered the inauguration of any gigantic mining operation through which quantities of the needful may become plentiful in our midsts, there are several little mining operations in hand which together must in due time tend materially to ameliorate some of the generally prevailing pangs caused by the unprecedented scarceness of coin and other grub collaterals. These are that, within the present month there will be two furnaces and probably seven quartz mills in operation. Two of the latter are entirely new additions to our bullion producing resources; in fact all but one or two are new in the field, since, with the exceptions referred to, it has been months or years since any of them have done anything in that line. The furnaces are the Defiance and Modoc; the mills on the Panamint, Keeler, Key-not (or Taylor), Laura, Brown Monster, (5 of its 30 stamps) Rex Montis and Pioneer. Though two of these mills are running on tailings only, and some of the others are using but a portion of their stamps, the equivalent of stamps in actual operations will not fall short of 40, to which the furnaces and several arastras are to be added. It has been many a day since this county could boast of having such a number of reduction works in operation at the same time, the remainder of this month being considered as the "present time."

TO BE TESTED.—A. A. Riddle, W. T. Grant and others are the owners of what gives every promise of being an extensive and rich silver mine, located near the foot of the mountain in Saline Valley. This mine has been opened by a tunnel far enough to produce quite a large quantity of high grade ores. As per report, the owners are making arrangements to have some fity tons more or less packed across the tremendous intervening mountains to the Keeler mill, for reduction. The actual ditance between the mill and mine is about thirty miles, perhaps, but practically it foots up nearly twice that owing to the rugged nature of the trail. The undertaking will therefore show that the owners have high faith that their ores will work to a big figure, as we most sincerely hope they may.

THE USUAL THING.—It is quite the customary and proper thing for the man left in temporary editorial charge of a country newspaper while the editor-in-fact goes off somewhere, to remark: "The improvement noticiable in the editorial matter of the present issue will, of course, be attributed by discerning readers to the fact that the editor has been absent the entire week," etc., etc. In regard to the above and present issue of THE INDEPENDENT the temporary editor man takes this occasion to say that he gives place to the quoted remark only as a matter of custom, not as a fact, having taken his shears in hand altogether too near the latter end of the week, to have time to find good re-print editorials, etc., exactly suited to his taste and appropriate to the occasion. Same, too, as to looking up stirring local items.

BEVERIDGE DISTRICT.—Parties who came in from this district yesterday, report the Laura Mill as about completed. The only remaining work to be done is to finish the trail from the mine to the mill. This is all made with the exception of a gap of about sixty feet, which will pass along the face of a perpendicular cliff. This short distance will be difficult to cut, and will be somewhat expensive. The Taylor & McEvoy mill will continue to run on Keynot, and ores from other mines in the vicinity. It is said the owners of the Keynot mine have determined to build a mill of their own, and the work will soon be commenced.

FOR ANOTHER RUN.—Parties who visited the Keeler Mill a few days ago were informed that a supply of wood had been so far secured as to justify getting up steam for another run, and that Supt. Wheeler fully expects to do so in a very few days.

ABOUT READY—The repairs upon the Brown Monster mill and water works are so far complete that it is expected one battery and the concentrator will be put to steady operation early next week. One or more pans for amalgamating purposes will be put in place and set in operation as soon thereafter as circumstances will permit.

ANOTHER MILL.—It is stated as a fact that the Key-not company are positively going to build a mill of their own. And it is stated as a positive fact that the Key-not company are not going to build a mill of their own. Thus clearly elucidated, there ought not to be much trouble for anybody to see just how it is for himself.

HOW IT WAS OBSERVED.—Decoration Day, as referring to the Camp Independence Cemetery, was observed in the usual way—everybody, two or three excepted, stayed at home and attended to his own living affairs. The matter of irrigating the grounds has also been religiously looked after in the same manner. If Congress could only be prevailed upon to appropriate money sufficient to hire an Indian to set up that sluice box, it is possible the water would run in on its own account. Will somebody please spend a couple of weeks getting up a petition for the appropriation?

LOST.—Mrs. A. Hopkins, writing from Los Angeles, states that while here she lost, somewhere between Walters' place and the school house at Camp Independence, a small leather satchel. It contained a dozen handkerchiefs, some letters, cards etc., and a hair switch, especially valued as a keep-sake. She is very desirous of receiving the property, and if any of our readers know of the finder or of its whereabouts they will perform a good deed by reporting the fact to this office.

THE MODOCK FURNACE.—Frank Fitzgerald, Lessee and Superintendent, started up the Modock furnace at Lookout on the morning of May 22d, and later reports state that it was running splendidly. Following is the statement of the several bullion shipments under Fitzgerald's lease: Shipment No. 4, 20,141 lbs, value $3,946 62: No. 5, 20,041 lbs, value $4,021 70; No. 6, 20,094 lbs, value $4,231 94. Shipment No. 7 was to have been ready on the 2d instant.

TAXATION.—Assessor Irwin is well along with his work of ascertaining the property values in the county, but there yet remains considerable for him to do before results can be even approximated. This much, however, may be stated: The total number of live stock in the county is materially smaller than it was last year; but the total value of all kinds of property will amount to something more than it did last year. This is due in part to the fact that unusual pains have been taken to hunt out everything taxable no matter what it is, or where located.

A FIRE broke out in the town of Willows, Colusa County, at 2 o'clock on the morning of May 30th, and before it ceased, the entire business portion of the place was utterly destroyed—the total loss footing up to nearly a quarter of a million dollars. Among other unfortunates, we note that Henry M. Isaacs, ex-County Treasurer of this county, but recently engaged in general merchandizing at Willows, suffered a loss of probably every dollar he has in the world, barring perhaps a small portion covered by insurance. His loss amounted to $15,000, upon which there was $6,000 insurance. But Harry is not the man to put in his time lamenting over losses of this kind, however severe, and we do not doubt but that he will go to work at once as strong-hearted as ever to retrieve his fortunes, and we are equally sure he will soon succeed. He has the strong sympathies of all Inyo generally.

THE Mormons are likely to have everything their own way in Utah for another year at least. The Commission to put the Edmunds law into operation has not yet been appointed, and the time for the next general election is coming on. By local law the registration closes the second Monday in June, when no additions or alterations of the list can be made. The new law requires a new registration. The registrars must visit every house in the Territory and obtain the signatures of all who desire to vote. Even if the Commissioners were now ready for business, it would hardly be possible to prepare for the first election. There is no provison in the law for a delay in the completion of the registration, and no special election can be called. So the polygamists will hold the offices for another year, unless they are ousted, and this would be bad policy, inasmuch as the vacated offices would remain vacant and the people in some counties be left without any system of local government.

THE men who constitute the Social-Democratic-Communistic-Nihilistic element in Europe and America, and who exult over assassinations, and glory in what is their eternal shame, can only be regarded as enemies of the human race. What such visionary ruffians are capable of when unrestrained by law was shown during the reign of the Commune in Paris. The most cruel and reckless crimes, the most brutal destruction of works of art and beauty, warfare against civilization in all its phases, alliance with everything that is foul and base and cowardly and devilish; these were the chacteristic activities of the element referred to. Whether it calls itself Nihilism, Fenianism, Socialism or Communism, its motives, aims and ends are all the same. There is only one way to deal with such wretches, and that is to crush them at every opportunity; for if they should ever get the upper hand the world would be thrust back into "Chaos and old Night."

IT is announced that the Union Pacific has ordered a great advance in freights coming this way. This has been done by a change in the classification, whereby, according to the statement, the rate on agricultural implements is advanced from $2 10 to $3 per 100 lbs, which is equivalent to an advance of $180 per carload. The rate on wagons takes about the same advance, and the rate on wagon material jumps from $1 80 to $3 per 100 lbs, an advance of $230 per carload. The rate on hardware goes up at a single bound from $3 to $4 55 per 100, being an advance of $1 55 on 100 pounds, or $310 on each carload. This increase is made under the rule, usual in all cases of railroad alliance, of leaving to the shipping road the right of fixing through freight and passenger tariffs. The change ought to be good news at least to our hardware men who have large stocks on hand, and also to manufacturing cutlers.

THE Supervisors of Los Angeles refusing to pay costs for prosecutions under the Sunday law, the District Attorney dismissed 184 complaints.

CARLYLE once said to Froude that he was the best read man he ever met. Probably Froude was thoroughly familiar with Carlyle's writings.

SATURDAY, JUNE 3.....1882

POSTMASTER GENERAL HOWE has shown his good sense in recommending to Congress the abolition of all postage on newspapers and magazines, We can urge no stronger reason for such action than that given by the gentleman himself in his letter submitted yesterday, in which he said:

"It may well be doubted if the whole people get as much information of public affairs from the volumes thrown at them by the Government as they do from the newspapers and magazines which they purchase and pay for. Congress may at the present time safely abrogate all discrimination between the subscribers to newspapers and magazines, and send the same through the mails without oharge, whether such subscribers are within the county of publication or out of it."

The general intelligence of the American people is largely owing to their extensive reading of the newspapers and periodicals of the day, and if Congress be. as has been represented, concerned in regard to the better education of certain classes, it can do no better than adopt the recommendation of the Postmaster-General. The payment of postage on newspapers operates greatly to their exclusion from the houses of the poor, and it is for the benefit of this class that Congress is asked to appropriate fifty million dollars to promote education. No Congressional action in this direction would be complete without the abrogation of the newspaper postage law.—Sacramento Bee.

A CURIOUS illustration of the beauties of litigation has recently come to light in New York. A corporation known as the "Open Board of Brokers," possessed of over $100,000 worth of property, owing a dollar to nobody, concluded to go out of business. Upon application of the trustees to the Attorney-General a friendly suit was commenced to put an end to the corporation and divide the property among its members. No opposition was made to the suit, but the lawyers got their work in all the same and the Board finds after the property has been in the hands of "receivers" for two or three years that it is all swallowed up in attorney's fees, and that the members of the Board will not get a solitary copper out of it.

THE prospect of having to work in temperatures estimated to reach a maximum of 122 degrees by Dr. Stypt, the geologist of the St.Gothard tunnel, will, it is stated, prevent any attempt to pierce the Mont Blanc. European engineers point to the Comstock mines as the principal instance in which work is done at such a heat, and conclude that it would make the proposed Mont Blanc tunnel too costly.

THE latest snobbish freak of Americans traveling in Europe is to get some sprig of nobility to do up your umbrella; and keep it thus folded as a memento.

Pacific Coast Pearl Fishing.

Pearl fishing on the coast of Lower California is an important industry, no less than 1,000 divers being employed in bringing up the costly black pearl, which is found in a great state of perfection in the deep waters of La Paz. The pearl oysters are found from one to six miles off shore in water from one to twenty-one fathoms deep. Merchants provide hats, diving apparatus, etc., for the prosecution of the business, on condition they can purchase all the pearls found, at prices to be agreed upon. These boats, which are usually of about five tons burthen, sail up and down the coast from May to November, searching for treasures. The product of a year's work is about $500,000, estimating the pearls at their first value. Of the entire yield of Mexican pearls, ten per cent. are white, forty per cent. are blue, and fifteen per cent. are black. The blue stones are of little value, and, in general, the value of pearls depends a good deal on the fancy of the purchaser, as high as $5,000 being paid for a single pearl. They are mostly sold in Europe.

What Bock Beer Is.

A great many people annually hear of "Bock" beer without knowing more than that it is a heavy certain malt liquor, sold for a short time every Spring. It seems the German etymologists have been lately hunting for the origin of the term, and this is the story they have unearthed: Near the end of the fifteenth century there was a fete at the Court of Albert II, Duke of Bavaria, and there was present a noble chevalier, the special envoy of the Duke of Brunswick. They served the Embassador a great mug of the best beer in the chateau, but he would, after tasting it, not drink it. It could not compare with the beer of Einbach, he said. "Well," answered the master brewer, who was called upon to explain, "you agree that my beer is not strong enough. Well, I will bet you all my fortune against 200 florins that it is stronger than the Einbach beer. Let us make an engagement for this day next year. M. le Chevalier will bring his beer and I will come with mine. He will drink my beer and I will drink his, both in the same quantity, and the man who cannot keep his legs at the end of half an hour loses."

The wager was accepted, and next year, punctual to appointment, the Chevalier was there with his beer. In the midst of an assembly of all the nobles the trial was made. Suddenly, while they were at it, and after they had disposed of immense quantities, a kid, a pet animal of the Duke, rushed into the room and the Chevalier stooped to pat it. Over the poor fellow went. The people gave a loud cheer of triumph. The Chevalier would have it that it was all the fault of the kid, but the judges decided against him. It was in honor of this memorable occasion that the beer of the ducal brewery was called "bock" beer—kid in German being bock—and from this comes the French word bouc, by which most of the beer in France is called.

Machinery vs. Cheap Labor.

It is one of the most striking illustrations of the power of machinery that cotton can be brought from the far interior of India, on the backs of bullocks to the sea, shipped around the Cape of Good Hope to England, manufactured, shipped back by the same route, paying repeated commissions and profits, and undersell the native manufacturer on the spot where the raw product is grown, and where labor is considered well paid at fifteen cents a day.—Senator Bayard.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT has given Mrs. De Long, wife of Lieutenant De Long, Commander of the Jeannette, $50,000 in United States Government bonds.

AFTER sawing up a poor widow's wood-pile, a lot of Harvard students discovered that they had spoiled a lot of timber she had bought to build an addition to her cottage. They never made such a mistake before and they never will again.

ONLY YOURS AND MINE.

Never flower was "born to blush unseen,"
And its royal purple wear,
Or lavish its "sweetness" of gold and green
On the heedless "desert air."

Long aeons ere man on the plastic earth
A home or a trace had made,
The blossom and bird and the bee had birth,
And dwelt in the cactus shade.

Wherever the wild flower scents the air,
Or the lily lifts its head,
The music of wing and of song is there,
And the beetle makes its bed.

O vanity! vanity! what are we,
That the rose and trailing vine,
And the fragrant bloom and the shelt'ring tree
Should only be yours and mine?

—R. M. Daggett.

A DEATH SENTENCE REVERSED.

"Captain Mason used to be a drinker and a fighter himself, like the other Hickory Bayou boys," said Col. Baker, the Chairman of the Cairo, Ill., Lecture Association. "He's joined the church now, but he always takes care of every drunken man he sees. See, he's putting Whiskey Bill into his wagon now."

"But why does he interest himself so for Whiskey Bill?" I asked.

"Well, as I was saying, the Captain used to be a drinker and a fighter himself. He was sentenced to be shot in the army for fighting. He struck an officer—got on a drunken frolic, and—"

"How did the Captain escape?" I asked.

"Well," said the Colonel, "Mason, with a dozen fellows from the Hickory Bayou, enlisted in my regiment. He was a splendid soldier—always ready for battle—one of the best men in the regiment, but he would have his sprees. One day, about three weeks before the battle of Mission Ridge, Mason brought a canteen of whiskey into camp, and, always generous, went to giving it to the boys. This was against orders; so I ordered my Major to arrest him and put him in the guard-house. Mason found out that the Major was after him with a squad of men, and, full of devilry, he commenced dodging around behind the tents to keep from being arrested. But pretty quick in trying to keep away from the men, he ran sqare against the Major."

"Here, you rascal?" said the Major, seizing him by the coat-collar, without giving him a chance to explain, "Now you walk to the guard-house! I'll fix you, you scoundrel!"

"But in the excitement of the moment, Mason knocked the Major flat, and then he went and gave himself up."

"What was done about it?" I asked.

"Well, Mason was tried before a court-martial for striking a superior officer, sentenced to be shot, and the sentence was sent to Gen Jeff. C. Davis to be approved. Then poor Mason was imprisoned on bread and water, with a ball and chain to each foot."

"Did Gen. Davis approve the sentence?"

"Yes, he approved it."

"But how did Mason escape being shot!"

"Well, the next day, before the approval of the sentence arrived, came the battle of Mission Ridge, and our regiment was ordered forward. Mason, of course, was in the rear, under guard, with a ball chained to his ankle. We heard the rebel cannon in front all the forenoon. We knew there was a big battle on, and we needed all our men. So I rode over to the guard house and told Mason that we would have to leave him behind alone with his ball and chain on till the battle was over."

"Let me go with the boys, Colonel!" pleaded Mason, "I don't want to see the boys in a fight without me."

"But you might escape, Mason. You know there is a sentence hanging over you."

"'By heavens, Colonel! you ain't going to let the boys go into this fight without me!' and the tears came to his eyes.

"'Got to Mason,' I said. 'I can't trust you.'

"Then," continued the narrator, "the order came from Gen. Davis for our regiment to move up and charge a rebel redoubt, and the boys dashed forward. It was an awful fight. Twice they enfiladed us, and the rebel bullets mowed down our men by the dozens, while the rebel flag still waved on the redoubt.

"'Colonel, you must capture that redoubt!' was the order that came from Gen. Davis.

"Our men were now badly tired out, and the dead and wounded lay all around us; but I got our men together, and made the final charge. Gods! what a charge! My horse was killed under me. The men went forward in a shower of bullets. I thought they were going straight for that flag; then all at once they wavered. The bullets flew like rain and the advance men were all shot down. There was no one to lead, and I thought all was lost. Just then I saw a man come rushing up from the rear. He grabbed a dead soldier's repeating rifle, pushed right through the dead and dying, reached the head, and pushed up the redoubt. The boys saw him, took courage, and followed. In a moment I saw the brave fellow swing his rifle around him on top of the redoubt, grasp the flagstaff and break it off, while the boys struggled up the side and emptied their guns into the retreating rebels.

"The day was ours! As I came up I shouted!

"'Who took the flag, boys!'"

"'It was Mason!' said the boys, and looking down, I saw a broken chain and a shackle still on his ankle!"

Then the narrator's voice choked him, and the tears came into his eyes.

"'I couldn't help it, Colonel,' said Mason. 'I couldn't see the boys fighting alone; so I got the axe and pounded off the ball and chain, and now, Colonel, I'll go back and put 'em on again.'

"'Go back and put them on again! I almost cried. 'No, sir! Mason, I'll put them on myself first. Then,' said the Colonel, 'I reflected that this wasn't military, and I told the brave fellow to stay with two of the boys.

"That night," continued the Colonel: I wrote over to Gen. Davis about Mason's bravery; how he captured the Rebel flag and led the regiment to victory; in fact, saved the battle; and begged him if he had not approved Mason's sentence of death, to send it back to the court unapproved. In an hour the messenger came back with the papers. The sentence had been approved before the battle, but Gen. Davis took his pen and wrote across the bottom: "'The findings of the court disapproved. Private Thomas Mason, for distinguished bravery in capturing a Rebel flag, promoted to a Second Lieutenancy.'"

"What did Mason say when you told him about his promotion?" I asked.

"Well," said the Colonel. "I read him the death-sentence, and its approval first. Mason sank down, his face fell on his arm and I heard a deep groan. Then he said, as his eyes filled with tears:

"'Well, Colonel, it is hard, but I can stand it if any one can.'

"'But here is another clause, Mason,' I said. 'On account of your splendid bravery yesterday you have been promoted to a Second Lieutenancy.'

"'What me? Colonel, me?'

"'Yes, Lieutenant Mason.'

"'Thank God!' he burst out, and the bravest man in the Northern army stepped into his tent to send a streak of sunlight to cheer up his broken-hearted mother.

"And that's the man who just lifted Whiskey Bill into his wagon?'

"Yes, sir, that's the man, and he's brave enough to do anything, from pulling down a Rebel flag to leading a drunken comrade out of a saloon."—Eli Perkins in N. Y. Sun.

Caltfornia Mountain Trout.

Seth Green, Superintendant of the New York State Hatching Works, and one of the most practical fish-culturists and expert fishermen living, writes concerning the California mountain trout (salmo iridea) as follows: "Ihave been a fisherman ever since I was large enough to bend a pin-hook. I have caught with rod and line all kinds of fresh-water fish, from a shiner to a salmon and striped bass. I have caught as many Eastern brood trout as any man in this country, and as many California mountain trout as any man this side of the Rocky Mountains. I have caught the mountain trout in California and in this State, and I never hooked any gamer fish than the mountain trout. I have had both kinds on my table at the same time where there was a party of six and all decided that they could not tell which was the best. As to their keeping well after they are caught, I have not noticed any particular difference, but will know if there is any. I will place them side by side during warm weather and watch progress. Then I will not have to do any guessing. all kinds of trout should have their intestines removed within an hour after taking, during warm weather. Five years ago I planted some mountain trout in Caledonia Creek. They have grown to a good size. I have taken a speckled trout and a California trout at the same cast. This shows that both kinds will live in the same waters. I think our Eastern trout as fine as there are in any country. They will not live in any waters except the purest, and in beauty they excel them all. But we have many waters that our brook trout will not live in. Shall we let them lie barren or shall we stock them with some fish that will live and thrive in them! There are no fish they can be stocked with as good as the trout family. Therefore I consider the California trout as good as a pension to all who live in the vicinity of such streams." Evidently Mr. Green does not agree with those gentlemen who, at the late annual meeting of the American Fish Cultural Association, took occasion to belittle the game qualities of this fish.—American Field.

Dead Drunk.

M. Grehaut made an interesting communication to the Biological Society of Paris at a recent meeting, on the subject of fatal doses of alcohol. In order to determine what quantity of alcohol is present in blood when death ensues from drinking it in large quantities, he made a series of experiments, all of which gave the same results. By means of an œsophageal syringe, he injected into the stomach of a dog 30 grams of alcohol every half hour until the dog died. He then collected some of the blood of the animal, scrupulously taking the same precautions as when an analysis of the gases present in the blood is made. He then distilled it in vacuo, using for the purpose, with the necessary modifications, a mercury pump, such as is employed for analyzing the gases of the blood. M. Grehaut's experiments convince him that death happens when the blood of the animal presents the proportion of one part of absolute alcohol to 100 of blood; that the condition known as "dead drunk" exists when drunkards continue drinking, but when the alcohol imbibed ceases to be absorbed and the blood presents the proportion of one part of alcohol to 195 of blood; that is to say, almost the half of the quantity present in the blood when death is caused by drinking. M. Grehaut believes that, if death from drunkenness is less frequent than might be expected, it is because drunkards generally stop drinking when this proportion exists (one in 195).

IT is sometimes wondered how a flock of sheep are so accurate in prognosticating a storm. The reason is plain. The leader of the flock always keeps his wether eye open.

SINCE the attempt to blow up Mr. Vanderbilt by an infernal machine, many people have been afraid to be in his company, and it leaks out that several passengers who had state rooms on the vessel in which he sailed for Europe refused to go when they found he was to be a passenger.

SATURDAY, JUNE 10.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

JAMES E. PARKER.

Guiteau Falling Down.

The jail officials say that the fact becomes more apparent every day that Guiteau is failing mentally and physically. His condition yesterday was startling in the extreme and a total smash-up is expected before the 30th of June. A certain sign of physical and mental disintegration is a failure of a peason's appetite in cases like this. Guiteau's appetite is failing. He has become taciturn and uncommunicative since his lawyer's failure to secure a new trial. Reed visited him yesterday. He spends his entire time between rising and retiring and lying stretched on his cot, pondering, perhaps, on the few intervening days between life and death. That he will surely fail before the hanging day is the opinion of those who see and know him, and jail officials will have to carry him to the scaffold and prop him up till the fatal drop falls. Abject fear is taking possession of him, and the assassin will present a pitiable appearance when the penalty is reached. Some are inclined to think that he will go stark mad a few days prior to the event, and present indications surely point in that direction. One thing is certain, and that is, that Guiteau will surely sink into abject fear, become seriously sick or become wholly crazed before many days elapse.

THE Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Times, speaking of recent political developments in Pennsylvania, says: No wonder the gloom which has followed the Philadelphia convention. No wonder the panic which strikes the practical politicians. Arthur packs his trunk for New York, J. Donald Cameron bolts for Philadelphia, Gen. Simon strikes out for Washington and the devil is to pay. The "harmony" which the new administration was to bring to the party vanishes in a breath. The abstract Garfield idea rises on every hand to confront and oppose practical politics and the Republican party of the country is split in twain. Instead of being the dog, Arthur and the other practical politicians find they are only the tail. The extent to which the tail can wag the dog is limited. They can abuse the dog for being a sore-head, but to cut the dog off is to leave the tail a dead and withered thing, while the dog goes along, howling, perhaps, but with sound teeth and an unimpaired digestion. In this relation Messrs. Arthur and Cameron find themselves with the people on the question of practical politics.

THE liquor-selling folks are doing themselves more harm than good by their recent tactics, and act as if they were no better than so many outside barbarians. The attempt to blow up a Warren county editor with an infernal machine because he advocated temperance in his paper, and the threat to expel a barber from his shop in a hotel unless he discharged a man who had signed a total abstinence pledge, are manœuvres which are thoroughly disreputable.

THERE is a strong feeling in Fresno county, in favor an independent party. The feeling may not be sufficiently strong to result in the formation of a new party, but evidently such a feeling will have marked effect on the elections. There are many in both old parties who swear they intend to vote for the man, if he can show a clean record, anti-Chinese, anti-monopoly etc., he will be the people's idol.

MECHANICS are striking right and left in the East. While a few unions gain their points others are being defeated. The horse-shoers of Chicago struck because the bosses used machine made horse-shoes. This is about as absurd a reason for striking as we have heard of in many a day. They will lose. It looks now as though there would be hard times beyond the Mississippi this Fall.

FELO DE SE is not to be encouraged, but if it is true that a passenger on a Philadelphia steamer leaped overboard, exclaiming: "I am the assassfn of Cavendish," suicide was excusable in his case. Unfortunately, there is reason to doubt the story that one of the Phœnix Park assassins has imitated Judas by inflicting the death penalty upon himself.

THE crop prospects throughout the Union, showing not only that wheat, corn and oats are in excellent condition, but also that cotton is likely to approximate the largest yield in the history of the country.

THE man who threatened Queen Victoria's life by letter has been put at penal servitude for ten years. By and by semi-lunatics and vulgar desperadoes may learn a lesson.

A NEW INDIAN POLICY.

There is something sensible and practical in the announcement made by Secretary of the Interior Teller regarding the policy which he intends henceforth pursuing toward the Indians. In the first place, he says he shall not be governed by the dictations of church or philanthropic bodies, which is quite proper, as these are often very unwise and impractical in their notions on this subject. He says that he will favor liberal expendtitures for education, the granting of patents to the Indians for their lands, and making the tribes self-supporting, if possible. He believes in placing in the hands of the Indians the implements of civilization and husbandry, instead of arms and munitions to encourage them in carrying on warfare against settlers in exposed and isolated portions of the country, and he also believes in providing them with lumber and building materials instead of tents. This latter would probably have a tendency to induce the red man of the forest and plains to abandon his nomadic style of life and settle permanently in one place, as he could not so readily pick up his house or cabin to go upon the warpath as he now folds his tent and takes his household with him whenever he sees fit to go scalp-hunting. It is high time that some systematic policy were inaugurated toward civilizing the Indians of the country and encouraging them in the practice of the arts of husbandry and self-maintenance. As matters have been going on, the country is put to millions of dollars useless expenditure annually, and little or nothing has been gained. Dishonest agents of the Government have made a practice of swindling both the Government and its wards, and to this practice may be attributed four-fifths of the Indian wars that have been precipitated upon the country. If Secretary Teller will carry out the policy which he says he intends to pursue, and will also interest himself in the matter of protecting the lands of the Indians from invasion and spoliation, he will have accomplished much toward the needed reformation of the Government's Indian policy. Other Secretaries before him have, however, been equally profuse and explicit in promise of reform, but after a few spasmodic efforts in that direction matters have invariably been allowed to resume their chaotic condition; old forms of swindling were revived; the lands allotted to the Indians were invaded by the whites, and the starved and cheated red men driven repeatedly upon the warpath—the only method known to their rude and untutored nature by which to redress their wrongs. Sufficient money has been expended by the Government—ostensibly for the benefit of the Indians, but in reality for the enrichment of legislators and agents of the Interior Department—to have long since placed the several tribes in a self-sustaining position, but their condition is little, if any, improved beyond what it was fifty years ago. Too many meddlers have had to do with the so-called "policy" of the Government in this respect, and with the never-failing result in such cases. The Indian broth has been badly spoiled, indeed, and it remains to be seen whether Secretary Teller will be able to prepare a new dish that will be more palatable.

IN the ten months ending April 30th, of the present year, 544,599 immigrants arrived in New York from Europe—the arrivals in April alone numbering 104,210, or nearly 3,500 a day, and it is calculated that the arrivals for the year ending June 30th, will exceed three-quarters of a million, as the May arrivals much exceeded those of April. This and the natural increase is filling up the country at a rapid rate. The Eastern journals are rejoicing at this increase, holding, as they do, that labor will greatly enrich the country, but there are those who shake their heads and intimate that they foresee the time when this thing must be stopped to avoid disturbance, danger and social conflicts. They say that there are more people here now than can live well or find profitable employment, and every one that comes gets in the way of another who was here before him. But the time for discussing this question has not arrived.

IN no better way could the Government confer a real benefit upon its citizens, than offering a reward for important discoveries in the treatment and working of minerals, with which the country is so bountifully supplied. An appropriation should be made to encourage experiments and discoveries in the metallurgical processes. The matter is one of National interest and importance.

THERE are frauds and rumors of frauds in and about the United States Treasury building. The startling information is given that something like $23,000,000 in counterfeit bonds are in circulation. It is time for a vigorous investigation in that quarter. Washington is a wicked place at best, and the women seem to be about as bad as the men.

A Professional Hangman.

The authorities at Washington seem determined to have Guiteau's execution, which is appointed two weeks from next Friday, scientifically performed, and therefore they have asked James Van Heise, of Newark, the New Jersey expert, who has the reputation of having performed thirteen executions without a blunder, to hang the assassin. There are people who, when they remember President Garfield's prolonged agony, are ready to wish that Guiteau may be tortured as long as possible on the gallows. But the great majority of the people believe that the execution of even such a wretch as Guiteau should be performed in such a manner that death will be instantaneous. It is brutalizing to needlessly torture the victims of the gallows. Why should not Van Heise be employed to perform executions in all parts of the country, as Marwood in England? There is need of a skilled executioner to take the place of blunderers, and barbarous executions are so frequent in many States that the services of a professional hangman are required to prevent them. Van Heise would not be able to perform all the executions in the United States, but with the assistance of one or two other experts he could do all the hanging.

BRAVE men are invariably modest. Lieut. Danenhower declines for the present the proffered reception of the Geographical Society, and his three comrades evidently agree with him that it is best to defer any demonstration in honor of the survivors of the Jeannette expedition until next Autumn, by which time all De Long's men who are yet alive will be able to reach New York. Prof. Newcomb has already gone to Massachusetts. Jack Cole and the Chinaman are resting at the Naval Hospital, and Lieut. Danenhower will soon proceed to Washington to present the report to the government which he regards as an urgent duty. After a Summer of rest these worn veterans, with several of their comrades of the Jeannette expedition, will be in a better condition to receive the public honors which await them in New York.

GEOLOGISTS are still studying the first steps of creation, and carefully observing the records of the formative periods of the earth's early history. Perhaps as many theories have been advanced regarding the formation of coal as of any other mineral. The generally prevalent opinion was that gigantic forests furnished the material for the bodies of coal stored to supply the needs of men; more recent research indicates that the higher order of land plants, have contributed but little to the great mass of coal veins. Examination of thousands of sections of coal by scientists demonstrates that the supply for the formation of coal, came chiefly from microscopic forms of a lower order of protoplasm.

THE Indicator, of New York, published the following in a late issue, and we think that the lesson can be repeated in our mining boards. "We are pleased to note the fact that the American Mining Exchange yesterday took a radically initial step in the right direction in the reformation of ubuses that have been openly prevalent upon the boards of the Mining Exchanges, by weeding out from their list twenty wild-cats that have from time to time engrossed the attention of the investing public. The names of the companies are as follows: Battle Creek, Bonanza Chief, Boulder Con., Buckeye, Copper Knob, Casette, Cheyenne Con., Glyndale, Indian Queen Mining & Milling Company, Legal Tender of Colorado, Malachite, Mineral Creek, North Slate, Rico, Silver Nugget (old), South Noonday and Standby. No stock will hereafter be listed upon the Exchange except it passes the most rigid examination. Evidently the American means business, and has commenced by striking at the root of the evils that have for so long a time been a dead weight upon mining interests generally.

If the above article has reference to the Indian Queen mine, of Esmeralda county, Na., as a wild-cat, we can safely say that they are considerably "off." The Queen has never been on the stock board, is worked by private capital and has always been a dividend paying mine from the start.

GUITEAU is becoming alarmed, and those who visit his cell says he now realizes his position. The only chance that he has of escaping hanging is by the pardon of the President, and it is not likely he will give him any relief. He has only twenty days to prepare himself for the "Sweet Bye and Bye."

A dastardly attempt was made recently, says the Soda Springs' correspondent of the True Fissure, by an Indian called Poker Bill, to ditch the down train from Candelaria, near Rhodes' salt marsh, by placing a number of ties across the rails in different places along the track. Had it not been for Archie Farrington, who was coming along the wagon road, accompanied by a young man whose name was not ascertained, and who removed the ties, something serious might have happened the train.

THERE were as many polygamous marriages, says the Salt Lake Tribune, in the Mormon Endowment House on May 18th, as at any time previous to the passage of the Edmunds law. The machinery of that law can't be placed in motion any too soon to please the law abiding people of the country.

The Largest Ruins Yet Found.

Important discoveries of the largest ancient ruins yet found on this continent, which extend for a distance of fifteen miles up and down the banks of the Las Animas river, about forty miles from Durango, in Rio Grands county, N. M., have recently been made. Post Office Inspector Cameron, who visited these ruins lately, believes the ancient villages were occupied by the Moqui Indians, and not by the Aztecs, as is generally supposed. He speaks of discovering a stone ruin 400 by 450 feet, which, at one time, was evidently three stories high. The walls are five feet thick. There were about 150 rooms in the building of ten feet square each. An enterprising Yankee, who has preempted as Government land the ground on which the ruins stand, has been doing a fine business selling relics to visitors. A discovery thought important by the gentleman of the bureau of ethnology was lately made there of thirteen human skeletons in a subterranean chamber of the building mentioned. This has evidently been used as a burial vault. They were wrapped up carefully in a kind of coarse cloth and bore a close resemblance to Egyptian mummies. This cloth was of cotton and woven with as much skill as if done at the present day, which is considered not the least interesting part of the discovery. The skeleton were perfectly preserved and clean. They were unmistakably those of Indians. A quantity of pottery of the best make was also found in this tomb.—New York Herald.

LIEUT. DANENHOWER was asked whether he considers the discovery of the North Pole practicable. He replied: "I think that with repeated efforts something can be accomplished toward it. My experience of three months of boating and sledding leads me to think that Markham's latitude, the highest so far reached (about 400 miles from the Pole), can be surpassed. I have a plan of my own, but would not care to go into that at present." Now if this veteran Arctic explorer comes home revolving a plan of his own for getting to the Pole, notwithstanding the fact that he is nearly blind from the effects of the hardships through which he has passed since the wrecking of the Jeannette, it must be evident to all that it is impossible to dissuade adventurous spirits from the attempt to solve the Polar mystery. We may deplore the sacrifice of life involved in the continuation of Arctic exploration, and urge that there will be no adequate compensation in the discovery of the Pole for the life and property it will cost, but the words will be useless. Men like Danenhower will not be content until the 400 miles between Markham's latitude and the Pole have been traversed. Not how to prevent, but how best to equip, Polar expeditions should therefore be our purpose.

COL. ROBERT G. INGERSOLL is a professional infidel. He makes money by it, delivering lectures in which the things held most sacred by Christians of all names and denominations are held up to public ridicule. He has some reputation as a lawyer, more as an orator, but pre-eminently he stands as the type of flippant unbelief. This man delivered the oration on Decoration Day in New York, and, naturally, there is much indignation about it. Nothing that Col. Ingersoll has ever done or said would have suggested him as the man for the place, except the fame he has acquired through his scoffing tirades which he dignifies under the name of lectures. And of all things, what could be more inappropriate? We decorate our soldiers graves not merely in honor of their memory, but in the hope of their resurrection; and yet this man proclaims his disbelief in immortality, and makes his skepticism his trademark. For those who cannot hope for a future life, we have no word of censure; to men who in private have honest doubts thereof, we should not object as decoration orators, but that this pronounced apostle of unbelief, who makes a joke of the creed of millions, should stand up before the Grand Army and their friends as the mouthpiece of their sentiments, on such an occasion as this, is unwise and unbecoming. Of all places on earth for Robert G. Ingersoll to hold his peace, it is beside the graves of the departed.

SPEAKING of the Rogers case, the Aurora Herald says: The jury in the case of Henry P. Rogers, on trial for robbery, after deliberating for sixty hours, failed to agree, and were by the Court discharged. When discharged they stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal. In view of the fact that Pearson, who pleaded guilty and gave the whole thing away on the witness stand, said that Rogers was there and assisted in the robbery, the testimony being corroboratad by Eugene Way, who swore to Rogers' voice and appearance—he being masked—as also did Brooks McClane, Tillie Swisher and Minnie Otis, while the testimony for the defense to prove an alibi was not by any means satisfactory, to a majority of the community the disagreeing of the jury was certainly unexpected and occasioned much comment. The defendant was bound over until the 12th day of October and his bail fixed at $16,000, failing to furnish which he now lies in lail.—Bodie Free Press.

IT will be said, "He can afford it," when mention is made that James Gordon Bennett has announced his intention to provide for the widow and child of the gallant De Long, and for all the other women made widows and children made fatherless by the destruction of the Jeannette. It is rather crabbed and mean to thus greet Mr. Bennett's generosity. He can afford it; but the main point is that he will do this generous thing, be the bountiful benefactor in this case. Not every rich man would do it or think of such a thing.

TURKEY has again been successful by means of cunning and double-facedness, and will be so long as the European powers permit. The position of England and France is anything but complimentary to the firmness and astuteness of the nations, and the Sultan has proved himself once more a match for the Khedive and his Frank friends.

FRED BURKHARDT of Aurora, son of the late George Burkhardt, who died at Darwin on the 20th ult., stopped with us Sunday night. He was on his way to Darwin to take care of the remains of his father and to settle his business affairs at Lone Pine.

Clover Patch is situated ten miles west of Benton and will soon become one of the best camps on the Coast, if the present favorable indications continue. A reliable gentleman informs us that 102 mining claims and 21 millsites have already been located, and miners are flocking there daily. There are 48 living springs of water in the immediate neighborhood of the mines, and an abundance of timber.

The Wild Rose mine, owned by Farrington brothers, is making splendid developments. A tunnel has been run 321 feet, and a shaft sunk 40 feet on a solid body of ore 7 feet in width, which will mill $80 to the ton. The ore is free milling, and very similar in character to that of the Standard at Bodie. The owners are very sanguine over their prospects, and it would not be surprising if they immediately erect a large mill, as they represent considerable capital and are not afraid to expend it on a sure thing.

A number of parties from Bodie are now prospecting and making locations in that district, and a boom may be expected there before many weeks.

A number of the Russian refugees who landed in New York week before last, had from $2,000 to $10,000 a piece on their persons.

The high cost of provisions bears heavily on clerks and other people living, or trying to live on fixed salaries.

The Fresno Expositer says: "The drought does not seem to have affected the progress of the county to any appreciable extent. New settlers are constantly coming in, and there is continued activity in real estate. There have been some very large land sales recently."

BEE men in the neighborhood of Los Angeles continue to send in favorable reports about the honey prospects. The sage is coming into bloom, and there is an usual amount of honey material in bloom this season.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

NEW PATENTS.—Dewey & Co's Scientific Press Patent Agency has official reports of the following U. S. patents, issued May 23, 1882: Jos. Ahlert, S. F., velocipede; Wm. L. Blythe, Mokelumne Hill, Cal., pick; George Brammar & J. R. Swarts, Livermore, Cal., device for forming shoulders upon vehicle axes; Wm. C. Doherty, Albany, Oregon, fruit drier; N. A. Griffith, Austin, Nev., journal bearing; Andrew Jackson, S. F., dental plugger; Milton H. Landers, S. F., railway car; Harry R. Stevens, Los Angeles, Cal., wind engine; I. N. Templeton, Amador, Cal., ore feeder; S. M. Williams, S. F., collar button and cravat fastener.

OBITUARY.—Uncle Abe Parker, last week, received the very sad news of the death of a favorite brother, Dominicus Parker, of Knight's Ferry, Stanislaus county, aged 55 years. Deceased, a native of the State of Maine, in company with Uncle Abe, came around the Horn in '49, and, for many years thereafter, the brothers shared pioneer fortunes together, deceased finally settling at Knight's Ferry, where he has ever since resided, respected as one of the most highly and influential men of that county. He leaves a wife and four children, the youngest about sixteen years of age, to mourn the loss of a most affectionate husband, father and friend.

NOT HEARD FROM.—Last week our "Boss" left for Panimint, to be gone for a few days, and up to the time of going to press we have not heard a word from him. He had engaged the services of two gentlemen to assist us in running the concern; up to the time of going to press they failed to furnish us with any copy, and being a perfect stranger in this vicinity we felt rather timid in assuming the editorial responsibilities, as on a previous occasion we were placed in the same position, and when the editor returned he had two duels and a libel suit on his hands. But like all good Bohemian's we grabbed the shears and started in.

BISHOP CREEK TIMES.—Our contempory the Bishop Creek Times, says its financial back bone is not stiff enough to carry them any farther over the field of journalism unless their delinquent subscribers pay up. Some people appear to think that printers can live on old papers, cheerful words, smiles etc., but printers are human, nevertheless, they must eat sometimes, and pay expenses also, and when the subscriber fails to respond the consequences are—a "busted print shop." But such is life.

WEATHER.—The weather yesterday was very disagreeable, cold, windy, rainy etc. It was cold enough to have a fire all day but as our stove was not up, and the wood pile looked as if it was struck by lightning we concluded to feeze it out. The thermometer at this office stood at 35° at 5 o'clock P. M. Some of our neighbors in the San Joaquin Valley, we presume, would like to experience little of the same kind of weather, at present.

DRUNKEN INDIANS.—On Sunday last drunken Indians were the main feature of the "burg." One of them was asked by an attache of this office if he was drunk. He replied, "Yes, plenty drunk, and don't you forget it." There is a law that forbids the sale of liquor to Indians and is frequenfly violated at a wholesale rate.

RUNNING.—Mr. Chalfant now has the Brown Monster mill in operation; at least one battery of the same. The high state of the river has occasioned him some considerable trouble in keeping the six-mile head race in water-carrying condition, but, barring delays from that source, the mill will be kept running steadily for an indefinite period.

BULL-GINE.—On Wednesday last, near this place, an Indian and a bull got in a dispute and during the controversy the Indian was gored, thrown down and trampled upon. He was brought here for medical attendence and it was found that his collar bone was broken.

LEAGUE OF DELIVERANCE.—We received a copy of the appeal from the league of deliverance, at San Francisco, to the people of the Pacific Coast. It is an able effort and it should be strongly endorsed by all good citizens. Want of space and time forbids us to publish it in full.

FISH.—A gentleman succeeded in catching ninety-five trout, last Wednesday, only a short distance from here. One he pulled up, but not out, he declares was two feet long and would weigh four pounds.

BOOK AGENTS and other people who enjoy racy reading and sensational facts, will no doubt be interested in J. W. Buel's latest work, "Metropolitan Life Unveiled," advertised in another column of this paper.

PERSONAL. — Master Norman E. and Miss Maggie S., son and daughter of Judge A. R. Conklin, returned from Santa Clara last Wendesday, where they have been attending school.

RELIGIOUS.—Rev. F. M. Willis, of Bishop Creek, arrived here yesterday on his way to Lone Pine where he will hold church to-morrow at 11 o'clock.

SNOW.—The Inyo range and Sierra Nevadas were snow-capped this morning from the effect of yesterday's storm.

HOPKINS ACADEMY.—This institution of education, at Oakland, Cal., will open July 18th. See ad in this paper.

FOURTH OF JULY.—What's the programme for the Fourth of July? Has everyone in Inyo forgotten that it comes this season?

NEW SONG.—The most perfect gem in the song line that we have seen for some time has just been issued by Sherman, Clay & Co., of San Francisco. The tittle is "There May be Eyes as Brightly Beaming. The marked price is 35 cenrt.

THE RAIN.—Yesterday afternoon it commenced to rain, and continued at intervals all night. This morning everything looks as fresh as it would in the month of April, especially our garden.

CONVICTED.—Chas. M. Green was convicted this week before Justice Parker for selling whiskey to Indians. He was fined $100, which he paid. Such is life on the border.

PERSONAL.—Messrs. Begole, Turner and Palmer are in town to-day. The latter is authority for a marriage between Miss Annie Adams of Lone Pine, and Charles Metz of Bodie, to take place Sunday, the 11th inst.

BIBLES.—The sub-agent of the American Bible Society passed through here this week. Buy a bible and read it, and see whether Hanford is correct about the fiery regions or not.

FLOODED.—A part of Bob Love's ranch, near Bishop Creek, was badly flooded a few days ago by the breaking of a big ditch which runs above his field.

IN NEW HANDS.—From force of circumstances, THE INDEPENDENT, this week, is left in entirely new hands editorially, hence the scarceness of news.

AT BISHOP.—Thomas Rickey, the big cattle man from Walker River, has been in Bishop Creek during the week looking after some business matters.

PREACHING.—Rev. F. M. Willis will hold divine services in the school-house next Monday evening at the usual hour.

HIGHER.—Bisho Creek was higher last Sunday than it has been for several years.

THANKS. — Mr. Chalfant has our thanks for favors received.

SENATOR MILLER of California, joins with Senator Fair in the prediction that California and the Pacific States will witness the beginning of renewed prosperity when the new law restricting Chinese immigration is enforced. "I have seen," he said, "with my own eyes, the depressing effect of Mongolian competition with white labor on the Pacific Slope, and the baneful influences in all channels of industry, and I think it is best for our people and the country in general that their further immigration be checked. They have in a great measure retarded the progress of the coast by keeping away desirable immigrants from other countries, and particularly from our sister States, who would have gladly sought homes with us, and helped to build up and occupy our fertile valleys. Already the movement is under way which will have a tendency to help California and the neighboring States, and will gradually neutralize the effects of the Chinese now settled on the coast. It is that of securing a large immigration of Germans and Italians, and has been planned by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. I was informed only yesterday, on most reliable authority, that this company will establish a line of steamships to ply between European ports and New Orleans, from which last named point immigrants will be transported over the new connection with the Southern Pacific route to California at $25 per head. Thus, the hardy German, Italian and French farmers, not laborers, can reach our coast at half the expense which it costs by other lines. The new line will also be used to transport wheat and the products of our vineyards to Europe, via New Orleans, at less expense than heretofore; so you see, what I have said about our cheering prospects is not based altogether on speculation. California, which has a population of only 800,000, can comfortably support from 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 people, and I predict that, within a few years, under the stimulus of immigration, it will rank with some of the more populous of the Eastern States. All that is required for the development of the thousands of acres of tillable land is good bone and muscle, and this we will get now the vexed Chinese question is practically settled."

ONE of the members of the Methodist Conference held in Detroit was out for a walk at an early hour one morning, and encountered a strapping big fellow who was drawing a wagon to a blacksmith shop.

"Catch hold here and help me down to the shop with this wagon and I'll buy the whiskey," called the big fellow.

"I never drink," solemnly replied the good mun.

"Well, you can take a cigar."

"I never smoke."

The man dropped the wagon tongue, looked hard at the member, and asked.

"Don't you chew?"

"No, sir," was the decided reply.

"You must get mighty lonesome," mused the teamster.

"I guess I'm all right; I feel first rate."

"I'll bet you even that I can lay you on your back," said the teamster.

"I never bet," said the clergyman.

"Come, now, let's warm up a little."

"I'm in a hurry."

"Well, let's take each other down for fun, then. You are as big as I am, and I'll give you the underhold."

"I never have fun," solemnly replied the member.

"Well, I'm going to tackle you any how. Here we go.

The teamster slid up and endeavored to get a back hold, but he had only just commenced his fun when he was lifted clear off the grass and slammed against a tree box with such force that he gasped a half dozen times before he could catch his breath.

"Now you keep away from me," exclaimed the minister, picking up his cane.

"Bust me if I don't," replied the teamster as he edged off. "What's the use in lying and saying you didn't have any fun in you, when you are chuck full of it? You wanted to break my back didn't you?"—Detroit Free Press.

Maxims for Young Men.

Never be idle. When your hands are not usefully employed, attend to the cultivation of your mind.

Always speak the truth.

Keep good company or none at all.

Make few promises.

Live up to your engagements.

When you speak to a person look him in the face.

Good company and excellent conversation are the very sinews of virtue.

Good character is above all things else.

Never listen to loose and idle conversation.

You had better be poisoned in your blood than in your principles.

Your character cannot be essentially injured except by your own acts.

Early in life secure a practical business education.

Do not make too great haste to be rich, if you would prosper.

Small and steady gains give competency with tranquility of mind.

Never play games of chance, or make bets of any description.

Avoid temptation through the fear that you may not withstand it at last.

Drink no intoxicating liquors.

Never run in debt, unless you see a way to get out again.

Keep yourself innocent if you would be happy.

Save when you are young to spend when you are old.

Aim high in this life, but not so high that you cannot hit anything.

Mr. John McDonough, the New Orleans millionaire, had engraved on his tombstone a series of maxims which he had prescribed as the rules for his guidance through life, and to which his success was mainly attributable:

Remember always that labor is one of the conditions of existence.

Time is gold; throw not one minute away, but place each one to account.

Do unto all men as you would be done by.

Never think any matter so trifling as not to deserve notice.

Never give out that which does not first come in.

Let the greatest order regulate the transactions of your life.

Study in the course of your life to do the greatest amount of good.

Deprive yourself of nothing necessary to your comfort, but live in an honorable simplicity and regularity.

Labor, then, to the last moment of your existence.

AT Paris, Texas, Wallace Hill, who had just driven into the city with a load of telegraph poles, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. After his death it was discovered that the branch of a tree near which he stood had been photographed in livid red upon his breast, the delicate traces of the leaves and vines being perfect.

GEN. SHERIDAN has surprised the Chicago merchants by making an effective speech. Like Gen. Grant, he has shown that he knows how to use his tongue, although his fame has been won exclusively by the sword.

A gentleman arriving from the eastern part of the State, says the Carson Appeal, says that a war between the Shoshones and Bannocks is nearly certain to begin at once. The most bitter hatred exists between the two tribes.

LONG SING, the Chinaman who is one of the survivors of the Jeannette, must be a descendant of the old sailor whose favorite song contained forty-odd stanzas.

A MAN does not necessarily talk cents when he speaks in money-syllables.

A BUSTLE, worn clear around the body is the latest Bodie novelty.

SATURDAY, JUNE 10.....1882

How to be Happy and Long-Lived.

First, study to acquire a composure of mind and body. Avoid agitation of one or the other, especially before and after meals, or while the process of digestion is going on. To this end, govern your temper; endeavor to look on the bright side of things; keep down as much as possible, the unruly passions; discard envy, hatred and malice, and lay your head upon the pillow of charity with all mankind. Let not your wants outrun your means. Whatever difficulties you have to encounter, be not perplexed, but only think what is right to do in the sight of him who seeth all things, and bear without pining the results. When your meals are solitary, let your thoughts be cheerful; when you are social, which is better, avoid disputes, or serious arguments, or unpleasant topics. "Unquiet meals," says Shakespeare, "make ill digestions;" and the contrary is produced by easy conversation, a pleasant project, welcome news or a lively companion. I advise wives not to entertain their husbands with domestic grievances about children or servants, nor ask for money, nor propound unreasonable or provoking questions; and advise husbands to keep the cares and vexations of the world to themselves, but to communicate of whatever is comforting, cheerful and amusing. Self-government is the best step to health and happiness.

In this connection the following suggestions are apropos:

Eat slowly, as if it was a pleasure you desired to prolong, rather than a duty to be performed as soon as possible.

Don't bring your prejudices, your dislikes, your annoyances, your past misfortunes, or future forebodings to the table, they will spoil the best dinner.

Respect the hours of meals; you have no right to injure the temper of the cook, destroy the flavor of the viands, and the comfort of the family, by your want of punctuality.

Have as much variety in your food as possible, but not many dishes served at one time.

Find as little fault as possible with the food prepared, and praise when you can.

Finally, be thankful, if you have no meat, that you have, at least, an appetile, and hope for something better in the future.

A Dakota Town.

A Bismarck correspondent ot the Toronto Mail says: Fargo, it may be imagined, is a muddy place at this season of the year. The following story, which is told with an air of truth, will illustrate this: A man observed a tall silk hat in the middle of the street, and he waded out to get it. On taking it up he was astonished to see a human face looking up at him. He offered to help the unfortunate man out of the mud, and received the reply, "I ain't stuck in the mud; I'm sitting on top of an omnibus down here." A number of small towns, by way of courtesy called cities, are growing along the Northern Pacific Railway. Settlement is progressing, although farms are not very numerous as yet between Fargo and Bismarck.

Dakota is ahead, however, in the matter of colonies. It leaves our Northwest with its multifarious colonies in the shade. The last formed colony in Dakota "takes the cake," as they say here. It is no less than an old maid's colony. A correspondent describes it as follows: "The other day thirteen old maids from Massachusetts located in a body in the northern part of Brown County. Some of them are quite comely lasses, and seemed to strike so deeply into the hearts of some old bachelors, and some young ones too for that matter, that the boys are talking of taking up land there also. The chance to tumble into good society and a quarter section of land could not be bettered in the west, and the man in need of land and the hereditaments thereto belonging is a booby if he don't plant himself in that Massachusetts colony. The girls may take a hint.

THE Piutes are keeping step to the quick and invigorating music of progress. On Wednesday a large buck stepped into Bob Love's store and addressed the proprietor as follows: "My mahaly all the time talk sewing machine. How much you charge?" The price somewhat startled the buck, as he expected one could be purchased for about $4; but he did not appear to give up in despair. Upon leaving he observed: "May be I come around again; may be me catch some money."—Bodie Free Press.

JULY and August are esteemed the best months in which to cut timber, especially for fuel, in so far as durability goes. The growth of the year is then nearly over, and if the trees are allowed to lie until the green foliage dries upon them, the greater portion of the sap is thereby withdrawn from the wood, and the seasoning is rapid and perfect. When cut in midsummer, insects are less liable to attack the wood, and this is an important point with some kinds of timber.

SAN FRANCISCO received Oscar Wilde with "a calm and holy quiet." Notwithstanding this mild way of putting it an Eastern paper chronicles the remark with the assertion that "a calm and holy quiet in San Francisco is about equal to a riot in New York."

A COMPOSITOR in setting up the toast: Woman—without her, man would be a savage, got the punctuation in the wrong place, which made it read: Woman, without her man, would be a savage.

NEW YORK firemen are beginning to "kick" against being turned out at all hours of the day or night by false alarms given simply to exhibit their efficiency to distinguished foreign visitors.

WHY is a bay horse like a condiment? Because it is horse reddish.

A YOUNG gentleman who is very particular about the getting-up of his linen, wrote a note to his laundress, and at the same time sent one to the object of his affections. Unfortunately he put the wrong addresses on the envelopes and posted them. The woman was puzzled, but not in the least offended; but when the young lady read: "If you rumple up my shtrt bosom and drag the button off my collar any more, as you did last time, I shall have to go somewhere else," she cried all the evening, and declared she would never speak to him again.

A countrywoman presented herself in a photographic studio and said: "I have come, sir, to have a picture of my poor dear husband made. He—he died three months ago!"

"Very well, my good woman, very well. Have you any portrait, or daguerreotype, or anything of the loved and lost?"

"N-no, sir, but"—bursting into tears—"I have brought his birth cirtificate!"

"WHY do good little children go to heaven when they die?" asked the teacher. "Because," answered the bright boy at the head of the class, "because it's unsafe to trust children in a place where there's a fire."

A very rich man said: "I worked like a slave till I was forty to make my fortune, and I've been watching it like a detective ever since for my lodging, food and clothes."

A Massachusetts member of Congress thinks the best thing for Mr. Blaine to do is to "lie fallow for a year or two." We believe better advice than that would be not to lie at all.

NEWSPAPER men should never despair. A former reporter of the Troy Times is about to marry Gov. Charlie Foster's pretty daughter and become an Ohio man.

IN view of the results of Arctic exploration, we are forced to believe that the North Pole is one of those things that no fellow can find out.

WHEN Mr. Fish had his children's portraits painted they were spoken of as sardines—little Fishes done up in oil.

WHEN Beaver read Senator Mitchell's pronunciamiento he at once constructed a dam.

SOME philosopher has sagely remarked that to say the good die young is a standing invitation to the small boy to be bad.

IT is surmised by a lady student that the dead languages were killed by being studied too hard.

THE "moonshiners" are about the only persons who have succeeded in keeping a secret still.

The Train Telegraph.

C. F. McGlashan, editor of the Santa Barbara Press, has invented "a certain method of preventing railroad collisions." Two ordinary telegraph wires are used. Wheels or electric brushes attached to the moving train touch these wires, conveying the electric current from one wire to an instrument in the car, and returning it to the other wire, along which it passes until its destination is reached, when it is connected with a ground wire, and completes the circuit through the earth. The same current is made to pass through several trains by a simple method of switching at stations. It enables dispatchers to have control of every train at each moment of its progress, and approaching trains are constantly advised of the position of each. So, too, when one train is following another. By this method, too, accidents can be reported the moment they happen, and messages be received and sent for passengers while the train is in motion. It is claimed that trains can be run on better time, as there will be no stopping for orders, no apprehension of colliding with other trains, of telescoping or being telescoped; and no uncertainty as to whether orders have been obeyed, or connections properly made. The telegraph stations need not be abandoned; "flagmen" may be sent out as usual; and the entire present system of running trains may be continued in order to more fully insure the safety of freight and passengers. The telegraph poles must be set close to the track to allow the "trucks" or wheels conducting the current to run freely. These "trucks" are light metallic devices that are drawn along the wires by the moving train by rubber hose encasing the connecting wires. March 25th the "invention" had a trial at San Francisco on the Southern Pacific Railroad, and worked satisfactorily. There the two wires were supported on telegraph poles, each with a horizontal arm projecting toward the track, like the old-fashioned gallows trees. From these arms were suspended, by means of an iron rod, branching into two hooks at the bottom, like flukes of an anchor, two telegraph wires, running exactly parallel on the same plane with each other and about six inches apart, forming a sort of wire-railroad track. On this track ran a little brass truck with eight wheels, two large ones running on the top of each wire and two running under each. The connection between the wheels on the two sides was under the wire, swinging clear of the rods on which the track hangs suspended. The upper wheels passed, two on each side of the rod, and met with no obstruction. From this little truck two wires, inclosed in gutta percha, descended to a car and connected with an instrument in charge of an operator. The metallic wheels of a little truck running on the wires, and being always in contact with them, kept up a perfect connection with the two wires descending to the car, and formed an electric circuit, the same as at any ordinary telegraph station. An instrument was placed in a car that was left standing stationery on the track. The instrument simply had the usual form of connection with the wires as above. That on the car to which the engine was attached had its connection with the little brass truck that ran on the wires. The Call says it worked to a charm. At any rate of speed, perfect communication was kept up with the stationery car. The inventor, in answer to an objection that the cost of wires and poles is great, replies that safeguards to life and property are not costly at any price. He adds that this "train telegraph" will give train dispatchers absolute control over train men, and nothing will be left to their judgment, and train men will thus become what railroad men desire, machines to run by order. Each truck is provided with scrapers and knives to keep these wires clear of obstructions, and so fitted are the trucks that they cannot be torn from the wires.

"I WOULD box your ears," said a young lady to her stupid and tiresome admirer, "If ——" "If what?" he anxiously inquired. "If I could get a box large enough for the purpose," she replied.

Colossal Fortune of Vanderbilt.

Talking to a friend of William Vanderbilt lately, who was defending his genial character, the following remark was dropped: "The wealth of Mr. Vanderbilt is the most preposterous thing about him or about our times. To think that an individual has $10,000,000 more invested in the Government bonds than the entire banking capital of the city of New York. The money which moves this vast city and all its connections amounts regularly to $60,000,000, and Mr. Vanderbilt has one-sixth more money in Government bonds than all that. Fortunately, he is not much of an enterprising, absolute, tyrannical man, or that amount of money would work a degree of corruption about the Legislature, and even on Congress, that would be fatal to public liberties. I hope to God we shall have few such fortunes accumulated in this country."

The same man said what I was surprised to hear—a good thing for James Keene. "My observations on Keene," said this gentleman, "are that he is a modest man. It is true that he wears a dress coat and a white necktie in the evening wherever he goes, whether to a cafe, or a club, or a theater. But that is the English mode, now exceeding to a certain circle in this country; and I think there is no use inferring from it that Keene is anything of a lady's man. He is somewhat ambitious in a social way, but is modest with it all. Considering that he is a speculator, he is about as natural a man and as modest a one as any person of his wealth could well be."—Gath in a New York paper.

The Potato Trade with America.

This trade is now almost over for the season. The collapse of the markets in March was due more to the bad condition in which the shipments were arriving than to the over supply—although during one week in March New York alone had over 500,000 bags, being upwards of 40,000 tons. The condition of some of the cargoes beggars description. In one cargo alone 600 tons had to be dumped into the sea, these being entirely useless. A good many more from the same cargo had to be sold by public auction, and barely brought sufficient to defray the duty. Some idea of the difference of deliveries may be formed from the fact that I saw Scotch champions being sold, ex the steamship Anchoria, of the Anchor line, at from 7s to 8s a bag, while at the quays of the Hull and London lines similar potatoes, in bad order, were selling at 1s 3d to 3s a bag, and a large proportion of the cargoes utterly valueless. Outside boats specially chartered were in even worse plight, as these had no fixed quays whereon to deliver their goods, and being freighted with nothing but potatoes, these had heated and fermented, and were in almost every instance in extremely bad order, and a large percentage of the cargo utterly valueless. So far as I can learn, the Anchor line of steamers is the only one which allows for shortage. The care and facility with which this line have handled their potato traffic have earned them so good a reputation that several of the Scotch agents on this side declare they would sooner pay 30s a ton freight to the Anchor line than have their potatoes sent by transhipment via the Hull and London lines for nothing. —Ex.

Chicago Whiskey.

If the statement made in the Chicago Inter-Ocean, concerning the quality of whiskey sold in that wicked city is correct, no wonder it excites men to commit all sorts of crime. It says: "In most of the gin sold there will be found oil of vitriol, oil of almonds, oil of turpentine, sulphuric ether, and extract grains of paradise. It is in the manufacture of whiskey, however, that the adulterators do their finest work. You can purchase oils and essences from which 'whiskey of any age' can be procured. The style of whiskey when tested will show sulphuric acid, caustic potassa, benzine, nux vomica, and other poisons. This is the sort of stuff that bores into the coatings of the stomach and creates ulcers. Pure whiskey, in my opinion, will hurt no one when taken in reasonable quantities, but this adulterated stuff is murderous. In porter you will find opium, herbane, capsicum, cocculus indicus, copperas, tobacco and sulphuric acid. In beer, alum, opium, nux vomica, green copperas, vitriol, sub-carbonate of potash, and islop are used."—Ex.

ORLANDO JACKSON, in four years, managed to sink $89,000 in a lottery that advertises freely to all the fools in the land. Orlando won nothing, his lucky star was not in the ascendant, and now he sues the lottery company to recover the money paid by him for tickets. Orlando is not only a fool, but worse, He deliberately played at a gambling game. Had he won, he would have patted himself for joy. He loses, and, as the gamblers put it, "squeals." Orlando is entitled to no sympathy, and his $89,000 is probably under wiser administrative control than if he possessed it.

Two Philadelphia mechanics claim to have discovered a device for running street cars by a series of powerful steel springs. At the end of each trip the car is to be wound up like a clock. Memory serves us that this has been several times tried, and has uniformly proven a failure.

THE New York Herald has been making a study of the question of longevity, and finds that a greater portion of men live to old age in the cities than in the country. This must be an error, for has not every debating society in the land settled the question the other way?

A Wife's Signature.

A few days since a well-dressed young man entered an express office in this city and said to the obliging money clerk, John Clark, that he wished to send some money to his wife; that she lived in Boston in a flat, and that her mail being sometimes tampered with, he would like to know how to send it so it would be absolutely safe. Mr. Clark replied by showing him the "advice card" they use in connection with orders, on which is a clause stating that if the sender of the money has in his possession a signature of the payee, and will paste it on the card, the persons calling for the money can identify themselves by duplicating the signature. The gentleman replied that he had lots of them, and putting his hand in his pocket brought out a bundle of letters. After examining several in succession, a broad smile spread over his countenance, and with a half doubtful expression he said: "Are you a married man?" Mr. Clark answered that he was. "Well then," said he, "look at this," handing over one of the letters. Mr. Clark looked and found the cause of the young man's amusement to be that the letter was not signed with his wife's name but with the endearing substitute, "Your ootsey tootsey," and it turned out that they were all so. Mr. Clark then said, "Well, cut one of them off, and the agent will cause her to duplicate it." The gentleman, after some hesitation, agreed, remarking, "I'll do it, but when I get home I will expect some lively hair-pulling."

Water Drinking.

A certain amount of water is necessary to carry on the functions of the animal economy. During the season of active perspiration, the quantity is considerable.

When shall this water be taken into the system? It may be introduced during the day, when thirst requires; but it is a capital practice to introduce a quantity on first rising in the morning, and on going to bed at night. Thousands of dyspeptics have derived signal relief by drinking one, two, or three tumblers of water on rising in the morning, and on going to bed at night. I have sometimes thought, on hearing the testimony of these dyspeptics in regard to the influence of cold water thus taken into the stomach, that, perhaps, of all baths, this is best.

The number of persons suffering from heart-burn or water-brash is very large. In a ladies' seminary I asked how many suffered more or less with heart-burn, and more than half the hands went up. It is a very common affection, and is the introduction to graver forms of indigestion. It should not be treated with either indifference or alkalies, but by the observance of the following suggestions. Avoid soups; drink nothing at your meals; say "No, thank you," to the pie and cake, and go without your supper.—Dr. Dio Lewis, in Golden Rule.

Horse Fun.

Carlyle told me a story of two horses, illustrative of the sense of humor in animals. I cannot date it either by day or year, and therefore I give it in a note. They had a vicious old sow, who was the tyrant and the terror of the farmyard. One day Carlyle was smoking his pipe outside his front door, when he heard shrieks of rage and agony combined from the back of the house. He went around to see what was the matter. A deep drain had been opened across the yard, the bottom of which was stiff clay. Into this, by some unlucky curiosity, the sow had been tempted to descend, and being there, found a difficulty in getting out. The horses were loose. The pony saw the opportunity—the sow was struggling to extricate herself. The pony stood over her, and at each effort cuffed her back again with a stroke of the fore hoof. The sow was screaming more from fury than pain. Larry (the horse) stood by watching the performance and smiling approval, nodding his head every time that the beast was knocked back into the clay, with (as Carlyle declared) the most obvious and exquisite perception of the nature of the situation.—Froude.

Origin of Native Gold.

Professor J. S. Newberry has presented some strong points of facts and argument against the theory that the grains and nuggets of gold found in placers are formed by precipitations from chemical solutions. He holds, in a paper he has published on the subject, that geology teaches in regard to the genesis and distribution of gold, that exists in the oldest known rocks, and has been thence distributed through all strata derived from them; that, in the metamorphosis of these derived rocks it has been concentrated into segregated quartz by some process not yet understood; that it is a constituent of fissure veins of all geological ages, where it has been deposited from hot chemical solutions, which have reached deeply-buried rocks of various kinds, gathering from them gold, has been accumulated through mechanical agencies in placer deposits by the erosion of strata containing auriferous veins.—Nevada City Transcript.

THERE are a great many people planning about going to see Guiteau hanged and excursions are talked of to Washington on that occasion. But all those who are anxious to see the notorious criminal on his last appearance in public will be disappointed. The laws of the District of Columbia are very stringent about executions, and only the officers of the law, the jury who convicted the prisoner, the clergyman and a limited number of the representatives of the press are allowed to be present.

JAMES WATSON WEBB is 81, and smokes incessantly, and has for sixty years, say tobacco advocates. Peter Cooper is 91, cry the anti-tobacco people, and uses neither tobacco nor liquor, and his diet is chiefly oatmeal. To offset which, the opposition cite Thurlow Weed at 84 and his Santa Cruz rum-drinking habit. This "example" business proves nothing except "exceptions."

THE sanitary journals are quite agreed that the old-fashioned fireplace is one of the best means of ventilation of dwellings. As the decorative art craze demands the introduction of the fireplace, it is probable that for once fashion and sense will combine for the good of indoor dwellers.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

JAMES E. PARKER.

IN the debris decision after a lengthy consideration of the case brought in Sacramento against the hydraulic miners, the Court finds: First—Plaintiff's action is not barred by statute of limitations; second—Defendant has acquired no right to use beds of the American or Sacramento rivers as places of deposit for mining tailings. Third—The act of the defendant constitutes a public nuisance and obstructs the free use of the rivers by a considerable number of citizens of the State. Fourth—Mining customs and usages authorized by the statutes and by decisions of courts are local and not intended to have any effect beyond the mining of bar diggings or districts. Fifth—The mining laws and customs as practiced are not intended to and cannot protect defendant in the acts complained of. Sixth—The plaintiff is enttled to a decree restraining the defendant from dumping tailings into the American river, or any of its tributaries. A decree follows the opinion and makes the injunction perpetual against the defendant, subject to this condition: That defendant may at any time apply to this court to have the decree modified or vacated, and whenever, upon such showing, it shall appear that sufficient means have been provided to impound it, then defendant shall be entitled to have the decree set aside.

IT looks as if Congress will remain in session until the 1st of July at least. Four regular appropriation bills are still to be acted on, and the internal revenue bill remains to be considered. Over a dozen amendments to the bill extending the charters of national banks made by the Senate require consideration by the House. With this prospect before Congress, and the three or four thousand general bills to be disposed of, it certainly looks doubtful about getting the Camp Independence matters acted upon in any shape, either as to allowing the old settlers to procure land titles or as to the proposed donation for school benefits. Viewed from the people's standpoint political demagogy by their representatives (?) in Congress is becoming outrageous. The time is not far distant when there will be a general and very efficient kick throughout the United States against the whole political works.

THE Inyo County delegates to the Democratic State Convention go with no shadow of a doubt as to their credentials or ability, and are also entirely uninstructed or pledged. Both are well acquainted with State politics—sufficiently so, we hope, to put up their votes for Gen. Stoneman for Governor, as against the Hearst outfit. What the State needs is some brains in the Executive's position, more independence and freedom from control of capital and the giant monopolies, and not a creature of mere wealth. Money is handy to have in the household, but it is a foul corruption in politics.

THE present number completes the twelfth year of the publication of THE INYO INDEPENDENT. There are hardly more than half a dozen older papers now published in the State, and certainly none that have been issued with more unceasing regularity than has this since its first issue on July 9th, 1870. As it is customary to refer to such matters—and as it is especially apropos in the present hard times—we may state that every patron indebted to the institution will receive a statement of account, and that each and all of them must be settled.

INYO COUNTY has decided not to celebrate on the Fourth. That county exhausted itself on the 17th of March.—Free Press.

Cleve, of the Free Press, bids fair to attain a reputation for truth and veracity equal to Anderson, of the Eureka Leader. The facts are that the Seventeenth of Ireland passed by without special note, while two out of our four valley towns are already preparing to honor the ga-lorious Fourth. Bodie is respectfully invited.

THE deepest mine in the world, according to Prof. H. Hoefer, of the Academie Imperiale des Mines, is the Pribrand silver mine in Bohemia. The lowest depth is nearly 3300 feet below the surface. At this depth the temperature of the rocks is only 75.90 degrees F.; and the temperature of the air, according to the same authority, is 76.3 degrees F.; so that up to the present only natural ventilation has been required.

THE averarge Republican majority on the State ticket in Oregon is 1,800. George will not have less than 3,300 in the State—the largest majority ever given a candidate. Moody, for Governor, will have about 1,000 less. Republicans will have the Legislature by a certain majority of ten, which may be increased to thirteen.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

Early last April the workingmen in the iron and steel works at Pittsburg, Chicago, Cincinnati and other prominent points submitted to their employers a revision of the scale of wages to take effect upon the first of June. The manufacturers rejected the proposed scale, informing their men that the advance in wages which they demanded would increase the cost of producing iron to such a degree that there would be no appreciable profit in the business. So the matter rested for a time, the operatives remaining immovable in their demand for increased pay and the employers resolutely declining to make any concessions. At length the operatives submitted a modified scale whose chief feature was a demand for an advance of 50 cents a ton for puddling. This being refused by the munufacturers, the workmen fell back upon the original scale and it was announced that if it was not acceeded to they would strike on the first of June. The scale was not acceeded to, so the men made good their threat. The result is one of the largest strikes that has ever taken place in this country. It is roughly estimated that some 150,000 men are in it. The puddlers of every rolling mill in Cincinnati have quit work, and all but two of the mills have shut down. At Pittsburg the fires in every iron mill except one have put out. A similar state of things is reported at Chicago and Youngstown, and other iron centres. We regard it as the outcome of anything but wisdom. These 150,000 men who to-day are idle cannot afford to turn aside from work for an indefinate period. Many of them have saved up something for a rainy day, but their little savings will disappear while they stand out for higher wages, which in the end they may not get. It is announced that some $300,000 is in the treasury of the strikers. That is a good deal of money, but it will not last long when 150,000 men come to depend upon it for support. The Pacific Mill strikers began with plenty of money of their own, and large amounts were sent to them from sympathizers in various parts of the country. And still it was not many weeks before they had reached the end of their supplies and had exhausted the benefactions of their friends.

AN Eastern correspondent says that D. O. Mills, the President of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad Company, has added $10,000,000 to his wealth since his residence in New York. In that city he ranks with the Vanderbilts, Goulds, Astors, and that class of plutocrats. He is now estimated to be worth $50,000,000, all of which he made himself by good management and extraordinary judgment. This correspondent adds that the possessor of this vast fortune does much good with his revenue in his quiet and unostentatious way. He possesses the exterior of an unenthusiastic person, but his heart can easily be enlisted in charitable matters of the genuine ring, always with the provision that no newspaper publicity should be given to his acts. The subject of the foregoing sketch, which is taken from an exchange, is the financial head and front of the Virginia and Truckee and the Carson and Colorado railroads, the latter of which is now steadily approaching this region.

AN attempt was made lately to hold a meeting of the Veterans Home Association, in San Francisco, but it was found impossible to get a quorum together. The amount of enthusiasm displayed about the time the "hat" was being passed around, when compared with the present lukewarmness, is very suggestive. A considerable sum of money has been raised, and it should be promptly applied to the use for which it was collected. It is not necessary to wait until some grand plan can be carried out. Unless haste is made there will be no veterans left to occupy the Home. Hurry up the business.

CAPTAIN SPARKS, who became notorious as the Captain of the ship Gatherer, has just been appointed to the command of the ship James Nesmith, bound for Maine. The crew at first rebelled against going with him, but were talked over. Among the crew are two of the men who were witnesses against him in his trial for cruelty on the ship Gatherer.

A LONDON telegram says that Davitt, in his speech at Liverpool, stated that he was in favor of the land becoming national property. He considered that the soil of Ireland should be purchased for the tenants for £140,000,000 in Government bonds, re-payable in fifty years. He denounced the Dublin Castle rule as a monstrous failure.

THE Call says that a communication has been received by the County Clerk of San Francisco from the International Electric Light Company, of Rochester, stating that it intends to transmit electricity from Niagara Falls to San Francisco, and asking that a company be formed to distribute it.

SILVER COINAGE.

A persistent charge has been made by the monometalist, that every effort of those laboring for a restoration of silver to its legitimate place in the currency of nations, which it has occupied unquestioned and undisturbed for centuries, is a demand that the Government shall be compelled to buy silver bullion at an advance on its real value for the benefit of the silver miner. This false charge has been urged unti it is thread-bare, and yet it is the first argument to appear in a discussion for equity and justice in regard to the silver question. A few facts may show in the clearest light the absurdity of such statements and the true inwardness of the matter. A gold miner with bullion that will make $10,000 in coin can present his bullion, and the United States will coin it for him free, and give him $10,000 in gold coin. A silver miner with bullion to coin into $10,000 in silver can not sell it to the Government at any price, but is forced to sell on the market at a discount for about $8,600, a loss of $1,400. The Government then buys this silver for about $9,000, turns it into coin and sells it back to the people for $10,000. It is against such outrages upon the silver mining interests of the country that we protest and demand justice. The following may show how the Government is not compelled to purchase silver for the benefit of the silver miners, and in considering the question of profits it may be well to inquire who loses in the transaction, the Government or the miner?

William Shearer of the Sub-Treasury at New York has reported to the Treasury Department on the result "of an examination of the silver profit fund account" of the several coinage Mints; and has also submitted statements of the silver bullion and silver coinage accounts for the fiscal years 1879, 1880 and 1881, from which it appears that the total amount placed to the credit of the silver profit fund during the period covered by the investigation was $10,081,496 31, of which amount $9,776,020 20 has been deposited in the United States Treasury.

THE bill recently introduced by Senator Chilcott of Colorado provides that, when an adverse claim is filed, the parties so contesting the patent shall, in case they fail to sustain their claim by proof, be liable to the applicant for the patent or the grantees for the bill of expenses of the damages which shall be incurred by or result from the filing of such a protest or objection. The object of the bill is to prevent annoyances and actual blackmail against applicants for patents. In many cases parties having no shadow of title to a mining claim will file an adverse claim in order to be bought off and paid for not bothering the owners any longer. This is done so frequently in mining regions, and is snch a source of annoyance to owners of property, that the bill is of true public benefit, and ought to pass. It has the approval of Secretary Teller, as well as Senator Hill, Chairman of the Committee on Mines and Mining, to which committee it was referred. An amendment will be added, requiring parties filing adverse claims to give security for costs.

AT a late meeting of the California Academy of Science, a large piece of mineral from the Elko soap mine was exhibited, and it was explained that an analysis of the mineral proved it to be an essentially aluminum magnesium silicate. An extraordinary property of soapstone is that it becomes of a geletinous character upon the addition of water, and while it swells by such application, no amount of water can dissolve it. Professor Hilgard had discovered the mineral in Mississippi, and ascribed the fertility of the land to the water-absorbing quality of the soapstone, in turn to be abstracted by the plant. In the manufacture of soap the mineral also makes a ready combination with water, and, unlike talc, leaves no precipitate, or at least an inconsiderable one of only 5 per cent.

THE latest sensation in the celebrated Malley murder trial at New Haven, Conn., is the testimony of a young housemaid of the family. The girl is only 13 years old, yet she gave her recollection of what happened at the Malley mansion on the fatal Friday night when Jennie Cramer met her death. Her story was full of minute details, and the singular feature of it was that the lawyers were unable to confuse her on cross-examination or to break the force of her recital. Her story established a strong alibi for one of the most remarkable features of a trial which bids fair to be almost without a parallel in this country.

IT is now said to be a positive fact that Hon. R. Pacheco is seeking a renomination as Congressman from this district, and that his friends and supporters in this county are already beginning to pull the wires and shape matters to the end that he may secure the nomination in the Congressional Convention.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says that in reply to a resolution recently introduced in the Senate by Senator Plumb, asking for information with regard to the management of the Government Printing Office, Rounds, the Public Printer, has addressed a communication to Vice President Davis covering the ground of the inquiry. Among the questions asked was whether the prosecution of the business of said office was in any wise dependent upon the action of any organization existing inside or outside said office. Rounds replies that the prosecution of the business of the Government Printing Office, working now, as it has been for many years past, in accord with the Typographical and Book Binders' Unions, is dependent upon the action of these organizations, in so far that if on refusal of the Public Printer to abide by any or all rules and regulations a general strike of the workmen in the office was ordered it would make necessary the stoppage of the Government printing until the office could be supplied with non-union workmen. In the opinion of the Public Printer to supply the Government Printing Office with so large a number of skilled workmen, to do so great an amount and so high a grade of work, from among the number of non-union men would involve serious loss of time, and for such time would necessarily lower the standard of the work done in the Government Printing Office. At any and all times, should any serious difficulty or difference arise between the Public Printer and the Union, the Public Printer, holding the interest under his charge and the laws of Congress paramount to all other considerations, would sustain them without regard to the laws and regulations of any or all trade organizrtions and as Congress might direct.

AT San Beruardino, on the 8th instant occurred a tragedy where J. Taylor and J. A. Patterson, partners in the Burning Moscow mine, of Calico District, figured. They had just left Starkie's Hotel, where they had been at breakfast, and were crossing C street, at the corner of Third, when a difference of opinion arose between them about their mine. As it is supposed, Peterson charged some unfairness, and a few words passed, when Taylor drew a pistol and commenced shooting at Peterson, who was unarmed. Peterson exclaimed: "Don't shoot, John." But Taylor fired three shots in rapid succession, all taking effect in Peterson's body. A Mr. Hartman, who was standing near them, attempted to take the pistol from Taylor, when he fired at Hartman, the ball passing through his coat at the waist and cutting a button off his vest, but with no further damage. He then ran a few steps, and placing the pistol to his own breast fired, the ball taking effect in his left breast, and one inch from the nipple. A doctor was called, but in about ten minutes Peterson was dead, and Taylor died in a few hours after. There is considerable mystery attached to the affair, the two men having been the best of friends.

THE Reno Gazette offers some really good and sound advice to its readers as follows: "Let us encourage the development of every little atom of wealth in sight. Let more gardens be planted. Let more families keep a cow. Let the housewife get a few chickens and watch for fresh eggs. Let the children pull weeds and pick up chips instead of roaming the streets. Let us save on our drinks, study our business closer, play a few less billiards, talk less politics, cut our own wood, as our forefathers used to do, save all we can and get out of debt."

THE Pacific railroads are making an effort to prevent the passage in the House of the bill which passed the Senate compelling the payment of State taxes on lands granted to the roads. They have heretofore only obtained patents for their lands when a bargain is made to sell them to settlers, thus avoiding millions of dollars taxes. The bill compels the payment of taxes on all lands granted them, whether there is a prospect of a sale or not.

She and her sister will spend the entire summer in America visiting the Pacific coast and the Eastern watering places. Mrs. Mackay will spend $300,000 at Long Branch.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JUNE 17 1882

THEIR MOVEMENTS.—After a stay of some ten days at Panamint, Hon. Jos. Wasson left there on Monday of last week. He will make a short stay at Visalia and other points in ths foothills of the other side of the Sierra, and then go to San Francisco. He is, we are most sorry to say, in quite feeble health, suffering from an affection of the heart. This fact alone interferred with his proposed visit to this part of the county, and he goes below to seek medical aid. George M. Pinney, the widely known General Manager of the company, accompained by Supt. T. B. Pheby, was to leave Darwin yesterday, en route with a lot of bullion to the Bay. After a week or so Mr. Pinnny will go ts New York, when Supt. Pheby will return to his work at Panamint.

BEVERIDGE.—The Taylor & McEvoy mill closed down on Monday last for a clean up. The mill for the past month has run on half time only, owing to some necessary dead work being done in the Keynot mine. Two accidents have happened to the machinery at the mill, which delayed work several days during the month. The result of the clean up was $12,000 in gold. The ore crushed milled $60 per ton, which is a good showing. The Keynot mine is now in good shape for taking out ore. The men working by the day have been discharged, and the work of extracting ore has been contracted for at so much per ton. There will be a largely increased production of ore during the coming month, and the mill will start up again in a few days.

COUNTY SCHOOL FUND.—Following is the apportionment of County School moneys, made on the 14th instant, by Supt. Symmes, to the several districts, based on the average of general attendance last year:

DIST.	APP'T.
Bishop Creek	$27 80
Big Pine	10 77
Darwin	4 21
Irving	10 22
Independence	22 81
Lone Pine	17 41
Milton	15 77
Round Valley	11 60
Union	3 97
Total amount	$124 56

AT LONE PINE.—By the announcement elsewhere it will be noted that the new Lone Pine fire company, ("Lone Pine Hose No. 1,") has taken the initiation in arranging for the observance of the coming Fourth of July. The Lone Pine boys have justly gained a high reputation for the successful conduct of such affairs. Besides, at the outset of their most commendable enterprise in organizing to protect property and homes from fire, they should receive a very substantial benefit—at the ball and at the preceding entertainment so kindly volunteered by Mrs. Sara Stevens Heenan.

HAIWAI.—Horace Bellows has been in town for several days. Elsewhere will be seen his notice offering the old Bellows & Badger property for sale. Mr. Bellows was among the first party of prospectors coming into this country, and for more than twenty years has been identified with the mines and the valley. He proposes now to return to Humboldt County, Iowa.

RETARDED.—Work at the Ward mill has been retarded by the storms of the past week. Snow fell 16 inches deep at that point, and also copious rains, which made outdoor work anything but pleasant. The mill is now about ready to run, and the boys are only waiting the arrival of quicksilver to start up on the old Kearsarge tailings, which are said to be very rich.

AT WORK.—Dick Glenn and Geo. Floyd are working a rich gold ledge, situated about a mile from the New Coso station, in the range of mountains generally referred to as "Old Coso." Judging from the ore specimens at hand, and a description of the extent of the ledge as already opened out, the boys have made a genuine strike.

INYO CON. M. & M. CO.—The special clean up of the big mill at Panamint was to have been completed on the 15th. With the bullion already shipped, on hand and yet to be melted, the proceeds of the last run will aggregate 40 bars, from 900 to 1,000 ounces each, of a total value of from $38,000 to $40,000.

IN TOWN.—Charley McEvoy came in on Thursday from Beveridge, with a smiling countenance, and a pocket full of rich gold specimens. Charley is the "boss" on working gold ores, and it is owing to the skillful handling of the Beveridge ores in the Taylor & McEvoy mill that has made that district a success.

TO START UP.—The Hawley mill, at Owens Lake, will start up on Monday next for a protracted run, about 600 tons of ore being now on hand. The mill has been standing idle for a couple of weeks owing to the burning of the boat, Bessie Brady, and the consequent cutting off of the wood supply.

KEARSARGE DISTRICT.—The shaft in Kearsarge tunnel has been sunk 30 feet, and the vein of ore struck a short time ago has steadily increased in width as depth has been attained. The outlook is very encouraging now for a bonanza in the Kearsarge mine.

MODOCK.—After a few days stoppage on account of the breaking of water pipes, the Modock furnace fired up again and is running steadily, making a fine output of bullion.

ANNIVERSARY.—A hundred and seven years ago to-day folks had a merry old racket on Bunker Hill. We havn't seen any one lately who was there.

DARWIN.—Supt. Gorman has on hand at the Defiance furnace about 500 tons of ore, with corresponding supplies of wood and coal. A start will be made about next Wednesday for a long run. The Defiance mine, which, through Mr. Gorman's courtesy, we had the pleasure of visiting, is looking remarkably well throughout. At every point where the eight or ten miners were working they were breaking down ore. The chloriding method of mining has been abandoned, and some very important work of improving and developing the mine is on the tapis; for instance, the main incline is to be straightened at the present downward turn and continued deeper at the same angle of the dip of the ledge, which will carry it straight into the lower workings and present bodies of ore. From appearances now the main ore shutes are contained in the second or back ledge, at the greatest depth reached, which fact upsets the idea of theorists in the early stages of the opening of the mine, when a deep working shaft was advocated in the country rock to the east. As now shown, that shaft would be like sinking an enormously expensive hole in the ground simply for the sake of driving a tunnel from the bottom three times as long. The old Defiance is evidently in good hands, and is destined to play a most important part in reviving Darwin up to its former standpoint of life, business and productive importance.

PERSONAL MENTION. — Postmaster Hardy returned to his duties last week, relieving John B. White. The latter has taken a general clerkship in the Waterman and Eddy store and the postoffice at Darwin, where he in turn relieves J. T. Thompson, who has gone to operate with the new "Bonanza King" company in Slate Range.... Superior Judge Hannah and County Clerk Crough set out last Tuesday on their mission of representing the unwashed Democracy of Inyo at the great pow-wow at San Jose.... On the following day Mr. Nathan Rhine started for San Francisco by the Northern route ....Geo. M. and W. J. C. Gill were in town a day or two, and took a look at the Densmore mining property across the river....A. R. Conklin and O. I. Mairs have returned from their ttrip to Saline and the Laura mine and mill in Beveridge District.....Mr. Chas. E. Sherman, a prominent mining and business man of Havilah, arrived by the southern stage last night....Major J. R. Kemp, of San Francisco, arrived by the northern route, bent on mining business....Mrs. I. P. Yaney, of Bishop, left for home this morning, after a most pleasant visit to relatives and friends here.

CURIOUS SUBSTANCE.—The Independence cabinet has been favored by Morton George with several specimens which he brought from a place designated as the "Devil's Mush Bowl," at Casa Diablo Springs, in Mono County. As the nomenclature would indicate, it's an infernal place generally. Well, the substance is found a hundred yards or so from the boiling springs, and consists of the impalpable particles of clay or kaolin, which, from the evaporation of the water, has formed into beds. It is cut easily with a knife as castile soap, looks like the variegated article, feels like it and apparently possesses the same cleansing properties. Some of it will be submitted to Prof. Hanks for analytical examination, but it is apparent that by some simple process of drying, pulverizing and washing it, the stuff would make the finest of polishing powder for gold and silver ware, if no other use were found for it.

INDIANS.—Panamint's only complete family, all being present, consists of an Indian buck, his mahala and several muchachos. We are not apprised as to which particular tribe of aborigines the outfit belong to—some describe them as renegades from unknown regions. However, they are there, and the Indian gets in his regular work around the mill. The latest male addition to the family has been formally christened Joe Wasson, while an elder one is destined to pass the remainder of his unfortunate days under the cognomen of Bill Johnson. It is evidently a case demanding the attention of Eastern missionary and bible societies.

NEW MAIL ROUTE.—We hear that a contract has been let for carrying the U. S. mail three times a week from Darwin to Panamint, to the contractor, Pease. This is something immensely needed in that country, but the whole present plan is egregiously wrong. For instance, our valley mails should come direct from Mojave, and that of Borax Lake, Panamint and Darwin be supplied by a separate line connecting say at Indian Wells. Perhaps by the time the new contractors will (or will not) take the work in hand next month there may be some material changes for the better made in the programme.

THE CELEBRATION.—Bishop Creek takes the lead in the way of a celebration of the coming Fourth of July, the regular exercises to be followed with lots of fun. The programme, with names of the officers of the day, etc., is published this week. Further particulars and reference will be given in the next issue.

IN DETAIL.—In next week's INDEPENDENT will be given in detail and in extenso our recent observations of the Panamint country, the mines and the great mill. Parties wishing extra copies should send in orders not later than next Wednesday night.

JEWELER.—Fred Burkhardt has established himself in the well-known old stand, so long conducted by his father, at Lone Pine. Fred is a thoroughly competent and conscientious worker, and should have the patronage of all this part of the county.

THE BLANEY.—The Blaney House advertisement, under its new and popular management, appears elsewhere this week. Let the general public "make a note on't."

CHANGE OF WEATHER.—After the cold and stormy weather of last week to-day feels uncomfortably warm.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—This body met this 17th day of June, 1882, in special session pursuant to published notice. Present, Daniel Crough, P. A. Chalfant, Supt. J. W. Symmes, ex-officio Secretary, and A. R. Conklin, President. The adoption of a text-book on book-keeping being the principal business in hand, bids for supplying the same were opened and duly considered. Duff's "Common School Book-Keeping" was the work formally adopted as such text-book. An application for renewal of teacher's certificate, second grade, was received from J. Viola McKay. It not being a regular session of the Board, no action could be taken upon business of that character. A resolution was adopted, recommending and authorizing the use of Stickney's (blank) series of Child's "Book of Languages" in all the schools throughout the county. Board then adjourned to the regular term in September.

THE TROUT.—Great number of trout are being caught now-a-days by our amateur fishermen. One particular fish was taken yesterday, by Jerry Mairs, which was certainly the boss sardine for a brook trout. It measured 17 inches in length, about 4 in width and weighed over two pounds.

REX MONTIS.—Supt. Holt's operations on the Rex Montis seemingly inexhaustible store of tailings has been stopped for the present by the late wet weather. When they dry out work will go on again.

FOUND.—Mr. Jacob Vagt, of Camp Independence, informs us that he found at the pic-nic grounds a baby's small gold pin, which the owner is requested to call for.

PROF. W. FRANK STEWART, the noted scientist and writer, died recently at Boston, aged 59 years. He was ex-State Geologist of Nevada and State Senator, was a man of the highest attainments, and of such a genial and kindly nature that the thousands all over the Coast who knew him will feel a bitter pang of regret at the news of his death. The Pioneers of Californiu and Nevada should provide a last resting place and a monument for his remains on the Coast which he loved best.

A Pioneer Gone.

Speaking about the late James M. Meredith, who died in Aurora last week, the Herald says: "James M. Meredith crossed the plains the first time in 1849, arriving at Sacramento. He spent two years in the neighborhood of Sacramento gardening, and then returned to his home in Pennsylvania. In 1852 he again came overland. In 1854 Mr. Meredith went to Sonora, Tuolumne county, California. There he was City Marshal, and held other positions of trust and honor. From Sonora he went to Oak Flat and went into the employ of the Golden Rock Water Company, Albert Mack, Superintendent. In 1860 Mr. Meredith went to the Mono placer diggings, near Bridgeport, and engaged in mining. He came to Aurora the same year and remained here until 1864. In this year he took his much talked of trip through the lower part of California. In 1866 he returned to Aurora and took charge of the Postoffice here, and entered into the mercantile business with O. Kimball. He continued in the Postoffice and store until 1877, when he resigned the position of Postmaster, and Kimball & Meredith sold the store to Booker & Dunlap, and retired from active business. In 1876 he accompanied Mrs. Albert Mack, Mrs. Piessnecker and Miss Meyers to the Centennial Exhibition. J. M. Meredith was until the past few years an active man and took great interest in the welfare of the communities in which he lived. He was a member of the California Society of Pioneers."

THE Bishop Creek Times has suspended publication for lack of support. The young gentlemen who started the Times were full of energy and enthusiasm, but neither energy, enthusiasm nor anything else will make a newspaper succeed in a limited field already well filled. Inyo county has always had a good local paper in THE INDEPENDENT, and that one paper is all that the business of the county will support. More papers may possibly start in Inyo, but every one of them will die from the same causes as the Times has done unless there is a wonderful increase in the volume of business in the county.—Bodie Free Press.

HON. P. REDDY came up from Aurora Tuesday evening, where he is engaged on the case of Guyltoyle vs. the Indian Queen Mining Company. All last week was consumed in taking the testimony of the plaintiff. The defense commenced its testimony Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Wm. Wetherill, the locator of the Indian Queen, was on the stand. It is thought the case will be completed by the end of the present week.—Bodie Free Press.

A NEW time table has been issued by the Carson and Colorado railroad company. The new freight train will be a great convenience to all who wish to make a quick trip between here and Belleville. It also allows for a three hours' stay at Soda Springs, when leaving on this train and returning on the regular passenger. — Candelaria True Fissure.

YOUNG man, if you had one and two-third tons of gold coin, you would be worth just a million dollars. Every little piece of gold you get hold of throw into the junk pile until you accumulate that weight. You can sell it and become a rich man.

RAILS are now being laid on the road from Mojave station towards the Needles at the rate of three-quarters of a mile a day. The track is completed about twenty-five miles.—Los Angeles Express.

A CINCINNATI lady disguised herself as a book agent and made twenty-six calls at different offices. She says she had no idea that old, gray-headed men could tell such sweet lies and be so deceiving.

IF.

If men cared less for wealth and fame,
And less for battle-fields and glory;
If writ in human hearts, a name
Seemed better than a song and story;
If men, instead of nursing Pride,
Would learn to hate and abhor it;
If more relied on Love to guide,
The world would be the better for it.

If men dealt less in stocks and lands,
And more in bonds and deeds fraternal;
If Love's work had more willing hands
To link this world to the supernal;
If man stored up Love's oil and wine,
And on bruised human hearts would pour it.
If "yours" and "mine" would once combine,
The world would be the better for it.

If more would act the play of Life,
And fewer spoil it in rehearsal;
If Bigotry would sheathe its knife,
Till good became more universal,
If Custom, gray with ages grown,
Had fewer blind men to adorn it;
If talent shown for Truth alone,
The world would be the better for it.

If men were wise in little things,
Affecting less in all their dealings;
If hearts had fewer rusted strings,
To isolate their kindly feelings;
If men, when Wrong beats down the Right,
Would strike together and restore it
If Right made Might in every fight,
The world would be the better for it.

A NEW YORK correspondent states that in the more common streets of New York land is worth from $250,000 to $350,000 an acre. In the best part of Broadway its value is increased to $2,000,000 per acre; but in the vicinity of Wall street its value is immensely increased, because this locality is the money heart of America. The land on which the Drexel building stands cost its present owners at the rate of $14,000,000 per acre. It occupies the corner of Wall and Broad streets, which may be considered the most valuable on this continent; and yet, when I was a Broad-street clerk in 1850, this very place was occupied by a hat store. The corresponding value of property in this neighborhood has been illustrated by the recent sale of the corner of Broad street and Exchange place, which was at the rate of $15,000,000 per acre. Hence, the Drexel lot was none too dear. In fact, these dazzling figures are justified by the immensity of the transactions which occur here daily. Almost all the railroads on the continent, except New England, are managed within 300 feet of this spot, and the general pressure of our immense financial system gives it a value which a few years ago could not have been dreamed of.—Ex.

AT the Union depot the other day an old man who had borrowed a match then a chew of tobacco, then a postage stamp, and lastly besought the loan of a key to open his old satchel, came back the fifth time and said to the stranger whom he had most annoyed:

"My friend, can you tell how many times the human heart beats?"

"No, sir!"

"Don't you know whether the pulse should beat 70 or 700 times a minute?"

"No, I don't. All I know about the human system is the fact that if you bother me two seconds longer I shall exert a pressure of 5,000 pounds in the endeavor to raise you about six feet from the floor!"

"Just so, just so," growled the man as he slided off; "but don't try to pass that off on me for physical science. That's nothing but what any hoss could do!"

LOUISE CHANDLER MOULTON writes that people in good society are at liberty to eat fish with a knife as well as a fork, and that a special silver fish knife is now provided at all recherche dinners. This will put many a one at ease, and permit him to carve his mouth if he wishes— fashion having so decreed. Perhaps a shovel will be recognized as the right sort of thing.

A BOY who had always refused to eat oat-meal, in spite of his mother's urgings that it was a strengthening diet, suddenly surprised her one morning by eating a liberal plateful and calling for more. Upon his mother asking for an explanation, he replied: "I am bound to eat oat-meal till I am strong enough to whip Johnny Scott."

THE great apostle of the esthetes was asked the other day which of all the numerals he thought the most truly beautiful and serenely lovely. "Why, four, to be sure," he replied with an air of inexpressible languor. "And why?" asked his fair questioner. "Because it's two two's." And that was all he said that day.

Jeannette Reminiscences.

Before leaving the Fifth Avenue Hotel Lieutenant Danenhower took from his trunk a valuable trinket in the shape of a beautiful boatswain's whistle of very chaste design, which, with chain and pendant, is of pure gold, and the property of the old man Jack Cole. His name is engraved on one side; that of the yacht Dauntless on the other. It was given him in 1875, while boatswain of that yacht. It was carried all through the expedition, retreat and journey through Siberia. Poor Jack, whose mind had weakened, gave the whistle away repeatedly, until the Lieutenant, who had as often regained possession of it, took it from him. He will now place it in the hands of Mr. Bennett to keep for Cole. Mr. Bennett relates that Jack once rescued him when he had fallen into the sea from a yard-arm while crossing the Atlantic.

I asked Lieutenant Danenhower about the story of Noros and Linderman eating pieces of their breeches, with pieces from the soles of their moccasins. He said the trousers were of scraped sealskin, the hair being removed. They would toast the skin to a crisp and could then masticate it. They would also eat fish bones—blue, mouldy fish, found in deserted huts—and willow bark dissolved in warm water. One of Lieutenant Danenhower's duties this morning was to surrender to Secretary Chandler the gun of Lieutenant De Long, which was found buried in the hut. By the overturning of a sled the stock was broken before it came into the care of the Lieutenant. At the request of the Department he has written to Mrs. De Long to know if the piece shall be put in complete order before sending it to her, or in the condition as it came from the front.—Washington Letter.

Reducing Ore in Mexico.

In Mexico only the richer varieties of ores are smelted, the greater portion, of course, being worked by the process, while in some few of the districts barrel amalgamation is extensively resorted to. The ores which are smelted are, in some places, in heaps, which is done by surrounding the mineral, broken into large pieces, with a layer of charcoal, retained in place by an open wall of rough stones built in a circular form. The holes in this wall admit of the passage of the necessary amount of air, and the smelting is completed in the course of twenty-four hours, with an expenditure of charcoal amounting to one-half the weight of ores operated on. At . . . the ores are roasted in circular kilns four feet six inches in diameter and of about the same height. These are formed of a bottom wall of adobe or sun-dried bricks, and are without roof, the walls being so constructed that the area of the openings is nearly equal to that of the brickwork between them. Into each of these kilns are charged 2,000 pounds of roughly-broken ore, intermixed with one-half its weight of dry wood. The operation requires a week for its completion, but this method of roasting can only be employed during the dry season.

THE Boston Economist says: In no better way could the Government confer a real benefit upon its citizens than offering a reward for important discoveries in the treatment and working of minerals, with which the country is so bountifully supplied. An appropriation should be made to encourage experiments and discoveries in the metallurgical processes. The matter is one of national interest and importance. Leaving a Government reward out of consideration, the man who shall find a means of cheaply and thoroughly working all kinds of base ores containing gold will soon have all the millions he can count.

"BRONCO" writes to the Yuba Sentinel that if a person be bitten by a rattlesnake, as quickly as possible cover the wound with baking powder and renew every twenty minutes. It will be found a certain remedy. The baking powder soon becomes matted with a greenish fluid.

The Story of a Small Girl.

Railway cars are full of incidents, and some are worth recording. A little girl was placed on board the Union Pacific sleeper at Ogden, and, when the train started, she was left alone in a seat. She was about nine years of age, very modest and well-bred, and neatly attired. Her woolen dress of navy blue fell only to her knee, and each passenger noted her exquisite calf and dainty little foot, the latter encased in a new shoe. Every person whose eye fell on that innocent little leg stopped to look again. When the train pulled out the little thing began to cry, and the passengers crowded about to console her. It was soon learned that she was bound for a little town—Monmouth, I think—in Illinois, and expected to join her grandmother. Her father, she said, treated her badly, and her mother had shipped her away from Salt Lake alone. A number of Boston tourists were in the car, and they covered the child with sympathy and attention. Presently the conductor asked her for a sleeping-car ticket. She had none. "Have to go in the other car, miss.". The child's eyes filled with tears, and there was a dead silence in the car; the Boston capitalists became suddenly absorbed in their newspapers. "Come, travel on," said the conductor. The child burst into tears, and the Boston people became more and more absorbed in their papers and magazines. Just as the child reached for her little sack and rose to go, a man in the next seat, who had before taken no notice of her, turned and purchased a section for her. Boston was very prolific of sympathy and attention, but fell lamentably short on the money proposition.

SOME extensive shipments of young shad and herring were recently made by the Fish Commission from Washington. One million shad and two million herring were sent to Austin, Texas, where they were placed in the Colorado river; three hundred thousand shad to Farmville, Va., to stock the waters of the Appomattox; three hundred thousand to South Carolina; three hundred thousand to the Rappahannock river; and three hundred thousand to the Upper Potomac, at Harper's Ferry. The young fish were transported in closed tin pails, each holding from twenty thousand to twenty-five thousand fish. The Quantico fishery—which has just been discontinued, the shad having moved further up the river—netted alone over three million shad and sixty million herring. The Fish Hawk, the Government vessel stationed at Quantico, under the command of Captain Tanner, goes to the Susquehanna fishery, just below Havre de Grace. Up to the present time there have been shipped this year and deposited about six million shad. The work of the entire season will probably embrace the distribution of nearly eighty million shad and countless millions of herring.

A NEW YORK writer is much concerned to know why Guiteau's brain is to be dissected. "If it is to prove that he was sane and deserved to hang, what more will that decide than the verdict and sentence of court? If it is to prove that the brain is diseased, and that the wretch did not deserve hanging because of his insanity, of what benefit will the conclusion be to the then defunct Guiteau? The conclusion drawn is that the act will be merely characteristic of the enthusiasm of modern science. It is proposed, therefore, that science hereafter deals altogether with questions where the plea of insanity sets up the doubt. Instead of summoning witnesses to protract a trial, let the brain of the prisoner be dissected at once. If it shows evidence of disease, his defense is established; in case it does not make a showing favorable to his interests, let the culprit be hung."

The National Treasury is plethoric with money, which has suggested to the Congressional mind that now is the time to get appropriations for public buildings. The claims put in are numerous, and the allowances made unusually liberal. Fifteen bills authorizing new buildings have passed both Houses and been signed by the President. Two others have passed, and at latest dates awaited the Executive signature. Three passed the House, which are yet to be acted upon by the Senate, and a good many more have been favorably reported upon by committees. These are the kind of bills upon which trading is done. An accommodating spirit between the members of Congress enables each to get what he desires.

RECENTLY, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, a new locomotive built for fast travel, with huge driving-wheels measuring seven feet in diameter, drew a train of cars from the Broad-street station, Philadelphia, to the Jersey City ferry, opposite New York—a distance of ninety miles—in eighty minutes, being the fastest time ever made on that route. This shows that we are progressing, and that in the near future we shall make a mile a minute the regular rate for those who wish to travel fast and are willing to pay for the luxury. Within a year, no doubt, the time between Philadelphia and New York will be reduced to ninety minutes.

THE preliminary surveys for the proposed reclamation of the Zuyder Zee have been finished, and the work of building the walls will soon begin. A dike about 24½ miles in length will be constructed of sand and faced with clay, reaching 16 feet above the level of the sea, which will make it about 6½ feet feet above the highest tide. The thickness of the dike will be such as will enable it to resist the heaviest seas. Operations will begin at four different points, and the calculation is to have it completed in from seven to ten years, at a cost of $46,000,000.

A Theater for Los Angeles.

R. Nadeau, a well-known citizen, makes known his plans for building a splendid theater for Los Angeles, to be located on the southwest corner of Spring and First streets. It will be 120 feet front by 165 feet deep, and will be built after the best modern plans, three stories high, with basement. The first story will contain eight stores, the second story will contain the auditorium, with a seating capacity of 1500. This part will also contain suites of offices on the two street fronts.

A REPORT of the Chemist of the Agricultural Department was recently published by the San Diego Union, which relates to a subject of the greatest importance to that city. Dr. Ghiselin sent to the department some specimens of coal that had been taken from an old mine near Point Loma. The analysis showed that the coal possessed great richness. It has been known since 1856 that coal beds existed in the vicinity of San Diego. The Mormons at that time made this valuable discovery, and spent three years in sinking shafts. Just as they were completing preparations to mine the coal, Brigham Young called all the Mormons to Salt Lake City to resist a threatened attack on the city by the Government. Since the departure of the Mormons the coal deposits have been neglected and apparently forgotten. The public attention has been again called to these beds of untold wealth, and there remains now only the organization of a company to open up mines that will be of incalculable value to San Diego.

MASONRY has had some hard fights in the Empire State and in the metropolis, but it has fought down the opposition to it and stands out to-day as the most powerful and perhaps the most benevolent and unselfish of all the secret orders. The roll of its membership contains the names of 75,000 men in this State alone, men belonging to all classes in society, to all creeds, to all parties. It is unsectarian and unpolitical. There was a time when the organization was regarded with distrust and suspicion, but its good deeds, in war and in peace, in civic duty and in benevolent endeavor, have in a great measure dissipated the clouds of ignorance and prejudice and assigned to Masonry its true position as one of the great forces of civilization, with a record and a history antedating almost civilization itself.—New York Herald.

THIS year the West Point Military Academy turned out thirty seven graduates. These young men having been educated at the expense of the Government are in honor bound to serve it when the necessity requires. In these "piping times of peace" it is difficult to find places for the graduates. General Sherman, in his remarks to the class, suggested that the frontier was a proper place for the development of the military talent of its members. There seems now to be no other field in which to employ them. The experience acquired there will be useful to them, if they should ever be called upon to display their valor in a wider scene of operations.

THE Government having no use for cast-off war material, is making a distribution of it to the Grand Army of the Republic Posts and other military organizations in the several States. This war material consists of cannon and cannon balls, which are placed around the monuments erected to commemorate the deeds of the Federal heroes of the war, and on the cemetery lots set aside for the burial of the departed and departing veterans of that war. Improved inventions in ordnance have consigned these grim mementoes to the rubbish pile, and they could not be better disposed of than in the manner adopted.

A CURIOUS experiment, according to the Paris newspapers, has recently been made with wine in that city. A current of electricity was passed through a small cask of sour wine, and at the end of a few days the wine was found to be greatly improved in quality and to have acquired that flavor which has hitherto been supposed to have come of age. It is said that the discovery of this new maturing process is owing to the accident of a thunderstorm having greatly improved a cask of bad wine in the cellar of a vintner at Carcassonne.

WE LEARN from the Denver Republican that the Exposition promises to be more important than was anticipated by its projectors. That paper says every Western Territory and State is making preparations to be represented in a creditable manner, and that over $100,000 will be expended by Colorado alone to make the Exposition successful. The inhabitants of the Black Hills region are taking special interest in its success, and intend making an attractive display. By the same authority we are informed that California will be a prominent exhibitor.—S. F. Call.

ON the 19th instant, says the Carson Appeal, the Carson and Colorado Railroad will put on another train between Candelaria and Hawthorne. It will do the work of hauling the ore from Candelaria to Belleville, and such other work as may be necessary over that section of the road.

TRACKLAYING on the Nevada and Oregon Railroad is progressing at the rate of half a mile a day, employing about twenty men. The road is to be 400 miles in length, and will intersect the Columbia river at or near The Dalles.

THE Government's bill against the English steamer Straithairly, for violation of the navigation laws, amounts to $22,580.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

VOLUME XIII.

The present number of THE INYO INDEPENDENT starts out its thirteenth year and volume. In twelve years past the paper has chronicled many a change, up and down, in business aspects of the county and personal affairs of its readers. Yet, out of the original two hundred subscribers to the pioneer paper not one of those now living in the county have ceased to be among its patrons. We have had occassional local wars and all that sort of thing, but the fact remains and it is a most gratifying one. This number commences with an additional circulation of nearly one hundred, and we have good reasons to anticipate a steady gain right along.

THE Reno Gazette congratulates its people that the reduction of ores at that place promises to become a great and leading industry. The ores will come in chiefly by the Carson and Colorado road. Inyo, it is calculated, will send vast quantities of base ores for reduction.—Sacramento Union.

Inyo does not calculate to ship her ores to Reno. The necessary capital will soon be forthcoming to erect works at some central point in this valley for the express purpose of reducing these base ores here at home and save the cost of transportation to Reno or any other point. Nature has placed every requisite here to facilitate the cheap reduction of ores. We have a rich agricultural valley. Our enterprising ranchers furnish us with all the products of the farm at comparatively low prices. The Owens river will furnish an unlimited supply of water, and the summits of the Inyo range are covered with immense forests of piñon wood, which makes the best of fuel for steam and also the best of charcoal for smelting purposes. Ores can be reduced much cheaper here than at Reno, and we see no reason why they should be shipped away for reduction when the Owens River Valley offers advantages that cannot be found in any other mining district in the State of California or Nevada.

A WASHINGTON dispatch of June 19th states that "the reports of Prof. S. P. Langley, Director of Pittsburg Observatory, and Chief of the Meteorological Observatory at Mount Whitney, will be published in book form by the Government. It is some few years since request has been made. It is altogether probable that Mount Whitney will be set apart by the President as a reservation for scientific purposes. In this event it is proposed to establish an elevated observatory, like that supported by the Italian Government on Mount Ætna. Mount Whitney rises to a height of fifteen thousand feet above the sea level, in a dry almost rainless region, and it said to be the highest point upon the Pacific Slope." The forgoing is, altogether, gratifying information for this county.

IF the books are right and reports correct the interest-bearing portion of the United States indebtedness is less than $1,500,000,000. The rate it has reduced the last year, if continued, will extinguish it entirely in less than ten years. Without a debt there might be a chance for the nation to get back to economy. With a world of taxes public officials are in their glory, while extravagance in expenditures is the rule. Under the shadow of a national debt the people are always made to pay for the fun of the politicians or those who manipulate and control public affairs. Let's pay off the debt and get back to honesty.

LOCOMOTIVES on some Russian railroads are heated by crude naptha, placed in the tender just as it comes from the well. The vessels on the Caspian Sea are also heated by this liquid combustible, which costs about half as much as coal.

THE Democratic State Convention, up to the latest reports received had only succeeded in effecting a temporary organization, with John Boggs as Chairmain, appointment of committee on credentials and on platform. It is hard to guess who the nominees may be.

THE proprietors of the late Bishop Creek Times are duly entitled to credit for their action in sending THE INDEPENDENT to fill out their list of unexpired subscribtions. Their readers have our best greeting.

THE latest reports place the loss of life by the tornado at Grinnell and Malcom, Ia., at over fifty, the number of injured at 150 and the loss of property at $750,000.

THE EFFECTS OF THE RAILWAY.

The benefits of a railroad are concisely presented in the following note which a correspondent sends to the Tucson Star. The writer says: "The Sonora Railroad Company has built at Hermosillo a splendid depot of wood, with nicely-painted, cool and airy offices. Lots in that city that were not worth fencing, situated in the vicinity of this depot, are held in some cases up to $10,000, and all have assumed a market value." This is the effect already produced at Hermosillo, although the road has only so far given an outlet to Guaymas. By the close of the present year a connection will be made with the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad in Southern Arizona, establishing an outlet eastward and a connection with the great system of roads on the Atlantic side of the continent. Sonora is rich in mines and its agricultural and horticultural possibilities are by no means insignificant. That is known abroad, and it seems that the inflowing Yankee population and the shrill whistle of the locomotive are waking up the drowsy natives. The writer, speaking further of Hermosillo, which is the leading city of Sonora, says: "Streets are planted with orange trees. The water works company is building a reservoir on Marble Mountain to supply the city with pure well water. The new State University, to be built in the Alameda, will be a fine structure, situated as it will be among orange groves and tropical fruits, with most beautiful shade trees and fine bathing in the large ditchss of running water." The wealth that has been locked up in Sonora so long is now to be speedily thrown open by the railroad—the great civilizer, which subdues the savage more rapidly than an army, and arouses into activity a sluggish nation that has been slumbering for ages amidst earthquakes and volcanoes.

JOHN P. IRISH.

The gentleman whose name heads this paragraph is a leading Democrat of Iowa, and is editor of the State Press, published at Iowa City. He paid this State a visit a few weeks since, and looked it over with his eyes open; and has given the result of his observations in the columns of his paper. He has been impartial and just, and has spoken truthfully of the State, its prospects and condition. His letters have been composed of practical ideas, clothed in chaste and clear language. He met the representative men of the State while here, and, in conversation with them, based many of his conclusions in regard to the Coast. His letters are of a character to be beneficial to California, and the kind and generous manner in which he treats the interests of this Coast will never be forgotten.

We extract the foregoing well-deserved compliment from the San Francisco Spirit of the Times. The subject of the notice was the first newspaper companion of this scribe, and a man of notable ability and acquirements. Lest there be erroneous impressions formed about the matter, however, we may just as well state that Mr. Irish's success and prominence is not entirely due to the fact that in early days the undersigned was his associate and co-worker—as an office boy, principally, while Irish run the brain mill. We would have been glad to have shown him some of the mines, deserts and charming oases of California east of the Sierras.

IT WAS thought singular that a couple of American war ships should appear in Egyptian waters, and they were sneered at as supposed intermeddlers with affairs which did not concern them. How they came to be there we are not informed, but presumably by instructions from the Naval Department. The non-interference policy of our Government affords surety that they had no intention of participating in warlike proceedings. It seems, however, that they are enabled to serve a good purpose in receiving on board refugees from the massacres of foreigners which have been going on in Alexandria. As yet it is not made entirely clear why these sanguinary outbreaks occur, nor who foments them. The presumption is that they are begotten from a jealousy of English and French intervention in Egyptian politics. However this may be, the situation is such that there is no means at present of fixing the responsibility. If this should be done, with an assurance that the Khedive countenances the disorders, the foreign fleets in the harbor of Alexandria would not be slow in opening their guns upon the city. Between the Sultan and Arabi Bey, the Khedive seems to be in doubt as to the tenure of his reign, and is helpless to restore order if he were so inclined. It is not likely that England and France will permit this anarchy to continue much longer. In the meantime it is gratifying to know that our two American ships are in a position to offer succor to those whose lives are in danger.

MICHAEL DAVITT denies that his plan for the nationalization of land is a departure from the principles of the Land League.

AFRICAN slavery is to be abolished in Cuba. Chinese slavery is being rapidly established in the United States.

THE UTAH COMMISSION is composed of three Republicans and two Democrats. Ex-Senators Ramsey of Minnesota and Paddock of Nebraska are well known to the public by reason of the national positions they have occupied. G. F. Godfrey of Iowa is a Republican and a lawyer. He entered the army as a Lieutenant in the Twentieth Regiment of Iowa Infantry, and rose to be Colonel of the Eighth Alabama Cavalry. At the close of the war he engaged in the practice of law at Des Moines, Iowa, where for several years he held the position of Receiver of Public Moneys, and subsequently served for several terms as Assistant District Attorney. He is about 42 years of age, and is regarded as a man of marked ability. Ambrose B. Carleton of Terre Haute, Indiana, is a lawyer by profession and a Democrat in politics. He was formerly a law partner of Senator Voorhees, and at various times has been a member of the Indiana Legislature, a Circuit Judge, and a Professor of Law in the State University. He is about 56 years old, and is said to enjoy a high reputation for legal ability and literary attainments. James R. Pettigrew of Fayetteville, Arkansas, has been a member of the Legislature of that State, and is now Journal Clerk of the Senate. His appointment to a place on the Commission has been strongly recommended by Garland and other Western members of the Senate. He is a man of middle age, a lawyer and a Democrat. The Pacific Coast people in Washington were somewhat surprised at not seeing the name of ex-Governor Irwin of California among the nominees for the Commission. It had been very generally understood that the President had requested Senator Farley to name a Democrat, and that he had named Irwin.

THAT the planets are inhabited is now settled, for the Deseret News, of Salt Lake City, Mormon organ, says its church has the advantage of science—it has knowledge directly given by revelation from the source of all true intelligence, and it is to the effect that the celestial worlds "are inhabited—millions of them. They form the abode of the offspring of Deity. Birthplaces, probation planets, prison-houses, spirit spheres, paradises, gehennas, homes for the resurrected, glorified suns for perfected and celestialized intelligences; all moving in their respective orbits, governed by fixed laws adapted to their condition and that of their inhabitants. And the earth is but a tiny speck of dust in the whirling cloud of worlds."

ACCORDING to a correspondent the impression prevails in Washington that the Chinese Government does not intend to accept the action of our Government in reference to the exclusion of her subjects for the next ten years without an emphatic protest. It is already known that the Government regards the provisions of the bill recently passed as a direct violation of the treaty existing between the two nations. While a protest will undoubtedly be made, it is not believed in official circles that China will go to the extent of abrogating the treaty, but will, after expressing forcibly her belief that the treaty has been violated, quietly accept the proposition.

COUNTERFEITING is getting to be a highly respectable business in this country. The Treasury officials treat a bond forger with the greatest deference and respect, and if, by accident, he is arrested, the most influential people in the country endeavor to secure his release. In the Brockway-Smith case Secretary Folger even goes so far as to apologize to the counterfeiters and assure them that their arrest was not at the instance of the Government, but was entirely the work of outside parties.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says that the Postoffice Committee will probably report in favor of a postal card with flexible flap to conceal the message, to take the place of the present card. If this card is adopted we may look for the death or resignation of all the Postmistresses in the country. The chief consolation of a twelve-dollar-a-year Postmisiress is that she has the run of the postal cards passing through her office.

RAILROAD connection, the Prescott Courier thinks, will shortly make that place the largest town between California and Texas. Northern Arizona is by far the better portion of the Territory. It is not only a rich mining region, but has large forests of excellent timber, a considerable area of tillable lands, and a vast stretch of country covered with rich grasses and well supplied with water, which make it one of the best grazing sections on the Coast.

Two tanks containing 65,000 barrels of petroleum were set on fire by lightning near Olean, N. Y., June 19.

THE total product of gold in the United States for 1881 was $34,900,000; silver, $43,000,000.

THE mail service between Chicago and New York is to be expedited in twelve hours.

THE REASON WHY—A CARD.

"In the midst of life we are in debt," remarked a philosopher. And the Bishop Creek Times was not an exception to the rule. Therefore, when our supply of blank paper became exhausted, and our creditors refused to extend further "courtesies," the only alternative was to close up shop. For this reason subscribers to the Times have failed to receive their paper since June 3d. Several of the business men of Bishop Creek contributed liberally to the support of their local paper, but there were too many of that class who never assist public enterprises of any kind. However, Inyo county at present has need of but one good newspaper, and that she now has. Brother Parker, imbued with the spirit of true journalistic courtesy, has come to our rescue, and will send THE INYO INDEPENDENT to all our subscribers for the time which they have paid in advance. Those now taking THE INDEPENDENT will be credited with an amount equal to that overpaid on the Times.

JULIAN & DAVIS.

FOR the benefit of those who are not posted regarding the coming election, we will say that the State Convention will nominate a Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Controller, Attorney General, Treasurer, Surveyor General, Superintendent of Public Instruction, two Justices of the Supreme Court (to take the places of Sharpstein and Ross, whose terms soon expire), and a Clerk of the Supreme Court. There will be six Congressmen, four to be nominated by the delegates from the Congressional Districts and two by the full Convention, because the State has not been re-districted since California became entitled to two more Congressmen, as the result of the last national census. Then we elect three Railroad Commissioners and a State Board of Equalization. Each Congressional District constitutes a district for the nomination of a member of the Board. But the Railroad Commissioner districts are three. Twenty-seven counties north and east of San Francisco form the First District. The Second District consists of only three counties—Marin, San Francisco and San Mateo. The Third District contains twenty-two counties, to the south and east of San Francisco. Every county in the State under the new Constitution will elect county officers, except San Francisco, and it is yet to be decided whether such an election is to be held there or not.

THE astronomers who went to Egypt to witness the total eclipse of the sun last month describe the fright of the natives when the mysterious darkness crept over the land and the sun seemed to have been extinguished in the heavens. There went up a shout of wonder and horror from the crowd collected along the banks of the Nile and around the observing station of the astronomers as the last gleam of sunlight disappeared. The excitement of the natives was increased when they saw on the right of the hidden sun the form of a flaming cimeter. It was a new comet, whose existence had not been suspected before. It had been concealed in the sun's rays and the sudden withdrawal of the light of the great luminary revealed its hiding place. Such is the constitution of the human mind that probably a thousand astronomers would be unable to convince the ignorant dwellers along the Nile that the sword-shaped comet was not an omen of the warlike events that have since taken place in Egypt.

GOVERNOR TRITLE of Arizona is consulting with the President and the War Department in relation to the Arizona troubles and other matters bearing upon his office. He says the Contingent Fund of the Territory is only $500, which is insufficient, and the Governor has no house, and not even a desk. When Governor Fremont went out of office there was not even a blank, and he had to call on Governor Sheldon of New Mexico for blanks in order to conduct the business of his office. He also says that there is no one willing to accept the District Attorneyship for the Territory, and it is a most difficult matter to find a suitable United States Marshal. He proposes to reconstruct things there and put a quietus on the troubles which have existed there for the past two months.

THE Director of the Belgian Meteorological Bureau has discovered a system for transmitting telegrams and telephonic messages simultaneously along the same wire. The French Minister of Posts and Telegraphs has received in Paris from Brussels, simultaneously, a telegram of 53 and a telephonic dispatch of 119 words. The practical advantages of this invention are estimated by the French and Belgian Governments as of the utmost importance.

THE British steamer Escambia was lost with every person on board, near Point Lobos, on the 19th instant. She was out-going, and overloaded with wheat and coal.

AN extensive conflagration resulting in the destruction of one of the large warehouses of the Central Pacific Railroad, at the old Long Wharf, Oakland, the burning of the bark Great Western and a large section of the wharf, and great damage to other shipping moored alongside it, occurred shortly after midnight of Monday.

Yours Truly.
SEVEN UP.

PERSONAL.—Mr. C. A. Sherman and Mr. S. D. Thurston have gone to Kern county....Mr. I. P. Yaney, Jr., is in town to-day. He expects to get off for Arizona shortly....Mr. V. G. Thompson returned from the northern country the other day. He reports railroad building to be progressing rapidly as possible. The main C. & C. road has rails laid to within three miles of the summit, and that the heavy work will soon be over. The work of connecting the Bodie and Mono Lake road with the C. & C. line is being crowded along.... "Pap" Walker, the venerable Mayor of Olancha, was among the arrivals this morning.

BORAX.—Some thirteen of Al. Robinson's packmules are engaged in packing out from the western edge of Death Valley to Wild Rose, on the eastern side of Panamint Vallley. He has arranged to bring out 45 tons per month. The material is in a crude state, but is said to be of a very high grade, and will be sent to San Francisco in the form in which it is found. We do not know the name of the company or owners, except that My. Harmon is their acting agent. It is not, however, the Coleman company.

THE LAURA.—Judge Conklin and O. I. Mairs returned last week from a trip to the new Laura mill at Saline. They report that the machinery works to a charm, and that the only preliminaries necessary to starting it up is putting in an amalgating plate, which was to arrive at Bishop last night, and the building of a few feet of trail around a rocky point. The county can congratulate itself upon having gained a new gold producer, in the Laura mine and mill.

VIRGINIA CON.—Mr. E. Chenot, in in charge of the Virginia Consolidated mines on Kearsarge Hill, says that a portion of his company are in favor of resuming work, but that the majority propose to wait developments of other companies and the advent of the railroad. They can afford to do as they please, all the mines being under U. S. patents.

THE ENTERTAINMENT.—See the card elsewhere announcing the grand entertainment to be given on the evening of July 3d, at Lone Pine, for the benefit of the new Hose Company. There will doubtless be a large attendance. Parties going from here should not fail to get there a day ahead, so as not to miss this rare treat.

THE ASSESSMENT. — Assessor Irwin has about completed his work, save some minor statements and statistics to be filled out—and will be ready to surrender his books, completed, to the Auditor on the 1st Monday in July. We believe the assessment roll will foot up as much, if not more, than last year.

THE GAMBETTA.—Supt. Wingard has for the present suspended work on the Gambetta, near the old Green Monster, across the river. He expects to go over to Deep Springs on some mining work, and will in the meanwhile let a contract for a 100-foot tunnel on the Drummer Boy mine.

WHY?—Why don't the gentlemen at Panamint who contracted to pack up and send along that box of specimens do it? Get at it, forthwith, immediately, or if not, then a little sooner.

CALLED MEETING.—There will be a called meeting of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., at the Hall to-night, for work in the third degree.

EXTRAS. — Parties desiriing extra copies of this number are requested to call to-day, to-morrow or Monday.

A CHANGE.—The saloon firm of Montano & Dornalceh, at Lone Pine, has been dissolved. See notice.

SNOW'S CAÑON.—The Snow Cañon mill started up on the 18th, on a lot of about 500 tons of fine gold ore.

THE FOURTH.—Only a week from Tuesday till the Fourth. Who all are going to Bishop to celebrate?

OLD PANAMINT.

Its Rich Mines and the Big Mill—New Companies and New Management.

SOMEWHAT HISTORICAL.

Although not in Inyo during the flush days of Panamint, and never having until a week or so ago visited the district, the writer might from reminiscences and material at hand employ a few columns of type in relating some interesting general facts regarding the rise and fall of Panamint. It is generally accredited that the mines of Panamint range were discovered from force of circumstances—altogether too common on this Coast in the days of '72 and '73. As is well known to Inyoites, the range has a general north and south trend, is upwards of 100 miles in length and about 15 in width. Telescope, a peak 10,800 feet in hight, is the dome, on the western slope of which are situate the mines. These mountains divide Panamint and Death Valleys, which vast expanses of intensely hot and forbidding deserts are at and below sea level. But the mountains rise to a hight to sponge the clouds of rain and moisture sufficient to support a dense growth of piñon and cedar, and supply springs and mountain streams. This rugged but pleasant region, unapproachable except through desert dangers, was unknown to officers of the law, and it is said became a safe resort for road agents and robbers. Probably from their acquaintance with silver bullion they knew where such material was obtained from; they found the mines and leaked out the facts to the early prospectors who are accredited with their discovery. February 1, 1873, R. P. Stewart (the reputed discoverer), R. C. Jacobs and W. L. Kennedy called a miners' meeting to be held on the following 10th, at which meeting district mining laws were adopted, Bob Stewart being elected Recorder. He was succeeded by Dave Neagle, Jno. M. Murphy and others. The present Recorder is Bob Mitchell, W. R. Johnson, Deputy. When the excitement broke out the noted Surprise Valley Mill, Mining and Water Company turned loose their millions. The leading personages were a mixed assemblage of high and low degree, associating promiscuously—it being hard to tell where the United States Senator left off and the stage robber began. They had twelve regular officers, with salaries ranging from $25,000 per annum—that of Senator Stewart, as General Manager—down to the $10 per day chiefs of departments. Senator Jones, represented by his brother Henry A., bought ground right and left, at any figure asked, and built

SURFACE WORKS

Overshadowing and monopolizing in extent and character. We had expected to meet with a fine twenty stamp mill, but in their great extent the works surpassed all idea. Commencing at the foot of the wire rope tramway—which reaches one-half mile up the mountain to the Wyoming mine, and carries 30 buckets conveying 90 lbs. of ore each—we step into the ore house, 40x40 feet square. The ore is broken in the largest Blake crusher made, and passes to the dry kiln, 40x16 feet in dimensions. Here it is thoroughly heated and mixed with 10 per cent. of salt and about 7½ per cent. of ore containing sulphuret of iron. The battery floor is 40x8 feet, and the space below 40x20. The pan floor is 90x40, containing ten pans. The floor fitted with five 9-foot settlers is 90x12, and the concentrator floor—100x20—is fitted with ten of these machines. The melting, retorting room and assay offices are 80x20. The Stetefeldt furnace room is 80x80; the engine room 60x20, and the boiler room 60x60 feet. All these are graduated as to elevation so that it seems like climbing down the mountain to get at the bottom. Four boilers and a splendid 200-horse power Corliss engine propels the whole. The dry crushed ore is carried from the battery screens by means of a spiral propeller to an elevator which lifts it to the top of the immense stack of brick known as the Stetefeldt furnace, from whence it is screened down through the fiery blasts and through interminable windings and flues, rendering it ready for amalgamation. This furnace alone cost $75,000, and the entire mill plant $385,000. The foundations are laid in massive cut granite and solid brick. Further description of the mill and processes employed is unnecessary to home readers, and so omitted. The other buildings acquired by and belonging to the Inyo Con. Company are a warehouse of cut granite, fire proof, 75x75 feet; a store 65x24; office and residence 65x40; original rock-breaker concern 50x40; dwelling 18x70; boarding house 70x24; blacksmith shop 50x36; carpenter shop 24x16, all aside from the tanks, powder house, stable and sheds. These points are merely referred to to show the lavish expenditure of early days, but the results of which inure to the advantage of the present operators. In the wear and tear of the immense machinery some considerable and very necessary repairs have to be made, in a thousand little details which will cost money, but all of the heavy material necessary is on hand out of the great surplus left by the wild extravagance of the Senator-millionaires. It is true that in this big mill

THE PRESENT MANAGEMENT

Have an unwieldy elephant on hand compared to what might be done with a ten stamper and a simple White & Howell roaster. But, instead of employing 30 men on a day and night shift as formerly, Supt. Pheby uses only 16, and by accumulating a big pile of ore before beginning a run crowds it through at a comparatively small expense.

THE SILVER OUTPUT

Of Panamint up to date may be approximated only. In the first place, a rock breaker propelled by a fine upright engine was put in place. A large quantity of ore was run through, assorted and the best of it shipped half way round the world to Swansea for reduction. There is at present no getting at what this amounted to, nor are there any figures at hand as to what the several ad interim lessees of the property or the Leota outfit produced. The same lack of statistics appears in the case of the Jacobs mill, which run awhile and was finally removed to Snow's Cañon. The old company's work at the mill yielded 55 bars of silver, weighing 259,042 ounces, of a fineness of .946 and then worth $341,537 26. In addition, custom ores were reduced which yielded $25,180 57. February 8, last year, Tom Pheby went into the old camp with a cash capital of $5, which he managed to loan to a prospector going into Death Valley. However, Pheby (after dissolving partnership with Charley Anthony) got Mr. Geo. M. Pinney—who was a former investor in Panamint and who is too well known to need introduction—interested in the trouble, and the result was the organization of the present Inyo Con. M. & M. Co. The company's total bullion product up to March 31st last was $69,427 29. The last run, commencing May 1 and closing June 5, in addition to this, amounted to 40 bars, weighing from 900 to 1,000 ounces each, about .860 fine, will increase the amount by about $38,000. The stockholders of Inyo Con., on a basis of 100,000 shares, have received seven dividends, aggregating $45,000, or a matter of fifteen per cent. on their investment. We did not note the article, but understand that the San Francisco Alta recently took some exceptions to our statements regarding this property. That paper was right in correcting us (or rather our informant) as to the value per ton of the ore then being extracted, which was considerably overestimated; but that journal had not the slightest truthful ground for discouraging the stockholders of the company. They own the stock and have none to sell, at any rate. The

COMPANY OFFICERS

Are as follows: H. A. Gildersleeve, Judge N. Y. Court of General Sessions, President; N. G. Farman, Secretary, and J. M. Cooper, W. T. Brown, Jas. A. Pritchard, H. A. Gildersleeve and Geo. M. Pinney, Trustees. The office is at 58 Broadway, and the stockholders are capitalists who believe in Panamint. It is gratifying to find some parts of the enormous mineral interests of Inyo county which are appreciated. In this connection, we may state that it will redound greatly to the ultimate benefit and reputation of this country if the present Inyo Con. directory would pass one of their regular dividends and devote the money to repairing mill machinery and doing some absolutely necessary dead work on the company's mines. This advice may not be appreciated, but our interest lies in having Inyo produce some permanent, well-founded and dividend-paying properties. Returning to the

BULLION BUSINESS

Reminds one of a story which Jno. P. Jones used to relate with great zest, about the time he shouldered the work of building the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad, in opposition to the C. P. magnates and under the stupid indifference of Los Angeles generally. He prefaced the narrative with a statement that when he bought up the whole country from the robbers an agreement was entered into that they would protect and guarantee the safety of bullion in transitu. The arrangement was a happy precaution, but when the silver was turned out it was made in solid cubes of 400 pounds each. It will be observed that these could not be carried in one's vest pocket, and the implied suspicion and unjust imputation upon the natural honesty of the natives was too much. They kicked forthwith, and foreswore any further confidential relations whatever. A later addition to the gang took some satisfaction in cleaning out the safe of Harris & Rhine's store, in broad daylight, the incident and the actors of the play being too well remembered to repeat here.

With the expenditure of about $2,000,000 the old company erected the reduction works, company offices, warehouse and stores, laid the water pipes and built the cañon road and the best mountain trails in the world. These lead all and around about to

THE MINES,

Which by their steady productiveness are leading up to a regular resurrection of the District. We have experienced some mines (at a considerable cost, by the way) and have looked over numerous districts, but do not profess much geological lore. However much it has been descanted upon, certainly Surprise Cañon is a wondrous study and mystification to all. A writer says: "One can only compare it with a chart of the moon, and conceive that such must have been the aspect of the whole of our earth in its earliest state." The cañon, from its mouth to the summit of the range presents a succession of sedimentary, and metamorphic rocks, disturbed and transformed by a series of eruptive rocks at intervals. The

MINERAL BELT

Surrounding the town, which is located within a mile of the summit, at an altitude of 6,000 feet, extends from west to east two and a half and from north to south about five miles. The mines are in the form of fissure veins which crosscut the limestone dykes and strike into the slate, the more important portions of the ledges, however, as a rule, being confined to the lime rock, and generally close to the contact. The veins vary in width from two to twenty feet, and no doubt they will be found as deep as the sedimentary capping of lime and slate over the granite is thick, whether 500 or 2,000 feet. The general course or strike of the veins is NE. by SW., and the dip NW. Except in the last year or so of Capt. Messic's administration, the old company paid vastly more attention to surface works than deep mining, so that none of the veins are opened more than from two to four hundred feet from the surface, generally less. After following down the veins they are all well adapted for cheap working by means of tunnels, either in the form of drifts on the line of the fissure or by cross-cuts and drifts, winzes, etc. Some wild work was done on the Wyoming. At the lowest point an incline 250 feet deep was sunk in the country rock for no other apparent reason than to follow down a singular crevice or split. It is from two inches to as many feet in width, and is a singularly interesting fact. Miners say there is no bottom to it, and that the air draft from it compelled the use of lanterns instead of candles while working. In the greatest depth now being worked (about 200 feet) by the present company the ore chute is opened a length of forty feet, with a continuous three-foot vein overhead, below and on the ends. The Hemlock openings show on top a vast fissure where a pile of money has been taken out. At 250 feet the original company ran drifts a distance of 750 feet exactly on the foot wall of the ledge, in barren matter, never once cross-cutting. This work has now been done in three or four places, and ore found in solid masses from one to three feet thick on the hanging wall. It is certainly a magnificent showing, and occasions wonder why this wealth was not opened out before. It will be necessary to run a 60-foot tunnel to tap this, which will materially reduce the expense of extracting the ore. In the Ida mine the ore is not, as in all the others looked at, entirely confined to the gangue within the walls of the vein; nevertheless, some $75,000 has been extracted from its rich ore. The mine shows splendid ore at all points, and is being opened 60 feet lower by a tunnel running along the vein. The mines are in a well-defined system of parallel fissures, the strong croppings being traceable for long distances. These fissures not only traverse the limestone, but continue through the slate. Late work in the Wall Street, formerly the Jacob's Wonder, extends four or five hundred feet into the argillacious slate. The Independence and Eureka mines are very rich and easily worked.

THE ORE

Of all the mines of the district, except some of those situated in the extreme southern part of the mineral belt, where an increase of galena is noticeable, belong to one class—have the same general appearance and vary but slightly in their proportions of the constituent minerals. It is generally described in the German schools as fahlore, which is simply sulphids of antimony and copper, containining silver. We might quote a long list of assays from the books of the mill office, but suffice it to say that every pound of rock from the company mines worked will average a little over $100 to the ton, which is "good enough." Some lots from the chloriders have gone much higher; in fact, nearly the whole of the last month's run of the mill was on $200 ore. It is a hard, compact quartz, formed in laminated layers parallel with the walls. In blasting it out the fine particles made have to be saved. In the Sunrise mine, only, a part of the quartz is spongy, containing crystals. In the Surprise, we found silver-glance, chlorides and native silver. A valuable collection of specimens will shortly be placed in the Independence cabinet, for inspection by all those who may wish to examine it.

There are of course numerous mines outside of the company's properties, which bear the same general description and are without doubt just as good. We had no opportunity of inspecting but three of them, of which mention will be made hereafter. The Inyo Con. Company do everything in their power to encourage chloriding, and will buy all ores from $50 up. Their charge for working is uniformly $30 per ton, with a guarantee of 80 per cent. return. Considering the great expense necessarily attached to roasting and milling the rebellious ore, and the enormous capital invested in the works, the rates are most reasonable. In assaying lots of ore, the samples are taken as often as anybody wants, one for the mill, one for the miner, and third to be sealed and go anywhere to any reliable assay office, to confirm the others. We are constrained to say that if the outside mine-owners would get in some heavy and continuous work they can make money enough in the district to satisfy reasonable men. The works will be got ready to resume reduction of ores about the first of August. After the completion of the certain dead work referred to, there is no question of doubt but that old Panamint will put forth a

STEADY STREAM OF BULLION.

We might prefer that the benefit thereof should accrue to a California corporation, but Pinney's pluck and hard, common-sense management entitle the New Yorkers to the cake, as compared to the inalert San Francisco capitalists and operators. Though offering the best of inducements to solid, hard-working chloriders, Panamint is and will be essentially a "one-company" camp. There is yet no occasion for anyone to rush in there. In time, when the splendid old road which was destroyed by a water spout last Fourth of July, shall have been repaired; when the incoming Carson and Colorado Railroad shall have attained its nearest approach to that country, then that and surrounding districts will justify a hugely increased population.

Besides the Inyo Con. a new corporation has been organized in New York by Mr. Pinney and friends, known as the RICHMOND MINING AND MILLING CO.

Its capital stock is $500,000, in 100,000 shares of a par value of $5 each—same as the Inyo Con. The stockholders will have the vast advantage of not having to invest capital in a new "plant" of mill, roads, water-rights, etc., etc., as their ores can be easily handled at the present works. The company's mines consist of the Wall Street, which in the flush days sold for $150,000. The ledge has a powerful outcrop for 1,500 feet, ranging from two feet to twenty in width. A shaft 150 feet deep went down all in ore, which assays on the average $80 per ton. The Richmond, formerly the Hudson River mine, has a principal vein eight feet thick. The ore has milled $75 per ton, and there is a large amount in sight. It is in fact, one of the leading properties in the whole district. The old Clara mine, called the Sunrise by the Richmond folks, is a well defined vein from seven up to twenty feet wide. In Prof. Stetefeldt's report to the Government he claims the ore at $100 per ton.

Having "experienced" the old Camp, we shall be able to speak of Panamint more intelligently hereafter; and the agent of this paper at that point has agreed to furnish information regularly as to progress of affairs in future.

THE BROWN MONSTER.—It may be of interest to prospectors and mine owners to know that they can now get ore worked at the old Eclipse mill, with a square deal and on the most liberal terms. Turn yourselves loose on the ore bodies and get out grub money.

READY TO RUN.—The reconstructed Pioneer mill, Kearsarge District, is receiving tailings and is ready to begin work. We should not be surprised if the old tailings alone yielded $10,000, saying nothing of the custom ore to be worked.

THE FOURTH.—At this late date the boys are organizing for the Fourth, intending to fire the customary national salutes and then close the day with a grand ball at the Court House. Particulars next week.

The Case Closed.

The closing arguments in the case of Patrick Guilfoyle vs. The Indian Queen Mining and Milling Company were made yesterday and the case submitted to the Court. This case has occupied the almost undivided attention of the Court for the past two weeks, and its termination winds up the business for this term. We understand that before rendering judgment Judge Seawell will in person visit the Indian Queen mine and satisfy himself as to certain points concerning the issue in which a doubt now exists.—Aurora Herald, June 17.

"BAD FOR MINING SURVEYORS," the Territorial Enterprise heads a Washington dispatch. The dispatch is to the effect that Secretary Teller has declined to abrogate his decision prohibiting United States Deputy Mineral Surveyors from acting as agents or attorneys for mineral claimants in whose interest they may have made patent surveys. So far from being "bad for surveyors," the ruling is most just and beneficial, as it confines the surveyor to his legitimate professional work and materially reduces the expense of procuring patents. It has been too often the practice for the surveyor to undertake to procure a patent for a round sum, he procuring and paying for the necessary evidence of location, continuous ownership and necessary work done. Now this evidence must be procured by the parties interested, and thus the surveyor is made an entirely disinterested party, his work terminating when his survey is approved and numbered by the Surveyor General, and the balance of the papers, which are strictly notarial business, can be prepared before any notary public or other officer qualified to take affidavits. The cost of a patent under this ruling should not exceed from $165 to $180 for a claim 1,500 by 600 feet.—Eureka Leader.

THE oldest deed in America is said to be in the possession of Major Leland, of New York. It was written eighteen years after the discovery of the New World by Columbus. This document is a conveyance of Fisher's Island, near the mouth of the Sound, from certain Indian chiefs to the celebrated navigator John Cabot, whose signature it bears.

P. REDDY left for Hawthorne by buggy to-day to take the cars for San Francisco. Mr. Reddy will probably drop in on the Democratic State Convention at San Jose next Tuesday to see how they do up such things.—Bodie Miner, June 17.

A BERLIN newspaper mentions the case of a boy who fell sick and was found, after futile treatment for a long period, to have worms in one of his lungs that had unquestionably come from a pet dog which he had been accustomed to fondle. Two dangerous surgical operations were necessary for the removal of the parasite, and the lad barely survived them. The journal advises parents generally to take note of this case, and not to allow their children to kiss their pet animals or fondle them too freely.

Era of Palaces.

Fifth avenue, from Fortieth street to Fifty-ninth street, better deserves to be named Vanderbilt avenue than the little street skirting the Grand Union Station, since the Vanderbilt family possess a very considerable part of it. William H. Vanderbilt lately gave his former house, southeast corner of Fortieth street, to his recently-married daughter, the wife of Dr. Seward Webb, son of James Watson Webb. He built a house, the twin of his own splendid mansion, southwest corner of Fifty-second, for two other married daughters—Mrs. Sloan and Mrs. Shepherd. He has now begun two more sumptuous houses, southwest corner of Fifty-fourth street, for two more of his wedded children. His sons, William H. Vanderbilt and Cornelius Vanderbilt, have nearly completed their suberb homes, northwest corner of Fifty-second and Fifty-ninth streets. These eight magnificent residences, when finished and furnished, will represent, it is estimated, from $7,000,000 to $8,000,000. William H. Vanderbilt offered, I understand, Robert Bonner, of the Ledger, $600,000 for the eight lots on the east side of Fifth avenue, between Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh streets, but the offer was refused. He is now trying, it is said, to buy some corner lots on the avenue above Fifty-ninth street, having great confidence in the future value of real estate in that fashionable thoroughfare. His opinion is, I am told, that high as property is there it will be more than twice as high within ten years. Such is the pressure of business, such is the growth of the city, he thinks, that Fifth avenue will be ere long one of the very few desirable residence streets left in the whole town. J. W. Mackay, of California mining renown, is said to have secured the whole block on Fifth avenue between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth streets, where St. Luke's hospital stands at present, and will soon pull down that building preparatory to erecting a superb mansion of his own, which he expects to make the finest in the metropolis. It will be built in the middle of the spacious grounds, with shrubbery and trees all around it. I have heard that he intends to spend more than $3,000,000 on the entire establishment.—N. Y. cor. Springfield Republican.

AN ENGLISH exchange says: The correspondent of a contemporary, under the nom de plume "Horticulturist," gives prominence to the fact that pine trees are a sure safeguard against many of the prevalent epidemic diseases. It has been found, he observes, in America that whenever unhealthy districts have been planted with pine plantations the low fever has left them, and when cholera was raging those districts which were largely planted with conifers were perfectly free from the epidemic. They are, if possible, more valuable agents against fever and lung complaints than even the eucalyptus, and have the great advantage of growing admirably in our climate. It is strange, therefore, that neither in the parks or commons that surround London, and where purifying influences are so much needed, not a single pine plantation is to be seen; but the advertisement which "Horticulturist" has given to the subject may lead to some practical and useful outcome.

A KANSAS liquor seller, who was sentenced for violation of the prohibition laws to a fine of $100 and costs and thirty days' imprisonment, shot himself shortly after his release from jail. The opponents of the liquor laws say that the man was driven to commit suicide by persecution, and they call him "the seventh victim whom the temperance crew have upon their conscience." The Prohibitionists have, upon the other hand, to say that the man's suicide is to be attributed "to mental derangement arising from excessive consumption of alcohol." There is controversy over the case.

SOME Eastern papers are already beginning to speak of President Arthur as the probable successor of himself. This seems to be a little "too previous."

Sunset Cox's Funny Speech.

"The little girl cannot play with her doll," said S. S. Cox in a speech in the House of Representatives, "nor the boy whiz his top, nor the mother wash her offspring with soap, except at a cost of from one-third to one-half of their cost for the domestic privilege. [Laughter.] If the mother gives her children castor oil she pours down 148 per cent. ad valorem. [Laughter.] If the child don't like the dose, there is a 25 per cent. bowl as the recipient of the contents of its tender stomach. And though she 'wash it with niter and take to it much soap, yet the iniquity is marked before me,' saith the Lord, for the soap is taxed 40 per centum. God help the child!"

Townsend, of Illinois—"How about candy?"

Cox—"I am coming to that in a moment, my honey. [Great laughter.] If she wraps the little dear in a plain, bleached white cotton night-shirt, it has a nightmare of 5½ cents per square yard specific [laughter]; when the child awakes in the morning, fretful, she combs its little head at 35 cents ad valorem [laughter]; if she would amuse it, she rolls it over a Brussels carpet at 90 cents per square yard, or gives it confectionery made of refined sugar, at four cents per pound tax and 25 per cent. ad valorem; if it tears its little panties, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Kelley) sews them up with spool thread taxed at three-quarters of its value. [Laughter.] Why, if she use the shingle to bring the little 'toddling wee to its senses,' as the honorable gentleman can recall, the cost would be enhanced at the rate of 17 per cent. taxation."

THE "Tamarack Swamps," near Sharpsville, Pa., were supposed to be an innocent sort of bog until the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio Railroad Company undertook to lay a solid roadbed across them. At first a few thousand cubic yards of earth were dumped upon the surface by the contractor with careless generosity, as much as to say: "That will satisfy your appetite, my soft friend." But when the earth immediately disappeared and left no trace behind, a coarser dirt was substituted. The company purchased from a furnace the accumulated cinders of ten years, and since January about 5,000 carloads of this substantial provender have been dropped into the swamp's voracious maw without visibly decreasing its capacity. Occasionally at night there were evidences of repletion, but in the morning the murky water presents an unruffled face and asks for more. A solid roadbed could be laid close by, entirely avoiding the swamp, but the company has elevated its corporate back and does not intend to be beaten by a miserable tamarack swamp as long as there is a dollar in the treasury.

IT IS stated that the Chinese Government has decided to send back about 50 of the students who were so suddenly recalled from the American educational institutions last year. The brother to the sun and moon and his advisers have probably discovered that Yale and Harvard professors do not seek to inculcate a hatred of Confucius and Mencius and that their teachings are not dangerous to the Celestial dynasty or to Chinese civilization. Nevertheless, the lot of these students is not a happy one, for they will learn enough of our civilization to render them ever after dissatisfied with that of their own country, and yet when they return to China every indication of such discontent will be regarded with jealous anger, and may lead to their disgrace. The theory of their education here is that they are to convey what they have acquired to their countrymen, but as a matter of fact there is very little probability that they will be permitted, much less called upon, to do anything of the kind.

THE New York Evangelist says: "Dr. Nevius told us in a speech on Foreign Missions that he carried $4,000 in change through the famine region in China, and slept with it in his room without a guard, and although the people were starving, none offered to touch a cent of it. For ten years these honest people cannot, by the recent Act of Congress, be permitted to come to this country to be corrupted in business morals. Congress may have builded better than it knew." To which the Salt Lake Tribune replies: "There are three possible explanations to the statements of Dr. Nevius: First, there was no food to purchase with the money; second, that the Chinese did not know he had the money; and third, and most probable of all, the gushing doctor lied."

THE people of the mining counties are very much depressed over Judge Temple's decision in the Gold Run case, for should it be affirmed by the Supreme Court, the effect will be to almost entirely obliterate the hydraulic mining industry. This would mean ruin to business in the counties where hydraulic mining is carried on and almost the depopulation of those counties, now among the most prosperous in the State. The injury and loss that would result from the stoppage of hydraulic mining would be largely in excess of any loss by slickens and would affect by far a greater number of people.

THE mania for holding trade conventions and expositions has finally culminated in an arrangement for a very cheerful and fascinating gathering, which will soon be held at Rochester. It is for the purpose of exhibiting all sorts of funeral and burial goods, such as coffins, hearses, embalming fluids, ice chests for the preservation of cadavers, and mourning apparel of all descriptions and styles. No doubt the people will enjoy the display.

PROFESSOR J. S. Newberry has presented some strong points of facts and argument against the theory that the grains and nuggets of gold found in placers are formed by precipitations from chemical solutions. He holds, in a paper he has published on the subject, that geology teaches—in regard to the genesis and distribution of gold that exists in the oldest known rocks, and has been thence distributed through all strata derived from them—that, in the metamorphosis of these derived rocks it has been concentrated into segregated quartz by some process not yet understood; that it is a constituent of fissure veins of all geological ages, where it has been deposited from hot chemical solutions, which have reached deeply-buried rocks of various kinds, gathering from them gold, has been accumulated through mechanical agencies in placer deposits by the erosion of strata containing auriferous veins.

THE House has passed a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury, until July 1, 1884, to receive trade dollars upon presentation and to give therefor standard dollars, and repealing all laws authorizing the coinage of trade dollars. This is a good thing for the Government and for the holders of the dollars. For each 412½ grains of silver the Government gets 420 grains. The holder gets a legal tender dollar in exchange for a dollar which has no value beyond its weight in bullion at the market price. The parties holding the bulk of these dollars obtained them at a heavy discount, and in getting legal tender dollars in exchange for them make a handsome turn on their investment. It is said that large quantities of the trade dollars are held in China and Japan.

THE London Telegraph says: A St. Petersburg correspondent of a Paris paper, whose information is guaranteed, sends an interesting account of the Czar's daily life at Gatschina. The nervous agitation from which His Majesty has suffered since he was first called to the throne appears to be gaining a stronger hold on his mind every day. It was only after much hesitation that Alexander III resolved to visit his father's grave on the anniversary of his death, and dispensed with the precaution of ordering all the inhabitants to remain indoors until 12 o'clock on the day in question. He overcame his nervous fears for a short time, but on returning to Gatschina relapsed into a state of terror from which he has not yet recovered.

VOTERS will be interested in knowing exactly what the law is as to qualifications. The law provides that "Every native male citizen of the United States, every male person who shall have acquired the right of citizenship under or by virtue of the treaty of Queretaro, and every male naturalized citizen thereof who shall have become such 90 days prior to any election, of the age of 21 years, who shall have been a resident of the State one year next preceding the election, and of the county in which he claims his vote 90 days, and in the election precinct 30 days, and whose name shall be enrolled on the Great Register of such county, shall be a qualified elector thereof."

FOUR aces was the hand on which a Newburgh, New York, man lost $150,000 at draw poker. This is another exemplification of the old mining camp adage that dead things sometimes crawl. Four aces have been considered by the uninitiated as a sure thing, but it appears that in Newburgh there is some kind of a hand called a "straight flush," before which four aces pale into insignificance. Not having a copy of Schenck's "Treatise on Poker" at hand for reference, we are unable to describe a "straight flush," but the holding of one in Newburgh is evidently as good as being a bank cashier in Boston or New Jersey.

THE pension bill, appropriating $100,000,000, has passed the House. There is a large surplus in the Treasury and it might as well go for pensions as into the pockets of Roach, Robeson & Co. for patching up old ships. It is true that the pension brokers get about 90 per cent. and the pensioners about 10 per cent., on an average, of the money disbursed for pensions, but the pension brokers are an industrious class and their getting the money gives it a better chance for circulation than when it is grabbed in big lumps by Congressmen and contractors.

MRS. LELAND STANFORD, of California, whose husband owns a number of valuable horses and the patent for instantaneous photography, is spending her pin money in another direction. She has just had made by Tiffany a curious necklace which is unique in the art of jewelry, being composed of all varieties of jewels, diamonds, sapphires, topaz, emeralds, turpuois, pearls, opals, etc., mixed up in the most bewildering way. It cost $85,000.

GEORGE M. PINNEY, the manager of the company operating at Panamint, Inyo County, has taken down to San Francisco from that once celebrated camp a lot of fine bullion. He goes thence to New York. We predict that within five years Inyo County will be one of the greatest bullion-producing counties in the State.—Santa Ana Standard.

THE Tucson Star is guilty of this bit of impertinence: "There were three old squaws disarmed at San Carlos yesterday. They were at first inclined to resist, but were informed that they would have to submit if it took the entire strength of the army to enforce compliance. Every old buck and woman in the Indian country is to be put on a peace footing, or the Gila river will run red with gore."

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, JULY 1.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

THE delegates from this Senatorial District to the late State Convention were generally authorized to meet and nominate a candidate for State Senator, he to become the regular Democratic nominee for the State Senate from the counties of Fresno, Tulare, Kern, Inyo and Mono. But they didn't do it. There seems to be a disturbing spirit over in Fresno, who bears up under the classic name of W. D. Grady and who is desirous of serving the State in any capacity from Gubernatorial honors down. At present he proposes to be State Senator, which idea is not fully concurred in by the people of Tulare and Kern, much less on this side of the mountains. Kern and Tulare think that since Fresno has one Representative alone while they have but one jointly that Fresno has had the Senatorial business long enough. At some meeting of the delegates, yet to be agreed upon, Mono, Inyo, Kern and a part of Tulare will regularly place Hon. P. Reddy in the field for the position. As Mr. Reddy hails from Mono, this County will hardly again waive its right to nominate the candidate for Representative.

A PRESS dispatch says that U. S. Senator Fair passed Reno last Sunday en route to San Francisco. He told a reporter that he would remain in the city a few days, and then pay a visit to the Comstock. In speaking of the depression in business on the Comstock, the Senator said that it was to have been expected, and remarked: "How can it be helped? Why, I have a house in Virginia that cost me $50,000, and I don't think I could sell it for $150." The Senator said, however, that he expected better times on the grand old lode soon. He seems to have enjoyed his Senatorial duties, and never looked better than now. He says Senator Jones is as busy as a sheep in a tar barrel, and is doing good work for the people of the Pacific Coast. He also paid Congressman Cassidy a high compliment for the able manner in which he had performed his Congressional duties.

A FATAL accident occurred last Saturday morning about 1 o'clock on the road from Santa Cruz to Felton, which resulted in the death of four persons and the serious injury of three others, all being members of a large camping party from San Francisco. The disaster was caused by the overturning of a coach, which plunged down the steep precipice at the side of the road. It is said that the driver is to blame for the accident, as he was more intent on displaying his horsemanship than on caring for the safety of the twelve lives intrusted to his care. After the accident the foolhardy jehu left for parts unknown. The young people who lost their lives, and whose bodies were taken to San Francisco for interment, were George W. Scott, aged 17, son of ex-Supervisor Scott; Miss Eva Hussey, aged 17; Miss Eva Cowdery, aged 18, daughter of City and County Attorney Cowdery; Miss Alice Clarke, aged 17.

GEORGE S. POWERS, the resident manager of the Blue Tent hydraulic mine, near Nevada City, was killed last Saturday. He was in the Olo tunnel with Superintendent Wiseman and J. D. Penders, when a pipe above them burst, and the full head of 2,400 inches of water swept down upon them. Penders saw it in time to escape. The two others were swept away. Wiseman was carried over the first dump, which has 25 feet drop, and just as he reached the brow of the second, 75 feet high, he he caught hold of the side of the flume and saved himself. Powers was carried on over these down into the shaft, 120 feet deep, thence along the flume into the river, over a thousand feet as the flume runs. His body was found on a sand bar in the river half a mile below the end of the flume. All his clothing was torn from his body.

SECRETARY of the Navy Chandler thinks "we can afford to complete four or five ironclads for harbor defense, so that we need not threaten any of the smaller powers of the earth and run the risk of having two or three ironclads enter the harbor of San Francisco, or Boston, or New York, and destroy the commerce of those harbors and the harbors themselves." Doubtless the Government is rich enough to build the vessels, but Congress is not disposed to make the necessary appropriations for the purposes indicated, with Messrs. Chandler and Robeson in positions to disburse the money.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer thinks that if the Revolutionary warriors had known it would take $7,470 for drinks and cigars to celebrate the centennial of the victory at Yorktown, they would probably have given up the fight early in the contest and paid the tax on tea.

A RECENT New York dispatch gives the following additional particulars of the great strike: Twelve miles of cars, laden with material of which a large portion is perishable, are stalled on the Jersey meadows as a result of the freight-handlers' strike. Hundreds of tubs of butter and lard are melting into oil at the freight depots, and the railroad companies, under the law which defines the obligations of common carriers who undertake to deliver safely goods consigned to them, will probably be required to make good the damage. It is rumored that the locomotive engineers sent delegations to headquarters at Cleveland, asking for instructions; it is also said that the engineers and firemen will quit when the result of the present strike is seen. The switchmen and brakemen employed in the yards of the Central Railroad joined the strikers, bringing the entire freight traffic to a standstill. It is expected that the military will be called out, as the police are about exhausted. The delay to shipping interests is causing a loss of from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 every day to business men through the city. The merchants of the city have sustained a loss of $1,250,000 since the strike began, besides a permanent loss of customers, due to the transfer of trade to other cities. The Board of Trade has passed resolutions declaring that the advance asked by the freight-handlers should be granted, and protesting against the sweeping advance in westbound freight rates recently announced by the trunk lines.

THERE is now on exhibition in New York the nearest approach to a perpetual motor ever devised. The contrivance consists of two wheels, nearly concentric, which are rotated by means of nine four pound balls, which run in the grooved radii of the wheels. When the machine is at rest four of the balls are placed in the grooves of each of the wheels, one to each of four grooves, there being seven in all. To give motion to the machine a ninth ball is placed in a vacant groove. The equilibrium being disturbed, the first wheel begins to revolve, and the movement of its axis, which is cogged with the axis of the other, sets that in motion. On reaching a certain point the odd ball, instead of continuing its motion from the centre of the wheel to the circumference, rolls through an opening into a groove belonging to the companion wheel and imparts additional motion to that one, the loss of force in the first being soon made up by the return of the odd ball on reaching a given point on the other side. The machine does not generate much power, but it certainly develops enough by simple gravitation to give motion to itself until the material of which it is made is worn out. It is the invention of Albert Pietrowski, a Polish engineer, who labored for more than eighteen years before he succeeded in perfecting a model that would satisfactorily demonstrate the theory which had been the dream of his life.

IT IS said that 50,000 Europeans have forsaken Egypt during the last month, and many natives are idle in consequence. The industries of the whole country are prostrated, and the pecuniary loss occasioned to the Egyptian people by England's failure to promptly crush the revolt of Arabi Bey is beyond computation. It is rumored that serious dissensions have arisen in Mr. Gladstone's cabinent over the policy to be pursued in Egypt, and it is possible that irreconcilable alienations may occur, unless the difficulties are removed by an early conference of the powers.

THE nomination of Gen. Geo. Stoneman for Governor by the Democrats will put the Republican party on its highest mettle to effect as good a one. For them to put up any doubtful man will reduce the combat to a square issne between the people and the giant monopolies. The Republicans, to win, must be especially careful in selecting unblemished men for Railroad Commissioners and members of the State Board of Equalization. Otherwise, judging from the tone of talk all around, the State political machine will go over to the Democrats.

THE House has passed a resolution providing for an adjournment on July 10th. Before adopting this resolution the Senate will probably wait several days to see what prospect there is for completing the necessary business before that time. It is the general opinion that the session will not last longer than the 12th or 13th at the outside.

A PARAGRAPH from a late description of Saline Valley by this paper comes back through a Pennsylvania journal credited to the Chicago Times. It would appear that the great Times occasionally indulges in some original—reprint, ready-made editorials.

THE Russian peasants are beginning to get in their work on the castles of the nobility. It looks now as if a revolution will take place in that country at no distant day that will eclipse in horror that of France towards the close of the last century.

THE last news from the Lena Delta must oppress every heart. Mr. Gilder's description of the finding of the bodies of De Long and his ten comrades by Melville on the 23d of last March presents a more horrible picture than the imagination had drawn. Hunger and cold never tortured mortals more cruelly than in the case of these lost explorers. With old rags bound about their bootless feet and with old rags in their mouths in place of food, they crawled into the fire for warmth as they died, as their burned hands prove. It is almost impossible not to wish that the bodies of Lieutenant Chipp and his six men may never be found, if they are now dead, as it is probable they are. The discovery of their remains cannot fail to present a scene at which all the world must shudder. Mr. Gilder's account of the finding of De Long and his men was dated April 12. The bodies of the eleven men were taken to the top of a hill 300 feet high and buried in a mausoleum made from wood of the scow near which they were found. It is probable that the frozen bodies are yet well preserved, and it certainly seems but proper that the Government should have them brought to the United States to be interred in their native soil, where a suitable monument can be erected over them. The last intelligence of the struggles of the lost explorers will be the record kept by De Long, which ought soon to reach America, and in which a most painful interest will be felt.

THE residents of New Mexico do not complain of a scarcity of amusement; in fact, hardly a day passes that does not complete the career of several "prominent" citizens. Following are the particulars, as gleaned from the press dispatches, of a "matinee" at Raton last Tuesday afternon: Deputy Sheriff Dolman attempted to arrest a gambler named Gus Mentzel, when Mentzel fired two shots at Dolman, slightly wounding him, also Charles Fox and Jacob Harris, who were standing near them. Shortly afterward Dolman made a second attempt to arrest Mentzel at his gambling house, when Mentzel again opened fire on the deputy, which resulted in the death of Harry Moneton, a Justice of the Peace; Hugh E. Delstan, one of the proprietors of the Moulton Hotel, and S. H. Jackson, a saloon keeper. All three were instantly killed. H. Lattimer and Deputy Sheriff Bregan were also seriously wounded. Immediately after the killing Mentzel was seized by the enraged citizens and hanged to the sign of the Raton Bank. Deputy Sheriff Bregan is dying, and the citizens are wild with excitement. It is thought a raid will be made upon the gamblers.

THE Supreme Court has granted a new trial to George A. Wheeler, the fiend who strangled his sister-in-law, with whom he was living in adultery, in San Francisco about two years ago. The reason for giving this beast another chance for his life is that at the trial at which he was convicted the Judge permitted the District Attorney to read from a book on insanity which had not been proved by testimony to be a standard scientific work. There is no doubt of Wheeler's guilt, but the technicalities of the law will in the end probably save his neck from deserved stretching.

WE hope no land attorney or real estate broker will be so careless of his own or his county's interests as to neglect to send his name for insertion in Copp's American Settler's Guide, his forthcoming book. Addresses should be forwarded at once, as the first part of the book is already in in press. Mr. Copp is the editor of Copp's Public Land Laws, Copp's Mining Code, and other works on our public land system. He refers to the Surveyor General, U. S. Registers and Receivers, and the leading land attorneys of the country.

THE Bridgeport Union says: "R. S. Miner, our present worthy District Attorney, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Assemblyman, to represent Mono and Inyo counties in the next Legislature." Mr. Miner is a young man of fine ability and sterling integrity, and, judging the future by the past would make a faithful public servant of whom the people of the two counties might well feel proud.

THE many friends of Judge James E. Goodall, Register of the United States Land Office at Bodie, will regret to learn that the estimable wife of that gentleman died in Bodie at 6 o'clock on Thursday morning of last week. Judge Goodall had been married but little more than a year.

THE county papers on the other side are adorned with columns of political announcements. It is the early worm that catches the bird, or something to that effect. The tallest persimmon is expected to knock the pole.

SO FAR as the spending of the money of taxpayers is concerned, the Federal Government is to-day the most reckless and corrupt in existence this side of Turkey.

THE ILL-FATED JEANNETTE.

Those who have an ambition to search for the North Pole should read the diary of De Long before starting North. It is a tale of intense sufferings and starvation that few Americans can fully appreciate. Under date of October 3d De Long wrote that nothing was left to eat but the dog, which was killed and a stew made of a portion of the carcass. For several days the party had nothing but dog meat and tea on which to sustain life. The weather was intensely cold and the men suffered greatly from exposure. For a time the party lived on a little tea and a small allowance of alcohol. In a few days the meat gave out and glycerine had to be taken to preserve life. Then their mocassins were devoured. One by one the men died and were left behind. The last days of De Long are thus described in the diary, which was found by Engineer Melville.

Sunday, October 16.—Alexis broke down; divine service.

Monday.—Alexis dying, Doctor baptized him and read prayer for the sick; Mr. Collins' birthday, forty years old; about sunset Alexis died of exhaustion and starvation; covered him with ensign and laid him in crib.

Tuesday.—Calm and mild; snow falling; buried Alexis in the afternoon; laid him on ice, and covered him with slabs of ice.

Wednesday.—Cutting up tent to make foot gear; Doctor went ahead to find new camp; shifted by dark.

Thursday.—Bright and sunny, but very cold; Lee and Knack done up.

Friday.—Knack was found dead about midnight between the Doctor and myself; Lee died about noon; read prayers for Knack when we found he was going.

Saturday.—Too weak to carry the bodies of Lee and Knack out on the ice; the Doctor, Collins and myself carried them around the corner out of sight; then my eyes closed up.

Sunday.—Everybody pretty weak; slept or rested to-day, and then managed to get enough wood in by dark to read divine services; suffering in our feet; no foot gear.

Monday.—A hard night; also Tuesday and Wednesday.

Thursday, 27th, and 137th day.—Iverson broke down.

Friday.—Iverson died during the early morning.

Saturday, 29th.—Drossler died during the night.

Tuesday, October 30th, and 140th day.—Boyd and Gorth died during the night; Mr. Collins dying. [Note—This is the end of De Long's diary.]

De Long, Surgeon Ambler and Ah Sam, the cook, must have died soon after the last note was written.

GUITEAU is now undoubtedly in position to answer Bob Ingersoll's question on the matter of the existence of a hell. The only difficulty is the lack of communication with that region, so that his observations on the subject cannot be gathered. He will make a boss fiend in Inferno, however.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JULY 1.. 1882

A RELIC.—The sad story has oft been repeated of the terrible sufferings and death of so many unfortunates in the immigrant train which perished in '49 in Death Valley. The deadly region has been pretty well explored since then, but probably no one is at present more thoroughly acquainted with the country than W. L. Hunter, Esq., the old-time Cerro Gordoite and prospector. On his return a few weeks ago from an extended trip through the desert he brought with him an interesting memento of the lost immigrant train. It is a fractured iron ring, being considerably oxydized, and weighing 2½ ounces. Mr. Hunter says the reports that relics are still to be found there—"irons as bright as the day when they were abandoned by the dying throng," etc.—are absolutely false. The last camp of the immigrants was made in Mesquite Valley, a southeastern arm of Death Valley proper, divided from it by a low range of mountains. The train, or what was left of it, was found around a spring of intensely salt and alkali water. On a little bank of earth he found the only remaining piece of iron, the ring referred to. Everything else had become completely oxydized and destroyed by the elements. In places the iron stains could be seen on the ground, but nothing more. Some evidences of graves were found, but no part of human remains were found lying about as has been said. If Mr. Hunter would prepare a full account and description of the region as he saw and knows, accompanied with a diagram or map, it would be of great value to the scientific and geographical societies. The interesting relic referred to, which will probably be the last one ever secured from the fatal ground, will be sent to Prof. Hanks for a place in the State Museum or for the Academy of Sciences.

THE MODOCK.--On the 17th Frank Fitzgerald, lessee of the Modock, closed down the furnace after twenty-three running days. He was here last Monday, and has gone to San Francisco to secure a new lease on more favorable terms if possible, or get the company to "stand in" on some necessary dead work, else he proposes to go into a new operation at Wild Rose on his own account. He has now a small force working the Black Warrior mine, his own property, at Lookout. He will return in about three weeks, when he expects to fire up the furnace again. From the present run, shipment No. 6 amounted to 20,111 lbs. and No. 7 to 20,042 lbs. These were valued respectively at $6,345 45 and $6,588 80, or $12,904 25—an average of 329.80 ounces per ton in silver, the gold contained in the bullion not being counted upon as yet. Fitz. has done as well for the Company as for himself, and we hope he may keep on with the work.

THE SOUTHERN STAGE CO.—From Mr. S. D. Thurston, who arrived from Kern County last Thursday, we are informed that there is no likelihood of any change being made in the present carrying arrangments of the Southern mail. An agent of the new contractor—one Geo. M. Snodgrass, of Abington, Va., who claims to have in operation some 19,000 miles of mail routes—is at Caliente, where he was to meet Mr. Hamilton. It seems that the sub-contractors, Floyd & Co., failed to furnish the bonds required, and will doubtless throw up the business entirely. This will leave Hamilton to run at the old rates, but it is to be hoped that the route will be changed so as to run direct to Mojave.

SWORN IN.—Early this morning the mail contractors on the northern and southern routes went through the formality of being sworn in by Postmaster Hardy. S. L. McNaughton represents the contractor of the Belleville and Independence line, O. J. Salisbury, Mr. J. P. Taylor took the oath as representing R. B. Thomas, of the Kern and Inyo Company—Hamilton's line. In the latter case it is a temporary contract, to continue until the new parties either finally throw up the road or get to work themselves.

THE TAX ROLL.—Assessor Irwin today turns over the County assessment roll to the Auditor. Under Deputy Assessor Dan Crough's work, the big book is a perfect model of neatness and accuracy. It foots up a total of $1,065,000 of taxable property. Notwithstanding the great decrease of the stock interests during the past year, on account of extensive sales of cattle and horses, the roll exhibits an increase of about $8,000 over last year.

FREIGHTING.—The advertisement of Joe Le Cyr's teaming business is given elsewhere this week, which states the rate of charges per pound from Mojave to the different points. Le Cyr has two 14-animal teams and calculates upon the arrival of one team every twelve days. He will pay railroad charges upon goods shipped in his care, and assumes all the usual responsibilities of freighters.

THE BALL.—Notwithstanding the intention of several couples of our young folks to attend the Fourth of July fun at Lone Pine, the stay-at-homes are making complete arrangements for a ball and supper here on the night of the Fourth. The announcement will be noticed elsewhere, and no doubt there will be a very general attendance.

WILL YOU?—Will some delinquent subscriber who is not more than four or five years behind, kindly send this office six bits or so for the Fourth of July? One of the boys wants to buy a plug of tobacco.

THE LAST DAY.—This is the last day upon which tax-payers can pay in their poll taxes at the $2 rate. It will be a slick way to save $2 by not waiting until Monday or after, to pay up.

THE LAURA.—At a meeting of the owners of the Laura mine and mill, at this place during the week, Judge A. R. Conklin was made Superintendent and General Manager, with authority to pay all claims and transact all business matters generally. The mill will start up during the coming week, Judge Conklin having gone to Lone Pine to secure the services of a pack train.

THE PIONEER.—George Thorpe took up to Kearsarge yesterday a supply of quicksilver and chemicals for the reconstructed Pioneer mill, which will be started up during the coming week. They have already some 300 tons of Kearsarge tailings packed up to the mill, and the whole amount will probably keep the works going all season.

RETURNED.—County Clerk Crough reached home last Thursday, after the San José Convention business. Judge Hannah did not attend the Convention at all, but went straight to the Springs in Napa County, which fact may account for the undeviating unanimity of the Inyo delegation throughout. His Honor may not return until October.

NOTE IT DOWN.—In behalf of the newspaper fraternity generally, and our northern contemporaries in particular, let us drop a note of caution regarding a certain tramp printer, who left this burg the other day by private conveyance—per Foote & Walker's Line. He is about six feet seven miles high, a rough, bragadocio and liar generally.

MINES SOLD.—It is stated that J. F. Hutchison, Judge Califf and others have sold to Eastern men, represented by Mr. Bolinger of San Francisco, several of the big copper mines in the old Ubehebe District, situated across Saline Valley. We are not apprised of the amount paid, nor have the deeds been recorded as yet.

RAIN.—Quite a fall of rain in the valley, with some snow on the mountains, was experienced Thursday night and at intervals yesterday. It has been a very unusual season in this respect; seemingly the weather clerk is trying to make up for the lack of snow last Winter.

NOT YET.—Begole, in a letter written by Palmer from dictation, says that according to the Lone Pine grape vine telegraph "Guiteau is not yet an angel, but has been respited; perhaps the rainstorm put our battery out of order." It was more likely the full moon which affected them.

QUERY.—Has any one found or heard anything about that satchel which was mentioned as having been lost on the Camp Independence road some weeks ago? The owner, a lady residing in Los Angeles, wants to know about it.

POLITICAL.—In answer to many inquiries as to the time of holding the Democratic primary elections and the County Nominating Convention, that in answer, we publish elsewhere the Committee's order in full.

PACKING.--Some good packer will learn of a chance for business through the notice published this week by the manager of the Laura Company. Three good miners, also, can get permanent work.

EQUALIZATION.—The Board of Supervisors will meet next Monday as a Board of Equalization. Tax payers will note the official notice elsewhere.

ASSESSMENT.—The New Coso Company, of Darwin, has levied an assessment of twenty cents per share, delinquent August 7th.

STATED MEETING.—The stated meeting of Inyo Lodge, No. 228, F. and A. M., will be held at the hall to-night.

AT BISHOP.—District Attorney Laird, with his family, is paying an extended visit to Bishop Creek.

THAT some chimneys are better worth sweeping than others was incontrovertibly proved a few days ago at Berlin by the result of an experiment performed upon some soot with which the inside surface of an old flue, pulled down during the late alterations at the Royal Mint, was found to be thickly caked. This flue had served for many years as an outlet for the smoke given off by the furnaces in which the bullion undergoes fusion before its conversion into coinage, and it occurred to the architect superintending the repairs in question that it might be worth while to analyze the soot lining the chimney through which fumes of boiling gold and silver had passed in such quantities. The liquefaction of the less precious metal requires a temperature of 1,000 deg. Celsius, while that of gold cannot be effected under 1,250 deg. It is usual to bestrew the surface of these metals, when in a liquid state, with charcoal, in order to hinder evaporation. But at such a fierce heat as that above indicated, some evaporation is bound to take place, and its results were made manifest by the yield of four pounds' weight of pure gold, valued at something under 4,000 marks, obtained from the soot that was scraped off the inside of the melting-room chimney in question.—London Daily Telegraph.

TALK about your law! You are always quibbling here. You never know any law. There is less law, really, among a body of lawyers than among any set of men on earth. Look at it, if you please. What is the old adage—the old rule? I will not repeat the Latin aphorism, because I am not a Latin scholar. But I will give you the English of it, and it is this: "Where the law is uncertain, there is no law." Take your 193 lawyers in this House, and they will debate in high and low debate, and get angry and furious, and after all, after a debate of two and a half days, you cannot find two of them who agree about any single proposition to save your lives. See how they are changing here. Why, gentlemen, in all candor and fairness, I would not give the intuitions of an honest rustic's heart, in pursuing and attempting to attain the truth, for the fine-spun arguments of all the lawyers in the universe. —From a Speech in Congress by Jones of Texas.

ABOUT THE CANDIDATES.

Following is the personal mention made by the San Francisco Call of some of the Democratic candidates now before the people:

John P. Dunn, nominated for State Controller, and John R. Glascock, the nominee for Congressman at large, are also young men. Mr. Dunn is about 30 years of age, and Mr. Glascock 36.

Barclay Henley, nominated for Congressman from the Third District, is about 38, and James H. Budd, the Congressional nominee from the Second District, is not over 30. Mr. Henley if a native of Indiana, where his father was a member of Congress for nine consecutive years.

Two of the nominees are natives of Kentucky—Hon. Edward C. Marshall, the nominee for Attorney General, and W. A. January, the nominee for State Treasurer. Mr. Marshall was a member of Congress from this State 30 years ago. Mr. January has been an editor for more than a quarter of a century. He was formerly editor of the Mountain Democrat, and more recently editor of the San Jose Herald. For the past seven years he has also been Treasurer of Santa Clara County.

Another editor has been placed on the ticket, in the person of Thomas L. Thompson, the nominee for Secretary of State. Mr. Thompson is editor of the Sonoma Democrat.

Two of the nominees are natives of California, and each the son of a pioneer. J. W. McCarthy, nominated for Clerk of the Supreme Court, was born in Tuolumne County, but removed to Stanislaus several years ago, of which county he has been Clerk for two full terms. He is 28 years old. His father, who was a forty-niner, died in this city about three weeks since. H. J. Wiley, the nominee for Surveyor General, was born in the county of Monterey 27 years ago. He is the son of Rev. Mr. Wiley of Santa Cruz, and is the son-in-law of Mr. Hinchman, a prominent citizen and pioneer of San Diego.

The nominees for Governor and Lieutenant Governor are natives of the State of New York. General Stoneman was born in Chautauqua County, New York, and John Daggett was born in Wayne County of the same State. Ex-Governor R. E. Fenton, Major General Schofield, Hon. John Bidwell, State Senator Nye of Alameda, General Geo. Stoneman and Hon. M. M. Estee, all well known in this State, were born within a radius of ten miles of each other, in a farming region near the State line which divides New York from Pennsylvania. General Stoneman is 60 years of age. John Daggett is 49. He was the guest of C. N. Felton, at Menlo Park, an evening or two previous to his nomination for Lieutenant Governor. Daggett and Felton were members together of the last Legislature. They are intimate friends, though differing widely in politics.

AN ENABLING ACT.

A press dispatch from Washington, under date of June 26th, reads as follows: Representative Cassidy of Nevada introduced a bill to-day in the House in which he asks that Nevada be given a big slice of California. The bill authorizes the legislatures of Nevada and California to detach from the State of California all of the territory embraced within the limits of Alpine, Mono and Inyo counties, and attach the same to the State of Nevada. As no more can possibly be heard of the bill this session, the people residing in the counties mentioned need not be alarmed lest they may wake up some morning and find themselves in Nevada. By no process could the bill be passed before next Spring, and it is doubtful if it ever will be.

The people of the counties named will be in nowise grateful for the gratuitous comments of the Washington agent of the Ass. Press. It is to be presumed that Congressman Cassidy knows as well what he is about as does the lightning paralyzer who volunteers so much valuable information.

As we take it, the bill simply gives national authority for the presentation of the question to the States. Should it pass, and there is no valid reason why it should not, the next step will be for the Legislature of California to enact a law submitting the proposition to the people of the counties interested. At a special or any general election the wishes of the voters could be ascertained. To defeat Cassidy's bill would be simply snubbing our people and insulting their intelligence. We believe a good majority of the people of these mining counties favor the idea of separation from California and annexation to Nevada, but that is neither here nor there at present. It would require joint action by two Legislatures of the States, and a vote of the people interested during the ad interim, before the change could be effected and ratified. We think that the people can be trusted to work out their own best interests in the matter, and hope that the bill may become a law.

THE Carson and Colorado Railroad track is now laid to the summit of the White Mountains, twenty-five miles from Belleville. The grade by the mountain is about as circuitous as the Glenbrook road. A station is in progress of erection at the summit, and the freights from thence to Benton and Bishop Creek is now being hauled. A mill is being built at Benton, and very rich ore is found in that locality. The railroad company is delivering salt from Salt Marsh to all the mills along or near the line of road. The Indian Queen, six miles from the road, is doing a fine business, the mine paying well. Luning is a growing town. There are three stores, six prosperous saloons, a butcher market and any number of daily fights. A town site has been laid out at Soda Springs, ten miles beyond Luning, and at this point a copper smelter is in course of construction. In Garfield District from 100 to 200 men are prospecting and daily developing rich leads.—Free Press.

THE bullion yield of Aurora and Austin since 1861 has been about the same, the aggregate of each being in the neighborhood of $20,000,000. The vast majority of the treasure from Austin was taken from the mines on Lander Hill, while Aurora's wealth was extracted principally from Silver, Middle and Last Chance Hills. The Manhattan mill is busy grinding out more bullion at Austin, and produces about $1,000,000 annually. Aurora is now taking out some rich ore, and we expect to soon be able to note monthly shipments in keeping with Austin.—Aurora Herald.

PRENTICE was playing poker on a Mississippi steamer. Prentice bet $1,000 on his hand; his opponent raised him $500; Prentice raised $1,000; his opponent raised him $500; Prentice again raised the stakes $1,000. "Mr. Prentice," said the opponent, "you are betting more than your hand is worth." Prentice looked at his hand, turned it down on the table and said: "Sir, if I were playing with Jupiter, at a star ante, I would darken the heavens on the hand I have just turned down!"

THE early bird having caught and disposed of his worm is looked upon with envy and wonder by his less enterprising companions who do not understand the secret of his good fortune, he having grown to many times their size and cast them altogether in the shade. So the advertiser who has been early and continuous in advertising his business will become a source of wonderment to his rivals, leaving them in the shade, and puzzling them to understand the secret of his success.

CHEAP letter postage is probable in the not remote future, the rate for letters of half an ounce to be reduced from three to two cents. The increased revenue, the economical administration of the department, and honest management of mail contracts and other service seem to warrant such a reduction.

SIX thousand fivehundred and twenty-nine dollars is the amount of the liquor bill that the people have just paid for the Congressional jamboree at Yorktown. It includes an item of 130 cases of champagne ($3,000), 68 gallons of whisky, 22 dozen sherry, 15 gallons of brandy and $2,500 worth of cigars.

LAMBROU, General Land Commissioner of the Northern Pacific, has issued an order that hereafter the railroad lands shall be sold only to actual settlers, and but 160 acres to one person. This is to put a stop to the operations of speculators, who are grabbing up the best lands.

A MAN in Prague has invented a sterbrscramentenutensilienkasten, a machine for keeping the paraphernalia of the last sacrament in. It is to be hoped that he will die before he invents anything else.

IT IS estimated that during the next four years there will be needed for the payment of pension claims an amount equal to one-fourth of the national debt.

SATURDAY, JULY 1.....1882

TO A BUTTERFLY ON THE DESERT.

[Amidst the desolation of the bare and burning mountains that sentinel the terrors of Death Valley, we saw a golden butterfly on free and joyous wing cleaving the flaming air.]

Lone wanderer through desert air,
Amid the burning mountains' glow and flame,
On wings of gold and pinions fair,
Where dost thou dwell, where go, whence came?

How soft thy splendid colors stray
Along the slope of mountains grim,
Pursuing thy free and airy way
Across that deadly desert's rim.

Why thus in awful place of fear
Dost thou thy lonely dwelling find?
These savage slopes can never bear
Flowers that blossom for thy kind.

Sweet lesson of our Father's care
Was by thy glowing beauty taught:
We felt that even desert air
May cradle be of holy thought.

A VAGABOND.

TO "ONEOTA."

To "Oneota:" I'm sure the way,
I inscribed a letter the other day,
From—well, her given name I shall not tell;
For, sure I know, and wondrous well,
The more we know and less we say,
The easier fixed some other day.

'Tis kind and good of one so fair
To write twelve pages then and there
To one who's sad and lonely now,
Away off there, and has no frow;
And so to tell, I think 'tis not fair,
For acts like these, men lose their hair.

So, fair one, do so careful be—
Acts like these no one should see;
I know 'tis only fun you mean,
But such as this should not be seen;
There's only us, I know that few,
In things like this there should be two—

At least, for me, I'm plain to say—
It is not safe the other way;
Except this little scratch from me,
I only say just what I see;
I only think it best for you
To write your letters just for two.

I am no saint, 'tis plain to see,
'Tis fun alive for such as we;
Write—right—'tis kind in you,
But tell the tale to only two;
You need not stop to count the cost,
To lose in ignorance, nothing lost.

It is a notable fact that the number of large landed estates have greatly diminished in California, while the future promises even a more rapid diminution. Thirty years ago a few individuals owned vast tracts of land, but with a few exceptions these great proprietors died poor. John A. Sutter, who died a pensioner on the Government, once owned about 50,000 acres of land, including the site of the city of Sacramento. In 1850 there were only 872 farms in California; by the last census there were 35,034. The influx of population and the more equitable assessment of lands under the new constitution, for purposes of taxation, are compelling a sub-division of large tracts, which the owners no longer find it profitable to hold, unless they are merely fit for grazing.

We dislike to intimate that it is possible for an editor to lie, but the statement in a Texas paper that a catfish that weighed 170 pounds was caught in the Brazos, justifies the apprehension that if the editor is not careful he may unknowingly learn to exaggerate, and then he will drift into politics or the pulpit. It is very difficult for a catfish to weigh 170 pounds. The catfish has no scales.

Bureau of Mines and Mining.

The plan has been repeatedly brought forward to establish a bureau of mines and mining, similar in scope to the Department of Agriculture, in order that the Government should assist the mining interests of the country in some substantial way. Although frequently urged, it is only of late that any decided move was made toward bringing it officially before the Government. A bill was introduced, however, this session of Congress, providing for the establishment of a bureau of mines and mining. The House Committee on Mines and Mining, to which this bill was referred, has considered the matter and reports that the United States Geological Survey is, to all intents and purposes, practically a bureau of mines and mining, and that all the legislation that is needed is to enlarge somewhat its jurisdiction.

This action of the committee will probably end the matter for the present. It is sincerely to be hoped, however, that the agitation of the subject will result in the United States Geological Survey paying some attention to the practical part of the mining interests. What we mean is this: While the survey is working up the general geology of the country, describing its topography, scenery, etc., let a branch of it be at work collecting information which will be of practical service to miners in their every-day work. General geology is all very well for a scientist, but it will not tell a miner anything about how to make his rock pay. The Agricultural Department not only makes experiments but raises seeds and sends them to different people in different sections to try for themselves. It is not necessary for the survey to make experiments, but it can report upon and record the results of the work of other people. If a man is working a peculiar ore in a peculiar way, let the officials so report in their volume, so other miners elsewhere can get the experience.

There is nothing impracticable in this. One of the most valuable contributions to metallurgical knowledge extant is the report on mining industry issued by Clarence King's U. S. Geological Exploration of the Fortieth Parallel. It was written by James D. Hague, and described the mining and metallurgical appliances and the processes in use on the Comstock, besides giving a large amount of general information. This work is still an authority, though published in 1870, and long since out of print.

Why should not the Government now tell the miners what improvements have been made since then? Why should it not describe the smelting processes, lixiviation processes, gold mining appliances, and methods of copper mining, lead mining, etc.? These are the things miners want to know about. They have a very slight interest indeed in a lot of catalogued minerals and rocks that to them represent no economic value. Abstract geology interests them not at all. As to finding mineral, an old prospector could "give points" to the most learned writer of works on geology; and it is mineral we want to find.

The fact is, there is too much science given us. Science is very well, of course, and necessary; but it should not crowd out the bread and butter feature. Is it not more important to tell a miner how to work ore he has, than to tell him, for instance, about the "Birds of Colorado," or "Ethnography and Philology of the Hidatsa Indians," or the "Geology of the Henry Mountains?" All these things are very well and very good, but they do not cover the practical ground that the mining community would appreciate.

The mining community is not scientific; it is eminently practical in every sense. Its principal need of science lies more in the direction of metallurgy than any other. It is there the miners want applied science. As far as mere mining is concerned, science has not made an unquestionable record. Its mistakes have been so many and so frequent that what are known as scientific miners are in bad odor. Theories borne out by results in one district are totally upset in another, and this lack of uniformity, and the evil results attendant on the acceptance of reports based upon false premises, have weakened confidence to a great extent. But if record is made by the Government of what men have accomplished and are accomplishing with the different appliances and processes, or practical information is gathered which men can apply to their own cases, then the utility of the survey will be more promptly recognized by the mining part of the community, and it will never have difficulty in obtaining appropriations. There are plenty of men fit for the work. It needs only a step in the direction indicated to bring about valuable results.—Scientific Press.

Interesting Experiments.

Mr. John Eitel, a chemist of Sacramento, contributes the following, among other matters, to the Sacramento Record-Union: About ten years ago, while taking plaster casts of frogs, previously knocked on the head, I made the discovery, after cutting out the frog from its plaster housing, that the animal had regained its former qualities of jumping, and was as good as new. Thinking that the frog was only stunned, another frog was treated as previously stated, and as a precautionary measure a knife having a sharp point was run through its head. In procuring a mold a wriggling frog is a disadvantage, and it is desirable that the subject used as a cast should be deprived of life entirely. On cutting out this second animal, to my surprise it also had fully recovered its strength, and this took place in five different-sized frogs of which casts were taken. I came to the conclusion that an amphibious animal like a frog had a rather tenacious life, else plaster of paris resuscitated them.

In the spring of 1878 I resided in the upper portion of this city, and found in the vicinity some very large-sized toads. I concluded to experiment further upon this ugly creature, which is known by the more intelligent as the gardener's friend. One of these fellows was placed under the receiver of an air pump, and the air gradually exhausted, making in the meantime observations how greatly the toad would be astonished when finding itself gradually in a rarified atmosphere—or, in other words, inhaling less and less oxygen. When the mercury in the manometer showed that the air was almost pumped out—for entirely it cannot be in those pumps—the toad was noticed to breathe somewhat more rapidly, but otherwise showed no signs of being the least inconvenienced. To me it proved that an animal of that species can retain life on a very small quanty of oxygen. But to test the undertaking further, the animal was retained in its prison, the air being continually exhausted. It was found at the end of three or four days that no apparent injury was inflicted by the treatment the subject underwent.

Now, in order to see what difference there would be between a cold-blooded amphibious animal and a warm-blooded animal, a mouse was placed under the receiver. At the first stroke of the pump it showed great uneasiness, and at the third and fourth exhaustion it had ceased to live for want of air.

Another toad was treated to electricity, applying first a very weak battery power, with a rather powerful induction coil. The toad was placed on a copper plate, in connection with one of the terminals of the coil. The end had a glass rod attached to the wire, and with the point of the wire the animal was touched at various parts of his anatomy. Wherever touched, instant contortions of the body took place, and after several contacts, a white matter or perspiration appeared on the skin, of which the odor was not of a quality that would remind one of "Araby the Blest" or the "Valley of the Roses." This may be one of its weapons, as the toad is not a very dangerous animal otherwise. The full battery power of two Bunson cells in good order was then applied, and a touch of the wire stretched out the animal to the fullest extent, lifeless, and subsequent experiments by imbedding in plaster could not resuscitate it.

GERMANY is terrified at the steady and large increase of the population. The number of births over deaths has attained an annual average of 550,000, and the increase of population since 1871 to 1881 over 4,000,000, exclusive of Alsace-Lorraine, the Grand Duchy of Baden and Hesse. The emigration of 200,000 to 300,000 annually is not sufficient to counterpoise the overcrowding, and it is feared, in addition, that the large immigration to the United States may become too much of a good thing to this country, and repressive legislation may result. There are 400,000 marriages in Germany each year, and it is becoming a serious matter of discussion how they may be reduced.

HOW TO COOK TROUT.—Split nearly to the tail, wash and clean well, and fold together again. Let them lie, wrapped singly, in a clean, dry towel for a few minutes. Dredge with flour and salt, and put in a pan with fresh, sweet lard, which should be hot but not burning. Do not turn until brown enough for the table. One of the most essential things in serving trout or fish of any kind is to have everything hot and quickly dished, so that all may go to the table at once.

THE big bridge at St. Louis, which is owned and managed by a monopoly, is likely to have a competitor. The Chicago & Alton, the Vandalia, the Indianapolis & St. Louis, and the Ohio & Mississippi railroads are preparing to build a new structure at or near that city, in order to escape the exhorbitant charges imposed by the present company.

A Veteran Reporter.

There is no doubt that Dan De Quilie has been connected with one paper longer than any other reporter in America. He became associated with the Territorial Enterprise more than twenty years ago, and has been contributing interesting matter to that journal almost daily since that time. He is still in the journalistic harness, performing excellent work in his capacity. Dan De Quille's pen has done nearly as much towards making the Comstock famous as the discovery of the great bonanza. His literary labors have always been greatly appreciated, not only on the Pacific Coast, but also east of the Rocky Mountains. There is scarcely a newspaper office in the Atlantic States in which Dan De Quille's name is not as familiar as that of Mark Twain.

Referring to Mark Twain—who, by the way, may in a measure thank Dan De Quille for his fame—we feel justified in saying that were Dan De Quille possessed of a tithe of the brazen cheek of Twain, coupled with his own true genius, the former would occupy a much higher position and more well-merited fame in the literary world than the latter. Dan De Quille is one of the fixtures of the Comstock, and a popular and highly-prized one. The Comstockers would as soon think of parting with all hope of more prosperous times in the future as to permit him to leave them. We are told that hundreds of Nevadans, now scattered all over the country, have scrap books filled with Dan De Quille's early literary productions, which they value most above all things in their libraries. The work that he has accomplished on the Enterprise is astounding, and could only be performed by one endowed with a wonderful vividness of imagination and genius.—Carson Tribune.

The Earthquake.

The severest earthquake which has visited the State since 1868 arrived on Tuesday morning at 5:30. It frightened timid people, but did no bodily harm, as far as we have heard. The most interest in the event seems to have been manifested in San José, where hundreds of people rushed into the streets, many of them in their night toilets. The vibration of the earth was apparently from east to west and lasted, with decreasing severity, during about twenty seconds. There was first a severe shock or jerk, followed by a rolling movement and then a gradual settling. In many parts of the city the buildings suffered more or less, the plaster being loosened and the walls cracked. The Court House withstood the shock without any injury, but the walls of Welch's brick building on First street, those of the Home Mutual Insurance Company on Santa Clara street, the Normal School and others were more or less cracked. The Normal School suffered the worst, the walls being cracked in several places; in one place a cross section of the wall being separated entirely from the main wall running east and west. The building, however, is not damaged so as to render it unsafe. In other places further west the shock is reported as much more severe. In the Santa Cruz mountains reports come of broken windows and overturned chimneys. One man reported the shock so severe where he was, in the mountains, as to throw him to the ground. No persons are reported injured.

The vibrations seem to have been more marked near the Coast. At Stockton the shock was very slight.—Scientific Press.

Primitive Pounding Mills in Arkansas.

A letter from the Rev. Jno. Buchanan, quoted in an interesting address recently delivered before the Arkansas Historical Society by the Hon. Benjamin T. Duval, thus described the expedients of the first settlers in what is now Washington county, Arkansas: "For more than two years these early settlers enjoyed the privilege of eating pound cake, having no mills to grind grain of any kind. They had to make their meal by pounding. Some families having springs suitable, fixed pounding mills and beat their meal by water power. The mill was made by getting a large log of timber about fifteen feet long, making a trough at the butt-end three feet long, to hold as much water as possible, hewing the balance of the log some four inches square and hanging it on a pivot near the trough. They fixed a pestle at the other end, and then a mortar to hold the grain. The trough was about four feet above the ground. A spout carried water from the spring into it, and when the trough was full it sank down, raising the pestle some ten feet high. When the water poured out the pestle fell with a vim on the grain in the mortar. It was slow but sure, running day and night. They were called lazy toms. They were inclosed with palings to keep out fowls and vermin (wild animals). The first mill for grinding grain was built in 1829 by Peter Pyeatt, on the creek heading at Mark Bean's spring. The second was built a short time after by Sam Billingsly, at or near where Kidd's mill stood before the war. John F. Truesdale put up a steam mill at the same place about the year 1840."

SATURDAY, JULY 8.....1882

JAMES E. PARKER.

GUITEAU announced a few days previous to his "removal" that if hung he would die game. Dr. McWilliams, assistant physician at the District Jail, gives the following account of the assassin's last days: "I had been at the jail every night for a whole week, watching him pretty closely. On the night of Thursday I visited his cell about midnight and found him sitting on the bed looking straight before him into vacancy, the most perfect picture of despondency I ever beheld. He asked me then to inspect the gallows for him, as he did not want any bungling. I willingly promised to do it. 'You will be down at this murder to-morrow?' he asked. To this I made no reply. When I saw him next morning the guard said that he had slept none during the night. He would occasionally go into a doze and start out of it with some articulate sound. The officers bear witness that he ate nothing for his breakfast. He may have put something in his mouth amounting to nothing. It was the same way at dinner, when he was said to have eaten a hearty meal. From what I have learned from the guards, he broke down in perfect despair during the morning and wept bitterly. It was necessary to make every effort to keep him up, to talk to him, fan him, and urge him to be firm and to be a man. When General Crocker came into the cell to read the death warrant Guiteau was greatly agitated, but was able to stand. When it had been read he sat down. When he reached the top of the scaffold he faltered, and in reading his prayer he wavered so excessively that Crocker was at one time anxious to stop it. I was just back of the scaffold and could see him catching his breath and struggling to control it. It was dreadful."

THE recent cyclones have impressed upon the minds of Western people one important duty, namely: that of constructing places of refuge in the cellars of their houses to which they may fly and be secure, even though the buildings be lifted off their foundations and carried away by the fury of a storm. It is said that the awe-inspiring roar of the approaching tornado can be heard long enough in advance to allow the inhabitants of a building to flee to the cellar, but as now constructed there is no covering to cellars to protect the heads of the refugees from falling timbers when the buildings are lifted off their foundations. It is urged that if an apartment in the cellar of each house is covered over with heavy timbers, it will afford a safe retreat from storms whose fury no building above ground, however strong, can withstand. It is believed that if all the people of the West would provide places of refuge in their cellars, future cyclones would cause no loss save that of property.

THE State Department, since Frelinghuysen assumed control, has been singularly unfortunate in the nature of foreign complications, or singularly unskillful in handling them. The cheek of the Nation had hardly regained its natural color after the slap administered by Chili, when a complaint comes from London that an American citizen has been expelled from the Turkish Empire. A London dispatch says: "The subservience of Frelinghuysen and Tom Wallace to the Turkish authorities renders the safety of every American in Turkey precarious." This is about the tone of intelligence from some other quarters. The United States will be fortunate if it recovers the standing abroad which the present Administration has lost through excessive timidity.

AND now it is proposed by some of the overworked Congressmen who labor for $5,000 a year with tobacco and champagne thrown in at funerals and celebrations, to create a commission to investigate the cause of labor strikes and how to prevent them. Such a commission, well equipped, would probably go to the Yellowstone and National Park for a few months to investigate the climate of Montana, and next Fall they would present a duplicate of the Yorktown centennial bill as the sum and substance of their research, with a recommendation that they be allowed further time to continue their arduous labors next season.

ONE of the small Western colleges, known as Asbury University, has been offered the large endowment of $2,000,000 by W. C. Dupuy of Indiana, provided the institution shall bear his name. This man's name cannot be called euphonious, but it is no harsher than the present title, and nothing in a name can dull the melodious sound of $2,000,000.

THERE are 13,000,000 cows in the United States. This is more than are kept by any nation in Europe, Germany having the nearest, 8,062,221.

AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP.

A man applied the other day to Judge Green of Alameda county to be admitted to citizenship. As he expressed a willingness to swear allegiance to the United States Government, it occurred to the Judge to see what the man knew about the principles of the Constitution. The examination proved that he knew nothing whatever, whereupon his Honor refused to issue the papers. This may be a new departure, but it was in accordance with the usage of the times in every profession and business. In theology, medicine and law, the candidate for permission to practice in the professions is generally examined, and passed or rejected, as his attainments deserve. In the mechanic arts one's knowledge and skill are tested. A man who didn't know a saw from a hammer, and couldn't measure a piece of timber with a rule, would hardly be employed as a first-class carpenter. A boy who attempted to hitch a horse with his head towards the vehicle, would not be considered as a reasonable assistant in a livery stable. And so we might continue the comparison. Every branch of business and profession, we say, is conducted upon the principle that parties who would embark in them are presumed to have the requisite knowledge to enable them to act intelligently and usefully. Some such comparisons as these might have been running through the Judge's mind when he refused to admit the man to the privileges of citizenship. It is not necessary that one should be able to expound the Constitution, or even be acquainted with its details, to become a good citizen; but it does seem that every one enjoying the privileges of citizenship should at least comprehend the leading principles and purposes of the Government. This is just as true of a native as a foreigner. Citizenship in a great Republic is no ordinary privilege, and it does seem as if every reasonable precaution should be used to elevate the general estimate of this privilege, and thus purify and ennoble the sources of all political power under a free government like this.

FURTHER news from the Tejon Indian settlement corroborates the first account as to the destruction caused by the cloudburst. No damage was none to settlers farther up the cañon, as was feared. The flood came down a lateral opening in the mountain known as Cedar Cañon, joining the main cañon below where the people live. Many other cloudbursts occurred in other parts of the County about the same time, in the foothills on the south and east sides of the valley, over a distance of forty miles, and in Walker's basin. The ravines and gulches brought down torrents of water, and in many places the dry plains were covered with water, presenting the appearance of lakes.

AGAIN Russia resounds with preparations for crowning the Czar, which, despite Nihilist plots and rumored postponements, is announced positively for September 7. Troops are being detailed from every province, from Finland to the Don-Cossack region. The thirty gilded chariots are ready, and stables are being built in Moscow to receive them; and the court costumers are so flooded with orders that they are importing assistance from Paris and Berlin. Not the least important circumstance of the occasion is the fact that an Imperial manifesto establishing a popular representative Parliament is, by many, confidently expected on the day of coronation.

IT is reported by telegraph that Congressman Berry, "in a spirit of jocular reprisal," has introduced a bill "authorizing the Legislatures of California and Nevada to make provision for the annexation of the State of Nevada to California, and abolish the name and government of the former State." This is supposed to be a joke at the expense of Cassidy's bill giving the State Legislatures authority to transfer Inyo, Mono and Alpine to Nevada. It is stupendously funny. Berry should have received the Democratic nomination for Governor.

FROM 1873 to January, 1882, the gross ore product of Eureka District amounted to about $40,000,000. From 1869, when ore began to be produced in the district, up to 1873, at least $10,000,000 worth of ore was taken out of the various mines then being developed, so that the total gross ore product of Eureka District from 1869 up to January last may be set down within safe limits at $50,000,000.

THERE is an apricot tree on the Chowchilla river in Fresno county, Cal., that measures sixty inches around the trunk three feet from the ground. It is thought there is not less than a ton of fruit on the tree.

THE Cincinnati Commercial says if James G. Blaine is not the next Republican candidate for President he will have a great deal to say about who shall be.

THE Coroner's jury found that the recent accident on the New York and Long Branch railroad was caused by gross and culpable negligence on the part of the company.

WE LEARN from an exchange that on the first of August there will be instituted a twelve-circumpolar station, a combined international endeavor to hunt down some of the secrets of the North. Russia, Sweden, Norway, Holland, Austria, Denmark, Germany, England and the United States will cooperate in maintaining for a defined period certain scientific colonies on the confines of the poleward regions of the known world, to pursue there all those studies which it is believed will extend our knowledge of the terrestrial and meteorological conditions of that unexplored portion of the planet which stretches between the United States station at Lady Franklin Bay and the Russian station at the mouth of the Lena River. This will, perhaps, be the biggest game of "freeze-out" we have yet had.

IT IS A good thing for people to be satisfied with their several locations. This is the fertile source of patriotic sentiment. A Laplander in his snow-bound hut will laugh at the fellow who swelters in the tropics, and the gentleman in the torrid land no doubt commiserates his unfortunate brother who freezes in the polar regions, while we of the middle ground offer up thanks that we are situated as neither of them. The latest joke in this connection comes from a paper way down in the torrid belt of Arizona. Our contemporary says: "While sympathizing with afflicted people in States subject to tornadoes, we cannot but admire our own Arizona for what we will term the even temper of its 'elements,' and the honesty, so, to speak, of its weather."

THE California Southern Railroad is completed to within eight miles of Riverside, the length of the road being 110 miles from San Diego. The work has been stopped for want of rails. Four vessels are on their way to San Diego loaded with railroad material. It is fourteen months since two of the vessels sailed from Newport, England, and their long delay in arriving causes the fear that they may be lost. The business of San Diego is in a state of suspense awaiting the arrival of the vessels. But the California Southern continues to make improvements of a permanent character, from which the Los Angeles Times concludes that there is no danger of the road being absorbed by the Southern Pacific.

ALL the civilized world knows ere this that Charles Jules Guiteau, President Garfield's murderer, was duly executed at Washington a week ago yesterday. The subject is now too stale for republication of accounts. The world-wide notoriety which the assassin gained did not prevent him from meeting his just deserts like a craven coward, fully conscious that he was meeting with well-merited fate. Throughout the majesty of the law and the dignity of an outraged nation has been rule maintained, and crankism and the insanity dodge has got a lasting and deathly blow.

THE South is now in good agricultural condition, and the people of that section express great satisfaction over their prospects. The cotton interests especially are picking up, and a New Orleans paper counts on a 6,000,000-bale crop if the weather continues warm throughout July. In grain, cattle, fruit and vegetables the South is particularly fortunate this year, and there is every evidence that her financial status will be much better at the end of this year than it has been since the war.

IT was a lame and impotent conclusion to Guiteau's pretensions that he should be buried like a common malefactor in the Washington jail-yard, with convicts for his pall-bearers and not a single sincere mourner present. There is little question that the secret of Guiteau's strength at the end was his faith in the personal interposition of some higher power. His conceit was as colossal as his meanness, and it seemed only natural to him that he should be delivered from the law by a miracle.

THE verdict of acquittal in the Malley case at New Haven is a fresh illustration of the power of money in our courts of justice. Had the Malleys been poor they would have been able to engage not more than one mediocre lawyer, and the small army of experts and alibi witnesses would have been conspicuous by their absence. It may be that they would have secured acquittal without the expenditure of so much money, but the chances were decidedly against it.

THE Tennessee Democrats are more anxious to save a few dollars than to maintain a reputation for paying their debts. Having adopted a platform agreeing to pay fifty per cent. of the debt other than the ante-bellum debt, they may be regarded as just half honest.

THE California State Medical Society began the admission of doctors without regard to sex in 1855, and women are now admitted by sixteen State societies, including those of New York and Pennsylvania. If there is any good reason why they should be excluded anywhere, no one has ever given it.

IT IS NOW almost certain that Egypt and England will go to war. The London Times of June 26 says: "It may be taken for granted that there is something more than empty sound behind the preparations at the dock yard. We can but hope that if the Conference fails to find any solution of the Egyptian question, France will agree with England upon some plan of united action, or leave us free to act alone. Expeditionary forces at Gibraltar and Malta have been constituted and commanders and staffs nominated." Should these preparations go on, the war will be a short and bloody one. And there might be a general uprising all over Europe. The signs of the times, say the wise ones, indicate a bloody year.

OVER 1,000,000,000 three-cent stamps and 350,000,000 postal cards were sold during the past year. As the result of these figures, the department officials feel warranted in asserting that when the final statement of receipts and expenditures for the past year has been completed it will be found that the postal service has been self-sustaining. Of the deficiency appropriation of $2,152,258 made by Congress last year to meet the expected deficiency in the postal revenue, not one cent has been drawn from the Treasury. This is the first year since 1851 in which the receipts of the Postoffice Department balanced its expenditures, with the exception of one year during the War of the Rebellion.

MUYBRIDGE, the California photographer whose experiments with horses and other moving objects have created universal interest among all classes, comes to the front with a new idea—the employment of photography as a means of determining "dead" heats between racers. He claims that there never was a genuine dead heat, and everybody that has attended speed contests in which the judges decided that neither horse had won, will recall with what dissatisfaction such decisions were received.

DELEGATE BRENT has prepared a bill for the admission of Washington Territory as a State. He claims the population of that Territory to be about equal to the present Representative ratio, the assessable value of its property to be about $300,000,000, and the true value twice that amount. He shows that nearly every new State was admitted with less population and wealth than Washington Territory now has.

THE Tuolumne Independent says that within the last four months Mr. Divoll has taken $182,000 from his mine near Sonora. The mine employs but three or four men, is worked very inexpensively, and all this gold was taken from a space only a few feet square, with plenty more in sight.

THE Press says the Directors of the Santa Barbara County Agricultural Association have decided upon holding the annual fair about the first of October. They have received such pecuniary encouragement from their citizens as will justify a very liberal premium list.

THE INDEPENDENT acknowledges the flattering compliments of the Aurora Herald and the Candelaria True Fissure, on the occasion of this paper having attained its thirteenth year of publication. Thanks, gentlemen. We may be happy on this end of the line yet.

AN elaborate addition to the Executive Mansion at Washington is contemplated. It is proposed to erect a new building directly south of the White House, and connected with that structure by a corridor, the improvement to cost $300,000 to begin with.

BISHOP JOHN SHARP of Utah, who is now in New York, tells the reporters that polygamy in Utah will be abolished after awhile. Judging from the tendency of one of the few good acts passed by the present Congress, this is a very safe prediction.

THE reduction of the public debt the past year has been the largest in the history of the country, and the income of the year is the largest in any year except 1857 and 1869.

A CYCLONE killed between twenty-five and thirty persons and destroyed about $75,000 worth of property at Coalville, Pa., on Friday of last week.

AT New Haven, Conn., last Saturday the jury in the Malley trial for the murder of Jennie Cramer brought in a verdict of not guilty.

IT is expected that the Postoffice Department will have a surplus of $1,000,000 at the close of the fiscal year, July 30.

IT is known that negotiations for the purchase of Guiteau's body were nearly completed before the execution.

THE coronation of the Czar goes over for a year, because of the threatening attitude of the Nihilists.

THE Senate has cut down the bill for the expenses of Garfield's illness from $75,000 to $57,500.

UP to March 1st there had been paid $500,781,950 to pensioners of the late war.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JULY 8..... 1882

AT LONE PINE.—Our Lone Pine correspondents and informants generally have failed this week to enlighten us as to the particulars of the Fourth of July proceedings at that place. From the enthusiastic talk of parties who were present from here, who did not get there in time for the day's exercises, we should judge the whole business to have been an immense success. The Lone Pine Hose Co., under the foremanship of Si. Quinn, with W. B. Harvey as assistant, paraded in uniform. A lengthy oration was delivered by Capt. J. M. Keeler and a short and spirited address by A. A. Montano. J. J. Stewart acted as President of the Day, and Geo. H. Gregory read the immortal Declaration of Independence. We have no further particulars. The ball at Peterson's Hall, under the management of the Hose Company, was attended by sixty couples, and is pronounced to have been one of the finest affairs ever gotten up in the County. The boys appeared in regular uniform, and the music was furnished by two fine bands. The supper at the Whitney House comes in also for great praise, and—well, we weren't there, and only know that our boys say the proceedings were conducted in the most perfect order and in the highest degree creditable to the Lone Piners generally and the embryo fire jakies in particular.

THE FIRST.—Our late senior shies his castor into the political ring. He is the first of would-be candidates brave enough to lead out in a regular announcement, which will be noted elsewhere. Mr. Chalfant, though taking somewhat of an active interest in politics, personally, has confined his aspirations toward such lucrative positions as School Trustee, etc., which important trusts he has presumably managed to the satisfaction of the school marms and others interested. He is a phenomenal '49er, being devoted to educational matters and most decidedly opposed to whisky. He is also well disposed toward the Church interests, but he will swear occasionally. Our good efforts to morally improve him in this respect have proved failures. It seems that he is not susceptible to moral suasion or influences, good or bad, for coin, money, greenbacks or marbles. Speaking seriously, however, Mr. Chalfant is better known to this community through his writings on this paper than personally, his duties and inclinations making him much more of a stay-at-home than this scribe. This paper speaks independently and has no concern in his fight, more than to say to its readers what they already know—that if nominated and elected he would make a competent, honest officer.

REGISTRATION.—It should be well known by this time that all citizens of the County must be re-registered, else they don't vote at the coming election. All that is necessary to be done by those who were on the old register is to make a written application to the County Clerk, stating present age, occupation and voting precinct. Parties from other Counties where they are not making a new Great Register must procure transfers, or certificates of cancelation there. There are Deputy Assessors throughout the County authorized to receive applications for registration, make out certificates and forward them to the Clerk. Persons intending to become citizens, who desire to vote at the November election, should bear in mind that they must have been admitted to citizenship and have their names on the Great Register ninety days prior to the election. No doubt there are a number of persons in the County who are eligible to become citizens, and who doubtless intend to become such and vote this Fall, but who, if they are not careful, will find that they have delayed too long. The Central Comitteemen of each precinct should look out for such persons and aid them.

THE BALL.—The ball at the Court House on the evening of the Fourth is entitled to be recorded as a grand success. Some forty couples or more joined in the trouble, to the excellent music of Curt Ober's band, the exercise ranging from old-fashioned breakdowns to modern fancy touches of the light fantastic. Everything went off smooth and gaily, more especially the supper—in which important item the Blaney House management proved itself boss of the situation. There were quite a number present from Big Pine and around about, but our Jenkins—having failed to connect in the matter of a complimentary ticket—did not overburden himself with a pencil to make a record of the names of those in attendance.

AT WORK.—Mr. Chalfant has been for the past three weeks quite steadily running the old Brown Monster mill, and some two weeks more time will be required to complete the work contemplated in the original undertaking. He intends working all the ore on hand, the concentrations and perhaps a lot of tailings. He may put some needed repairs upon the mill—on the wheel, batteries and pans—but that depends upon whether the owners of neighboring mines offer sufficient custom ore for working to justify it.

THE KEYNOT.—Supt. McEvoy shut down the Keynot mill at Beveridge on the 30th ultimo, after a crushing of 61 tons of ore sorted from the waste dumps at the mine. About $2,500 in gold was the result. The mill will be started up again on the 15th, on ore from the Keynot, and will probably work a lot from the Lapwing mine.

STARTED UP.—The reconstructed Pioneer mill started up on the 2d instant, on a lot of tailings from the old Kearsarge, which will keep it in operation all the season. Everything works satisfactorily, and the indications so far are that the results will be very good.

THE HAWLEY MILL.—The mill at Keeler City will be started by Supt. Wheeler on Monday next. There is some 300 tons of gold ore from the Palma mine on hand, with a sufficient supply of wood to run it through. Mr. W. S. Woodhull, foreman in charge of the mill, will be assisted for a time by his brother, Mr. S. D. Woodhull. During the absence of the latter gentleman from his office here specimens and samples for assaying may be left at or sent to this office. They will be promptly forwarded to Mr. W. at Keeler, where he has equal facilities for work as at home.

THE PINK-EYE.—From Mr. William Hamilton, who was in town during the week, we learned that a number of his stage horses on the southern end of his line are affected with that strange disease known as "pink-eye." It has been endemical over the State and now seems rapidly working its way in this direction. With good care few of the animals die, though it is described as being worse than the epizootic. It behooves our horsemen to take every precaution to prevent the disease from getting a start in the valley.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.—In a new advertisement elsewhere this week will be found a call for a primary election to select members of a County Convention, the duty of which will be to select delegates to the State Convention. The dates, apportionment of delegates, etc., will be noted in the call. Up to date the Republican State Central Committee has not issued a call for a State Convention, so that the number of delegates apportioned to this county is not known as yet, but three will probably be the number.

AT BISHOP.—We are in receipt of a note from an esteemed lady correspondent at Bishop Creek, in which she makes an addition to her report of the Fourth of July exercises at that point. The trouble is, however, that the report did not arrive, either through the post, express or stage offices. There has evidently been an oversight or negligence on the part of somebody, and as we could have no other source of information as to what transpired there we are utterly unable to report anything about it.

STAGE MEN.—Mr. J. H. Scott and Mr. H. F. McCarter, representing the contractor for the Caliente and Independence mail route, were in town two or three days. The company's subcontractor having failed to take hold of the work, and the agents above named having failed to find any one else willing to undertake it on the basis of their bid, it is a safe prediction that "old Bill Hamilton" will keep right along, just as though nothing had happened.

THE BOARD.—Supervisor Robinson has been during the week making a formal compliance with the law regarding the equalization of taxes, in the absence of other members adjourning the Board from day to day. So far no business has been filed with Clerk, but it is understood that Supervisor Meysan—should his failing health permit—will be here on Monday next. Supervisor Olds has gone to Idaho, to be absent probably until Fall.

MINERALS.—Following is the classification of a number of valuable and interesting specimens added during the week to the collection of minerals at the Independence assay office: Fluorite, orthoclase, tourmaline, zinkite, celestite, pyrrhotite, tetrahedrite, titanite, rutite, zircon, malachite, microline, tellurium and apatite. Mr. Woodhull does not enjoy a monopoly of the last named article. It occurs at this office, also, about grub time.

CLOUD BURST.—The southern stage drivers report a heavy water spout in the cañon at Raymond's Station, between Coyote Holes and Indian Wells, on the 2d instant. The road was ruined for a long distance, while Raymond's barn and carp ponds were destroyed. These sudden and destructive floods have been unusually frequent and violent this season.

A CLOSE CALL.—While climbing the steep trail from the Kearsarge mill to the mine, the other day, Supt. Gray received a close call for the hereafter. His horse stumbled and fell down the steep cliff, Mr. Gray barely saving himself by jumping off. The horse fell about 300 feet, and was found so badly broken up that he had to be killed.

SERENADE.—Early Tuesday morning many of our townspeople were greeted with a delightful serenade by the sweet music of Taylor Aistrop's band. THE INDEPENDENT thankfully acknowledges one of the complimentary favors.

FRUIT.—Apricots and early peaches are ripening. It looks now as though there will be an abundant crop of fruit of all kinds.

NEXT WEEK.—Some interesting Inyo County statistics, as compiled by the Assessor, will be given in the next issue.

ENGINEER MELLEVILLE telegraphs from Ykaulski, under date of April 10, as follows: "I have searched the coast from the river Alanek to the river Jana, but have found no trace of the second cutter, or of Lieutenant Chipps' party. I have buried the remains of Lieutenant De Long, Dr. Ambler, Jerome Collins, also of seamen Lee, Garth, Dressler, Knack, Ivorsen and Boyd, and the Chinese servant, Ah Tom. I have secured every paper pertaining to the expedition. Seaman Ericksson and the Indian Alixia had already been buried on the river Lena. I am now en route to Irkoutsk."

ON the yard directly west of the Richmond Company's refinery is a stack of lead which has been accumulating for a long time. Our reporter computed the weight of the mass at 93,400 tons. It covers an area of 130x60 feet, and is piled to the hight of seven feet in some places.—Eureka Sentinel.

IT is not thought that Congress will adjourn before July 20th.

The Fourth in Cerro Gordo.

Not to be outdone by neighboring cities, Cerro Gordo, roused by the memories of her ancient and glorious days, celebrated the Fourth with great spirit.

At sunrise a national salute was fired by the Cerro Gordo Light Artillery, commanded by Captain Frank Betty, who, in the absence of Major General Ed. Steers, run the town—into the ground.

Later in the day the solitary citizen was treated to the melodies of a bull's horn solo, executed with great spirit by Prof. Betty from the top of Cerro Gordo Peak, where he had gone for air. This was greatly enjoyed by the aforesaid citizen, though he was at one time in great fear lest the eddies of wind from the horn would generate a water spout.

The Cerro Gordo Fire Engine Co. No. 1 paraded the streets with its Babcock fire extinguisher (borrowed for the occasion), and the splendid appearance of the long line of one fireman was the subject of general complimentary remark.

At noon the Cerro Gordo Heavy Brigade, commanded by Col. Crohn, paraded on the Plaza and fired the noon salute (two shots to one stick of Giant powder).

As no one could be found able to read the Declaration or repeat the usual prayer, the historic buncombe, bombasto furioso literary exercises were omitted, and the same was compromised on the drinks.

The intention to hold a grand ball in the evening was given up, as word had been received during the day from the belles of Saline that they had no shoes that would fit the trail. And so ended the glorious Fourth.

N. B.—Don't mention that General Steers went to Lone Pine on a little private business, as he did not want it generally known. VAG.

The Utah Commission.

The five gentlemen who are to rule the destinies of Utah until she is admitted as a State, are: First, Alexander Ramsey, who is best known as a War Senator from Minnesota, and who was late Secretary of War under President Hayes. Next comes ex-Senator Paddock, a former Governor and ex-Senator of Nebraska. He is said to be a man of great capability and if not wealthy at least independent. James R. Pettigrew is Journal Clerk of the Senate, a lawyer and a journalist, who has a great many friends and who comes from Arkansas. He and Mr. Carlton are the Democratic members of the Commission, the last-named gentleman being also a lawyer from Terre Haute. Both are prominent men, although we have no immediate means of knowing any exact details of their careers. The remaining member is J. F. Godfrey of Iowa, of whom we know very little also. We must trust that President Arthur has made wise appointments, as these five men will wield enormous power and control the whole Territory for some time to come. Whether they are firm and true to their oaths of office remains to be seen. The wily Mormons will lay many a trap to ensnare them and get them silently to acquiesce in the evasion of the provisions of the bill. Polygamy is a vice, and vice flourishes secretly. Whether the Mormon bill will effect the object for which it was framed is very much to be doubted. Only time will show whether the Commissioners will carry out to the letter its provisions or whether they will draw their salaries and allow its restrictions to be practically a dead letter.—San Francisco Alta.

Newspaper Bummers.

Truer words were never put in print than the following from the Austin Reveille: The most exacting and unprofitable readers, especially of a home paper, are a certain class of individuals who do not take or pay a cent for it. They generally wait about saloons, stores or other places of business for the carrier to come around, and are the first to get hold of the paper. After reading it entirely through, advertisements and all, monopolizingly depriving others of a chance to read it, they are the only ones who are liable to carelessly throw it aside, declaring that "there's nothing in it;" or if they happen to see some item of interest which they want, they will watch their chance to slip the paper into their pocket. Thus the man who pays for it often cannot get a chance to read it at all. Such newspaper bummers as are referred to are more plenty in other communities than they are in Austin, but there are more than one even here who can and will read the application of this little sketch to himself.

Railroad Commissioners.

The Railroad Commissioners met June 30, with Messrs. Beerstecher and Stoneman present, and Cone absent. Resolution 30, providing that the price of second-class tickets shall not exceed 60 per cent. of first-class rates, and resolution 32, guaranteeing stop-over rights to the holders of second-class tickets, were taken up, but on motion of Mr. Beerstecher action was deferred thereon until Mr. Cone, who was said to be detained from attendance at the meeting by reason of ill health, should be present. No further business appearing, the Board then adjourned until July 25. The resolutions above referred to were introduced January 12, nearly six months ago, and are now no nearer adoption than the day they were introduced, as it appears impossible to get the three members of the Board together.

HERE is an item of information which the party man, who wants to be well posted in political history, should impress upon his mind: According to a special bulletin just published by the Census Bureau, the number of male persons of voting age in the United States in 1880 was 12,830,349, of whom 11,343,005 were white and $1,487,344 colored. Of the whites 8,270,518 were of native birth and 3,072,487 of foreign birth.

SIXTEEN thousand men are now employed in railroad construction in Florida. Eighty thousand people have settled in that State in the past ten years.

THE pestiferous fly has arrived with all his relatives, and to alleviate suffering humanity something must be done. Here is a simple remedy that will drive flies away: Buy an ounce of oil of lavender and pour half of it into a pint bottle of cold water and shake it up; the mixture is a medicinal one only; if dissolved in alcohol it is a perfect solution, but this becomes more expensive; scatter your water and oil of lavender on the tablecloth and the flies will go away. Three or four doses will rid a country boarding-house of these pests.

THE Mexican Government has granted an exclusive privilege to an American company, with exemption from taxation for fifty years, for a stock exchange and trust company at City of Mexico, with a capital of $1,000,000.

BEARS, principally of the cinnamon variety, are becoming very numerous in portions of Calaveras county, and the papers contain frequent reports of encounters between sheep herders and the animals.

A Burning Coal Field.

N. R. Grant, the well-known prospector and miner of Jordan District, who has been encamped on the mountain side near the Mono Lake toll-house for several weeks past, spent five days of last week in prospecting the major Island of Mono Lake. He says that along near the eastern selvage of the island, near the southern end, are some fine coal croppings, from which issue thermal waters and a dense black smoke having the odor of burning stone coal. The springs are confined to the eastern base of the mountainous island, while the smoke issues from the croppings above. In a cove formed by an arm of the island putting out eastward into the lake is a fine fresh water spring, in the center of which is a large wooden post marked "M. D.," which looks as though it had been exposed to the elements for many years. In a large cove on the western side of the island is a great field of tules, in which rises warm water that is quite palatable when cooled.—Homer Index.

THE Denver Eagle gives the following as an obituary notice brought to it by a quiet, sad-eyed man, with the inquiry, "How much will it cost?":

Smith—Busted a trace, in this city, Friday, just after dinner, Mary Smith, wife of the undersigned and daughter of old Sam Pratt, the leading blacksmith of Denver, Colorado. The corpse was highly respected by the high-tonedest families; but death got the drop on her and she took up the buck with perfect confidence that she would have a square show on the other side of the divide. The plant transpires this afternoon at her boarding-house on Willow street. Come one, come all.

Dearest Mary, thou hast left us,
For you on earth there wasn't room;
But 'tis Heaven that has bereft us
And snatched our darling up the flume.

Denver papers please copy and send bill or draw at sight. By her late husband. P. SMITH.

A BAD cold will run its course of about ten days in spite of what may be done for it, unless remedial means are employed within forty-eight hours. Many a life will be spared by cutting a cold short off in the following manner: On the first day there is an unpleasant sensation of chilliness. The moment you observe this, go to your room and keep it at such temperature as will entirely prevent this chilly feeling, even if it requires 100 deg. Fahr. Put your feet into hot water, half-leg deep, adding hot water from time to time for a quarter of an hour, so that the water will be hotter when you take your feet out than when you put them in. Then dry thoroughly and put on thick woolen stockings. For twenty-four hours eat no food, but drink freely of any kind of warm teas, and at the end of that time if not sooner the cold will be effectually broken, without any medicine whatever.

A Hint to Prospectors.

The following sensible article we take from the Ketchum Keystone: We have never advocated the giving away of anything, unless, perhaps, we except a few occasions when charity made the demand, or a man had a contagious disease that didn't fit him, therefore we think we can be allowed to give the prospector a hint or two without being charged with acting from selfish motives. During the past twenty days there have been a number of capitalists on the river in search of investments in the way of prospects, but, we regret to state, without much success. Now, why is this? Is it because they did not offer what properties are worth, or is the prospector to blame? A fact or two will enable the reader to form his own conclusions. There are, perhaps, somewhere in the neighborhood of a thousand prospects on Wood River to-day that are more or less promising. Five hundred of these are in the market, but how many buyers have been in the field this season? We doubt if there have been twenty-five. According to this estimate there is, on an average, only one buyer to every twenty claims offered; in other words, the prospector stands only one chance in twenty of consulting a buyer, and when his man comes along, what is the result? In many cases it is like an instance which occurred here one day this week, which we will cite: A middle man learned of a prospect not far from Ketchum which was offered at $1,500. He consulted the owners and they agreed to accept this sum for their claim. He then reported to his principal and the price was accepted. Returning to the owner of the claim to make the transfer, he was informed that nothing less than $6,000 would buy it. Other parties then endeavored to make the purchase, and within twenty-four hours from the time the claim was offered at $1,500, its owners jumped it up to $40,000. There had not been a stroke of work done on it in the meantime, nor had any new discoveries been made. The advance was simply the result of an inkling that a rich operator was after the property. There was no sale, of course, and an expert who has since visited the property affirms that $1,000 is a big price for what is in sight. Now, if the prospector does not wish to sell, let him say so. If his property is in the market, let him name his price and stick to it. Just such work as that mentioned disgusts the very men we all desire to have interested, for in a large measure the development of the country depends upon their capital. If the possessor of a claim has faith in his property and is able to work it, by all means do so. We have always advocated this. If not able to develop it, why not sell out or take in a partner who is able to go ahead and ascertain what there is in the prospect? The death-like grip with which many possessors of mere gopher holes hang on to their claims, and with no intention of either selling or developing, except perhaps just enough to make their title hold in the eyes of the law, is disastrous to the progress of the country, and sure to end in starvation for the owner. A man might just as well own a farm and refuse to work or sell it, or permit others to make it a source of income to him. There are dozens of good prospects within a few miles of Ketchum that to-day ought to be turning out a revenue for somebody.

THE longest line of fence in the world will be the wire fence extending from the Indian Territory west across the Texas Panhandle and thirty-five miles into New Mexico. Eighty-five miles of this fence is already under contract. Its course will be in the line of the Canadian river, and its purpose is to stop the drift of the northern cattle. It is a bold and splendid enterprise and will pay a large percentage on the investment. The fence will be over 200 miles long.

THE great mining regions of the United States have produced of the precious metals since the first discoveries in California about thirty years ago, the enormous sum of $2,000,000,000.

Blooded Wild Horses.

It has long been a current tradition that Cochise, when he was boss of this part of the country, took in a train somewhere north of us and killed all the men and drove the horses to broad pasture lands in the vicinity of his stronghold. Among the horses thus captured were several thoroughbred stallions from Kentucky on their way to California. This was supposed to have taken place about twelve years ago. A few days ago Recorder Jones, Major Frink and Wm. Cory went on a ranch prospecting expedition to Sulphur Springs Valley, and while there had a rather exciting experience. They were riding around the base of a hill and saw in the distance a band of horses running at full speed across the valley. Their curiosity was excited to discover what kind they were and they gave chase. It was noticed that they were coursing in the direction of some water, and the trio took a short cut at dead speed to head them off. The band discovered them when they were within a couple of hundred yards of them, and turned off in the opposite direction. They followed them up and were gradually gaining on them when a noble-looking stallion wheeled around and with glaring eyes, extended nostrils and uncovered teeth awaited for the pursuers. They were not anxious to get close to him, but could not pull up their horses until they were within a few feet of the enraged beast. He sprang forward to meet them, and Mr. Jones had to exert all the agility of his horse to avoid the fierce onset. The stallion tore up the ground in his infuriate rage, stood on his hind legs and foamed from the mouth. Jones had his Winchester ready to kill him in case of immediate danger, but could not bring himself to harm the noble-looking animal except in case of positive necessity. He describes him as being fully sixteen hands high and weighing not less than 1,200 pounds. His tail was heavy and swept the ground, and his mane was three feet long. He was a dark mahogony bay color and was, taking all in all, the finest specimen of horse flesh Mr. Jones ever saw. The rest of the band, about twelve or fourteen in number, were mares, and were also fine-looking animals, evidently sired by him.—Tombstone Epitaph.

Jewish Refugees.

The Hebrew Aid Society are somewhat perplexed how to provide for the Russian refugees who continue to arrive in large numbers at Castle Garden. Some of these refugees are not without resources of their own, as pauperism is not a characteristic of the tribe. Only in this emergency after they had been despoiled by persecution and forced into exile have they been in necessitous circumstances in this country. But since the exodus commenced from Russia, Hebrews without funds in reserve were sent here by benevolent European organizations. The Hebrew Aid Society generously extended assistance to their people, and at an expense of $25,000 a month kept them above want. But the funds of that society are now exhausted, and unless they are speedily replenished the Hebrew refugees will henceforth be in the same position as other immigrants. Such as have means can engage in business; such as are able and willing to work must have employment, as none can expect to be supported in idleness, but such as are weighed down by age and poverty and unable to earn their own subsistence, will find it a difficult matter to exist unless on the precarious dole of charity. It is stated that some of the refugees are students and demand support, as they are not accustomed to work. If their talents can be utilized they will be here appreciated and remunerated, if not liberally, at least with such compensation as will keep the recipient from absolute want. As a general rule, however, brain work is not in high request. The skilled laborer is better paid than the student. If he cannot support himself in the literary world, he can at least cultivate the soil and hoe his own way to a competency. There is no room for drones in this Republic—all men are expected here to be self-supporting and render an honest equivalent for the pay they receive.

RECENT census reports show California to be the largest sheep-growing State in the Union, it having 4,182,349 head—over one-tenth the aggregate number in the United States. Oregon has 1,032,162 head, and New Mexico 2,088,331. The proportion of sheep to population is in California about five sheep to each individual; in Oregon about seven sheep to each individual; and in New Mexico about fifteen sheep to each indvidual. Of the large States Michigan ranks first and Ohio second in sheep raising, but Rhode Island has the largest number of sheep in proportion to population. The whole number of sheep reported in the United States is 42,381,389. This number, large as it is, could be more than double, with advantage to the producers and consumers.

WHILE a colored man named Lewis Lowry was plowing in his field, about six miles east of Opelousas, La., his plow struck upon some obstruction, which upon examination proved to be a ten-gallon jar filled with Spanish silver coins of the date of 1779, and bearing the imprint of Charles III of Spain. The amount found is estimated at $8,000 to $10,000.

AN examination of the Japanese Indemnity Bill as passed by the Senate reveals a curious blunder. As amended by striking out and inserting various words and lines it is left so that the President is directed to pay Japan $785,000 out of his own pocket.

The Prospector.

There is only one class of persons connected with mining interests who, in the aggregate, are so unfortunate as not to make large profits. These are the discoverers. They are a class peculiar by themselves; they are in a measure, nomads, who, having cut loose for one reason and another from home ties and the influence of refined society, wander up and down over the great mining districts, seeking for a find, and when once found they sell it for a pittance, not knowing how good "they have struck it," for lack of scientific knowledge, and so they move on to the next, with the singular ambition to be known as excelling in discoveries. Fascinated with the romance, rudeness and independence of camp life, they live up in the great mountains, glory in their privations, and look down with pity upon the more effeminate dwellers upon the plains. They have no money to develop their discoveries, and have lost all business habits, if they ever had any, and do not know how to deal with capital seeking investment. Comstock, the discoverer of the world-famed lode bearing his name, sold it for $750 worth of groceries. One of the discoverers of the Terrible, out of which so much money has been made, sold his half for $500, and the remaining half was sold a few days later for a trifle more. The great Hercules was sold by the discoverers for "a mere song." The history of mining is filled with such instances, where these invaluable pioneers of the world's wealth have pointed the way to great riches for others, but have got scarcely anything for themselves.—Eureka Leader.

The Bank of England.

The Bank of England covers nearly five acres and includes most of a parish, with the church-yard, now known in bank parlance as "The Garden," and a very neat little garden it is. Long after it had ceased to be a burial ground an ancient servant of the bank, of amazing stature, was buried there for safe keeping by request of his friends, who feared that some enterprising museum would go for his skeleton. The bank occupies the site also of the house and garden of Mr. Houblon, its first Governor, a Huguenot of exemplary character, whose very wealthy descendants hold the estates he bought near London. The bank is guarded by a detachment of the Foot Guards, who take possession about 5 o'clock every evening. The officer on guard is allowed a handsome dinner for himself and two friends, with plenty of wine, but the friends have to depart at 11 o'clock. The men do not know who will be on bank guard, so collusion is impossible. The building has no external windows, and contains acres of vaults. In the daytime it is guarded by its own porters and by policemen, many of them in plain clothes, who are always on the watch.

A "CHEMICAL LUNG" is the latest thing proposed for the ventilation of tunnels. It was lately tested in London by fourteen scientists. A room 15x18 feet was kept for an hour at a temperature of 82 deg., and the air was loaded with impurities. The men of science were now called upon to enter, and the air was made still more impure by burning sulphur and carbonic acid gas. Then the "chemical lung," or punkah, so-called, measuring 4x2½ feet, was set in motion. The temperature was soon reduced to 65 deg. and the air freed from all impurities. Then fat was burned to test the machine for organic substances, and the "lung" was started up just in time to prevent the examining gentlemen from running out for fresh air. It is proposed to use the invention during the construction of the Channel tunnel. It is just the thing needed in the deep Comstock mines.

THE youngest pensioner of the Government is James W. Crandell, aged 15, who lives with his widowed mother at Philadelphia. A year ago last March he enlisted in the navy, and soon afterward was sent to southern waters on the Constitution. A fortnight later he was stricken with typhoid fever which left him stone deaf. The surgeon thought he was shamming to secure a discharge, and to test his hearing placed him between two of the largest guns, which were then simultaneously discharged. He stood like a statue, whereas the officers expected to see him jump like a roebuck. He felt the deck tremble, but heard nothing. He draws $13 a month. His brother John, aged 17, who fell from one of the yards of the Constitution and broke his arm, has just applied for a pension.

A RUSSIAN naval officer has invented an ingenious apparatus for ascertaining the depth of the sea without the use of a costly and heavy line. Indeed, no line at all is used. The instrument consists of a piece of lead, a small wheel with a contrivance for registering the number of revolutions, and a float. While the apparatus sinks the wheel revolves, and the registered revolutions indicate the depth. When the bottom is reached the lead becomes detached, the float begins to act and the machine shoots up to the surface, where it can easily be fished up by a net and the register read off.

THE Yreka Journal says: F. J. King has 150 acres of wheat on a piece of land between here and Willow creek into which the crickets have made a raid. He has a drove of hogs prepared to drive through it in running off the main body of the greedy insects, to be followed by cayuse horses fully provided with sleigh-bells. He thinks he can frighten the crickets to move on without stopping to feed on his young wheat.

SATURDAY, JULY 15.....1882

JAMES E. PARKER.

ONE of the most sensible of the American correspondents in London predicts that the naval demonstration before Alexandria will end in a fiasco. He declares that only half-hearted measures can be expected from the Gladstone Ministry, and that if the Sultan will only make a few promises, the war cloud will be lifted. Judging from the last Eastern difficulty, this would seem to be a safe prophecy, but the latest news from Alexandria is ominous. The telegraph states that last Monday Admiral Seymour discovered the Egyptians strengthening their batteries. He warned them to surrender or fire would be opened in twenty-four hours. The Admiral is evidently a man of action, and chafes under the Moslem style of diplomacy. He would relish nothing so much as bringing his heavy guns to bear on the city, and if this comes to pass, it would take only a few hours to reduce Alexandria to ruins.

THURLOW WEED, in a letter to the New York Tribune, predicts the failure of the recent radical measures in Iowa and Kansas to stop intemperance. He thinks that when we become a grape-growing country like France or Switzerland, the practical remedy for intemperance will soon be reached. "When grapes," says he, "are produced in sufficient quantities for all classes, it will be within the scope and duty of Congress to perfect a reform that will emancipate the people from the effects of intemperance. This reform is to be accompanied by furnishing wine, both abundant and cheap, while by legislation, whisky, rum, brandy, etc., can be made so dear as to be out of the reach of the laboring classes." He thinks that California, Kansas and other States with a soil adapted to grape culture had better turn their attention to wine culture.

THE track of the new Atlantic and Pacific Railroad is now laid for thirty-one miles east of Mojave. Graders are some distance in advance. A quantity of American steel rails arrived in port on the 26th ultimo, and the work of grading and tracklaying will go forward rapidly. It is thought that this consignment of rails will carry the road forward about ten miles. More steel rails are expected soon. Ahead of the present track, at the thirty-eight mile station, an artesian well has been sunk. Water was found at 187 feet, but the boring was continued and the well is now 204 feet deep. The quality of the water is not really known, as the well has not been pumped out and the water allowed to settle. A deep-water pump is to be forwarded this week.

THE majority of the Board of Supervisors of Kern County have agreed to compromise the taxes with the railroad company for the years 1880-81, on the basis of a valuation of $10,500 per mile. The railroad company agree to pay all the costs incurred by the County so far in the collection of the five per cent. penalty imposed by law for delinquency, and $1,000 for the Tax Collector's fee. The job is to be effected by means of an agreed judgment against the company in the United States Circuit Court. All the taxpaying and intelligent portion of the community denounce the compromise and say that the Attorney General should interfere.

A LONDON dispatch dated July 10th gives the following particulars of the death of the great Russian General: General Skobeloff's heart complaint, it is thought, was due to a contusion received during the attack on Plevna. His end was without warning. Only a week ago the General rode seventy versts in little over a night. He spent the greater part of Thursday at the Moscow Exposition, and returned to his hotel in excellent spirits. There were at first reports of foul play, but a cursory examination showed that death was caused by a rupture of the vessels of the heart.

DURING the past six years the Internal Revenue Department of the United States has collected nearly $800,000,000, at an annual expense of about $1,500,000. It is erroneously supposed by many that a very large proportion of the internal revenue collected is consumed in paying the salaries of collectors, etc., who are vaguely alluded to as "an army." As a matter of fact there are exactly 3,197 persons in the Internal Revenue service, and it is much to their credit that during the past six years not one cent has been lost to the Government by defalcation.

WE have no colonies, and it is mooted we have no navy with which to terrify dwellers in other lands, but on the Fourth of July the flag of our country was given to every breeze that blew throughout the world, and all civilized nations united in a tribute of respect and congratulation to the great Republic.

OLD PANAMINT.

This great spread-eagle district is referred to at length by THE INYO INDEPENDENT. It recites its prospective greatness at the first discovery of the Panamint ledges. A railroad was to be built from Santa Monico to the barren rocks of the silver-bearing district. A whirl of excitement spread over Surprise Cañon, which even surprised the cañon itself. Enough! The smart men, miners and experts, without digging deep into the bowels of the earth, took everything for granted, and the goose hung high. Some chlorides went up into the thousands, but they were what the miners call pockety. After finding that they had no mines, but plenty of machinery, the whole thing was abandoned. Old Panamint is played out; and THE INYO INDEPENDENT, when it speaks in good terms of any mines in that district, had better look sharp to its source of information. We are in favor of every legitimate mining enterprise in this State and out of it, but we do not propose that "nameless" schemers shall fleece the honest but gullible public by their barefaced statements. It will be well for the San Francisco and New York mining buyers and sellers to look upon Panamint and Panamint mines, and all the soft-named schemes having their birth on nothing, to avoid them.—S. F. Alta, editorial.

THE INYO INDEPENDENT, in speaking of the prospects of that County, gives it a black eye by stating that "a new corporation has been organized in New York by Mr. George M. Pinney and friends, known as the Richmond Mining and Milling Company." Its capital stock is $500,000 in 100,000 shares, par value $5 each, same as the Inyo Consolidated Mining Company, and to gull the foolish public by buying stock of a company which has something or nothing, and mostly the latter. Mr. George M. Pinney's history in San Francisco is not such as would induce any sane man to buy a share of any mining stock with which his name is connected.—San Francisco Alta, local.

We quote the foregoing from the San Francisco Alta, simply to show our home and outside readers something astounding in journalistic depravity, something resulting more from malevolence than ignorance. We stand by our report of Panamint as the distrsct is today, and propose to defy all would-be blackmailers to show a word to the contrary. As to our "sources of information," had the Alta scribe even cursorily read the article, he must have noted that the entire mines and the mill underwent our personal inspection for days. The Alta, in attempting to black-eye this County, had better seek for fairer inspirations than from those dogging the steps of Geo. M. Pinney, who is infinitely purer and above the hundreds who are barking at his heels. Perhaps the Alta envies the New Yorkers having received dividends accruing from a gross yield of over $107,000 since the Inyo Con. management succeeded to the property. Perhaps the Alta wasn't "seen," or its permission asked. It may be sadly grieved because none of the Inyo Con. stock or that of the new Richmond is for sale. Panamint never was "abandoned," but why kick and say it is "played out" because like scores of other districts it is reviving under a sensible mining system and economical management? Considering the actual new developments in nearly all the mines described in our report, there is no better silver district on the Coast than Panamint, and none destined to prove a more steady or greater producer of bullion. While out of personal venom, the Alta condemns the district, it has the hardihood to clatm that it is "in favor of every legitimate mining enterprise." To anyone having the slightest knowledge of the facts such hypocrisy is simply nauseating,

ACCORDING to a telegram from Alexandria the loss of the Egyptians must be dreadful. A number of shells repeatedly struck the works just about the guns and threw up vast volumes of yellow dust. It was often thought that the guns must have been dismounted, but they appeared uninjured when the smoke had cleared. It is likely that the European quarters in Alexandria have been seriously damaged. Several shells from the Inflexible were seen to burst immediately over the center of the town.

THE expected English-Egyptian war opened at Alexandria on the 11th, by the bombardment of the forts surrounding the harbor. That business is doubtless settled by this time—the town demolished, and the rebellious Arabi Pasha is probably being hunted in the interior. It will be a brief but tremendous racket in new and modern warfare. It may bring on much diplomatic complications among the Great Powers of Europe, but that it will result in a general war is doubtful.

RECENTLY the Chicago Tribune sent out interrogatories to fifty-three life insurance companies, asking them for the amount of their receipts and disbursements, their assets and reserves since their organization. From the responses received the Tribune published a lengthy article showing that payments to policy holders in 1881 were over $58,000,000, which exceeded the losses paid by all the fire insurance companies by $19,075,421.

THE Egyptians are not bad marksmen. One of the British ironclads, although it was constantly changing position, was hit five times.

ENGLAND seems to have a happy faculty of getting into trouble with her immense dependencies. The Daily News learns that there has been important correspondence with the Canadian Government relative to the resolution passed in the Dominion Parliament approving home rule for Ireland. The Imperial Government, the News says, has expressed its emphatic disapproval of the conduct of the Dominion Parliament.

THE London Truth is authority for the statement that marriage has improved Sarah Bernhardt. She looks better, acts better and behaves better than ever before. Her solemn-looking Greek husband, either through his strength of will or her weakness through love, has succeeded in transforming her whole nature.

THERE are seventeen savings banks in California, and the total deposits in July, 1881, amounted to $50,000,000. In 1877 the deposits reached $76,000,000. In the United States, in May, 1881, there were 2,335,582 depositors in savings banks, and the amount deposited was $881,000,000.

THE Guion Company's steamer Alaska has once more beaten her own time in a voyage to the westward. On the 25th of June she arrived in New York, having steamed the 2,877 miles from Queenstown in six days, twenty hours and forty-nine minutes.

FEW persons, it is to be hoped, will care to read Dr. Lamb's report of the post mortem examination of the body of Charles J. Guiteau, and those few will find it no easy task, as it is couched in a scientific jargon difficult to the non-professional reader.

POLITICAL sheets of both parties are directing their mud-slinging apparatuses toward proving each other the blackest in their support of the railroad company. We suppose Stanford and Crocker can stand it, though.

THE New York Graphic has made the interesting discovery that there is no such thing as unskilled labor; that it requires an acquired knack to even carry a hod safely up a ladder, plow a furrow or dig a ditch.

A SOUTHERN paper says: "Virginia drinks up her entire wheat crop annually, and the liquor drank in Louisiana costs $47,000,000—$2,000,000 more than its combined sugar, cotton and rice crop."

THE total area of land available for wheat culture in the United States is not less than 470,000,000 acres. Our entire wheat crop for one year would not suffice to sow so vast an area.

ENGLISHMEN returning home from Panama report that work on De Lesseps' canal is being performed by negroes from the West India Islands, and especially from Jamaica.

AN exchange says that a political platform amounts to but very little, if the right sort of men are not placed on it. This is a most important truth told in a few words.

CROLL, in his "Climate and Time," says: "Here is one way of conveying to the mind some idea of what a million of years is. Take a strip of paper an inch broad or more, and eighty-three feet four inches in length, and stretch it along the wall of a large hall, or round the walls of an apartment somewhat over twenty feet square. Recall to memory the days of your boyhood, so as to get some adequate conception of what a period of 100 years is. Then mark off from one of the ends of the strip one-tenth of an inch. The one-tenth of an inch will then represent 100 years, and the entire length of the strip 1,000,000 of years. It is well worth making the experiment just in order to feel the striking impression it produces on the mind. Could we stand upon the edge of a gorge a mile and a half in depth that had been cut out of the solid rock by a tiny stream scarcely visible at the bottom of this fearful abyss, and were we informed that this little streamlet was able to wear off annually only one-tenth of an inch from its rocky bed, what would our conception be of the prodigious length of time that this stream must have taken to excavate the gorge? We should certainly feel startled when, on making the necessary calculations, we found that the stream had performed this enormous amount of work in something less than a million of years."

THE majority in favor of the prohibition amendment to the Iowa Constitution is stated to be about 30,000.

Nevada.

Some bright genius has introduced a bill into Congress to abolish the State of Nevada and to attach the territory of that State to California. Of course the bill will not pass, but it will give some Congressional partisans a chance to say some dirty things, and some of the vicious newspapers of the East an opportunity to expatiate upon the fact that the sovereignty of Nevada should be taken away. We have always found it very difficult to understand why the Eastern people have such an antipathy to Nevada; for the whole State, during nearly twenty years of Statehood, has not received as much from the General Government as either of twenty small towns in the Eastern States have received. The State has given to the Union in bullion a sum averaging $25,000,000 per annum since its admission, and has in fact done more, by furnishing that bullion to keep good the credit of the Nation and to make it possible to resume specie payments than two such States as Kentucky and Tennessee. It is a desert State, depending mostly upon its mines and hence has to purchase its supplies from abroad. In such purchases the men of Nevada have paid the men of other States more money than five times their number in any other State have paid out. Because of Nevada the wealth of the East has been increased by $300,000,000. And now that the State is out of debt; that it is asking no favors; that it is really of more advantage to the Union than is either of fifteen States that we might readily name in the East, what is the particular anxiety of the East to treat the State as though it was a reproach to the Union? Some delight to call it a "rotten borough," intimating that money has been used in elections there in times past. A sufficient answer to that is that the money necessary to sway an election in Nevada would make the people of such great States as Maine or Indiana or even New York crazy. And surely no Senator of Nevada has ever had attached to him the odor of either Credit Mobilier, railroad or any other corporation swindles. And if the State is to be politically purified by attaching it to California, before it is done it will be well to re-read the description of the late Democratic Convention in California, as given by the Argonaut, or the next Republican Convention as it will be given by the Examiner. Or it may be well to re-read what Mr. Blaine said as he came down from Maine in 1880, giving as an excuse for a Republican State going Democratic that $100,000 had been sent there and the voters had been corrupted. Or it may be well to inquire if ever after an election in Nevada there have been found a suspicious quantity of two-dollar bills as there were in Indiana two years ago. There is an old story about a man who did well by minding his own business. The busy creatures who desire, at the expense of Nevada, to assume virtues which they have not, had better look up the story and learn it by heart.—Salt Lake Tribune.

FOR about a year there has been within the reach of the visitors to the Catholic cemetery a nice little plum of $2,100, which could have been obtained merely by putting one's arm into a hollow tree and dragging it out. But the opportunity exists no longer, some one having found the money and appropriated it. The owner, Joseph Miller, now wants to discover who found the money, which he drew from the French Bank long ago and concealed in the hollow tree under the impression that the latter was the safer place of deposit. He states that the money was in the tree June 18th, but was gone three days later. The money consisted of one hundred $20 pieces and ten $10 pieces. San Francisco Post.

FOR many years the reduction of the base ores of Meadow Lake has baffled the finest scientific skill brought to bear on the proposition. The principal difficulty has been found in the extreme hardness of the rock, which is essentially iron ore. The gold in it is coarse and plainly visible, but mining and reducing the ore is too expensive for profit. An iron working company of Burlington, Iowa, now propose experimenting with it, working and smelting it as they would iron ore, precipitating the gold while the iron is in a liquid state, so that it will be found in the point of a cone of the metal when cooled off.

IT is reported that the "Schalker Gruben und Huettenverein" of Westphalia, Germany, propose to utilize blast-furnace slag in the manufacture of bricks. The pulvervized slag will be mixed with a small proportion of lime and pressed into the shapes required, and after having been dried by exposure to the air will be ready for use. The erection of suitable compressing machinery capable of yielding a daily output of 15,000 bricks is contemplated, and will thus afford a profitable and efficient means of disposing of the large quantities of slag produced.

THE Calico mining district is fighting its way into the ranks of prosperous communities. The obstacles which it must overcome are exceptionally great. The intense heat breeds a fatal fever which is now very prevalent. Water is carted from the Mojave river, eight miles away, with the thermometer at 103 degrees in the shade. Notwithstanding these drawbacks real estate recently rose $3 per foot in the favorite localities in one day. Despite the fever and heat it is determined to be a prosperous camp.—S. F. Chronicle.

THE North Bloomfield hydraulic company, in Nevada County, has commenced the construction of a dam in Humbug cañon, below their mine, to hold back their debris. It is described as a crib dam, being built of large logs firmly fastened together and held in place by huge bowlders and chains. The hight of it when completed will be fifty feet. It will hold all the debris coming from the mine during the next season. When it is filled another will be built below it, and so on as long as there is any gravel to wash.

A PHILADELPHIA medical college cremates its dead bodies after they have been hacked and sawed for the education of the students. Several barrels of human ashes, the remains of 100 "subjects," are now on hand at this college.

ONE little touch of thoroughly Italian superstition, together with a strange coincidence which will not tend to diminish that superstition, was noticed in connection with the death of Garibaldi. So soon as his death was publicly announced, all the numbers which could be formed out of the date and hours thereof were freely played in the public lotteries. Thirteen was the favorite number, because it included many of the combinations and is superstitiously regarded as the death number. And thirteen was the first number drawn. The amount of money won by the poor people in small sums was something unprecedented—a fact which gave rise to the popular expression: "Yes, Garibaldi always took the part of the poor against the rich."

A woman and two children were found starved to death in a lonely section of Van Buren County, Arkansas. It is believed that the woman fell sick and the children, being too young to send out to secure aid for her, perished. A third child was still alive and had gnawed a piece of flesh from the arm of one of her dead sisters. It died soon after the discovery was made.

GARIBALDI'S body was found to be scarred with ten gunshot and bayonet wounds.

"KEAP MUM."—A penciled note on the reverse of a scurrilous anonymous screed addressed to a young lady says: "Keap mum os this is lible to appeare in print." Very likely. Here is a sample stanza:—

Your actions there is what He calls Ignorance or naglence of thought
Now what they wer I nust bring to light
A prominade once and a half around the Hall
With one of your opisit sex who is intoxicated
Is but the actions of a flirt

Our readers will remember an intellectual treat in these columns two or three weeks ago, headed "Just So," etc., wherein the writer said he was "going to have a little home from of the River," and referred to Mr. Shoddenheffer and Mrs. Spugendike, et al. Coming anonymous, the writer was utterly unknown to this office, and with the laudable purpose of squelching further heartrending emanations and grammatical butchery, we gave it verbatim. It appears to have had an opposite effect. Some able-bodied relative or friend of the young lady should hunt the writer out and eternally mash him to pieces for such contemptible work.

NOT SO.—A Lone Pine correspondent complains that in our brief mention last week of the Fourth of July proceedings at that place a slight was intended for the Orator of the Day, inasmuch as his oration was referred to as a lengthy one. We disclaim totally any such intention or that it can be fairly so construed. Capt. Keeler's reputation as an entertaining, logical and forcible speaker needs no special support from us. The article distinctly stated that correspondents had failed to report; that we had no means of learning what was said or done during the day, and not much as yet for that matter. Neither had we any "points" whatever as to the success of the entertainment on the evening previous, though the public might be well assured of a most enjoyable affair from the well-known accomplishments of the participants. We are pleased to give place to the card of thanks elsewhere, by the boys of Lone Pine Hose.

RETURNED.—Nathan Rhine, Esq., reached home day before yesterday, after quite a long stay in San Francisco. His most interesting report regarding the outside world is in reference to the Carson and Colorado Railroad. The stoppage of work on the line to connect the Bodie and Mono Lake road with the Carson and Colorado will in nowise affect the extension of the latter road this way—may considerably expedite the work, in fact. It is undoubtedly the Company's intention to crowd it right along as fast as materials can be obtained. From other parties, we hear that about the last of this month a new station will be established near the summit, about twenty miles this side of Belleville.

PRIMARIES.—As per call, the Republicans throughout the various precincts will hold primaries to-day to select a convention to choose State delegates. That is, they are duly authorized to do so if they want to. In this precinct, in the absence of the Secretary and most other members of the County Central Committee, the Democratic County Central Committee have kindly consented to conduct the affair for them. There is nothing more commendable than a spirit of accommodation—especially in politics.

FOR ASSESSOR.—County Superintendent Symmes this week announces himself as subject to the nomination for County Assessor by the Republican Convention. For time almost out of memory Mr. Symmes been Superintendent of County Schools, and his acquaintance with the County and his well-known business qualifications make him competent to fill the position acceptably to the people.

FEATHERED PETS.—A little time can not be more enjoyably spent than by devoting it to a call upon Mrs. Dr. George and her cages of canaries—sweet singers, and whole families of noisy and impudent rascals of all sizes and colors. The old-time rage for canaries is reviving all over the East, and it is pleasant to note someone here who takes such a fond interest in them.

BROWN MONSTER.—Mr. Chalfant reports that his experiment of working concentrations in pans at the Brown Monster mill is likely to prove a fair success, so far as he can judge at present. We are unable to give particulars as to the results at present, because he don't know any.

FINAL PROOFS.—Parties intending to make final proof of land entries are informed that the presence of the Superior Judge here is not absolutely necessary. In his absence the proof can be taken before the County Clerk, if the Land Register so directs.

FREIGHT RATES.—In his advertisement this week, Jos. Le Cyr makes some important corrections as to the rates of freight charges from Mojave to the several towns, which show a material reduction. Merchants and shippers will take notice.

MILITARY ROLL.—The roll of persons of Inyo County liable to do military duty—able-bodied citizens, anxious to rush forth to fight for glory and their country—foots up this year to the number of 402, as against 219 last year.

KEARSARGE.—The new 50-foot shaft in the Kearsarge tunnel now lacks but twelve or fifteen feet of completion. The bottom is in a fine ledge. No one acquainted with Kearsarge rock but can tell that it is rich at a glance.

GOING NORTH.—Last Wednesday a band of about 100 head of horses, belonging to J. W. McMurry, were started out for Montana, from Big Pine.

Some County Statistics.

From the County Assessor's table showing the quantity and classes of real estate, the amount of improvements on each class, and the classes of personal property in this County for 1882, we copy the following items as set forth:

The assessment of Ida C. Adams was ordered reduced from the sum of $1,200 to $385.

C. W. Johnson, reduced from $1,600 to $1,280.

Application of A. H. Johnson for reduction was refused.

On application of Keynot Mining Co. for a reduction of assessment on their several mines from $15,000 to $7,700, said assessment was reduced to $9,300. Also on other mines of the same company as follows:

True Business, from	$1500 to $100

SLOW.—In the matter of filling the County official stations there are doubtless plenty of willin' Barkises, but they are slow to show up. An announcement costs no more now than it will a month or more hence.

SUPPLIES.—A pack train, loaded with general supplies for the Keynot, started over last Thursday. Some loads were taken over, also, by Jack Welch, to supply workers on the Lapwing property.

FOR SALE.—Farmers and hay men will do well to consult the "For Sale" notice elsewhere. It will be seen that Pap Walker has some good machines to sell cheap.

GOOD.—Greenly and Broder are reported to have "struck it rich" in their work on some mines near Cottonwood, Deep Spring District.

PREACHING.—Rev. F. M. Willis will hold divine services at the Independence school house on Monday evening next, at the usual hour.

SCHOOL.—The Independence school will re-commence on Monday next, under the teachership of Mr. Dan'l Crough.

FOR BODIE.—Judge A. R. Conklin left last Thursday, on a business and pleasure trip to Bodie.

The Fourth at Bishop Creek.

It is generally conceded that we had the best time on the Fourth we ever have had in the valley. The firing of salutes began at an early hour in the morning, together with ringing of bells and explosion of firecrackers.

Between 10 and 11 o'clock people assembled under the shade trees around the Baptist Church, where a platform and large awning had been erected.

R. Fred. Brooks, President of the Day, called the meeting to order and introduced Rev. Andrew Clarke, who made a short but effective prayer for the future prosperity of this nation as well as that of the other nations of the earth.

The Band then played "Hail Columbia," followed by the singing of "Star Spangled Banner" by the school children—led by their teachers, Mr. J. H. Shannon and Miss M. E. Temple—which was well rendered and done credit to their training.

Prof. Shannon then read the Declaration of Independence, with good emphasis and fine elocution, and it made one feel with what bravery and fortitude those grievances and principles of liberty were first enunciated, and at what a cost of life and suffering of years to fight for and achieve.

Mr. P. W. Forbes was next introduced as the Orator of the Day, and gave a more than ordinary speech, wholly extemporaneous, and with good effect. Several of the most salient points were warmly applauded, especially that of anti-Chinese.

Then followed a patriotic song by the Glee Club, with music by the Band, consisting of George Gill, Wash. Brierly and James McNally.

Mrs. L. Hutchinson then read an original poem, entitled "Our Country," which was well received.

At 1 o'clock there was a game of foot ball played on Main street between the N. and S. clubs. South won after having one or two of their men disabled by the heat.

Next was a wheelbarrow race. Several started out after being blindfolded and their locality confused by turning around a time or two. Two persisted in going towards the brewery each time, and some insinuated that they were most familiar with that direction. One who went with great speed brought up against a wagon by the roadside rather abruptly, while others went outside the stakes and consequently lost.

There were several sack races. The first came near being won by an American citizen of African descent, who, being urged too freely by his backers, fell and his competitors jumped by. These novel races of both men and boys caused much merriment. The stakes varied from three to ten dollars.

The wind-up was a laughable affair, consisting of several doughnuts hung on strings suspended from a rope stretched between two posts. The feat was to see who could succeed in eating a doughnut first, their hands having been tied behind them, and the rope kept agitated at the same time. Several boys entered the contest, creating much fun, and won different prizes.

The ball in the evening was well attended and was a very recherche affair. Supper was served at Madam Keppler's restaurant.

Much credit is due the several committees, of whom Prof. Shannon, Bill Hutchings, Vernon Smith and Charley Wright deserve special mention. L.

Card of Thanks.

TO MRS. SARAH STEVENS-HEENAN, MISS NELLIE HUGHES, MISS NETTIE THOMPSON, MRS. JOHN BARNES AND THE LONE PINE GLEE CLUB:

The members of Lone Pine Hose Co., No. 1, beg to tender their sincere thanks to the above ladies and gentlemen, who so kindly aided us with their services in advancing the prosperity of the Company in the entertainment given for our benefit at Lone Pine on the evening of July 3, 1882, pronounced by all to have been one of the most successful entertainments of the kind that has been given in our town. We also tender our grateful thanks to the ladies of Lone Pine, who so kindly volunteered their services in the decoration of the hall for the evening of the Fourth of July, assuring them of the gratitude and esteem which we have for their help and exertions in advancing the future success of our Company.

Railroad Building Stopped.

On Monday all work on the extension of the Bodie and Benton Railroad line from Mono Lake south was stopped, and the Chinamen engaged in grading, about 100 in number, were discharged. Many conjectures are indulged in as to the reasons for this action. Some say that the connection cannot be made this year as the C. & C. Company are unable to obtain the rails to finish their line to Benton. The grading of that road is within fifteen miles of Benton at the present time. What is more probable, however, is that the C. & C. people, who are in the lumber business, like the Bodie and Benton Company, intend putting on such a tariff on the business of the latter company as to exclude them from any profit in that business to outside points. The Bodie and Benton Company is a strong corporation, and may extend its line to the outside world on its own account. R. N. Graves, President of the latter company, is now on his way from the East, and will doubtless be in Bodie in less than a week. Our people have become so accustomed to the stages and the present way of doing business that they will not become greatly excited whether a railroad is built or not. Of the men discharged on account of stopping work only about twenty-five were white men. —Bodie Free Press.

A WINE MERCHANT at Neustadt, Germany, was recently fined 10,000 marks, had his entire stock confiscated, and was sent to prison for three years and a half for making a certain quantity of wine out of substances innocent in themselves, but bearing no relationship to the grape.

DURING the pay days just passed 920 men drew wages from the mines, mills and railroad companies in Bodie. Of this number 250 men drew their money from the railroad, the balance from the mines and mills.—Free Press.

THE INYO INDEPENDENT favors Hon. P. Reddy of Mono as the Democratic candidate for our next State Senator from this district, and looks with decided disfavor on the aspirations of W. D. Grady of Fresno for that position. We have not been admitted to a close acquaintance with the thoughts and opinions of the Democracy of Kern and Tulare Counties, but sufficiently so to know that Mr. Grady is not the man they want and that Mr. Reddy would suit them infinitely better. He is a man of intellect and force of character and withal of good common sense. Like him some man is wanted who would be of leading influence and the peer of the ablest and greatest.—Kern Co. Californian.

ONE of the best of the various late complimentary notices of this journal is the following, which we copy from the San Francisco Mining and Scientific Press:

THE INYO INDEPENDENT has started on its 13th year and volume. THE INDEPENDENT can always be relied on for local items, and would serve as a pattern for many larger papers in this respect. We never fail to find something of interest in every issue. It is one of our best interior exchanges.

IN THE FIELD AGAIN.—It gives us infinite pleasure to state that our old and esteemed friend Henry Isaacs has resumed business in Willows, this time under the firm name of H. M. Isaacs & Co. Mr. Isaacs is a thorough business man, honest and fair in his dealings with the people and liberal to a fault. He is enterprising and industrious, and a gentleman with whom our people have always taken a pleasure in dealing. —Willows Journal.

HON. P. REDDY, who represented Mono County in the Democratic State Convention, returned to Bodie Wednesday afternoon. It seems that the Democratic Senatorial Convention for this (the Fourth) District, will not take place until September, when, it is believed, Mr. Reddy will be nominated for the position—one which, it may be said, he is eminently qualified to fill.—Bodie Free Press.

TOURISTS.—A special train came down from Mound House on Thursday, having aboard D. O. Mills, Whitelaw Reid, H. M, Yerington, R. J. Laws and others. The evening was spent here and a visit was made to the end of the railroad the next day. On Friday evening Edgar A. Mills arrived and all spent the night here, returning northward on the following morning.—Candelaria True Fissure.

THE INYO INDEPENDENT says the Democratic Senatorial Convention for Mono, Inyo, Kern, Fresno and part of Tulare will nominate Hon. Pat. Reddy of this County for joint Senator. If so, that will settle the question.—Homer Mining Index.

P. A. CHALFANT, late of THE INYO INDEPENDENT, has announced himself as a candidate for Assessor of Inyo County. Mr. Chalfant is a first-class editor, and a good editor is fit for any position.—Bodie Free Press.

WHEN the Convention meets for the nomination of a State Senator the delegates from this County will present the names of John Tuohy and Dr. Asay.—Visalia Delta.

An Important Project.

For five months past we have been cognizant of the fact that negotiations were in progress among some of the leading capitalists of the Atlantic States for the organization of a company for the construction of a new, central and short line of railway from Denver, Colorado, to Oakland, in this State, and we are now pleased to learn that these efforts have resulted in the organization of a powerful company for that purpose, that ample means have been secured and that work has actually been commenced. The company has been incorporated as the "Colorado and Yosemite Short Line Railroad Company," and the route of the road is to be as straight as the nature of the country will permit, from Denver via the junction of Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah; thence across the Colorado river and the southeastern portion of Nevada to Deep Wells, in this County; thence across the Sierra through McLean's Pass (Lee Vining creek), through Tioga and Tuolumne Meadows to Yosemite, from which point a detour will be made to the west, the line passing near Sonora, Modesto and Stockton.

The surveys are being made at three different points along the line, but of these we know but little, save that U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor H. B. Carpenter of Lundy and a corps of assistants have been engaged in surveying McLean's Pass for the past two weeks. The pass has been formally located, in accordance with the laws of Congress, and is found to be one of the most feasible in the range. The corps of engineers will probably reach the mouth of Mill creek by the end of the present week; and it is understood that after surveying the northwestern shore of Mono Lake they will return to the line on Lee Vining Creek and run lines across the valley south of the lake. Advance engineers are also now engaged in inspecting the country from McLean's Pass to and beyond Yosemite, including the two passes through the dividing ridge between the Tuolumne and Merced rivers.

Locally this road will be of incalculable benefit to Mono County, as the incomparably vast mineral resources of this County are just beginning to attract the attention of capital. So far, the managers have been able to keep their names out of the papers, and all their affairs are conducted in a quiet and somewhat mysterious but sound business manner, through agents. The first that was known of it in Lundy was the arrival of several hundred pounds of freight for the engineers in the field, the freight being marked "C. & Y. S. L. R. R. Co." Everybody is figuring on which side of Mono Lake the road will be constructed—some contending that it will be south and that the road will then follow down Long Valley and Owens river, and others that it will be run on the west and north side of the lake and within a few miles of Lundy and Bodie.

Further developments in this important project will be looked for with the deepest interest by the people of this County.—Homer Mining Index.

THERE is a pathetic story told of the sister of Under Secretary Burke, who was assassinated in Phœnix Park. She has not shed a tear since the tragedy and her mind has given way. She sits at the window all day long, and at the sound of every footstep starts forward eagerly and exclaims: "He is coming!" When the footsteps pass she shakes her head sadly and murmurs in a weary voice: "Not yet, not yet." This is one of the after-tragedies of assassination; but there are desolate cabins in Ireland which are eloquent with grief just as pathetic. Progress has its horrors and its errors, but, after all, the tyranny and oppression which force progress are the primal criminals.

THE walls of the foundry for the Judson Manufacturing Company, Oakland, are nearly up to the required hight, and work on the woodwork of the other buildings will begin soon. Property is advancing in price in the neighborhood of the factory.

The Lesson of the Bombardment.

The bombardment of the Alexandrian forts has shown that the modern ironclad, armed with heavy guns of the best pattern, is more than a match for stone, brick or earth fortifications. It is true that the Egyptians had no shells, and therefore the ironclads were less exposed than they would otherwise have been. But it is significant that two of the ships anchored within fifteen hundred yards of the forts, and were able to maintain their positions for several hours. The Egyptian guns, though by no means so heavy as the English, were nevertheless very heavy ordnance—much heavier than any mounted upon an American fort. But they could not drive away the ironclads, nor could they seriously injure them; and the forts were in a few hours knocked about the ears of their defenders. The only ironclad which carried eighty-one ton guns did not approach the forts closely, but fired from a distance of two miles. Any one of the vessels composing the bombarding squadron, however, could have shelled Alexandria from a distance of five or six miles with destructive effect, and here is another lesson for the United States. The Alexandria forts were strong, both in construction and armament, but they have proved quite useless in extremity. There is to-day no fortified place in this country which is probably as strong as these forts, even in construction; certainly none carrying as formidable guns. What would be the result of an attempt to prevent the entrance of an ironclad fleet into any American harbor? Obviously it would be a failure. The simple truth is that this country is defenseless against a foreign enemy. We have no navy, and we have no fortifications. There is not in the country a single gun which could reply to those of the second and third-class ironclads which took part in the bombardment of Alexandria. It is not only San Francisco which is defenseless. New York, and Boston, and Philadelphia, and New Orleans are in the same situation. And what is more, it would be impossible to put the country in a state of defense in the event of a foreign war. It would take at least two years to forge heavy guns, such as those of the Inflexible. It would take longer to fortify our coasts and harbors. It would take still longer to build ironclads capable of withstanding those of Europe. These things being so, it must either be assumed that we are in some mysterious way absolved from the evils of war which impend over the rest of the world, or it must be confessed that we are acting very foolishly in neglecting all measures of defense. A wealthy country which cannot defend itself from foreign assailants is a constant temptation to the rest of the world, and some day that temptation will be yielded to. When it is there will be no time for preparation, and then we shall have to pay dearly for our blind optimism.—Sacramento Record-Union.

Effects of Too Much Brain Work for Children.

On April 28, Dr. Richardson, F. R. S., delivering a lecture on "National Necessities as the Basis of Natural Education," before the Society of Arts, brought forward the following extract—which happened to be a report of the Chairman of the evening, Mr. Edwin Chadwick, C. B., to the British Association in 1860—to show what an evil effect too much brain work, without a proportional amount of industrial occupation to support it, has upon young children: "In one large establishment containing about 600 children, half girls and half boys, the means of industrial occupation were gained for the girls before any were obtained for the boys. The girls were, therefore, put upon half-time tuitions; that is to say, their time of book instruction was reduced from thirty-six hours to eighteen per week, given on the three alternate days of their industrial occupation, the boys remaining at full school time of thirty-six hours per week, the teaching being the same, on the same system and by the same teachers, the same school attendance in weeks and years in both cases. On the periodical examination of the school, surprise was expressed by the inspectors at finding how much more alert, mentally, the girls were than the boys, and in advance in book attainments. Subsequently industrial occupation was found for the boys, when their time of book instruction was reduced from thirty-six hours a week to eighteen; and after awhile the boys were proved, upon examination, to have regained their previous relative position, which was in advance of the girls."

WHAT effect the strikes of the iron-workers may have upon railway construction during the rest of the current year cannot be told. Thus far the work has greatly surpassed that of last year, when the increase of mileage—between 9,000 and 10,000 miles—exceeded that of any previous year. Indeed, during the first five months of the year the increase was more than double that of the corresponding months of 1881. According to statistics compiled by the Railway Age, in 36 States and Territories, on 120 roads, no less than 3,480 miles of new railway were laid down during the time mentioned.

IN the low-lying districts of England, land is under water and wheat is much beaten down. If this goes on much longer the harvest of 1882 will be quite ruined, and the collapse of the British agricultural interest will be complete, a contingency which must add to the perils before the country.

THE question of abrogating the treaty of reciprocity with the Sandwich Islands, which the Louisiana sugar interest has tried to have abrogated, has been laid over until the next session.

Something Like a Sea Serpent.

The sea serpent must look to his laurels. The crew of a Shetland fishing boat unite in declaring that they were attacked a fortnight ago by a monster, in comparison with which the terror of the American waters is as insignificant as a shrimp. They declare they were hauling their lines twenty-eight miles east-southeast of Fetlar, when they saw at a short distance from them something that had the appearance of three small hillocks, each about the size of a six-oared boat upset, which blew when coming to the surface. It disappeared in the direction of the boat, and shortly after they saw the monster pass underneath the boat. When it came up again it started right in their direction with its mouth wide open—a mouth, they say, that to all appearances could have taken in their boat. There seemed to be whiskers of a green color and about seven or eight feet long hanging from its mouth, very large green eyes, and on its head were great bumps about the size of a herring barrel. They threw stones at it, but it still came on toward them, and only again disappeared below water when a few yards from the boat, on a charge of swan shot being discharged out of a fowling-piece into its mouth. The lines were then cut and all sail made for home, when the monster again appeared in their wake. This time they observed that it had two large fins, almost the size of the boat's mainsail, which were stretched up from its back; and its length they computed to be no less than 150 feet. It followed them up for a distance of nine miles and then disappeared.

Danger to Christians.

Christians in Jerusalem, it is feared, will be in great danger if there should be an outburst of Mohammedan fanaticism in Egypt and the countries surrounding it. Edith Holman Hunt, doubtless a relative of the eminent English artist, Holman Hunt, writes to the London Times as follows: "Having lived in Jerusalem from the commencement to the end of the last Russian war, and having thus experienced something of the danger arising from a threatened outbreak which was seething around us, I cannot refrain from asking a few words in the much-prized columns of the Times for the sake of pointing out how hopeless are the people in Jerusalem at the present juncture. Jerusalem is the center of fanaticism for all the people of the world, and should the long-threatened storm burst, the Christian inhabitants there will be among the first to feel it. They are singularly helpless, shut off from the nearest coast by thirty-six miles of difficult road. The whole of Christendom is interested in the question. Since there are people of every nation living in Jerusalem, cannot each Government send a frigate to Jaffa to give refuge to the fugitives while affairs are in the present hazardous condition? The only retreats are the convents, and these would ill hold out against such an outbreak as would take place if the banner of the Prophet were at last unfurled in earnest."

AN AMERICAN engineer—who, being engaged in the construction of a railway in China, has had unusually favorable opportunities of examining the famous Great Wall, built to obstruct the incursions of the Tartars—gives the following account of this wonderful work: The wall is 1,728 miles long, 18 feet wide, and 15 feet thick at the top. The foundation throughout is of solid granite, the remainder of compact masonry. At intervals of between 200 and 300 yards towers rise up 25 to 30 feet high, and 24 feet in diameter. On the top of the wall and on both sides of it are masonry parapets, to enable the defenders to pass unseen from one tower to another. The wall itself is carried from point to point in a perfectly straight line, across valleys and plains and over hills, without the slightest regard to the configuration of the ground, sometimes plunging down into abysses a thousand feet deep. Brooks and rivers are bridged over by the wall, while on both banks of larger streams strong flanking towers are placed.

MR. BARNES, the great Kentucky preacher, sometimes talks in a strange manner. The Courier-Journal says: Mr. Barnes left Frankfort yesterday for Dayton, Ohio, but left with the brethren a list will and testament request that they see his body is buried on the highest hill in the Frankfort cemetery, provided Christ's return to earth did not banish death before the evangelist's time should come, or he should be transported to heaven by angel's hands. His three weeks' work in Frankfort resulted in 1,249 confessions for the soul and 454 for the body.

THE northern division of the Mexico Central Railroad will be in operation next month from El Paso to Chihuahua, a distance of 200 miles. The work would have gone on much faster had the steel rails arrived with the expected regularity. For the first 100 miles this road runs through a poor country, but after that comes a fine, well-watered grazing and agricultural region.

THERE will be required in the building of the North Pacific's coal bunkers at Tacoma, W. T., more than a million feet of first-class sawed lumber, and the whole cost will be from $75,000 to $100,000.

MEXICAN advices say that the black smallpox is raging with great violence at Mazatlan, and that Hermosillo and Guaymas are quarantining against it. There have been fifty deaths at Mazatlin.

THE LATEST SENSATION.

There is a sensation brewing in Congress. A letter has been written by one J. J. Newell, formerly of Adrian, Mich., in which he declares that he has documents and papers to prove that no less than $2,000,000 in money, stock and lands were furnished for the pool in 1868 and 1870 to secure the passage of a bill making a land grant to the Texas Pacific Railroad. His communication is voluminous and makes specific allegations, withholding only the names of the persons involved. He says $90,000 in money and $200,000 in stock were placed in the hands of two Senators to disburse where it would do the most good in that body, and it was properly placed, so that eventually the gain was made in consequence. He alleges that $1,000,000 in stock was used to pass the bill in the House by the votes of members who took it as the price for their favor to the corporation. He asks a committee to name a day when he can be heard, and he will demonstrate that an investigation should be made. He pledges himself to furnish the names of the men who disbursed and accepted the bribes, and to prove the transactions by documentary evidence. Some of the committee are for stifling the inquiry, but it is understood that the majority are in favor of hearing what Newell has to offer. The question is pertinent, owing to the fact that the Texas Pacific never did any work to earn the lands, but has since been consolidated with the Gould-Huntington Southwestern system, and the bill is pending to confirm the grant to the consolidated roads on the ground that, although the Texas Pacific was not built the Southern Pacific was constructed, and had earned the lands. A majority of the committee favor non-forfeiture of the lands, and naturally certain of these gentlemen regard the exposure promised by Newell as a diversion against their position. Newell will no doubt be heard in a few days.

REV. DR. F. DE HASS, for two years United States Consul in Turkey, in a lecture in New York last Sunday evening, said: "The present disturbance is nothing less than civil war. It is rebellion against the Sultan and Khedive. Arabi Bey is a restless, ambitious Arab. He has founded a national party, and is trying to imitate Cromwell and Garibaldi, and wants to drive out all the foreigners, and yet they owe everything to foreigners. There is nothing in Egypt to build an independent Government up on. It would be like the negroes of the South trying to form a Government of their own." Dr. De Hass predicted that Arabi Bey would utterly fail in his ambitious projects, but he thought a religious war might break out that would spread over Asia, Africa and Europe, for Arabi is in league with the new prophet, Senausi, and also with the Chereaf of Mecca, the spiritual head of the Mohammedist religion. In conclusion he said: "One thing is certain; if this contest goes on, the Ottoman Empire falls. The Turks will be driven out of Europe and the cross be planted again on the Mosque of St. Sophia. A Constitutional Government will be established, and forty millions of our race be emancipated from religious despotism."

BUT little value is now placed on expert testimony as a rule, simply because the experts are brought in by lawyers on one side to be offset by another lot of "experts" on the other side. They manage these things much better in England, and the prospects now are that they will be differently managed in this country hereafter. The American Medical Association has adopted a resolution declaring it advisable and conducive to morals and the ends of justice that medical men called as expert witnesses in the Courts should be selected and subpenaed by the Judge, and not by either side. This is as it should be, as the recent displays in the Malley case, and last year in the Hayden case, and in the Guiteau trial, have brought the profession into ridicule and contempt, resulting in a loss of dignity and influence to the profession. And this applies not only to medical men, but to all classes of scientific experts.

AFTER serving a term of three years at the Carlisle School, about forty of the Indian students took their departure to spend the vacation at home. They will return and devote another year to study, bringing with them, as they promise, other young Indians to pursue the school course. These students belong to the Kiowa, Comanche, Cheyenne, Ponca, Wichita and Arapahoe tribes. When they have graduated and gone home to stay, it will be interesting to observe how far their wild nature has been subdued, and what influence they will be able to exert in winning the members of the tribes to which they severally belong from nomadic habits.

POOR EGYPT.

There is a lull in the Egyptian storm, but it is likely to break out again as soon as the position of Arabi Pasha is ascertained—that is, if he means to continue the fight. He will be likely to do so, unless the course of England shall be so generally approved by the Powers that it would be hopeless for him to attempt further resistance. Unhappy Egypt is certainly in a deplorable condition, and the practical destruction of Alexandria and the resulting panic throughout the country will, of course, only tend to make matters worse. The public debt is over $400,000,000. The land tax is about one-half the total revenue. The revenues for 1879 were only about $42,000,000, while the expenditures were over $51,000,000. Nearly two-thirds of the annual expenditures are for interest on the public debt. For many years Egypt has been badly governed, and ever since foreign creditors have controlled her finances there has been dissatisfaction among the natives, until now they are in open revolt. The grievances of the natives were recently succinctly stated by Judge Geo. S. Bacheller of the International Tribunal in Egypt, the court which settles all disputes between foreigners and natives. Judge Bacheller states that "the dissatisfaction of the Egyptians grows out of the feeling that, now that Ismail (the former Khedive) can no longer practice his extravagant system, and that the present Khedive is an economical and prudent ruler, they should be permitted at least to try the experiment of self-government. The joint control has also greatly offended the Egyptians by its arrogance and its extravagant cost to the treasury. Over forty high officials, all of them Europeans, receive in annual salaries running from $20,000 down to about $7,000, a gross amount of $411,000. Egypt has only 5,000,000 popula- and only 5,000,000 acres of tillable land." All the money for the expenditures of the government must come from the taxes on the land. Each acre of land in Egypt must pay $8 of taxes, besides supporting an inhabitant. Foreign capital is not taxed in that country, neither do foreigners pay any taxes upon their houses, their stores and their merchandise, while the natives pay taxes upon all these. Foreigners are only taxed upon agricultural lands, which is one of the conditions of their taking title. The legal rate of interest is twelve per cent., and it averages at least fifteen, Owing to treaty privileges exacted from the Ottoman government and the Khedive, the foreigner enjoys far greater legal privileges than the native, and is subjected to none of the burdens of maintaining the government which furnishes him with a home. This, of course, incenses the natives, who naturally think that they are unduly interfered with and oppressed by foreign governments in a way never thought of in regard to other debtor powers. It is the existence of this popular national feeling that gives Arabi Pasha his power to-day. It is said that there is no doubt that nine-tenths of the better classes of the Egyptians, including the local Christians (Copts, Syrians and Armenians), sustain his movements.

A NEWSPAPER report says that A. H. Swinton has endeavored to show the relation existing between the appearance of insects and sun-spot cycles, and gives a tabulated record to prove that certain insects are most numerous during the years immediately following a minimum of sun-spots, and vice versa. If this theory may be applied to all species, a period of insect scarcity should now follow the remarkable activity of the sun's surface for some time past. But just at present this "theory" is a dead failure so far as this County is concerned. Worms and insect pests are destroying all kinds of garden products and whole fields of corn and alfalfa, to an extent heretofore unknown. The damage will be very great. There seems to be no method of fighting off the scourge.

IN the year 1881 there was paid for pensions $32,404,000 in the original appropriation, and for deficiencies $18,302,031, making a total of $50,706,031 for the fiscal year just passed. The last Pension Appropriation bill was $50,000,000, and the deficiency $16,000,000, making a total of $66,000,000. The appropriation for the present fiscal year—1883—is $100,000,000. Representative Morrison averages the yearly amount required for pensions for the next ten years at about $73,000,000, and estimates that it will cost to pay off the present pensions $2,000,000,000, several hundred millions more than the total national debt. It is estimated that over 180,000 pension claims have been allowed since the passage of the Arrears of Pensions Act.

GENERAL GEORGE CROOK, relieves General O. B. Willcox of the Arizona Department, and Willcox goes to the Platte. Howard takes Crook's place. The news of the change gives general satisfaction, as Crook is conceded by all Arizonans to be the only man who can subdue the Apaches.

EXTENSIVE preparations are being made in the different parts of the mineral field to prepare an exhibit for the Denver Exposition. Although the result will be valuable and creditable, the time is too short to produce such a collection and classification of mineral products as will faithfully represent the mineral resources of the country. Another year will show a marked improvement. Lack of organization, and full appreciation of the means and advantages in many mining districts, will prevent a satisfactory showing, but the beginning, however incomplete, will insure interest, competition and success in the future.

IT seems to be decided that there will be no bankrupt law passed this session of Congress. The Senate and House, if they do wrangle and differ on subjects of minor importance, are in unison as to the postponement of a measure immediately requisite for the business interests of the country. Before the bill concerning which there was so much agitation in commercial circles, and which was wisely framed by an eminent jurist, shall have become a law, there will probably be time enough elapse for creditor and debtor to square accounts without application or petition to commissioners of bankruptcy.

ONE of the promising features of the permanence of mining when intelligently developed is the fact that the old districts of California, Nevada and Utah, where mining was first prosecuted, are again showing evidences of unusual activity, which bid fair to eclipse the record of former years. The history of our mining industry will yet prove conclusively that all the so-called failures are only evidences of the ignorance, inability or dishonesty of men, and the mines and the mineral products of the country have most generously rewarded every well-planned effort in the right direction.

AT New York the other day Sullivan, the champion bruiser of America, tackled Wilson, the English boss pugilist, in an attempt to "knock him out of time" in four rounds with the gloves. Sullivan sent the plucky Englishman to grass twenty-seven times in fifteen minutes, and then failed to save the $1,000 which he had put up in consideration of the fun. Wilson realized the $1,000 and half the gate money—about $8,000 more. Public taste is demoralized when 15,000 people pay from one to two dollars each to see one human brute maul another.

FOR the year ended November 1, 1881, according to a recent return made by the Controller of the State of New York, 188 mining companies, having an aggregate nominal capital of $30,101,873, filed articles of incorporation in Albany. Under the new law recently passed, the cost of incorporating has been considerably increased, and it is expected that it will tend to check the formation of "wild cat" companies to a very slight extent.

THE Tariff Commission has held its first meeting at Washington, and has listened to an address by its Chairman, Mr. John L. Hayes, of Cambridge, Mass. From his guarded remarks, it is sufficiently clear that Mr. Hayes is in favor of a revision of the present tariff rather than the framing of any new law. As yet the Commission has not fully organized, and it will probably take some time before it settles down to work.

LELAND STANFORD was the Republican nominee for Governor at the age of 35. He was nominated and elected Governor at the age of 37. Judge Ross, of the Supreme Court, was elected at the age of 38. The Congressional nominees—Glascock, Budd and Henley—are all under 40, while two on the Democratic State ticket were born in this State about thirty years ago.

THE tremendous interest taken in the bombardment of Alexandria shows that the world is weary of peace. A new generation has grown up since there was a really good fight anywhere, and the military spirit is as strong to-day as it ever was. Man is a fighting animal, and those who can't take a hand in a ruction like to read about one.

WORK on the Southern Pacific Railroad in Texas is going forward. Track is now out 354 miles from the bridge across the Rio Grande, near El Paso, and only forty-six miles from the proposed junction with the northward-bound track-layers. The country is rough and rocky, and progress necessarily slow.

COMMODORE GORRINGE, who removed the obelisk from Alexandria to New York, says that the bombardment was a brutal and unjustifiable act. He thinks that Arabi Pasha's object in moving towards Cairo is to destroy the canal, and thus remove the real cause of the covetousness of Great Britain to gain control of Lower Egypt.

YELLOW FEVER has visited this country sixty-five times. The last visitation, in 1878, caused 100,000 cases, 20,000 deaths, and cost in direct and indirect losses $100,000,000.

A GENUINE "BAR."

An Inyoite's Experience in Montana.

SILVER BOW CITY, MONTANA, July 1, 1882.

FRIEND STEERS: * * * Since leaving Bellevue I have traveled about 400 miles through the most inaccessible portions of Idaho and parts of Montana. I have seen a great number of good mines and a good deal of fine mineral country. Have killed lots of game, consisting of deer, one elk, two mountain sheep, three bears, a puma, and any amount of grouse and small game. Have caught numberless salmon, trout and redfish in the inaccessible redfish lakes of the Saw Tooth mountains. The redfish are a variety of salmon and weigh from five to twelve pounds each. Their flesh is as red as blood, and they are delicious eating—superior to the Wood river trout.

From the General Custer mine at Bonanza I traveled alone to Teruk by the way of Challis. At Challis I took the Hidden Trail through Secret Cañon and down the Pasamore, camping one night in the "Lost Sepulchre," the loveliest, weirdest, wildest little valley in the Rocky mountains. The valley contains a hundred acres, perhaps more, and is decked with a profusion of wild flowers and an abundance of green grass. I entered it just after a cooling thunderstorm, and such a world of perfume from the many wild flowers greeted me with their sweet-scented fragrance as I never before experienced. The valley for the moment appeared to be a perfect elysium. On the east side of the valley a beautiful little trout stream wound its way with many twists and turns, its moaning and gurgling cascades adding to the charms of the spot.

After having fared sumptuously on brook trout fried to a crisp, and taken a last inspection of my horse and mule, I rolled myself up in my blankets, literally in a bed of roses, with my trusty Express by my side and the watchful Maida lying coiled up at my feet, and gradually passed away into the land of dreams. How long I had slept I can only surmise, but it does not matter. Suddenly a roaring growl, coupled with a barking yelp from Maida, brought me to my senses. Grasping my rifle I was about crawling out of bed, when a heavy weight settled on my foot, almost crushing it into the ground. The pain was so excruciating that I could with difficulty control myself so as not to cry out. Before I had time to think, the weight was as suddenly removed. A rustling sound, a rattling among the dishes, the ripping of sacks, coupled all the time with an unearthly growling, mingled with the distant stampede of horses' hoofs, and the scared snorting of poor Jeff and the mule, awoke me to the consciousness that a large animal of some kind was making sad havoc with my grub bags. I kept my head well covered and lay still as a mouse, and let it rip things its own way, hoping all the while that it would take me for something inanimate and go off in peace. After scattering my flour all around, tasting the tea, coffee, etc., chewing up a few cans of fruit and baking powder, it got hold of a full can of pepper. Lord! what a sneeze it gave. It fairly made the earth tremble. Such a spitting and choking was never heard. At last it got hold of my sack of sugar, and then you should have heard it smack its jaws together as it devoured the sugar with evident gusto. Then with a pleasing whine, like a tickled dog, it commenced an inspection on a sack of Royal breakfast bacon; a ripping of cloth, a few satisfactory smacks of the ponderous lips, a half growl, and the infernal thing settled down partially on my bed, using the canvas covering for a table spread, and quietly ate hog—devoured my bacon—using my last piece of mountain sheep for dessert. The weight of the brute, as it would occasionally slap its huge paws down on the bed, nearly broke my legs. From the first growl I, of course, surmised it to be a bear of some kind. A thousand trains of thought passed through my mind with lightning rapidity—whether to chance a shot at the brute's heart from under the blankets, or keep quiet and chance his going off in peace, or what to do, that was the question. While cogitating the matter, the brute suddenly quit his growling and sat up silently listening for a minute. A long-drawn snort from the distant mule; the solemn toot of an owl in a tree close by was the only response. Silently dropping on all fours, the brute ambled off as though possessed of an indefinable dread of something beyond his grasp. Thinking him gone for good, I gradually and silently drew the covering from my head and peered around. There, not thirty yards away stood the brute—a big white-headed grizzly—with his left fore foot slightly raised, his larboard ear crooked over toward the other end of the valley—he stood as though in silent meditation. The sportsman's instinct in me was aroused. Such a fair shot; impossible to miss him—not considering that the old moon's faint light might deceive me. I determined to have a shot at him and take the chances, come what might. I gradually raised my rifle to an aim, and then the question arose in my mind, where to shoot—through the heart, lungs or head. The extreme tension to which my nerves had been strung up now began to grow lax. I began to tremble slightly, from the indecision in my mind where to shoot him. Realizing from past experience that I must shoot quick or not at all, I took a steady pull on the side of his head and fired. In another second I had put two more shots at random into his body. Such an unearthly yell as greeted me I never before heard. And now Maida put in an appearance from her concealment in the bushes and began snapping and barking at the huge beast as it rolled, tumbled and roared around on the green sward, until it finally got into the creek in the dark out of sight, where it splashed, floundered and moaned—moaning and crying like a huge human giant. I got away a respectful distance and "lay on my arms" until morning. I found that my first shot scalped him, without doing him serious injury; one of the other shots cut his jugular vein, and another went through his body. I found his bearship in the creek, bled to death. He was a big fellow, about seven feet long as he lay, and must have stood four feet high. And there I left him—food for trout and buzzards—and went in search of Jeff and the mule. No amount of force or persuasion could induce them to that end of the meadow again, so I had to pack my things to them. We left the beautiful little valley with a speed and alacrity on their part that was astonishing. Poor, nervous Jeff could not be held back, and when we reached the summit, a mile away, a long-drawn breath from Jeff, answered by a deep sigh from the mule, were their expressions of joy at getting away from the uncanny spot.

Here I have given you an original bear story—original because true. If you don't like it, I may possibly get up a fish story or an Indian fight for you before my summer rambles are over.

Yours truly, WM. CRAPO.

WALSH, the Star route witness, has made public a statement in regard to connection with one of the expedited routes, which places Senator Kellogg and Thos. J. Brady in a bad fix. Walsh saps that the route between San Antonio and Corpus Christi was expedited, and for the increased service the Post Office Department agreed to pay $20,000 a year for four years. The first $20,000 came into Walsh's hands in his capacity as banker, and he was instructed to pay one-half to Senator Kellogg and one-half to Brady. Walsh says he placed the money to the credit of these parties, and each drew his share. He says, moreover, that he has papers in his possession which show, independent of his testimony, that the money was received as stated and paid out as stated. Kellogg now has the floor. Some influence saved him from indictment, but he is a United States Senator and cannot well occupy his seat until this statement has been disproved. Kellogg is reported to have said that he did not wish to be put on the gridiron again and placed at the mercy of such a man as Walsh, and if Walsh has the documents he says he has, we can understand the nature and force of Kellogg's objections.

THE Robeson Naval Appropriation bill passed the House by a vote of 120 ayes against 71 noes, 95 not voting, of which latter 10 were paired, thus leaving 75 absentees. Nine Democrats voted for the bill, namely: Aiken, Tillman and Evins of South Carolina, Ellis of Louisiana, Shelly of Alabama, Wilson of West Virginia, Ross of New Jersey, Speer (Independent Democrat) of Georgia, and Cassidy of Nevada. The latter's vote may be due to sympathy with Senator Fair of the same State, who has recently displayed a lively interest in behalf of some naval contractors' claims. But it is difficult to imagine what method of reasoning the wily Robeson used to make the three South Carolina Bourbons converts to his peculiar plans of rehabilitating the navy.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Cincinnati Enquirer imparts an item of information which, if it be true, will be unwelcome to smokers. He says that an extensive dealer in tobacco, foreign and domestic, remarked to him recently that Havana tobacco had been robbed of its character through the use of fertilizers, which had been applied to the soil and the leaf in the greed to make more tobacco, and, therefore, more money. The peculiar character of the Cuban tobacco, he said, was derived from the natural, unambitious cultivation it received; but to make more weight of leaf they have stimulated the soil so that the tobacco smells of everything but its own flavor.

ADMIRAL SEYMOUR has been forbidden to pursue Arabi Pasha. England, having battered down the forts of Alexandria, and the city having been about destroyed, is anxious to call a halt. Diplomacy instead of eighty-ton guns will now occupy attention, and unless Arabi knocks a hole in the Suez canal and lets the water out the world will lose its interest in the rumpus and be talked to sleep.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR, accompanied by members of his Cabinet, will visit the Denver Exposition next month, and from there will come to California by the Southern route.

IT is officially stated by ex-Minister Comley that the Hawaiian Reciprocity Treaty caused a loss of $4,029,772 27 to our Government in 1881.

IT is reported that Mr. Victor Beaudry will soon build a large number of fine houses on his hill property.—Los Angeles Express.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JULY 22 1882

AT WORK.—The Hawley mill at Keeler City started up on the 9th instant, and has been running steadily ever since, with every prospect of continuing to do so indefinitely. Ore is plenty, the teams delivering about eight tons per day, from the Palma mine, near Cerro Gordo. The mill is in perfect working order, many improvements having been effected since Supt. Wheeler assumed charge of it. A new and commodious business office has been erected, and also a laboratory for the assay office. The wood boat is making regular trips across the lake, and there is plenty now on hand for an extended run. Mr. Wheeler evidently means business, with no foolishness. He has several men at work on Ygnacio Hill, on some of the mines purchased by Mr. Keeler. They have struck some splendid ore—partzite and gray copper, which assays from $500 to $600 per ton. Per consequence, Wheeler and all hands feel much elated at the outlook generally.

DROWNED.—Postmaster Hardy has received from his family, who are visiting ex-County Judge Matthews in Colorado, the news of the death of Warren Matthews, by drowning in the Blue River, near his home in Marshall Co., Kansas. The deceased, accompanied by a negro servant, undertook to ford the river while the water was high, and through some mishap both were drowned. His remains were not recovered for some days, and were found five miles below where he had attempted to cross. He lacked but ten days of having reached the age of 66 years. Warren Matthews will be well remembered by all old Inyoites as one of the pioneer farmers of this part of the valley, where he resided with his family on his ranch near Camp Independence up to '70 or '71. Whatever may have been his faults, he was a man of indomitable pluck, who had many friends who will regret to hear of his sad death.

THE ROAD A'COMING.—According to Judge Conklin, who arrived home from Bodie last Thursday, the C. & C. railroad people have transferred all the horses, carts and working appliances from the Bodie connection to the end of the track coming this way. The track is now laid to a point eighteen miles from Benton, where regular trains will run with freight and passengers as soon as station accommodations can be established, which will be completed about the middle of next month.

SOME HEAT AND A FEW FLIES.—We are informed that at Keeler, on the Big Lake, the mercury ranges from 105° to 110° in the shade. Careful investigation shows up the fact that there are at least 50 flies to the square inch of surface. The "city" of Keeler covers a square mile of territory, which, we may add, is not entirely covered with houses. However, the total fly crop of the place may thus be credited at 200,724,480,000. They make things real lively.

FOR A VISIT.—Miss Mary, daughter of Richard Hessian, of Big Pine, started last Wedesday for an extended visit to her aunt in Stockton. The young lady will also go to San Francisco and Los Angeles, with the view of recuperating her health, which has not been the best of late. The best wishes of many friends go with her.

HORRIBLE.—A shocking piece of scandal is reported from Lone Pine, wherein a young man is said to have wrought the ruin of his wife's sister. It true as stated it is a case calling for the prompt action on the part of our legal authorities, to the end that the fullest vengeance of the law may be wreaked upon the vile wretch.

LUMBER.—The Big Pine sawmill, which has been leased by Jas. Mitchell, is now ready to fill all orders and contracts for lumber and timbers. A new road has been built to an extensive body of some of the best timber in the County. Parties needing lumber of any kind will do well to visit the proprietor at Big Pine.

NO BETTER.—A letter received during the week from Judge John A. Hannah brings the intelligence that his health is not improving. He is at Napa, under the care of Dr. Stillwagon, his old family physician. The Judge is suffering from Bright's disease, and the news has created much anxiety among his friends here.

A CLEAN-UP.—The Pioneer tailings mill, at Kearsarge, made a partial clean-up during the week, which resulted in about 30 pounds of bullion, 750 fine. The parties are now getting in supplies of salt and other material for a more extended run.

AGENTS.—Two old-time Inyoites have been added to the list of INYO INDEPENDENT agents—Wm. R. Johnson at Panamint and J. J. Moore at Big Pine. They are authorized to sign receipts, receive money, orders and communications.

FROM TUOLUMNE.—Mr. James Bell, brother of Mr. A. N. Bell, was in town yesterday. He receives a hearty welcome from all old Tuolumneites—and their name is legion—and many friends here.

AT WORK.—Supt. Wingard has a small force at work sinking a prospect shaft in the Gambetta mine, situated just across the river. Mr. W. is in big expectation of striking something good.

SCHOOL.—School will be reopened at Camp Independence one week from Monday next—July 31st, for a six months term. Mr. Chas. H. Groves will again be the teacher in charge.

BUYING HORSES.—Mr. Jos. Sanger, of Kern County, is in the valley buying bands of horses. He will probably Winter them in Kern and take them to the Territories in the Spring.

Bishop Creek, A. D. 1900.

BISHOP CREEK, July 18, 1900.

FRIEND HOOVER: I received your welcome letter to-day, dated June 10, 1900, from the Isle of Man, asking me to tell you of the changes of fortune and misfortune that have overtaken our old acquaintances of twenty years ago at Bishop Creek.

Your friend W. O. Harrell joined the insurrection in Mexico in 1892, and has been commander of the United States' forces there since its annexation to the United States.

Bill Gill struck it rich, soon was caught by the "tiger," but "rustled" again, and now owns the rival of Long Branch and Saratoga in his famous resort at Casa Diablo, where he and his family live in a palatial mansion. His son is President of the Sierra Jockey Club. There are 1,000 entries for the Fall races. England and France are well represented.

Seth G. Sneden is Postmaster General, and is residing at Washington, D. C.

Louie Munzinger, Bill Hutchings and Bud Harness are proprietors of the Bishop Creek Breweries, the largest on the Coast.

Professors Clarke and Swearengen are Principals of the College on Buttermilk Hill, exclusively for young ladies.

Mrs. Belle Harrell married one of the bonanza kings and is making a tour of Europe. Her sister Minnie accompanies her. Her son Chauncey is Cashier of the First National Bank at Bishop.

Mrs. Gerrish is proprietress of the Emporium of Fashion. She employs twenty-five clerks to attend the wants and wishes of the fair throng from morn till dewy eve.

J. H. Stoutenborough is Collector of the Port at San Francisco.

George M. Gill, while in Congress, secured the appointment of Geo. Drake, Jr., to a Cadetship, where he graduated A 1, and is now talked of as Secretary of War.

J. J. Williams reformed, studied medicine, graduated with high honors in Europe and America, and is President of the California State Medical Society.

J. F. Hutchison discovered a rival to the Comstock on the Joaquin, and is worth $50,000,000. He spends most of his time telling stories to the boys.

Old "Red" adhered to sinking prospect holes, till a premature blast caused him to take the "up bucket." Let us hope he is located where the croppings are said to be of pure gold and jasper.

A. K. Briggs is to Bishop what A. T. Stewart was to New York—the "merchant prince."

Jack Horton retired from the saloon business and formed a partnership with T. K. Hutchison. They are large owners in the racing grounds at Casa Diablo. They have about 100 horses in their stud. Ross is their principal trainer. Their Sierra Chief is entered against England and France and one horse from New York, four mile heats, purse $100,000. There will $1,000,000 change hands on this race. Chief has the call.

Pete Forbes raised an Irish brigade and joined the Fenians in Canada, and was killed while leading the first charge.

Schuman was appointed Minister to the Fiji Islands, where he soon established a kingdom of his own.

J. L. Bourland is Mayor of the city.

Fred. J. Brooks has charge of the City Library.

John Clarke is Chief of Police.

Gill Lewis and Frank Holland married Mexican girls, moved to Mexico and became immensely rich. At the time of the insurrection they asked for and received protection for themselves and property of their old friend Harrell.

I drove out Inyo avenue to Black Cañon, where the wagon road crosses the summit to Antelope Springs, where are situated the great concentration works of Ober & Brierly. They are concentrating 100 tons per day from the old Trade Dollar and Half Dollar mines.

When near the summit I saw someone applying the pick as if his existence depended on it. I asked him what he was after. Without looking up, he replied, "Woodchuck." "Do you think you will get him?" "I must have him; I'm out of meat." Then I recognized him as our old friend Frank Shaw, and took from my pocket the "miners' friend." He said something about the starry trail, and took "three fingers." I handed him a "piece," passed him the "friend" and he "smiled." We parted. As he started down the road to Bishop he commenced singing, "There's Angels on the Trail."

Rev. Case got steered up against a "brace game" on a water ditch, got broke, and repeated the little speech he made the boys in 1881, when they tried to catch his runaway horse.

Will write again. BISHOP.

DELEGATES.—So far as learned, only one precinct in the County—Independence—held a primary election last Saturday according to the call of the Republican County Central Committee. The delegates chosen here were Isaac Harris, S. D. Thurston and Dr. W. H. George, who constitute the convention authorized to name the delegates to the State Convention.

PANAMINT.—Messrs. Pinney and Pheby, of the Inyo Con. Co., have shipped from San Francisco an extensive lot of material and machinery for a complete overhauling and repairs to the big mill—the batteries, pans and engine coming in for a good share of attention. Supt. Pheby will arrive at the camp next week, while Geo. M. has gone to Minnesota, and will be in New York on the 10th proximo.

LOOKS BAD.—The entire property, real and personal, of the State Line Company at Gold Mountain is advertised at Sheriff's sale in the True Fissure. A suit was brought to recover some $17,000 by Squires, the merchant. The matter does not appear pleasant in print.

THE BOARD.—The Board of Supervisors meet in regular term on the 7th of August next—two weeks from next Monday.

MUST BE.—It must be that there are no candidates for local offices, since no further announcements appear.

THE Chicago Times' correspondent has learned how J. B. Price's case was so summarily dropped, and how the jury came to report to the Court that there was no warrant for the indictment. There had been a good deal said in the newspapers about the possible indictment of Senator Kellogg, and he became very much irritated about it. He finally decided upon a determined course. He took a carriage, went to the White House and had a confidential talk with the President. He said: "I want this thing stopped right now. If you propose to let that man Bliss go ahead and indict me on the testimony of that d—d scoundrel Walsh, I will resign my seat in the United States Senate quicker than a flash, and that will leave your Senate in the hands of the Democrats." He explained to the President his connection with Mr. Walsh, and said it was perfectly legitimate. He had borrowed money of him as a broker, and their relations were such as any public man would be justified in holding with a broker. "Now," said Kellogg, "I did not come up here to threaten or anything of that sort. I merely show you the position I will take if this thing goes any further. I will resign." This is given as one of the explanations for the sudden dropping of the case.

MRS. MARY TODD LINCOLN, widow of the martyred President, died at Springfield, Ills., July 17th, after a lingering illness.

AMONG other visitors in Bodie yesterday were the following ladies and gentlemen: T. G. Kelty, Mrs. T. G. Kelty, and little Tommy Kelty of Benton (this latter gentleman is only four years old, but is a little man, and is also probably the captain of the company); W. J. C. Gill, wife and family, Mrs. William O. Harrell and family, Miss Jennie Smith, Miss Sadie Cole, Mrs. Munson and James Ross of Bishop Creek. The party have been on a camping tour in the sagebrush plain and on the mountain range between Bishop Creek, Benton and Bodie for some days past. Having wandered up and pitched their tents near the Mono sawmills they discovered our railroad, got on board, and the first they knew they were in a large and flourishing mining camp. They have been having a jolly good time, and go to-day to fish in Lake Lundy. The party will be up the little cañon for a few days, where they will be joined on Thursday by Mrs. Joe Kingsley, Mrs. John R. Harrell, and others from Bodie, when the rural picnic will be wound up with a dance and they will all strike out for their several homes. The ladies of the party say Bodie is well enough in its way—but that we have not as many green fields and blue violets here as they have in Bishop Creek and Benton. —Bodie Miner, July 18.

THE Austin Reveille is responsible for the following: A gentleman just returned from a hunting and prospecting trip down Reese River Valley relates the following phenomenon which came very disagreeably under his personal observation: He was down below the cañon, some forty miles from here, riding quietly along, when an immense cloud of grasshoppers darkened the air. Directly he saw a similar cloud in the shape of a whirlwind coming from the opposite direction, and the two bodies came into a collision of peculiar violence, and with a roaring sound resembling that of a hail and thunder storm mixed. The dead hoppers poured down like the furious drops and streams of a genuine cloudburst, filling the atmosphere almost to suffocation. In less than fifteen minutes they covered the ground for over 100 acres to the depth of from six inches to three feet. His horse fell twice before he got out beyond the confines of the storm. Passengers on the narrow-gauge railroad describe that thousands of crows and buzzards are gathered at the locality described, and the scent of the putrefying hoppers is terrific.

NO PROFESSION has disgraced itself in a more decided way since the assassination of President Garfield than the medical. It has not only shown incapacity, but it has also given evidences of a very vulgar lack of appreciation of the ordinary decencies. Its treatment of the President was purely experimental. The squabbles as to who had the right to attend him constituted gross professional rowdyism. The bills which it presented for attendance were greedy and in bad taste. Its present petty course over the autopsy is in harmony with the exhibition of jealousy, malice, incompetency and avarice it has displayed from the first. At the next meeting of the National Medical Association all the men connected with these shameful incidents should be severely censured.

DR. GATLING has made an important improvement in his celebrated machine guns. Hitherto they have not been capable of elevation and depression and this was a very serious drawback. The improvement permits of their being fired at any angle and renders them capable of pouring a vertical fire upon troops lying behind entrenchments or ridges. They will also be rendered much more effective for street fighting.

ONE of the Federal office-holders of Nevada—J. E. McKernon, Agent at the Western Shoshone Indian Agency—declines to contribute the $18 asked of him by the Republican Congressional Committee, because he (Mr. McKernon) is serving a term in the Nevada State Prison for forgery and is not drawing any salary.

THE Prince of Wales and the Duke of Cambridge will subscribe toward a fund for sending a rifle team to America. The total subscriptions now amount to £542. There will be a final exhaustive test for the selection of the team shortly.

ACCORDING to the census report there were, in 1880, 950,000 persons employed in manufacturing in the twenty principal cities of the United States.

Something New in Consumption.

The Reno Journal tells of the case of A. H. Barnes of that city, who fights off consumption by wearing a silver tube, which passes between the ribs into the lungs. In 1849 Mr. Barnes, then living in Sycamore, De Kalb Co., Illinois, was declared an incurable consumptive. The lung was tapped and he recovered. In 1863 he was again taken down by the disease, when he once more resorted to the tube and has worn it constantly ever since. There is a daily discharge of matter. Mr. Barnes is a man of very regular and temperate habits; does not use tobacco in any form, nor stimulants of any kind; hardly ever uses any medicine, excepting sometimes a little iron for the blood; is always feeling well when the hole in his side is open: sometimes a feeling of heaviness there, but has got used to that. This case is certainly worthy of the special attention of medical men. It seems to give a man a new lease of life, even when apparently as good as dead. When Mr. Barnes conceived the idea of tapping his lung, all the physicians but one scouted it as a thing that would prove fatal. However, he persuaded one to perform the operation. In 1863 Mr. Barnes was in Honey Lake Valley, and was on the brink of the grave. Now, again, the resident physicians were opposed to the idea of an incision, and after repeated appeals for an operation, which were refused, Mr. Barnes borrowed a lance and cut open his side himself. He then inserted a catheter, and drawing off nearly a quart of matter, immediate relief was found. The cough and expectoration stopped almost instantly, and Mr. Barnes was soon upon his feet again. Thus has he prolonged his life for over thirty years.

AN EXTRAORDINARY STORY, which could scarcely possess a stronger title to discredit than the fact that a St. Petersburg correspondent sent it to a Paris paper, has just been made public. The story runs that a young Nihilist called upon the Chief of Police in St. Petersburg a short time ago, and, on being admitted to his presence, avowed himself a member of the revolutionary party, and stated that he had been sent to warn the Emperor that if he granted a constitution he need fear no conspiracy, but that if he persisted in his refractory policy nothing could save him. At this point in the interview the police officer seemed anxious to call in assistance, but the young Nihilist stopped him, and added: "I do not wish to be subjected to the indignity of torture. In coming here I have sacrificed my life. I could have killed you, but we do not commit murders uselessly." With these words he stepped back a few paces and knocked two buttons, with which his cuffs were fastened, against his forehead. The buttons, being full of an explosive substance, burst, and inflicted such wounds on the young man that he expired in a few moments, leaving no trace as to his identity.

THOSE Englishmen who are so terribly afraid that if a tunnel is opened under the channel the French or some equally unscrupulous foreigners might use it as a convenient avenue for the invasion of Great Britain, must feel relieved. The High Court of Chancery has come to their rescue, and an injunction has been issued against the continuance of the obnoxious work. Why the aforesaid tunnel should occasion so much apprehension is a mystery past finding out, and it must be assumed that the opposition which the scheme has encountered is mainly sentimental in its origin. Englishmen pride themselves on their insularity. They like to think that they have no connection with the establishment over the way.

ALL the methods of improving the memory are based upon the principle of attention. Whatever you study or observe should be earnestly regarded. The mind should not be permitted to wander off to side issues. Outside matters generally should be ignored for the time being. Memory, of course, depends first upon the organization, next upon its use of training.

Amended Mining Law.

During the present session of Congress there has been very little "tinkering" with the mining laws, says the Scientific Press. While legislation on this subject was pending, we made some comments on the bill introduced, and have referred to it several times. Now the bill has been passed and approved, and the other day the Commissioner of the General Land Office issued the usual "instructions" under which is termed the Act of April 26, 1882. The law is as follows:

AN ACT to Amend Section 2326 of the Revised Statutes, in regard to Mineral Lands and for other purposes.

Be it enacted, etc., That the adverse claim required by Section 2326 of the Revised Statutes may be verified by the oath of any duly authorized agent or attorney in fact of the adverse claimant cognizant of the facts stated; and the adverse claimant, if residing or at the time being beyond the limits of the district wherein the claim is situated, may make oath to the adverse claim before the clerk of any court of record of the United States, or of the State or Territory where the adverse claimant may then be, or before any notary public of such State or Territory.

SEC. 2. That applicants for mineral patents, if residing beyond the limits of the district wherein the claim is situated, may make any oath or affidavit required for proof of citizenship before the clerk of any court of record, or before any notary public of any State or Territory.

The instructions to Registers and Receivers, issued by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, are as follows:

GENTLEMEN: Your attention is directed to the provisions of the following Act of of Congress, approved April 26, 1882:

1. It will be observed that the Act is not retroactive, and hence cannot affect proceedings had prior to its approval. Where citizenship, however, has not been proven, it may be established as provided by Section 2 of this Act.

2. Where an agent or attorney in fact verifies the adverse claim, he must distinctly swear that he is such agent or attorney, and accompany his affidavit by proof thereof.

3. The agent or attorney in fact must make the affidavit in verification of the adverse claim within the land district where the claim is situated.

THE question is often propounded here, what can be done with money to make it return us reasonable interest? First, it is a hard problem to solve. One way that offers itself is country investments. We would suggest to these inquirers who have money lying idle, to invest in a good vineyard company, provided such one can be found whose managers are known to be men of ability and integrity. It is well known that vineyard property has been to the French people a source of enormous wealth, and there is no doubt that money invested in the stock of a company such as is here named would in a short time make very large returns, say an interest of 25 to 50 per cent. per annum. Many new enterprises of this kind are now being inaugurated, particularly in Fresno County, and it is safe to predict that in that section there is no danger of ruin to the vines from the great pest now prevalent in many other sections of the country.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS the Duke of Edinburg is rather fond of wearing much jewelry, particularly finger rings. One day he met on Piccadilly a gentleman named Armstrong who is a "privileged character," and whose eccentricities consist in a horror of jewelry and a love of calling himself by name. Seeing the Duke's fingers covered with jewels this singularly candid person waved him off with his umbrella, and fairly screamed: "Go away! Armstrong can't be seen speaking with you! Too many rings!"

THE Mayor and City Council of Leadville, Colo., have been arrested, fined and imprisoned for contempt of court.

A Big Debris Dam.

From one of the attaches of the Blue Tent Mining Company we learn that a mammoth dam, excelling anything ever before attempted in that line, will soon be commenced. A suitable site has been selected in what is known as Sailor ravine. Heretofore all the debris from this celebrated mine has been washed directly into the South Yuba river, to which the anti-miners object. Not wishing to have anyone complain, the company have hit upon a plan to stop all growling in the future. The proposed structure will be ready to receive the debris from this mine in about thirty days. Nature has done about half the work at the place selected, and the company propose to do the other half. In a few days all of their mammoth giants will be brought into use to remove the immense bowlders and cement to be conveyed to the place where the dam is to be erected. The foundation of the structure will be of solid rock, and buiit up to a hight of 100 feet. Then another stone wall will be constructed of similar bowlders, about ten feet from the main wall. The space between the two walls will be filled with bedrock and cement, making it perfectly water, debris and bowlder-proof. According to estimates made by first-class engineers the new dam, when erected, will hold back all the debris that can be worked in that section of country for fifty years.

The company had under consideration the plan now adopted when the anti-miners commenced a crusade against them, but believing that they had a right to dump into the Yuba river (which they had done for twenty years), and that the Courts would so decide, they deferred doing anything in that line until now. They are convinced that they cannot continue the working of this claim in the old way, and seem willing to abide by Judge Temple's decision, as rendered in the Gold Run case. Judge Temple decided that he would cause the injunction to be raised in the Gold Run case when it could be shown that the company had stopped the flow of bowlders and heavy debris into the streams. The Blue Tent Company found a way to conform with those requirements, and instead of spending their money ln law suits, they elected to erect their mammoth dam.—S. F. Scientific Press.

A Thorough Appreciator of San Francisco Stock Operations.

A miner some years ago started from Boise Basin on a prospecting tour through the mountains, having expended his last dollar for his outfit. He had provisions for three months, within which time he expected to return to the settlement, either "dead broke," or the owner of a rich mine, with the chances very much in favor of the former proposition. After two months of rough work he found himself 200 miles from any settlement, his provisions getting very short, and without a prospect, and the outlook was very gloomy. He was about turning homeward, with the anticipation of having to work for wages for a good while to make up his loss by the trip. Suddenly he struck a prospect. Every stroke of the pick and blow of the hammer showed the lead to be richer than his fondest expectations, and the fact of his fast-diminishing store of "grub" was lost sight of in the excitement of new discoveries. So it went on until he had eaten his last bean and remaining biscuit. Then it dawned upon him that with all his riches he was going to starve to death, as he could not eat quartz, no matter how high the assay might run. At this time another miner arrived on a prospect, and well supplied with food. Miner No. 1 imprudently allowed No. 2 to find out his condition and the value of his find, and the consequence was that No. 2 refused to sell him any grub, no matter how high a price he might offer, saying: "Now, stranger, do you know what them sharks down in 'Frisco would do if they were in my place?" "No; what?" asked No. 1. "Why, they'd camp right here and watch you starve to death and then jump your mine. But I ain't such a hog. I'll tell you what I'll do with you. I'll divide my grub with you, and you divide your mine with me, and we'll call it square." The mine was worth several hundred thousand dollars, but the trade was made, the grub being of as great value to a man who was going to starve unless he got it.

"DEAD DRUNK" is described by the savants of the Paris Biographical Society to be a condition in which there is a proportion of one part of alcohol to 195 parts of blood in the circulation. Should the proportion ever come to be one part of alcohol to 100 of blood, death would ensue. This might happen, and in fact has happened repeatedly, where a very large quantity of alcoholic liquor is swallowed at one time and quickly. In ordinary drinking consciousness is lost, and with it the power to drink more, before the proportion of alcohol in the circulation becomes fatal.

NEAR the corner of Hutton and Fifteenth streets, in Troy, New York, two fond and respectable parents named Foley are cherishing a 7-year-old son who has gradually bleached into a perfect albino. His long hair is as white as snow, and his pale pink eyes are of little use to him while the sun shines. At night, however, his vision is wonderfully acute. Numerous showmen have begged the privilege of paying his parents a large salary for his services, but with admirable firmness they prefer to retain their self-respect and their poverty.

Full Boards to be Elected.

There appears to be some diversity of opinion as to whether full Boards of Supervisors are to be elected this year, probably because of the fact, overlooked by many persons, that the County Government Act of 1880 has been declared unconstitutional. Elections this year must be held in accordance with what is known as the "Hartson Act," approved March 7, 1881, which amends Section 4,109 of the Political Code, and repeals Sections 4,024, 4,027 and 4,111 of said Code. The Act provides as follows:

"All elective county, city and county, and township officers, except Superior Court Judges, Superintendents of Schools, and Assessors, shall be elected at the general election to be held in the year 1882, and at the general election to be held every second year thereafter, and shall take office on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding their election, and shall hold office for two years. The years that said officers are to hold office are to be computed respectively from and including the first Monday after the first day of January of any one year to and excluding the first Monday after the first day of January of the next succeeding year; provided, that all Supervisors and Justices of the Peace shall take office on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding their election, and shall hold office for two years."

Attorney General Hart, having recently been asked for an opinion on the subject by citizens of Tehama County, takes the ground that each County must this year elect a full Board of Supervisors. This appears to be an intelligent construction of the above section of the Act under which elections are to be held.—Sacramento Bee.

THE new regulation concerning underpaid letters, which went into operation July 1st, will materially improve the postal facilities of the country and thereby add to the convenience of the public. Heretofore the rule has been to send to the Dead Letter Office underpaid letters bearing a one or a two-cent stamp and not having the address of the writer on the envelope, but to forward to their destination underpaid letters stamped with three-cent stamps or those of a higher denomination. Hereafter an underpaid letter with a one or a two-cent stamp affixed, and not having the address of the writer on the envelope, will be detained in the office where it is posted and a notice sent to the person to whom it is addressed informing him of the fact that the letter will be forwarded to him on receipt of postage due.

AT THE fashionable hotel at Old Point Comfort, recently, a beautiful young lady made the unfortunate mistake of entering the dining room unchaperoned. As no one speaks to another there without an introduction she was unnoticed, and some wiseacre gossip started the story that she was the wife of a wine-taster in a New York hostelry. Beautiful as she was, all admiration instantly died away, and, in the eyes of many, she became a most imperfect creature. Judge of the general distress and mortification when, a day or two before her departure, her husband, a prominent naval officer, for whom she had been waiting, returned from China. The busybodies too late found that she was an heiress, and that her father, a retired army officer of high rank, was an invalid incog. at the same hotel.

HOW TO TREAT SUNSTROKE.—Remove the patient to a shady place at once. Place the body in a sitting posture, the back against a wall, with the feet and legs resting upon the sidewalk and extended in front of the body. Get ice water and a bottle of strong essence of ginger. Pour the ice water upon the head copiously—never mind the clothes. Then pour two or three tablespoonfuls of ginger in about half a tumbler of water, and make the patient swallow it quickly. Keep the head cool by using a little of the ice water, and in case there is not much of a glow upon the body, give more ginger. If the directions are followed there will be no occasion for the services of an undertaker. Ginger is far the best to use, but where it cannot be had quickly, two or three glasses of brandy will answer the purpose.

THE National Rifle Association has fixed upon the rifle to be used by the American team in the international military match. It is a Remington, just under the prescribed weight—nine pounds, four ounces—and has a rear sight graded up to 1,200 yards. Three permanent vertical lines are traced on the sliding bar, which a very clearly-cut V notch. The front sight is of the ordinary military pattern. The barrel is thirty-three inches long, and the calibre is 44. Ninety grains of powder will be used in the cartridge, and the general model is of the Hepburn pattern, with a pistol-grip stock.

THEY are progressing in the skill of building railroads very rapidly. The grand piece of engineering work on the Central Pacific near Cape Horn is about to be eclipsed on the Southern Pacific in the Rio Grande Valley. While at Cape Horn, in the Sierras, the shelf extends but a few hundred yards, a similar piece of work on the Rio Grande will be twenty-five miles long, and will open up a country immensely rich in wealth and grand in scenery. In a few years no piece of ground in the world will be so formidable as to baffle the skill and ingenuity of railroad engineers.

THE Marin County Court-room presented the singular spectacle the other day of a woman arraigned for murder, who had a six months old infant in her arms.

The Removal of Scars and Cicatrices.

The Journal of Pharmacy furnishes from good sources the following hints on this topic: The cicatrices, scars or marks left by various diseases, burns, or wounds of divers kinds, are often less obstinately permanent than is generally supposed; and from some facts which have lately come under our notice, we are inclined to think that their prevention or removal in many cases may be accomplished by some mild but effectual antiseptic.

Among the exemplifications of the efficacy of the formula we are enabled to lay before our readers, is the case of a gentleman of our acquaintance, whose face was so severely burned by the violent spurting of a quantity of melted lead (owing to a workman having incautiously dropped a wet pipe into it), that his eyes were only saved by pebble spectacles from utter destruction. At first, of course, carron oil was the sole application; and, as for weeks afterward particles of the granulated metal had literally to be dug out of the flesh, a deeply-scarred countenance was naturally predicted by all except the patient himself. One mark of an almost imperceptible character alone remained after the expiration of six months, owing, as our friend says, to the whole face being bathed two or three times a day, as soon as the oil treatment could be discontinued, with a lotion of the simplest character.

Lint soaked in the following solution and allowed to remain on some little time, will frequently mitigate the visible results of smallpox, and we have known one case of ringworm treated in this way to leave no scar whatever, while a sister of the latter patient—who had had the same disease in a lesser degree, but had not employed this lotion—still retains the evidences of the fact. The following is a convenient formula for a wash: Borax, ½ ounce; salicylic acid, 12 grains; glycerine, 3 drachms; rose water, 6 ounces.

THE BEST FOOD.— Wholesome, nutritious foods—those that supply the system most readily with what is required to give it vigor and endurance—are those foods that are cheapest and most generally distributed over the earth. These are the cereals and other direct products of vegetation. There is as much nutriment in one pound of beans, wheat or rice as there is in three pounds of beef, mutton or poultry. There is not a sturdier race of people on the earth than the Chilians, nor a race capable of greater physical endurance. This fact has again been demonstrated in their late war with Peru and Bolivia —a war waged against vastly superior numbers and possessing far greater wealth, yet the Chilians conquered them in their own homes.

REMEDY FOR SUNBURN.—Bruise and then squeeze out the juice from the stalks and leaves of the common chickweed, and add to it three times as much rainwater. Bathe the skin with this for a few minutes, morning, noon and night, and wash it off with pure water. Elder flowers can be similarly treated and applied, or they can be steeped in milk and the face and hands washed in it. Sour cream applied at night and washed off in the morning will allay smarting sunburn.

The Nostrum Fallacy.

When a child complains of headache, lassitude, or want of appetite, the nurse concludes that he must "take something." If the complexion of a young lady grows every day paler and pastier, her mother will insist that she must "get something" to purify her blood. If the baby squeals day and night, a doctor is sent for, and is expected to "prescribe something." What the "something" should be, the parents would be unable to define, but they have a vague idea that it should come from the drug store, and that it cannot be good for much unless it is bitter or nauseous. Traced to its principles their theory would be about this: "Sickness and depravity are the normal conditions of our nature; salvation can come only through abnormal agencies; and a remedy, in order to be effective, should be as anti-natural as possible." Perfectly logical, from a Scriptural point of view. But Nature still persists in following her own laws. Her physiological laws she announces by means of the instincts which man shares with the humblest of his fellow creatures, and health is her free gift to all who trust themselves to the guidance of those instincts. Health is not lost by accident, nor can it be repurchased at the drug store. It is lost by physiological sins, and can be regained only by sinning no more. Disease is Nature's protest against a gross violation of her laws. Suppressing the symptoms of a disease with drugs means to silence that protest instead of removing the cause. We might as well try to extinguish a fire by silencing the fire bells; the alarm will soon be sounded from another quarter, though the first bells may not ring again till the belfry breaks down in a general conflagration. The laws of health, though liberal enough to be apparently plastic, are in reality as inexorable as time and gravitation. We cannot bully Nature; we cannot defy her resentment by a fresh provocation. Drugs may change the form of the disease—i. e., modify the terms of the protest—but the law cannot be baffled by complicating the offense. Before the drugged patient can recover, he has to expiate a double sin—the medicine and the original cause of the disease. But shall parents look on and let a sick child ask in vain for help? By no means. Something is certainly wrong, and has to be righted. The disease itself is a cry for help. But not for drugs. Instead of "taking something," something ought to be done, and oftener something habitually done ought to be omitted. If the baby's stomach has been tormented with ten nursings a day, omit six of them; omit tea and coffee from the young lady's menu; stop the dyspeptic's meat rations, and the youngster's grammar lessons after dinner. But open the bedroom windows, open the door and let your children take a romp in the garden or on the street. Let them spend their Sundays with an uncle who has a good orchard; or, send for a barrel of apples. Send for the carpenter, and let him turn the nursery or the wood-shed into a gymnasium. In case you have nothing but your bedroom and kitchen, there will still be room for a grapple-swing. If the baby won't stop crying, something ought to be done about it—yes, and as soon as possible; remove the straight-jacket apparatus, swaddling-clothes and all; spread a couple of rugs in a comfortable corner, and give the poor little martyr a chance to move his cramped limbs; let him roll, tumble and kick to his heart's content, and complete his happiness by throwing the paregoric bottle out of the window.—Dr. Felix L. Oswald, in Popular Science Monthly.

She was decked in flaunting jewelry, and as she sat occupying double room in the car she looked the perfect picture of self-sufficiency, selfishness and cheek. A bluff looking gentleman, evidently from the rural districts, halted abreast of her seat, but she did not deign to move. He gave her a searching glance, looked at the rings, and then remarked to the nearest gentleman, "They wear 'em in the snout out in Ohier!"

Characteristics of General Custer.

Captain Hazelton, of Rochester, tells a story about General Custer which illustrates the nervous temperament of the man, and his sensitive nature; for he was a sensitive spirit who could not bear injustice himself, and some day the circumstances which led to his death may be cleared up in a way that will not reflect honorably on some high in power at the time it occurred.

"It was one night on the Rappahannock, in the Winter of '62-3," said Capt. Hazelton. "Everybody knows the circumstance of Custer's promotion to a generalship over officers who outranked him. Of course it created considerable jealousy, and there was no end of intriguing against the brave young officer, who would have been greatly admired, but for his rapid advance, even by those who now in their jealousy could see no better course than to oppose him. Custer was not a blind man, and of course keenly felt the jealous opposition brought to bear against him. One night a number of officers were visiting at Custer's camp, and passing a pleasant evening. While the festivities were at their hight, and every one was enjoying himself, an orderly rode up with a comunication for Gen. Custer. The General opened and read it. It was an order releiving him from command of his brigade; that was all—there being no explanation of what was to be done with him.

Without a word Custer went to his best horse, bridled him with his own hands, mounted, and was away like the wind to the fields—his long hair floating behind him, as his horse took fences and ditches in his master's favorite accomplishment.

For some time he was engaged in in the mad ride over fields and streams, when another orderly rode up to where the other officers sat looking at and admiring the distant rider, and asked for Gen. Custer.

"There he is, over in yonder field," said an aide, pointing to the man and horse, then taking a flying leap.

Away rode the orderly, and, finally overtaking the General, we saw him take a paper from his pocket. Slowly Custer read it, and then up went his hat and down he came at a mad run, whooping like a wild Indian, directly towards the camp. When he reached there he threw the paper to an aide, and in a low voice said:

"Set out another case of champagne!"

Then he leaped from his horse, and retired alone to his tent.

That paper contained an order for his promotion to the command of a division."

General Wallace, American Minister at Constantinople, in a recent private letter thus describes a wonderful exhibition of horsemanship which he witnessed: "I was invited by the Sultan to go with him and witness a drill of his household troops. The old Eleventh could beat his infantry, but the performance of his Circassian cavalry was something extraordinary. As a sample: Four companies, magnificently mounted, were in line. A bugle call, and the right company dashed through to the front at full speed. Another call, there was a beautiful feat—each man reached out his right hand, caught the rein close to the bit, pulled hard, threw his horse flat on his left side, dismounting as he went down. Then, on the ground behind the horse, he began firing as a skirmisher. A third call, the company rose up with their horses and retreated at full speed, re-forming as they went. As I had never heard of such a thing, you can imagine my astonishment."

William Calvert has patented a reflector consisting of 100 or more mirrors, by which he concentrates the heat of the sun in sufficient force to generate steam in large quantities. He claims it will revolutionize the manufacturing business where fuel is scarce and sunshine plenty. It will be recollected that Ericson recently promised to prove the practicability of so concentrating the sun's rays as to drive a mill steadily. He announced that he had perfected a means of collecting the sun's rays and reserving them for use in cloudy weather. His silence indicates that he did not succeed; but it is not to be assumed that a first failure condemns the principle. We find that two French savants pronounce the principle correct, saying that science will finally triumph over all difficulties; and they anticipate a general derivation of all mechanical power from sun-heat.

It is learned from Rome that a priest living in Ravenna has devised an electrical apparatus by which the doors of large buildings can be instantaneously opened through pressing a button somewhat in the manner that electric bells are rung. The apparatus has been tried at a theater in Ravenna and found to operate with entire satisfaction. Nine doors were opened simultaneously. The inventor hopes to so improve his device that in case of fire the rise in temperature on a theater stage would of itself set the machinery at once into successful operation.

Fortress Monroe, on the Virginia coast, is the largest single fortification in the world. It has already cost $3,000,000. The water battery is considered to be one of the finest pieces of military construction in existence. Models of it have been sought often by European Governments.

It is understood that M. de Lesseps will not favor a dividend on Panama Canal stocks until the conservatories and bath-rooms of the company's hotel have been thoroughly repaired.

It was a French woman who, holding up a glass of sparkling fresh water, exclaimed: "Ah! if it were only wicked to drink this, how nice it would taste!"

The Pinal Drill of the 15th ult. says: To-day, the 15th of July, 1882, the 31st dividend is paid by the Silver King Company at San Francisco, completing the round sum of $1,000,000 since the organization of the company. Several dividends were paid previous to the incorporation, and the mine has paid from the beginning. We do not know of another mine that has not required at least some money for its development. The Silver King has not demanded a dollar from its owners. The discoverers picked up nuggets, which were sold for dollars by the pound, for grub and tools, and they lived on it gaily, sumptuously and well, till they sold out for fortunes to Colonel Barney, under whose wise and cautious management the mine has paid all expenses for development, paid him back the purchase money, and now one million dollars dividend to the stockholders! The 15th of July should be an anniversary at Pinal.

Somebody in the employ of the Government has been collecting statistics, and says of the town of Pioche that it has the graves of 119 murdered men—43 in one row, called "Murderers' Row." Colorado claims that the above is incorrect, and that Pioche has been overrated. Colorado claims to have the "boss planting ground" for men. The Silver State refers to the above assertion, and states that Pioche has been underrated rather than overrated in this respect. During the early days and lively times the miners employed by several of the companies never thought of going to work without the six-shooter by their side, and the companies employed men at $20 per day, whose only labor to perform was to fight when occasion required it. A pitched battle once took place between the forces of the Phœnix and Raymond & Ely Companies in a drift 400 feet below the surface.

Disraeli paid $100 a share for the 176,602 shares of Suez canal stock he bought for the British Government. Ten years ago Mr. Gladstone, then Premier, was offered the Khedive's shares at $45, but refused to take them at that low rate, because he was afraid of foreign complications. Disraeli's investment has paid England about $24,000,000, and eighty-two per cent. of the tonnage passing through the canal is hers. This investment is, of course, worth fighting for, aside from England's claims on the Egyptian Government for loans to Ismail made by Englishmen.

A comparatively new industry, that of copper spinning, has been introduced in Lawrence, Massachusetts. A circular piece of sheet copper of ordinary thickness is placed on a lathe, and in a twinkling, without the use of hammers, shears, rivets or soldering iron, is spun into the shape of a kettle, without a break or weakening of a single fiber of the material. Ladles and other utensils in copper and zinc, cuspadores, etc., are formed in the same manner. This discovery will tend to cause a vast increasing demand for copper, as hundreds of articles now made of tin, iron and other materials will be spun out of copper.

What passes for a big tree in Kansas would be a small tree on this Coast, as witness the following from the Kansas City Times: Near Mexico a mammoth tree was felled on the farm of Charles Cowan. It measured nine feet through near the ground, was 110 feet high, the first limb growing out at a height of 30 feet from its base, and is thought to be at least 300 years old. The tree was worked up into 800 rails, 300 fence posts, besides ten cords of firewood. By its fall twelve squirrels and one raccoon were killed. This is the largest tree that ever grew in that section.

A syndicate of wealthy Moscow merchants has been formed for the purpose of promoting cotton cultivation in Central Asia and for the introduction of cotton fabrics to the trade of the Russian empire. It is proposed to employ American experts in order to superintend the planting, tending and husbanding of the cotton plants. The enterprise has received the formal sanction of the Russian Minister of Finance. In some parts of the lately acquired Asian territory of the Czar it is hardly to be doubted that the cultivation of the cotton plant is quite practicable.

A good story is going the rounds, of which one of our county officials is the victim. He had his picture inserted in the Placer County History, and on its delivery, a few days since, a brother official took a copy to the Court house, and covering the autograph under the picture, asked the bystanders to name the person it represented. Several names were suggested, but it was finally agreed to be a likeness of Guiteau, and there was a mad official in Auburn. Placer Argus.

Half the silver half dollars circulated in Montana are alleged to be counterfeits made by the Chinese in San Francisco. They are described as of exactly the weight of the genuine ones, and one thirty-second part of an inch larger in diameter. They contain only sixteen cents worth of silver, which is all on the surface.

A letter carrier in England the other day was given a penny wherewith to stamp a letter he had been asked to mail. He forgot to put on the stamp and has been sent to prison for five years—the invariable term for all misappropriation of money or letters by the carriers.

Russia has the model liquor law Only one rum shop is allowed in a village, and the dealer, who is appointed by the Government, is liable to dismissal, fine and imprisonment if he allows any one to become drunk.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 5.....1882

JAMES E. PARKER

THE last of the ocean tramp vessels to land coolies on this coast under the restrictions of the law passed by Congress soms months since, arrived in San Francisco Tuesday, bringing 795 passengers. This lot makes 26,000 Chinese landed in that city during the last six months. Some of them have gone to Oregon and other States, but the Chronicle's estimate of a solid acquisition of some 20,000 to the Chinese population of California is doubtless low enough. Now, however, that the yellow stream has been closed at its inlet, with the outlet left open, many of those now here will be forced to seek their fortunes in other parts of the country, and that by the time ten years shall roll around the people of the United States will have seen—and smelled—so much of the miserable creatures that the ports of the country will not be again opened to them for unrestricted immigration.

THE Virginia City Chronicle received a letter on the 1st instant from John Martis, now in Sonora, Mexico, in which he states that while out prospecting seventy-five miles northeast of Moss, Sonora, and eighty miles east of Senoquipe, he found in a cabin a pocketbook with the name of Hugh H. Cooti upon it. About fifty yards from the cabin he discoved in a tunnel the bodies of two men, with five or six bullet holes in each. Mr. Martis adds that the Mexican soldiers had had a fight with the Indians and killed the entire party which had murdered the prospectors. Mr. Martis says that the men had been dead at least a week when he found the bodies. He also found two dead pack horses, both shot, and in the cabin nine sacks of rich ore. The murdered men had resided on the Comstock.

THE story about Senator Sawyer asking his daughters to learn to cook, and when they prepared him a dinner of their own cooking, giving each a check for $20,000, is discounted by one told by the Stillwater (Mich.) Gazette: "The father kissed his daughter fondly, and told her if she would learn how to cook he would surprise her. She learned the art, and then he surprised her by discharging the hired girl and compelling the daughter to do all the cooking for the family and a gang of threshers; and you all know how threshers will eat. The Stillwater man might not make much of a Senator, but he would make a good boarding-house keeper."

ECONOMISTS need not be worried about a surplus in the United States Treasury. With $100,000,000 appropriated for the payment of pensions, $20,000,000 for river and harbor improvements, $6,000,000 for public buildings, and an increase in clerical salaries of $7,200,000, there is not much prospect that the Treasury will be overwhelmed after paying these appropriations and the current and ordinary expenses of the Government. The heavy surplus remaining over in the Treasury has troubled politicians for some time, and Congress, to remove the cause of uneasiness, has pretty effectually made away with it.

EX-SENATOR SHARON has purchased large tracts of land in Merced County from John Mitchell, and General Boost has been employed to superintend the reclamation of many thousands of acres of the swamp and overflowed land included in his purchase. Sharon proposes to irrigate something over 30,000 acres of land, and will take the water from the Merced River high above the present canal for that purpose. The recent high prices of meat and general produce, and the fast increase of population in the State, have at last directed the attention of capitalists to agricultural matters.

THE last number of the Tucson Star says that the news from the Indian country grows every day more disheartening, and the conviction is irresisiibly forcing itself on the public mind that relief from the horrors of Apache lawlessness can only be found in the action of the people of the Territory. That paper also thinks that the Government is utterly indifferent to their distresses, the army is valueless as a protecting agency, and the only alternative is to do for themselves what the Government and the army are unable or unwilling to do for them. General Crook will no doubt put a different phase upon things in the Territory.

THE ranchers around Carson are troubled about help. They are paying $50 a month and board for good hands, and the supply is not half equal to the demand. "Runners" board the trains and solicit help, and still but few can be induced to go into the fields and wrestle with the hay fork and the reaper. Down in Mason Valley there is also a demand for farm hands.

CAMP INDEPENDENCE.

The following comprehensive letter from Congressman Pacheco explains the status of his bill to donate the Camp Independence property to Inyo and Mono Counties for school purposes. The indications are very favorable for the passage of the bill at the next session of Congress:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES U. S.
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 25, 1882.

Messrs. Chalfant & Parker, Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.:

GENTLEMEN—My bill to reserve the lands of Camp Independence to the State has been reported favorably to the House from the Committee on Military Affairs, and is on the calendar.

Heretofore, the only way in which it could be taken up was under a suspension of the rules by unanimous consent. I tried to secure its consideration in this manner two or three times, but on each occasion Mr. Holman of Indiana and General Bragg of Wisconsin have objected, both of whom, for some reason, seem to be opposed to granting any lands to the State. It will be seen that I have had no opportunity to speak on the bill to the House, but when it comes up in regular order at the next session I anticipate no opposition to its passage, as I will then have a chance to explain matters to the satisfaction of all.

I am very much disappointed at not being able to get it through this session, as I expected, but there was no way of helping the matter, and I trust provision will be continued for holding the property until the bill is passed. Will see the Secretary of War before leaving and have a thorough understanding with him that no interference may come from his office. Yours truly,

R. PACHECO.

NEVER, in the history of mining, have we had so many tangible proofs of its value and permanency as at the present time. The new strikes and high assays are superseded by ore shipments, and mill run certificates. Bricks of bullion are now often exhibited where reports from "our Superintendent" once did duty. While there is no decrease of activity in the mining districts, one of the most substantial tokens of encouragement is to be found in the fact that the old and practically abandoned localities of California, Nevada and Utah are stirring again with old-time activity, and the mines are proving, by continued and substantial output, their inexhaustable richness. The mines of Utah in particular, have recently been aroused from a lethargy of years, and are pouring out their treasures in such measure, that some of the newer fields, which have taken the lead in mineral production, must look to their laurels. Mining has overcome many obstacles, borne many reproaches and suffered much from misrepresentation and misunderstanding, but as it has approached its true basis—production—it has been better able to prove its real character and substantial worth. The beginning of the epoch of production in the history of mining, was the beginning of its legitimate sphere and mission in its own field and place, and prosperity will be found alone in the direction of production. In every mineral bearing State and Territory mines are rapidly coming to the ranks of producers and suddenly a new era of permanent prosperity has dawned upon the mining industry.

MR. HENRY VILLARD cannot fairly be accused of ingratitude. Mr. Carl Schurz, when Secretary of the Interior, rendered a decision by which Mr. Villard's railroad was presented with a surplus of $16,000 according to one estimate, of $29,000,000 according to another estimate, and of $41,000,000 according to another estimate, over and above the whole cost of construction of the railroad. Mr. Carl Schurz is now the editor of Mr. Henry Villard's newspaper.

A NEW YORK dispatch says that the steamship Lord Gough, which sailed for Liverpool to-day, took out sixty Russian refugees, who are sent back to England because the local committee here cannot provide for them. About 150 are still here in charge of the Refugee Association. The president of that body has forwarded a letter to the London committee explaining the causes leading to the return of the refugees.

WE have received the first number of the Calico Print, a new paper published at Calico, San Bernardino county, by Vincent & Overshiner. It presents as neat an appearance as a new dress on a pretty girl, and supplies a much-needed want of that section.

THE work of the Tariff Commission at Long Branch threatens to be as prolonged as that of the Conference at Constantinople. The popular summer resort by the sea is a bad place for work and midsummer is a bad season for much exertion.

A FIRE one night last week destroyed the residence of J. H. Boardman, of Nevada City, Cal., and burned up two of his sons, aged respectively five and eight years.

THE MINING EXPOSITION.

The dispatches state that Wednesday was a gala day for Denver, and the Centennial State. The city was handsomely decorated with bunting and thronged with visitors, who had been arriving for several days past. The early trains on all the roads were heavily laden with companies of State militia, who participated in the parade, which consisted of chiefly of the military, infantry, artillery and cavalry to the number of 2500. The oration by Hon. W. D. Kelley of Pennsylvania was an hour in length, but was listened to by thousands. There is much to be done yet before the exposition will be fairly in order, but a great deal has been accomplished in the last forty-eight hours.

The display of Colorado ores is very fine, Leadville and Gilpin county making magnificent exhibits. The younger counties have made extraordinary efforts and have brought out immense quantities of ores. Galenas and refined silver largely predominate, yet gold in chlorides is extensively shown. The Utah exhibit is a gorgeous one, arranged, classified, and labeled with good taste and intelligence. New Mexico makes a large exhibit, probably twenty-five tons' weight of specimens. Silver City and Lake valley mines have very complete exhibits. Arizona occupies a large space, and has a fine display from Cochise and adjoining counties. Montana is represented by about four tons of of fine ore from Butte district. Wyoming makes an exhibit nearly as large as that of Utah of handsome minerals. Dakota's display is chiefly from the neighborhood of Deadwood, and includes a fine collection of gold and silver ores. Idaho is here with a fine lot of ores from Wood River and other districts. South Carolina sends a few samples, and some other Eastern States have small mineral collections.

The machinery department is the most backward, owing to the delay in transportation and in handling of heavy articles on their arrival. Two carloads from New York reached the Exposition grounds this morning, but over seventy five tons from Chicago, Cincinnati and farther East are yet to be heard from. Half a dozen steam engines are in position, and before the end of the present week a large number of ore-grinders, rock-crushers, stamps, etc., which are now on the grounds will be in posftion.

Some Colorado counties have immense exhibits, and that from Gunnison will aggregate probably one hundred tons. It includes silver, copper, iron, and galena, besides cubes of bituminous and anthracite coal. The latter has attracted great attention from Eastern visitors, who were not aware of its existence here. The mining department is crowded with exhibits. Many districts find difficulty in properly displaying the wealth of minerals they have sent here. A large number of displays are in elegantly constructed pavilions, works of art in themselves. The fine art department has a magnificent collection of pictures from Eastern cities and Europe and would do credit to older cities of the East. California is absent; not even its Commissioner is here. Space was reserved for its minerals, and unless prompt notification reaches here by telegraph it will be reassigned. It can only be held by Californians acting quickly.

IT has been discovered that the Chinese ship sago flour to San Francisco as arrowroot. The idea was suggested by some of the returned Chinese students who witnessed the manufacture of wooden nutmegs at New Haven, and were greatly impressed with the ingenuity of the Yankees. The Chinese are experimenting with California tule just now. They will boil, sweeten and season this fibrous substance, and place it in the market as preserved ginger.

THE people of the Pacific Coast have a right to regard Senator Logan as their enemy. He has introduced a bill to modify the Chinese Immigration Registration bill so as to allow the passage of the Chinese through this country en route to China. The real purpose of Logan's bill is to permit unrestricted Chinese immigration. It is unnecessary to state that our representatives in Congress view the measure with disfavor, and will prevent its passage.

THE Register of the California State University for 1881-82 is at hand. It sets forth the names of all students, a description of the various colleges or departments, and the number of professors and instructors in charge. With its liberal endowments, the State University should have one of the most thorough schools in the world.

IN boring a well at Cloverdale, Sonoma county, the auger, at a depth of thirty feet, passed through a white pine log, and six inches further struck a tree standing on end, and had to cease operations.

THE Candelaria True Fissure has a three column account of the opening of the Pacific Borax Works, in Fish Lake Valley. The ceremonies included speeches, fire-works, banquet, and a ball.

A RESOLUTION has been introduced into Congress to have the Secretary of the Navy cause an investigation to be made of the loss of the Jeannette and the death of Lieutenant De Long. It appears that Danenhower has been talking to one Collins, who had a brother on the ill-fated ship, in which Danenhower made himself out a big and a brave "Injun," and the balance of his party a lot of cowardly incompetents. Now, from all the facts that have come to hand, it appears that Danenhower would have been to-day interred in the Siberian ice fields, had it not been for the nerve and judgment of Engineer Melville, and no aspersions that can be cast on him by such a man as Danenhower has shown himself to be, can dim the lustre of Melville's laurels.

THE Denver Tribune says: The Chicago, Burlington, & Quincy Railroad Company, which now has direct connection with this city, contemplates the construction of a wide gauge road westward from here up Chicago creek, following a direct route to the Pacific, and which will lessen the time from ocean to ocean thirty-six hours. Surveying has been done through the town and up Chicago creek, but the surveyors are profoundly reticent when questioned as to the object of the survey.

SECRETARY ROBESON'S record in the Navy Department is thus briefly and pithily summed up by the New York Sun: "He destroyed more ships of war than any naval commander in the world, from Lord Nelson down, and in seven years of peace created more havoc in the American navy than the British did in the war of 1812, or the Confederates in the late 'unpleasantness.'"

ONE of the most distinguished men in the country said a few days ago: "There has seldom been a time when so many elements combined in promising unusual prosperity for this country." An active export demand has already begun, and is likely to be increased by the continuance of hostilities in Egypt.

THE anti-Chinese bill took effect yesterday. During the next ten years no Chinese are allowed to come to the United States except such are expressly provided for by the treaty. If the proper authorities exercise due diligence, and see that the law is rigidly enforced, it will prove a great benefit to the people of California and the Pacific Coast.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has appointed Hon. Wm. Hale of Glenwood, Iowa, to the governorship of Wyoming Terrltory. Mr. Hale was born in Henry county, Iowa, in 1839, is a lawyer by profession and a man of great force of character and fine energy. He has been an adventurous Republican politician, though originally a Democrat.

THE bones of a millionaire crumble as quickly as those of a penniless tramp under the wheels of a locomotive or the impact of a palace car. Wm. R. Garrison, one of the victims of the recent railway disaster between Long Branch and New York, leaves an estate of $8,000,000.

SECRETARY FRELINGHUYSEN has decided that the Anti-Chinese bill prohibits Chinese from coming into the United States, even for the purpose of passing through on their way to Asia, and so has the Attorney-General of the United States.

YESTERDAY the law restricting Chinese immigration went into effect. The beneficial effects of this wise measure will soon be apparent on this Coast.

ACCORDING to the figures given by one of the San Francisco papers, there have been landed in that port, since the first of the year, no less than 24,300 coolies.

A DISPATCH from Washington announces that the end of the Star-route case is near at hand. A verdict for the defendants will probably be given.

THE quantity of silver held in solution by the waters of the Pacific Ocean is estimated by scientists at 2,000,000 tons.

HALF the failures in life are directly attributable to the lack of a definite purpose at the start. Young men too often set out on life's journey without having any objective point in view. What sort of a traveler would he be who set sail without even so much as a desired haven in mind? Parents are greatly at fault in this matter. It is becoming a serious question as to what is to be done with "our boys." The question reaches down to the very foundations of this commonwealth. The education of young men needs to point more directly to the avocations which they have in view. To be a jack at all trades and good at none is to make a failure of life.

IN objecting to a circus appearing in Santa Cruz, a local paper says: "A murder was committed here a few years ago for the purpose of getting money to go to a show." This is the most powerful argument against shows ever recorded. They should all be closed up after that.

A BILL is before the Wyoming Legislature to give women all the political rights of men, and make them equal before the law with the sterner sex.

The Egyptian War.

The following war items we glean from the telegrams to the daily papers of the past week:

Port Said is full of men-of-war. There is no interruption of traffic on the canal, but public feeling is one of indignation at the conduct of De Lesseps in opposing measures for the safety of Port Said and the canal. He is believed to be in daily communication with Arabi Pasha. Europeans, including French subjects not under De Lesseps' thumb, contemplate sending a communication to the Foreign Office at Paris complaining of his intrigues.

De Lesseps, in the belief that England aims at seizing the Suez Canal, continues to oppose every plan of assuring its safety. In an interview he said the Khedive was simply a prisoner in the hands of the English, and England's sole aim was to obtain supreme control of the canal.

A report has been received in London that Arabi Pasha has proposed terms of peace, the conditions being his voluntary exile and the retention of the rank and pay of Colonel for himself and nine of his colleagues; that the Khedive had submitted the proposals to General Archibald Alison. It is believed that this step has been taken at the instigation of the Sultan. The report caused a rise in Egyptian stocks. There will be no cessation of military preparations, as it is thought that Arabi's offer may be only to gain time.

The Turkish Minister of Finance has summoned a meeting of the officers of the Gulata Bank, and asked a loan for the purpose of defraying the cost of a Turkish expedition to Egypt of 10,000 men. The number will be increased, if necessary. The bank was offered as a guaranty a lien on the receipts from next year's sheep tax. The War Office is making large purchases for the equipment of troops.

The vote in the French Chambers, rejecting the bill granting the Egyptians credit, is viewed by Germany with satisfaction, as indicating a French policy of peace and non-intervention.

Arabi Pasha has had publicly read the proclamation of the Khedive dismissing him from the Ministry. He has assumed the green turban and robes of a descendant of the Prophet.

De Lesseps addressed crowds of Arabi's supporters, and spoke in terms hostile to England and France, saying they were strangers on Egyptian soil. The result was that the Germans who had landed to protect their Consulate returned on board their vessel, and the English and French Admirals abandoned their intention of landing lest a disturbance should follow De Lesseps' speech.

The latest news from the interior is to the effect that the chiefs of the Bedouin tribes, who previously have favored the legitimate ruler, have submitted to the rebels, and a perfect understanding exists between them. It is said that the Bedouins have agreed to furnish 60,000 men, the chiefs remaining as hostages in Arabi Pasha's hands.

England having asked Italy to co-operate in restoring order in Egypt, the Minister of Foreign Affairs replied that, in view of the resolution of the Porte to send an expedition to Egypt, he did not consider himself in a position to intervene, except at the sittings of the Conferenc.

Arabi Pasha has instructed the Bedouins on the canal to obey De Lesseps. All persons furnished with permits from De Lesseps are a lowed to proceed to Cairo.

The Porte has received a petition signed by 2,000 Egyptian Notables, requesting the Sultan not to ratify the dismissal of Arab Pasha by the Khedive.

The Consul General of France has been ordered to withdraw the entire fleet from Egypt.

THE Supreme Court, sitting in bank, has decided that paid-up stock corporations cannot be taxed. This decision virtually declares all assessments on mining stock void.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, AUGUST 5 1882

DOINGS AT BISHOP.—A correspondent at Bishop furnishes the following: J. E. Parker arrived on to-day's wagon and is "doing" the town....Mrs. A. K. Briggs has returned from an extended visit to the Coast....Mrs. W. O. Harrell will hereafter reside in Bodie.... Grapes, watermelons and garden truck plentiful nowadays....Mrs. Wm. S. Horton started for her home at Gilman, Iowa, on Wednesday. J. M. Horton and family accompanied her to the railroad ...Mr. Limmerman and Dr. Wainright and family have returned from their pleasure trip to Mono Lake. ....An Indian at Fish Slough received a charge of buckshot in the back, from the effects of which he will die. A brother redskin did the shooting.... Wm. L. Adle nearly amputated his foot while chopping wood a few days ago. ... When an Indian gets drunk Constable Drake shackles him to a tree. ....John Clarke's new windmill and tank are completed and working splendidly....W. J. C. Gill and family are residing at Casa Diablo. ..Gill Lewis has not yet returned from his trip to the Bay....James Maxwell and partner are said to have discovered a good mine in Long Valley, and are working it.... Mrs. Mary A. Parker is dangerously ill —her side being partially paralyzed.... Geo. Gill and Wash. Brierly are in San Francisco....There is another wedding on the tapis—a schoolma'am and a merchant....Three or four ice venders appear on the streets every morning ....Our J. P. is again contemplating matrimony....Louie Munziner wears a Fenian badge on his hat....Pete Swearengen has gone fishing, and before he started tried to procure some green persimmons for bait.

MILL STARTED.—Judge Conklin, Superintendent of the Laura mine and mill, returned from Saline Valley Thursday evening. He reports that on Tuesday morning their new four-stamp mill was started up, and that every portion of it works to a charm. It will run be steadily night and day, and will crush about five tons of rock every twenty-four hours. Mr. M. H. White, a practical mill man, has charge of the works. The trail leading from the mine to the mill is completed, and a pack train of thirty-two animals is engaged in transporting the ore to the mill. The capacity of the train is something over five tons per day. At the mine, which is distant from the mill six and a half miles, several men are at work extracting and sorting ore, under the supervision of Mr. M. E. Chapman, foreman. He is a thoroughly competent miner, having had years of experience on this Coast. About sixty tons of high-grade ore lie the dump awaiting transportation. Mr. Conklin thinks it will mill $100 a ton. Some little difficulty was experienced for a time by the Indians turning off the water supply, but the matter has been amicably adjusted, and no further trouble from that cause is anticipated. A clean-up at the mill will be made in about thirty days, when, it is hoped, the projectors of this enterprise will be well rewarded for their pluck.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. S. D. Thurston, who is visiting friends at Havilah, Kern County, is expected home next Tuesday....M. Laskey, of Lone Pine, came up to the County seat Monday....Sam Newland, the veteran stage driver, is taking a vacation. He is enjoying the shade trees and cool breezes of Independence....Wils. Yandell, of Bishop, came in on the stage Saturday evening. ....Judge Hannah writes to friends here that he has left Napa and is now visiting relatives at Los Angeles. His health is much improved. He does not state when he will be home, but as much business is accumulating before the Superior Court which necessitates his presence here, he will probably return soon.....Charles Hollenbach came over from Saline Valley last night and went to Bishop this morning. He says the new mill "is a bird"—a significant phrase in these parts....Ben Williams, who for nearly five years has been driving stage on McNaughton's line, has resigned that position and will engage in other business. For a time he will visit relatives and friends at Bishop Creek. Ben has hosts of friends all along the line who will miss him. THE INDEPENDENT takes pleasure in recommending him as a deserving and worthy young man....Phil. Cartier and George Desallier started on their return trip to Calico this morning.

PARALYZED.—Mr. J. L. Wood, an old and respected resident of Independence, was struck with paralysis last Sunday night. Mr. Matlack hearing groans in the direction of the old gentleman's residence, went to the place from whence the sounds proceeded and found Mr. Wood lying outside his door, with a severe cut on his head and his left side entirely paralyzed. From indications about the place it is supposed he was sitting on his porch, which is about four feet from the ground, and, either before or after the attack, fell off, striking his head against a stone or some other hard substance. To-day he is in a very precarious condition, and fears are entertained that he will not recover.

FISH.—Tom Crough and Billy Lake went fishing one day this week. Tom bought an expensive outfit, and promised his friends a nice mess of trout. After tramping up and down the river all day, he succeeded in bagging two little fish weighing about two ounces each—at least he says he captured them, all by himself alone, though some of the boys (evidently envious of his success) state that Tom found the aforesaid fish where Billy had thrown them away. He says that the "fish whistle" is a fraud; that whenever he blew it the fish ran away. His fish cost him at the rate of $40 per pound, to say nothing of the pleasantries of the boys at his expense.

SCHOOL.—Mr. C. H. Groves began a six-months term of school at Camp Independence last Monday.

TO CANDIDATES.—In order to dispel any erroneous impressions which may exist in the minds of persons desiring to appear in the political arena, it may be well to state that THE INDEPENDENT will publish the announcements of candidates of either party, all at the same rates. As a further inducement, the following offer is made: From the present time until the "boss" returns, each candidate making his want known through these columns will receive a good, big "send-off," without extra charge. And if he desires it, his name will be set up in black type.

FOR THE STATE CONVENTION.—At the meeting of the Republican County Central Committee, with delegates elected from this precinct for the purpose, held on Saturday, the 22d ultimo, Judge A. R. Conklin of Independence, Seth G. Sneden of Bishop and Col. Sherman Stevens of Lone Pine were duly chosen delegates to the coming Republican State Convention. We hear that all of them, with the exception possibly of Col. Stevens, will be in attendance at Sacramento.

I. O. O. F.—The following request was left at this office for publication. The suggestion is a good one and every member of the Order in this County should respond to the call: "The Odd Fellows of Inyo County are requested to meet at Independence, Saturday, August 19th, to consider the feasibility of instituting an I. O. O. F. Lodge in this place. By request of many Odd Fellows."

APOLOGETIC.—If this issue of THE INDEPENDENT does not come up to its usual standard of excellence in the estimation of subscribers, the cause may be attributed to the fact that Jas. E. Parker, editor and proprietor, left on Wednesday's stage for Bishop, Benton and other towns north, his trip being of a business nature.

GOOD NEWS.—A rumor is rife that the owners of the Keynot mine have again "struck it rich." The fact that Lone Pine has presented an unusually lively appearance for several days is evidence that the report is true. Will some correspondent send particulars for our next number?

COARSE GOLD.—A prospector was in town one day this purchasing supplies, for which he exchanged nuggets of gold. He had a well-filled purse, the chunks ranging in value from $40 down. He claimed that they came from a "prospect" in Beveridge District.

MINERS WANTED.—By reference to an advertisement in another column it will be seen that twenty men are wanted to work in the Defiance mine and furnace at Darwin. Apply to Reddy & Gorman.

CORRECTION.—Last week THE INDEPENDENT stated that Mr. and Mrs. N. Peterson, of Big Pine, had lost an infant child. This was an error. Death chose their eight-year-old daughter.

LAPWING MINE.—Now that the Laura mill is completed, the force at the Lapwing, or Boston Boy mine, has been increased, and will soon have a lot of ore ready to mill.

TO START.—Next week McGovern & Hessian will start their threshing machines—one at Bishop and one at Big Pine.

SUPERVISORS.—The regular quarterly meeting of the Board of Supervisors commences next Monday.

ON the 27th instant Bodie Consolidated declared a dividend of 25 cents per share, or $25,000. This is the first dividend from the Bodie since that paid in March, 1880, two years and five months ago. Up to that time the Bodie had disbursed $1,500,000 in dividends. In the single month of July, 1878, it paid $400,000 in dividends, or $8 per share upon the capital stock of the mine at that time. The total amount of assessments on the Bodie have been $125,000, the last of which was in December last of $50,000. The Bodie has of late been produced about $45,000 per month, and money has been accumulating in the treasury under the present economical and capable management of Supt. Whiting. There were a great many pleasant smiles on the street over the dividend. Bodie can now boast of three dividend paying mines at one time—the Standard, Bodie and Bulwer—which is more than it ever had at one time before.—Free Press.

THE following items refer to a young man well known in this County:

E. H. Fontecilla has abandoned the newspaper business and is now engaged in a less hazardous enterprise. "Bony" Williams is his partner.—Bodie Free Press.

E. H. Fontecilla, an old-time print and pencil pusher, dropped in on us today. He will make Tuscarora his headquarters for some time.—Tuscarora (Nev.) Times-Review.

A TELEGRAM received at this office from Mr. C. E. Sherman, Thursday, states that two families in Havilah, named Hayes and Canty, consisting of nine persons, were that day poisoned by eating brawn, put up by Messrs. Tobey & Booth, of Chicago. At first it was believed they would all die, but when the telegram was sent they were in a fair way to recover.—Kern County Californian.

THE Western Union Telegraph Company is now busy putting up the poles, preparatory to running a wire from the Junction to the point of the new station —about twenty-two miles away. The want of quick communication has required this, and it will be a great convenience to the road builders at the front.—True Fissure.

HON. P. REDDY, of Inyo County, is one of the most prominent candidates for State Senator from this district, that we hear spoken of. If he receives the nomination, and is elected, we will often hear of him during the sessions of the Legislature.—Kern Co. Gazette.

THE President has signed the bill giving Mrs. Garfield $50,000, the salary of the President for a year.

BISHOP CREEK, August 1, 1900.

FRIEND HOOVER: After making a new State, by taking a part of California and a portion of Nevada, and locating the Capital at Bishop, the growth of the city was very rapid. The C. & C. R. R. long since changed its gauge to a standard. We now have five railroads running into the Union Depot. When they built the Capitol an electric light 250 feet high was placed above the dome, but was condemned. The light was so strong that the boys could see to "call the turn" in any of the club rooms.

I was on the point of starting to The Needles, when the express brings me letters with news that White & Eugley are nearing the city with their latitudinal railway.

The southern mail comes, bringing THE INDEPENDENT of July 28th, in which I note mention of Arlie Mairs, who is now Supreme Judge of the State, and is living with his family at the Government Park, near Mt. Whitney.

One of the best paying investments around Bishop is the street railway to Buttermilk Hill and Round Valley, owned by Put. Yaney and Milton Clarke. The motive power (electricity) sends the train at the rate of ten miles an hour, with so little oscillation that the students of the Mercantile College of Professor Shannon & Son, do their exercises in penmanship as if in their private apartments.

The utilizing of the immense water power of Owens River gave a new impetus to machinery in all kinds of factories. This is the power that runs the sugar mill and sorghum refinery of Wonacott & Eldred.

I am pleased to see in THE INDEPENDENT that an excursion will soon take place over the new narrow-gauge railroad from Bishop to Salt Lake City, Utah. * * * * * *

Bud Stoutenborough is a railroad magnate, and is owner of the great Trans-continental Line from New York to San Francisco, via Bishop. He now rides in his private car in much superior style than Gould and Vanderbilt used to do, when they run through the States of the West picking up poor lines of railroads and weaving them into their system, as our grandmothers used to pick up lost stitches when knitting our little socks. The mountings on all passenger cars are of packfong, making them much superior to the old style. The dining cars are all furnished with triclimiums, without extra charge.

The changes are wonderful in everything; the beverages are better, the sermons shorter and more effective.

The graduates of the Esthetic College are getting quite proficient. For instance, this is the exact speech made by David Hall to his lady love: "Most beautiful and accomplished lady, will your ladyship, by an unmerited, undeserved condescension of your infinite goodness, please to extend to your obsequious and very humble servant that pair of ignipotent digits, that I may obliterate the excrescence of this nocturnal illuminary, in order that its effulgent brilliancy may dazzle the vision of your optics more potently?" Twenty years ago he would have said: "Sal, give me the shears till I trim this lamp."

You will be surprised when I tell you that our old friend and champion football player, Vernon Smith, is preaching to large congregations every Sunday at what is known as "Gospel Swamp."

Robert Love made his long-talked-of trip East, got married, and has a fine baby boy. Everybody is in great glee. A smile and a look of hope and confidence has returned to the faces of Charles Parsons, Barney Peeler, J. L. Bourland and Charles Willetson. Bud Stoutenborough immediately tendered passes for an Eastern trip to Peregrine, Blair and Goodrich, and says if the enterprise is a success, he will furnish all old bachelors with free transportation.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 5.....1882

THE richest hunting ground for a female beggar would seem to be New Mexico and Southern Colorado, where the scarcity of women predisposes the average citizen to gallantry toward the weaker sex, and natural recklessness makes him extravagant in his generosity. Mary Canio, resident in Denver, but often on the tramp, is a mendicant by profession and a drunkard by way of recreation. She frequently has several thousand dollars in her possession, and is a regular and large depositor in one of the Denver banks. At short intervals she starts upon a begging expedition southward, and always returns with a good supply of money. Then she enjoys her prosperity by going on a wild spree. Recently she deposited $1,490 with the Chief of Police for safe keeping. Another police officer says he has seen her returning from one of her expeditions with as much as $3,000.

THE Downey (Los Angeles county) Signal says a rumor is in circulation in that vicinity to the effect that G. W. Young, a watchmaker who left that place some two or three weeks ago, has been devoured by a grizzly bear. Mr. Young is reported to have started across the mountains for Calico on foot, and unarmed. He had only proceeded about twelve miles up the cañon when he was attacked by a large grizzly bear. From the appearance a desperate struggle took place, and Mr. Young made a desperate effort to preserve his life, but he was not able to cope with the infuriated beast. A few shreds of clothing, some watchmaker's tools, a razor and other barbers tools covered with gore, marked the spot where the encounter took place.

WHEN Middlerib went to Arizona and was nearly scared to death by the yelling of a band of Indians, he tried to laugh it off next morning in a ghastly way by saying he was only whoop scurt. Then everybody wished the Indians had killed him.

MR. MOODY, the evangelist, will remain during this month at Glasgow, where his son is at school. Mr. Sankey is now traveling in Germany with his son, for the benefit of the latter's health.

DESERTERS from the German army, who have acquired American citizenship, will not expect the bird to protect them if they are foolish enough to go back to Germany.

M. GOBLET is, most properly the French Minister of the Interior.

FORM of congratulation for the candidate—"Many happy returns."

The Heart and Its Diseases.

Death from heart disease is of alarming frequency. Almost daily we hear that friends or acquaintances, or public men, have suddenly died, and on inquiry it is found that the heart is at fault. This fact has not unfrequently given rise to the remark that it is strange the heart should so often be the seat of mortal disease. But the truth is we attach far too little importance to this organ and its functions. It performs its great office so quietly and uninterruptedly that we even forget its existence. From a period anterior to birth until death, during sleeping as well as waking hours, ceaselessly and noiselessly, with steady rhythm, it circulates the vital fluids through every tissue of the body. Seventy-five times it pulsates in a minute, 108,000 times in the day, without exhaustion or apparent need of repose.

The heart is a hollow muscular organ weighing but ten ounces, and is suspended in the cavity of the chest by delicate ligaments; and yet, it performs quietly and noiselessly, with but the slightest jar, an incredible amount of labor. In twenty-four hours it is estimated that the heart accomplishes more than three times as much work as a common laborer in 10 hours. "Three old women sitting by the fire," says a recent scientific writer, "alternately spinning and sleeping, do more by the constant beating of their hearts than can be done in a day by the youngest and strongest laborer." He adds: "No labor that we can undertake is regarded as more severe than that of the muscle employed during a boat race; and yet this labor, severe as it is, is only three-fourths of that exerted day and night, during life, by each of our hearts."

If the entire force of the heart were expended in lifting its own weight vertically, it would be raised 19,754 feet in one hour. Compare this with the exertions of an active pedestrian, who can raise his own weight but 1,000 feet per hour, and we find the heart itself exerts about 20 times as much force; or with the best locomotive, which can raise its own weight 2,700 feet in one hour, which is but one-eighth of the energy of the human heart. To a reflective mind, it cannot be a matter of surprise that this delicately constructed organ, laboring so vigorously without a moment's rest day or night, should frequently and often suddenly, give over its labor and cease to act. On the contrary, it is rather a matter of astonishment that the heart should maintain its integrity, year after year, amid the scenes of excitements through which the individual passes for three score years and ten. In severest sickness, when other organs fail, the heart pursues the even tenor of its way, continuing its pulsation to the last moment of life. Like a strong warrior in a citadel, it yields only when every resource has been exhausted.

REMEDY FOR PAINFUL WOUNDS.—Take a pan or shovel with burning coals and sprinkle upon them common brown sugar, and hold the wounded part in the smoke. In a few minutes the pain will generally be allayed, and recovery proceeds rapidly.

H. M. WILSON, whose ranch is near Healdsburg, has just thrashed his wheat. A portion of it went as high as seventy-two bushels to the acre, while the average for the entire field was sixty-two bushels to the acre.

THE number of horses at present in the country is about twelve million, of which 1,100,000 are owned in Illinois, which has the most of any State. Texas has 1,002,000.

Lead Poisoning.

Few people, with the exception of those who are brought into immediate contact with the metal, by reason of their employment in base metal mines, smelting furnaces or painters' materials, have any idea of the horrors or results of lead poisonfng. It is not alone the immediate danger to life, nor the pain and debility produced by this disease which are its most unpleasant features. Probably the most awful result to be contemplated by those whose blood has been impregnated with this poison is, that the disease is inherited by their children, in the same manner as some others of the most terrible diseases known to the human race. It is still a mooted question whether the poison remains in the system of children so inheriting; but the fact remains, that the children born of parents who are so poisoned, come into the world covered with boils and ulcers, and in many cases die immediately after birth; and the burden of proof goes to show that the poison remains in the blood indefinitely, appearing on the surface in the form of eruptions, periodically.

The first symptom of lead poisoning is a severe colic, followed by debility, and a whitening of the skin. Other symptoms of the presence of lead poisoning in the blood are dizziness in the morning, with failing sight, and an increasing deafnesss, very much the same symptoms as appear when the liver is out of order. Persons suffering from this poison are very liable to have the slightest cold turn into pneumonia, as it weakens the lungs and leaves them an easy prey to that terrible disease.

When persons are attacked very severely by lead poisoning they of course take it in hand, and by the use of a milk diet, and bathing in and drinking mineral water which is strongly impregnated with sulphur and carbolic acid gas, and by a general tonic treatment, they eliminate the poison from the system; but where the attack is slight, in many cases, very little attention is paid to it, and in time, it becomes chronic, and results in years of misery, which is attributed to any other than the right cause. Of course, the poisoning very often proves fatal, but we are merely dealing now with the ills that accrue to the living. It is much easier than is popularly supposed to be placed in danger of lead poisoning. It is not necessary to work in lead mines, over smelting furnaces or in mixing the paint known as white lead, to contract the disease. The fumes coming from the chimneys of smelting furnaces, breathed by persons on the street are liable to cause lead poisoning; the drinking of water which has lain in lead pipe for a short time, salts of lead produced from the lead lining of tea-chests, where moisture reaches the tea; and, in fact, in every article of consumption which is brought into contact with lead in any way, where there is the least fermentation or moisture, there is great danger of lead poisoning.

In Germany a movement is on foot looking to the passing of a law prohibiting the importation of tea in lead-lined boxes, and this brings us to a danger which is little appreciated—the danger of lead poisoning from drinking tea which has been imported in lead-lined boxes. The lead is used to preserve the aroma and flavor of the tea, which would be lost were the air allowed to reach it; but while it has the desired effect of preserving the flavor and aroma, it creates a danger of lead poisoning; and it is a thing to be noticed in this connection, that women, who are the principal tea drinkers, suffer much from symptoms such as would be produced by lead poison, such as colic, debility, swimming in the head and a whitening of the skin.

Many merchants in America, being aware of the danger of so lining tea boxes have substituted tin for the lead, and where these tin cans can be put together without the use of solder, they would have the effect of holding the flavor and aroma of the tea, without the danger which comes from the use of lead.

This matter of lead poisoning has not received sufficient attention from either the people or the lawmakers in this country, and some people even consider it is time a law was passed prohibiting the use of solder in putting up canned goods.—S. F. Scientific Press.

HOW MIRRORS MAY BE RUINED.—It is a fact worth knowing, though not generally understood, that the amalgam of tin foil with mercury, which is spread on glass plates to make looking glasses, is very readily crystallized by actinic solar rays. A mirror hung where the sun can shine on it is usually spoiled; it takes a granulated appearance familiar to housekeepers, though they may not be acquainted with its cause. In such a state the article is nearly worthless; its continuity of surface is destroyed, and it will not reflect outlines with any approach to precision. Care should therefore be exercised in hanging. If any of our readers have mirrors which appear to be spoiling, it would be well to ascertain whether the direct sunlight strikes them. If thus exposed, they can probably be saved from further injury by simply changing their position. The back, as well as the front must be protected. A small glass hung in a window where the rays strike it behind is peculiarly exposed. The back should always be covered where the beams are likely to touch it. It is also well to avoid hanging a mirror near a stove or fireplace, where the heat radiated can reach it. If this precaution is neglected, granulation is likely to occur, even in a comparatively dark room, by the influence of warmth instead of light. A lamp or gas jet, if placed too close while burning, though it may not crack the glass, will often bring about the same injurious crystallization, and will even sometimes cause the amalgam to melt and run off.

A Story of the Discovery of the Robert E. Lee Mine.

Last evening a reporter met Richard Knowles, a prominent miner of the Gunnison country, in Colorado. He said: "While I was yet at Leadville a man came up there from Denver named Dexter—Jim Dexter they called him—and he was full of life and hope and had some money. Dexter looked about him for awhile, and finally bought a claim on Carbonate hill, which had at that time not been prospected very well. He paid, I think, about 15,000 for it, and set to work putting in machinery and sinking the shaft, which was already down some 100 feet or more. He worked away on the mine, people laughing at him a good deal, but he never once lost heart. The mine had not shown a single thing in the way of mineral, and the shaft had been sunk by that time several hundred feet. Dexter did not know what to do. He had spent nearly all the money he had, and nothing was coming in. One day in the early part of the year 1879 a party came to him and asked him what he would take for his mine. Dexter told him, and a bargain was made between them. The price paid was, I think, $30,000, some $5,000 more than Dexter had spent to get the $30,000, and thought himself well out of a bad bargain. He rushed out to Carbonate hill and ordered the miners to drop their tools and quit work. This was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. He said: 'Boys, I have sold this hole, and I don't want you to work another minute in it for me. I will pay you off right now, and you can quit.' Well, the miners had just finished a drill, and were going to place a blast and uncover some rock, and they asked to be allowed to finish it before they quit work. 'No,' said Dexter; 'come out; I don't want you to work any more; there is nothing in the old hole.' The men reluctantly quit and departed. Dexter got his money and was happy.

"Well, the mine had been bought by a stock company, and in a short time they began work on it. Now, young man, what I am going to tell you is the solemn truth,' said the miner. 'Those fellows went up there to that mine and laid a fuse in the blast left by Dexter's men, and touched it off. After the smoke cleared away they went in to see how much rock had been loosened, when what do you think? There before their eyes they saw the richest body of silver ore which has ever been seen since the world began. At that time hundreds of thousands of dollars met the gaze of the delighted owners, of the richest kind of ore.

"Well, young fellow,' continued Mr. Knowles, 'that mine was the celebrated Robert E. Lee, which has made everybody rich who has had anything to do with it since Jimmy Dexter sold it. Millions of dollars have been turned out of it."

How the Cable Talks.

An operator sits at a table in a room darkened by a curtain. On his left hand stands a little instrument named "reflecting galvanometer," the invention of Sir Willirm Thomson, without which Atlantic telegraph would be a slow process, not exceeding two or three words per minute, instead of 18 or 20, at the present rate. This delicate instrument consists of a tiny magnet and a small mirror swinging on a silken thread, the two together weighing but a few grains. The electric current, passing along the wire from Valencia deflects the magnet to and fro. The mirror deflects a spot of light on a scale in a box placed at the operator's right hand, where, by its oscillation, the spot of light indicates the slight movements of the magnet, which are too slight to be directly seen. This little swinging magnet follows every change in the received current; and every change, great or small, produces a corresponding oscillation of the light on the scale. A code of signals is so arranged by which the movements of the spot of light is made to indicate the letters of the alphabet. When receiving a message from Valencia, the operator watches the movement of the little speck, which keeps dancing about over the scale on his right. To his practiced eye, each movement of the spot of light represents a letter of the alphabet, and its seemingly fantastic motions are spelling out the intelligence which the pulsing of the electric currents is transmitting between two hemispheres. It is truly marvelous to note how rapidly the experienced operator disentangles the irregular oscillations of the little speck of light into the letters and words which they represent.

Western Meanness.

"Don't you go there!" he said as he turned around on the passenger who announced that he was going through to Idaho. "They are the most selfish set of people you ever saw."

"How?"

"Well, take my case: I ran a wildcat under a school house and discovered a silver mine, and yet they wouldn't let me do any blasting under there during school hours for fear of disturbing the children. I had to work nights altogether, and they even charged me thirty cents for breaking a window."

"Indeed!"

"And in another case where I staked out a claim and three men jumped it, the Governor refused to issue ammunition or to let the Sheriff move; and do you know what I had to do? I had to dig a canal from a river three miles away and let the water in to drive the jumpers out, and even then the coroner who sat on the bodies made me pay for the coffins and charged me $12 for a funeral sermon only seven minutes long! Don't go beyond Colorado it you want to be used well."—Wall Street Daily News.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, AUGUST 12.....1882

JAMES E. PARKER

The San Francisco Chronicle of last Sunday publishes a letter from this County, signed "Inyo." Although the writer dated his communication at Lone Pine, it is known that he resides at Cerro Gordo. The gist of the letter induced the editor of the Chronicle to head the article "A Desolate Region," and that is the impression which will be formed in the minds of all who read it. The writer makes no reference to the mining interests of this section. He conveys the imprssion that there is absolutely nothing in the way of vegetation in Owens Valley. The assessment roll of this County shows the number of acres cultivated in 1880 to be 7,500, and since that time the acreage has been largely increased. The ranchers have just harvested their wheat crop, and all are perfectly satisfied with the yield. "Inyo" gives a very good description of Owens Lake, but that will not offset the damage done to this County by so underrating her farming interests.

It has been learned by Government officials that a secret organization of 1,200 men has been formed in Arizona, who are bound by oath, in case any more raids are made and murders committed by Apaches, to enter the reservation and slaughter men, women, and children. Governor Tritle, appreciating the gravity of the situation, has had orders issued for troops to be removed from the fixed posts to the passes usually traveled by Indians after leaving the reservation so as to head off any hostile bands. Heretofore it has been customary for Government officers to grant permits to leave the reservation on passes for the alleged purpose of hunting. It is said that most of the murders committed in Arizona have been by Indians bearing these passes. Through the efforts of Governor Tritle the issuing of such passes has been revoked for a period of six months.

Colorado is now sustaining a population of about 250,000 people. To a very large extent this population is supported by silver mining, the product of which last year was about $23,000,000. The statistics of the railroad show that there were transported to Colorado from the States lying east of her, last year, 308,343 tons of merchandise. The estimated value of this merchandise is over $20,000,000. In other words, as one of the results of this industry, $20,000,000 has been sent to the States which produce no silver in payment for the products of their labor.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has received telegraphic information to the effect that 200 Indians have left the Yakama reservation, in Washington Territory, and have crossed the Columbia river on their journey southward. The Warm Spring Indians are co-operating with them, and it is supposed that their objective point is the Duckvilly or Winnemucca reservation, from which they were removed about two years ago.

A Washington dispatch says: Politicians, lobbyists, and adventurers are leaving on every train. Congress has adjourned until December, and until that time nothing will occur worthy of note. The President and Cabinet are going to the seaside. The Pacific Coast delegation will leave for home in a few days.

A dispatch from Matamoras, Mexico, dated August 9th, says: News has just been received here of the execution of twenty-five Apaches who were captured by Mexican troops and publicly shot at Chihuahua on Monday. They met their fate with an expression of the greatest contempt on their faces.

There is gold enough in Snake River Valley, Idaho, if it could be saved, to pay the national debt. On hundreds of thousands of acres it can be found with an ordinary gold pan. But the gold is so fine that it escapes all known processes.

Some very rich discoveries have lately bedn made in the vicinity of Twenty-nine Palms, San Bernardino County. The ore is a free gold quartz, and the ledges from five to seven feet in width.

The Government is now building in Delaware a fine new iron steamship for the special use of the Fish Commission. It is to cost $200,000.

The steamer Gold Dust blew up last Monday, near Hickman, Ky. Twenty four persons were killed, and forty eight wounded.

The present pay of the Scotch farm laborer at home is $70 a year and found.

The Bodie Free Press says that the State Line mines are to be started up again.

Last year $837,000 worth of chewing gum was sold in the Uniied States.

OWENS LAKE WATER.

The suggestions made in the following letter are worthy of attention. An opportunity is presented for some of Inyo County's public spirited citizens to accomplish something at little trouble and expense which may result in great benefit to this section of country. Prof. Hanks is taking considerable interest in the matter, and our citizens should not hesitate in complying with his request:

California State Mining Bureau,
Office of State Mineralogist,
San Francisco, August 3, 1882.

Editor Inyo Independent: In your issue of July 29th I notice extract from Examiner relating to water of Mono Lake. My examination so far (I am making an exhaustive analysis) shows that the water contains a vast quantity of useful salts, including borax. I have long tried to obtain a good sample of Owens Lake water. One sample, sent after repeated efforts to obtain it, was put into a molasses keg, and when I came to examine it I found it to contain 10 per cent. of molasses, which, of course, spoiled it. If you would have five gallons put up and sent to me from a point distant from the river, I will send you the results of preliminary analysis for publication in your paper, before the complete analysis is finished. We have a large jar of Mono Lake water, and I would like to have an equal sized one filled with Owens Lake water in the Museum. The water could be put into a clean alcohol can and soldered up and packed in a box, and the same sent down by slow freight. I think it is important for your County and to the State to have the properties of the waters of this great lake made known. * * * * * *

Very truly, Henry G. Hanks,
State Mineralogist.

One of the greatest spelter-producing districts of the world is that of Liege, Belgium. According to M. Van Scherpenzeel's annual report, the eleven works of the province treated 19,200 tons of Belgian ores, and 145,000 tons of foreign ores, of which 40,000 tons came from Greece, 39,000 tons from Italy, 35,000 tons from Spain, 13,000 tons from Sweden, 13,000 tons from Germany, and 3,800 from France. Some of our franklinites are also worked in the same district; 375,000 tons of coal were burnt in working them. The product reached the enormous total of 69,800 tons, or about 10,000 tons more than the preceding year. With such heavy supplies weighing down the European markets, and the German works increasing steadily though not as rapidly, it is not surprising that a strong pressure is brought to bear in our Eastern markets, which before the close of this month have been forced to absorb nearly 6,000 tons of foreign metal. The rapid development of an enormous smelting industry in Belgium based on the importation of foreign ores is a feature which American mine-owners and smelters should follow with close interest. If our tariff cannot keep out foreign metal, why not at least make an effort to have the foreign ores come in, and give our smelters on the coast the benefit of treating them?

Great Britain is evidently determined that the news from Egypt shall not have otherwise than English coloring, and consequently such restrictions have been placed on correspondents that it will be almost impossible to secure an impartial statement of the progress of events. All newspaper people at the scene of hostilities are compelled to have licenses from the Duke of Cambridge, and are not to be permitted to go to outposts unless special permission is received. Cipher dispatches are forbidden, and all telegrams are to pass under the eye of a supervisory officer, who may alter them or suppress them entirely.

Bob Ingersoll, not satisfied with the fortune he made in the law profession and lecture field, wanted more. He bought into a New Mexican mine which has pinched out, leaving him high and dry financially. When the Star Route trials are over, it is his intention to take to the lecture field again to recuperate his bad luck.

Two men, while attempting to climb over the railing of the Tuilleries Gardens in Paris, during a display of fireworks, caught hold of the electric wires used in the illumination of the grounds, and both were struck dead instantly.

Clarence Gray, who killed Theodore Glancey, editor of the Santa Barbara Press, has been granted another new trial on the ground that the jury was supplied with liquor during deliberation.

The National debt to-day amounts to $31.72 for each man, woman and child in the country, while the annual interest paid for each is $1.09.

A Spicy Letter From the Yosemite Country.

Tamarack, Mariposa Co., Cal.,
July 29, 1882.

Following in the wake of timber and land locators and followed by a large corps of civil engineers, I have vibrated hence in charge of a party of constructers, with thirty-five miles of wire spinning out behind me. The engineers, headed by H. B. Carpenter, surveyor, are engaged on a newly-projected railroad, which will cut through the best natural pass in all the Sierra range and will shorten the route east about 400 miles. It is calculated to run the road directly over the crest of Yosemite Peak, from whence leaps the waters of that great fall—the first jump being 1,600 feet, sheer. From this point the tourist aristocrat can overlook the valley scenery from a palace car window—get dizzy and accommodate his relatives by toppling over and landing 2,634 feet below. The aforesaid wire is a forerunner of the railroad and a prediction of the future importance of Tioga Mining District, also the energy, perseverance, good faith and intelligence of that portion of Mono County. My instructions are to not let up till I land on Montgomery street—thus tapping Yosemite Valley and country to the westward and opening a continuous line from San Francisco to Bodie via Tioga and Mill Creek. Have for some time been experimenting in high altitudes, through everlasting snow, with the improved telephone and am so fully satisfied of its importance that I shall introduce a system of telephone stations on the main line. For instance—at first it will not justify keeping an operator at Tioga; but in case they are in need of general gossip, filling of orders, etc., a signal can be given by telegraph key by any person and the line immediately switched on to the telephone, both at Mill Creek and Yosemite, from which points either can be used for transportation. The telephone can be successfully operated in any jargon known to the human tongue and in snow, wind or rain. The only difficulty on a long line is after nightfall, when the atmosphere in high altitudes will cause a crackling noise, making the conversation at times almost unintelligible. However, on our particular line honest people are not supposed to converse during the silent watches.

The distance from Tioga to Yosemite, if one be acquainted and cut off at right angles from the sinuous routes laid out by ye guides and settlers of '57, is about 24 miles, making it 31 miles from Mill Creek and 53 from Bodie. The first impression, in viewing the valley, upon an old-time sage brusher cannot be detailed on paper. If he gave his views, particularly of the foreign element who infest the place, it would not look well. The scenery is something out of the usual line; the walls of the valley are perpendicular—composed of solid granite of a very poor quality; the 3,000 or 4,000-feet hillocks are sharpened into spires in some cases, but mostly are rounded into an awkward fashion of a dome and all are bald headed. Nature was evidently attacked with a fit of emotional insanity when she caused this dug out or rent, but she might have improved it wonderfully by placing Mt. Whitney on one side and Death Valley immediately beyond; and also, in sending a bucketful or more of water over this splendid opportunity for water-falls. However, it is probably best as it is, as in case more water were furnished the sand-like coarse granite would yield, and in about 7,000,000 years Yosemite would lose her much-advertised charm. Man, not to be outdone by Nature's crazy freaks, sends annually here herds of human imbeciles to gaze, wonder and exhaust their ill-gotten gains in the support of badly-appointed hotels, and jeopardizing their insurance policies by riding broken-down stage stock at three dollars per head—pointed by a three-dollar guide who is too practical to enthuse lest it be at the sight of the costume effected by his female charge. The first tourist we met with was on the banks of Lake Tanaya—a modest little pool of warm water to the eastward of the valley. She was a city female accompanied only by a solitary guide, horses, 15 pairs of blankets, mattress and two pillows. She rode astride—man-fashion—and wore a costume at the sight of which our unsophisticated jackass fell down in a paroxysm of laughter. From this point our back-door visitor is first directed to a little hillock far below the grand old Sierras behind him and is informed that it is "Clouds' Rest." Peace be to the ashes of the cloud that would presume to rest on such a point. We were told that this is the first and highest point that tourists gaze upon. I had read about it and had no doubts, therefore gazed and wept, as also did the jackass and dog. It was the first instance where the sublime ever got the better of the tranquil jackass. The next attractive one was a young Miss from Merced. We called her "the girl in blue." She had pretty teeth, a large mouth and a shapely foot; but the tourist costume knocked thunder out of the rest of her charms. She jigged up and down and as she passed us, headed up the valley, she said: "Don't you think, they had the audacity to make me mad this charming morning, then put me on this old abandoned stage horse." Then, with California simplicity, added: "I don't which hurts the worst, the saddle or my—get up, here, you old crow-bait;" and giving her steed a clip over the rump with a big manzanita club she was lost to view.

The valley affords magnificent shade and in the shrubbery is to be found the rarest of ferns. The climate at this particular season is most infernally hot, especially to one accustomed to the summits. Altogether the valley is a very pretty sight, as J. A. Garfield and many other notables bear testimony in the great register of Yosemite. But the whisky and cigars are abominable. It is two bits a drink to a tourist and ten cents to a native—out of the same bottle. The tables break one's heart and make him wish he were in Bodie or some other mining camp where you always secure your money's worth in palatable grub. The State controls the valley, and the only good that can be observed is the protection of the trees. A live Yankee corporation invested with a property like this would introduce electric lights, pave the highway, introduce a water main and build a brewery; then with new attractions every season the averarage Californian, as well as the traveler, would be induced to visit the place oftener than once during his natural life.

Among the wonders neglected by the embryo writers and the irrepressible guide book is an ancient Indian. The wonder is, how in the devil he, as a Digger Indian, can manage to subsist around the Yosemite hotels; yet he, decked out in a single garment—a shirt—has withstood the peril and may be said to virtually outstrip the doctor and his watermelon. To those contemplating a visit here I would advise not to enter by the back door, for the first impression will be bad, like first viewing the Niagara from the suspension bridge. Childs.

Some of the English journals appear to be alarmed at the tremendous influx of emigration into the United States, and discuss it at length. The Saturday Review inclines to believe that this excessive growth is fraught with dangers to the United States from the overcrowding of population, and so on. But it is plainly to be seen from the whole tone of the article referred to that the alarm is not on our account at all, or at least that it is caused by no anxiety for our benefit, but is rather excited by a calculation that by the close of the present century our population may equal that of Russia, and that our political power will be correspondingly enhanced. As to the prospect of overcrowding our territory it is sufficient answer to say that a careful estimate shows its capacity to be capable of sustaining a population of six hundred millions of souls. The population of Europe at the present time is about three hundred millions, although fully one-third of its area is uninhabitable by reason of being in the Arctic regions or occupied by inaccessible mountains and worthless wastes. Now, the United States is as large as the whole of Europe with Alaska, and it can all be made practicable for civilized population.

An Australian merchant left £20,000 to be paid for masses to deliver his soul from purgatory. The executor takes the ground that he will not pay over the money until it has been decided in the courts that purgatory actually exists, and that this particular soul has been prayed out of it; and the parties who claim to have earned the $100,000 by their prayers, have taken the case to court.

In Placerville, recently, the practice of hazing has been indulged in by members of the Olympic Club, and the other day some of them held a boy under a faucet and turned a stream of cold water upon the back of his neck until he was thrown into convulsions. Medical assistance was called, but for an hour or two his life was despaired of.

The Virginia Chronicle states that John W. Mackay refuses to stand in for Senator. This may be true, but Mr. Mackay would hardly make a denial through a Democratic journal. No one among the Democrats appears anxious to put up his sack, and with that useful article out of the field, Nevada is Republican.

Yellow fever is raging in the South. At Matamoras, Mexico, there were fifteen deaths last Sunday. At Brownsville, Texas, fifty cases were reported on Wednesday. The epidemic is spreading, and numerous towns report the existence of the plague. The people are preparing for the worst.

Commander Pearson reports that no trouble is apprehended in Sitka between the Indians and miners, and says that the rumors are put in circulation by traders and rumsellers, who want a man-of-war on the station because of the six or eight thousand dollars disbursed.

During the past year there wer 5,008 deaths in San Francisco, an increase of 721 over the previous year. The health officers attribute the increase to the bad condition of the sewers.

A NOVEL ENTERPRISE.—Parties from San Francisco are now purchasing all the empty whisky barrels they can procure in this section for the purpose of shipping Owens Lake water to San Francisco. Twenty-five barrels were sent down to the lake from this place, Wednesday. It is proposed to ship a car load of the water as an experiment. The promoters of this enterprise are reticent as to the uses to which the water will be put, but state that if this shipment is a success, it will be followed by other and larger ones. When railroad connection is made with Bodie there will be no scarcity of empty barrels for this business.

RELICS.—Some weeks ago THE INDEPENDENT recorded the fact that a relic (an iron ring) of the ill-fated immigrant party in Death Valley had been found and would be sent to the State Museum. Professor Hanks acknowledges receipt of the memento, as follows: "Your letter of July 10th came to hand, as did the Death Valley relic referred to. We have a rusty pocket knife from the same locality, which, together with the ring sent by you, I consider valuable historic relics and a desirable addition to the State Museum." The knife was found and presented to the Museum by Mr. T. F. A. Connelly, of this place.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—Last Monday Mr. John Shepherd and wife started for Casa Diablo, Mono County. From there they will accompany Mr. James Shepherd to Belleville, from which point he goes to San Francisco for medical treatment. "Uncle Jim," it will be remembered, is afflicted with rheumatism, and has been for some weeks testing the virtues of the mineral springs at the Casa Diablo, but received no benefit therefrom.

THANKS.—This office was the recipient of some fine cake, one day this week, "compliments of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Davis," of Bishop. This newly-married couple will soon take up their residence at Soda Springs, on the C. & C. Railroad.

A NOVEL.—Jim Farris, clerk at the Blaney House, is writing a novel. He says the exploits of his heroes and "heroesses" eclipse those of Dick Turpin, Beau Brummel and others of the blood and thunder order.

REFRESHING.—Wednesday afternoon Nature's sprinkler was in operation and hovered about town for an hour or more. Murmurs of approbation were heard on all sides.

FAILING.—Mr. J. L. Wood is very feeble, and cannot last much longer. He is receiving every care which sympathizing friends can bestow.

ANOTHER RUN.—Next week Messrs. Reddy & Gorman will start up their furnace at Darwin on Defiance ore.

Bishop Creek, A. D. 1900.

FRIEND HOOVER: I will take up a raveling from the thread of Time and wind it on the spool of thought, and answer a few of your questions in regard to the "fair" and "unfair" who twenty years ago perambulated the streets of the little town of Bishop.

In regard to our friend Jimmy Brown, I will just say that away back when Time was in her swaddling clothes, it was foreseen that we needed just such an "artist," hence we find him located at No. 8 Pearl street, with his little 3½x3 peanut stand, and he is doing a good business on a small scale.

Oscar Hilton is the cattle king of Mono County, having bought all of Long Valley. His summer villa is at Casa Diablo, and he is quite an auxiliary to the racing season, but at present is studying ornothology and is making extensive preparations for "swans."

James Richardson got married, and when he became the happy parent of a pair of twins (a boy and a girl) he believed explicitly the statement of the nurse, that the boy was the finest and the girl the loveliest infant ever born within her knowledge; and when Dr. Howell said he detected bumps of genius on the head of the male infant, and the old women said that the nose of the girl gave promise of turning out a pure Grecian, poor Jim was "full" with joy; but when the nurse took him to one side, with a kind of dish-with-two-spoons-in-it smile on her face, and told him what they must have from town, he looked as if he thought he had studied the English language to no purpose. He met our "merchant prince" and reported the nurse's speech to him, and he said: "Jim, I do not run a 'green grocery,'" and advised him to go to Harger, at the next corner. There Jim's trouble ended, for he had been there.

I paid a flying visit to Big Pine last week, but it is a wreck of its former greatness—'tis too close to Bishop ever to make much of a place. * * * *

John Doyle returned in 1882 to Tennessee, with the intention of running a crosscut on the Ginisang mine, that forked on himself and Frank Hutchison in '69 and broke them, but found it located. He took up and brought back with him a location which he calls Mary Ann. * * * * *

In regard to your fair friend, I can not answer your question, but meeting the poet, Owen Smith, he handed me, as he termed it, "a rough pen sketch," as follows:

Close beside a purling brook,
Sat a maiden with a book;
Golden curls and tiny feet,
Make the maiden look so sweet.

Then a horse's hoofs she hears,
Soon a fine young man appears;
Thinking he might have the cash,
Pretty maiden makes a mash.

Talks awhile of sun and sorrow,
Then the maiden says "to-morrow;"
Thus agreed the time was set,
Man and maiden married get.

Some weeks passed in perfect bliss,
Then the man forgets to kiss,
The girl found in that shady nook,
Down beside the babbling brook.

One year later, baby suqaling,
Twin brother on the floor is bawling,
Bread burnt up, and hash not done,
Nearly time for man to come.

Man comes in at half-past seven,
Hear him swear, "O gracious heaven!"
Thinks of sorrow, not of sun,
Blows his head off with a gun.

"Pretty widow," with a book,
Sitting by a purling brook,
Man rides by with big mustache,
Keep on riding, "nary" mash.

BISHOP.

NEW ADS.—In this issue will be found the quarterly reports of County Treasurer and County Auditor, showing the financial condition of the County on the 31st of July last. Also, notice to delinquents of sale of stock of New Coso Mining Company.

I. O. O. F.—All members of this Order interested in establishing a lodge at this place should not forget the meeting for that purpose, to be held at the Blaney House, on Saturday, the 19th instant, at 8 o'clock P. M.

FIRE.—Jack Welch, who came over from Saline Valley, Tuesday, reports that the boarding house at the Laura mill was consumed by fire on Monday. The loss is small, as the building was a cheap structure.

IMPROVING.—Mr. Joseph Wasson is in San Francisco. For some weeks he has been in very poor health, but at last accounts he was convalescent.

MUCH speculation has been indulged in, from time to time, about the gauge of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad and the possibilities and probabilities of it being changed to conform to that of the Carson & Colorado. D. A. Bender, general freight and ticket agent, says there is no intention of making any change. The Virginia & Truckee railroad now has only four box cars, and does not need any more, because all the freight for Virginia and Carson goes right through in Central Pacific cars, and vice versa. All freight for the Carson & Colorado is now transferred at the Mound House, and it is just as easy to transfer there as at Reno, which would have to be done if both were narrow gauge.—True Fissure.

WITH a desire to have the Columbus Mining district represented at the Denver Exposition, B. G. Smith is collecting specimens of ore from the different mines in this vicinity. He has quite a number already and some fine blocks of borax, all of which will make a fair showing. This is a worthy object, and anyone who has a specimen to present should bring it forward at once, that all may be forwarded without delay.—True Fissure.

Giving Lessons in Politeness.

The Hon. W. J. Hendricks, of Frankfort, Ky., tells the following: He was sitting in his office at Fremingsburg one day, when his colored office boy came shuffling in with his hat on and singing, "Dar's one mo' ribber to cross." He was impressed by the boy's want of politeness, and said to him, "Look'ee here, sir, that's no way to enter my office. You need a lesson in behavior. Now you take a seat, in my chair, and act just as if you were proprietor—just as I do, and I will go out and come in just as you should do," whereupon he laid down his cigar and went out the door. In a moment he returned, and there sat Jim with his feet pitched up on the table, a copy of the Revised Statutes of the United States open in his lap and the half-smoked cigar in his mouth, and his hat cocked down over one eye. The esthetic teacher entered quietly with his hat in his hand, but had not fairly gotten into the room before Jim looked up and said: "Jack, you d—d rascal, pick up dat spittoon, clean it quick, and den come in heah, sah, and black my boots—do you heah? Jim was kicked out, but very shortly afterwards reinstated.

It is with real regret that we announce that Mr. Pacheco will not again be a candidate for Congress. His private business, connected with his interests in Mexico, dedemands his whole attention. We may hereafter hear from him, for such as he are too valuable in public life to be allowed to attend quietly to their own exclusive concerns. As Senator, Taeasurer of State, Lieutenant Governor, Governor and Congressman, Mr. Pacheco has borne himself honestly and nobly as to deserve and receive the plaudits of the people.—[Los Angeles Express.

Charley Lyon arrived at his home in Iowa a few days ago, satisfied by a month's experience at West Point that he did not wish to remain a cadet. He says that the rules of the military academy were too rigid and severe to bear; that hazing was practiced; that he was compelled to eat tallow candles and chew tarred rope, and that, unable to stand it longer, he ran away.

In Montana, on the day fixed for the wedding, the bridegroom did not come to time. He was sued for a breach of promise, and showed that all the hours of the day specified he was treed by a bear. That is what might be said to be a bear escape.

Lake Tenaya.

Lake Tenaya is one mile and three-quarters in length by three-quarters of a mile in width. No boat, not even a canoe, has ever plowed the waters of this beautiful lake, although a gentle breeze sweeps the surface daily, and no heavy or fitful winds ever visit it. J. L. Murphy, an intelligent gentleman and a pioneer thoroughly familiar with every foot of country in this part of the range, settled upon the beautiful meadow along the western shore of Lake Tenaya on the first day of August, 1878. On the 31st of the same month he placed in the lake 52 brook trout from Bell's Meadow's on the Tuolumne—from whence were brought the first trout placed in Virginia Creek and Lake Lundy. Some of these fish have already attained a length of two feet. They spawn twice a year and are wonderfully prolific, so that the lake is swarming with them. From the western shore the lake attains a depth of less than one inch to the foot for several hundred feet, and then drops to an unknown depth against the base of the precipitous mountain guarding the eastern shore. For picturesqueness and grandeur of scenery no place in the Sierra range surpasses Lake Tenaya. Along the western shore sweeps a beautiful meadow, shaded by stately forest trees and straited with crystal streams. The amphitheatre in which it is situated is guarded by lofty granite peaks and ridges which glisten in the sun like great glaciers, while Clouds' Rest, Mt. Watkins and other high peaks overlooking the grand chasm of Yosemite seem but a stone's throw distant.—John I. Ginn, in Homer Index.

Now all this about the picturesqueness and romantic beauty of Lake Tenaya we know to be true, and it may even be said that the above description is mildly drawn. We camped on the western shore of the lake nineteen years before Mr. Murphy settled there—in the month of September, 1850,—when not even a trail, only some "blazes" on the trees, marked the way through that region of the Sierras. We saw the moon rise between two great peaks on the eastern shore of the lake and mirror itself in the water, and not only itself but all the peaks on which it shed its light, and it has almost seemed that we have never since seen a moonrise.

About this lake and among the meadows at the headwaters of the Tuolumne in the month of September an artist would find ready-made pictures on every hand. It is but a short distance, by a good trail, from the lake over to the meadows on the Tuolumne. The Tuolumne is but a mere brook at this height, but it is beautiful in every curve, and on all sides spread grassy lawns, while on these lawns stand immense solitary blocks of gray granite, vast as so many cathedrals. Growing up about and against these great rocks are groves of the most beautiful young firs ever seen, and vast groves of firs and other evergreen trees border and wall in all the open country along the stream.

These beautiful meadows continue almost to the head of the stream—where it can almost be spanned with the hands—and to the very head it is picturesque, as the head is in a little round lake, but a few yards in diameter, that stands in a great gap on the crest of the Sierras. This is a region greatly loved by Muir, and he is right about it.—S. F. Stock Report.

THE largest and handsomest municipal building in the world, it is said, is the new City Hall of Paris. Its accommodations are almost equal to those of the Capitol at Washington, and it is probably superior to the new Capitol at Albany, New York, as a place for the transaction of public business. But its cost will be but $5,000,000, although the Albany structure will cost more than three times as much. The $5,000,000 includes the better part of $1,000,000 expended to secure works of art by 150 artists to adorn the Paris municipal building, and nearly as much more for the preparation of the site of the structure.

Time to Bud Peaches.

At this season each year, questions about budding the peach, apricot and almond come in, and though the operation is illustrated in many books and journals, it is new to numbers of farmers. The first essential is that the seedings used as stock shall be large, fine and thrifty, standing in rows three or four feet apart, and about three inches apart in the rows. If everything is right a good budder can put in 3,000 or 4,000 in ten hours, having the tree prepared and the buds tied for him. Before work begins the small branches and leaves on erch seedling must be cleaned off, to a height of six inches or so from the ground. A recent writer in the Gardeners' Monthly says:

The budder wraps up in a cloth enough sticks or limbs to bud several hundred, and carries them by his side; he takes out a stick, holds it in his left hand with the lower end from him, and places his knife about half an inch below the bud; then with a drawing cut, gradually deeper he cuts about as far above the bud. Take out the knife and cut crosswise of the limb, just through the bark, about half an inch above the bud; place the point of the knife within one or two inches of the ground on the seedling, making a cut upwards just through the bark about one inch long; then make a cut at the top of it crosswise, and insert the bud.

CAPTAIN FARROW, of Islesboro, tells a good story of himself which occurred a few years ago while he was trading at Key West. It was a case where a Northern Yankee was outwitted by a Southerner. The Captain was trading in a small vessel, and had been up the coast to Tampa Bay, where he purchased twenty dozen chickens, paying $4 per dozen. The fowls ran all the way in size from a few days old to full-grown ones. At Key West a hotel landlord came alongside and asked the Captain how he sold his chickens. The Captain replied: "If you pick them out I shall charge you $6 per dozen; if you let me pick them out you can have them at $3 per dozen. "All right," said the hotel man, "you pick them out." The Captain selected several dozen of the smallest, when the buyer said: "Go ahead, I want more." The Captain was now among his largest fowls, and wished the man would stop, but he still said: "Go on." The Captain saw the point at last. The man kept him selecting until he purchased the entire lot at a loss of $20 to the owner. After this the Captain sold his chickens on a different plan.

A COLUMN of army worms was successfully fought with fire at Holmdel, N. J., a few days ago. The owners of a farm near that town discovered an immense column of the worms advancing in the direction of their cornfields. All the available force on the farm was at once called out and a deep ditch was dug along the side of the field between the corn and the army worms, and when the ditch was filled with the pests the trench was filled with kerosene and fired. The flames, of course, consumed the occupants of the ditch, but did not check the advance of those behind, or turn aside the line of march. The fire was kept up until the rear guard had tumbled into the ditch and been consumed. A neighboring farmer whose premises were invaded did not have time to dig a trench, so he scattered straw in front of the advancing hosts, sprinkled kerosene over it and fired it. It was not so efficacious as the ditch defense, but it answered the purpose.

THE popularity of the money order system is shown by the fact that the amount involved in the 42,732 transactions of the money order department of the New York Postoffice last year was $63,057,953 16, or $11,826,204 06 more than the yeer before, although the cost of the department to the Government was but $1,600 more last year than the year previous. The more the business grows, the lower will be the rates to be charged.

A Fortunate Runaway.

Some three weeks ago two Comstockers struck out across the Sierras on a prospecting trip. They went over into Placer County to look for pocket ledges, placer mines, or anything else in the mining line that would pay. One of the men writes to a friend as follows: "We spent some two weeks without finding anything we cared to stay by, and finally concluded to go down to the valleys and work for wages. You must know that, for a pack animal, we have one of the meanest and most contrary of Piute ponies. He will never do what you want him to do, and runs away on the slightest provocation. Well, we were going down a steep mountain trail, toward Georgetown, the other day, when the pony stopped short, gave a snort, and broke off through the brush down the steepest place he could find. He scattered grub, picks, shovels and cooking utensils in all directions, and finally ended by standing on his head in a deep gutter at the bottom of a ravine, where we made him fast to a tree, and then rolled him over and landed him on his feet. While hunting up our traps, we found some pieces of quartz that showed gold, and in an hour or two found the vein from which it came, and a good one it is—at least for a small party. We have made our camp in the ravine, just where the pony landed, and have made more than 'miners' wages' ever since. We have a big flat stone for a mortar, mill, or whatever you may call it, and by selecting the richest of our rock, can make pay pretty fast. How long it will hold out we don't know, but we are in a bulge of the vein that is about four feet wide. We are saving up a good deal of second-class ore (it is full of free gold), and will presently make our fractious pony do duty in an arastra.

"There is a nice little stream of water in the ravine, about 50 yards below our pocket, and on the side of this we have already commenced building an arastra. We have been into town (Georgetown) once, and sold a few ounces of gold—just to see if it was good—but you can bet we said nothing about our find. We shall stay by our pocket as long as it stays by us, then look for more along the same streak of quartz, which runs from eight to ten inches in width in most places, and has what Senator Fair would call a 'kindly look.' We are here for all summer, sure, and perhaps for all winter, as well."

MEN in health perspire freely when vigorously at work on warm days. Very heavy sweating may sometimes arise from weakness; a dry skin may indicate disorder. Evaporation from the surface carries off heat and keeps the body cool. A large supply of drinking water is required for the warm haying and harvest days, but much less than is commonly supposed. Half a pint of water, sipped slowly, will assuage thirst much more effectively than a quart gulped down. A pint of cold fluid of any kind, thrown into the stomach, may result in more or less congestion; serious illness, and not unfrequent deaths arise from this cause. If ice water is taken at any time, it should always be swallowed so slowly that the stomach can warm each gill before taking another. As to the kinds of drinks, the positlve teachings of medical science and experience indicate that pure water is by far the best fluid for assuaging thirst and supplying the wants of the system. Beer, ale, sweetened drinks, or any fluid containing material that must be digested are a tax upon the stomach, and tend to disorder the system. Pure water is absorbed at once into the blood, and is carried directly to those parts of the body where it is needed. If the water is bad it may usually be corrected by the adding of a little ginger, or ginger extract. Too much of this produces constipation, but on account of this it may be used more freely in looseness of the bowels. All alcoholic drinks are unhealthful for one in active exercise; they stimulate increased effort—effort beyond one's natural strength—and unnatural exhaustion inevitably follows.

ALTHOUGH human life is no longer ruthlessly sacrificed as it was wont to be under the Cæsars and Pharaohs when they had engineering enterprises on a large scale in hand, still there is no great undertaking of the kind without its bill of mortality. In the building of the St. Gothard railway in Switzerland, 310 workmen were killed and 877 injured. In the tunnel alone, 177 were killed on the spot, and 631 injured, of whom a number afterward died. The figures sound like the report of an engagement. In addition to the melancholy reflections which they are calculated to inspire in the traveler's mind as he passes through the tunnel, he is threatened with having his own breath uncomfortably shortened, the ventilation of the tunnel, nine and one-fourth miles in length, having been found a matter of serious difficulty. Until it is improved, by some means, only four trains can pass through in each direction in twenty-four hours.

SITTING at his case in the Corning Gazette office, picking up type for full ten hours a day, may be seen Grandpa Prescott, the oldest printer in Iowa, and, perhaps, in the United States. There may be men older than he who have been printers, but we doubt if there are any still holding claim to sixty-three consecutive years in the business and are still holding out faithful and prompt at toilsome work. Now the withered arm moves slowly but surely on its way to the boxes of his case, but no amount of persuasion is sufficient to cause him to part company with the types with which he has communed so long. To him type setting has become a second nature, and to deny him the privilege would be to hasten the death which is not now far in the future.

JUDGE FRENCH, acting Secretary of the Treasury, finds that the new law, prohibiting Chinese from arriving in this Country, furnishes him a great deal of work in the way of making decisions and interpreting the intention of Congress in connection with the law. He is continually in receipt of inquiries from collectors of various ports asking for instructions. The most interesting case of this kind came from Port Townsend, Washington Territory. The Collector there asks what he shall do in a case where a Chinaman, who has enlisted in an American port as a sailor, and who, having served out his term of enlistment, wants to land where he enlisted. Under the provisions of the new law the Collector says, it is clear that he shall not be allowed to land, but a conflict arises between the new and former law in regard to sailors. Under the shipping agreement with the Chinaman the captain of the vessel bound himself to land the Chinaman in an American port. If he fails to do so he is subject to a fine under the maritime law, and if he does land Chinamen he will subject himself to a heavier fine under the new law regarding Chinese.

A GARFIELD Monument Association was organized in San Francisco soon after the death of the President, and funds were raised for the purpose of erecting a suitable memorial to his memory. They resolved to secure the design for the monument by competitive trial, and gave notice thereof to all persons interested. The designs were submitted to the committee for examination, and the prize awarded to Mr. F. Happersberger, a native Californian, only twenty-three years old. Mr. Happersbersger's design includes a pedestal raised on a base of gently ascending steps. On these is a seated figure in bronze of America, leaning on a sword and showing sorrow in her face and position. The sides of the pedestal hold eagles, the first guarding the emblems of war and commerce, and the second watching over the flag and shield of the country. Surmounting the pedestal is a bronze statue of Garfield ten feet in height, firmly poised and exhibiting great dignity. The inscription on the pedestal is simply "James Abram Garfield, strangulatus pro republica."

THE father of a thousand children has just died in Vienna. Ferdinand Reidt was a man of considerable wealth and was happily married, but the great regret of himself and his wife was that they had no children, and they concluded to act as parents to the fatherless and motherless. For nearly a quarter of a century he was known as the father of the orphans. He commenced by taking charge of a couple of orphans, but his zeal and repute increased to such an extent that at the time of his death he was the legal guardian of more than a thousand fatherless children. Those whom he adopted in this manner were not fitfully taken up and then let drop, but he kept conscientious watch and ward over them, from their early education until their marriage, or their start in adult life at the close of their apprenticeship. He never sought fame or publicity, and took no credit to himself for his devotion to those who had no natural claim upon him.

THE Postmaster-General has issued a circular for the reorganization of the railway mail service in accordance with the act of Congress of July 31, which divides employes in this service into five classes, at salaries of $800, $900, $1,000, $1,200 and $1,400 as the maximum salaries in each class. The employes are to be hereafter called railway postal clerks; all lines will be known as railway postoffices; directions are given for the disposition of clerks for various duties in the different branches of the service, and for detailing clerks for special duty; inefficient clerks are to be reduced or removed, and every new clerk must remain in the first class for six months at least. The order went into effect August 1.

A train of immigrant wagons reached Walla Walla from Kansas on Saturday of last week. The immigration from that State to eastern Washington this year promises to be large. Major George A. Manning says that he recently counted over 1,000 immigrant wagons between Boise City and Walla, W. T., and that from Kelton to Boise the immigrants are strung along every half mile on the road.

DENMARK lawmakers are very considerate of their fellow-men, or else are wonderfully watchful of their own interests. The last enactment of a legislative body there provides that all intoxicated persons shall be taken home in carriages at the expense of the landlord or saloon-keeper who sold them the last glass.

THE PRESIDENT OF GUATEMALA.

The visit of Barrios to the United States not only gives rise to many conjectures as to the purpose of the visit, but brings out many accounts of his deeds and his character. One is to get the President to arbitrate, or in some way assist in settling the disputed boundary between Guatemala and Mexico. The other is, to get Guatemala annexed to the United States. It is reported that President Arthur has said that he would arbitrate if Mexico would join Guatemala in requesting it. It is also said that Romero, the Mexican Minister, doubts whether Barrios has been authorized by the Government of Guatemala to arrange an arbitration. The territory in dispute is not generally supposed to be of great extent or value. But that makes very little difference between contending nations. They often fight upon mere points of honor. Having laid claim, or exercised authority over, or attempted to seize, even the smallest strip of land, their blood is up to have and hold it. We hope the matter may be settled, and peace and tranquility prevail between the republics. As to the character and deeds of Barrios, there is but one report as to the fact that he has made a very efficient and enterprising ruler. The republic has taken on a new life. Highways, railroads and telegraphs have been built, and education has been greatly promoted. The Jesuits were expelled, and much property secularized, which embittered the feelings of many, and may account for many of the tales of cruelty told of Barrios. But the fact that he changed the term of the Presidency from life to six years is not disputed. That he has twice been elected by popular vote is also true. That peace has been preserved, and prosperity been promoted is conceded. The chief charge against him is of cruelty and brutality. And it is claimed that this had been shown to the best men and women. It is fair to wait and hear the President's side of the story, before condemning him too severely.

AT a meeting of the Commissioners and exhibitors of the National Mining Exposition, at Denver, last Monday, a committee was appointed to confer with the railway officials, with a view to securing greater reductions in excursion rates. It was also resolved to ask the managers of the Exposition to reduce the admission from fifty to twenty-five cents. All those deficiencies which marred the beauty of the exhibition as a whole, and detracted from its completeness, have been removed. The collection of minerals is the largest, finest and most perfect ever gathered together. It is a grand index to the riches of the mountains. The exhibits of mining machinery, as well as other industries, are large and excellent, while the art department embraces an unusual number of masterly works. The demands upon the hotel and lodging-house accommodations of the city are great, but extensive preparations have been made, and visitors as yet have suffered no inconvenience.

THE Denver and South Park Railroad has just completed an extension to Pitkin, Gunnison County. In the course of the work a tunnel had to be made through the main chain of the Rockies. It is the highest railroad tunnel in the world, being 11,500 feet above sea level. The length is 1,700 feet, and the approaches on either side are said to be marvels of engineering skill. At its eastern end the tunnel has a sharp curve, but so nicely were the calculations of the engineer made, and so exactly were they carried out, that when the two "bores" met in the interior of the mountain, there was only about one inch variation. American engineering has more than one famous triumph of this sort to boast of. The sides of the great Hoosac Tunnel, though there were four "heads"—one from each side and two from the middle—varied in all less than an inch. No such exact work, so far as we know, has yet been done in Europe.

THERE are some indications that President Arthur despairs of a second term, and proposes to make all he can out of the first. He has an equipage that can readily be distinguished from all others, and in some way has established the custom for all other equipages to give way when he appears—somewhat as the English gentry do when the Prince of Wales drives out in his carriage of state. But it is now reported that the President has caused a flag to be designed for his especial use. It will indicate his Presidential presence on board a ship, and probably fly over the White House when the President is in Washington.

GARIBALDI'S son, inspired with the hatred of oppression that always characterized his father, is raising a Roman legion for the defense of Egypt against English invaders.

HENRY GEORGE was again arrested at Dublin last week, under the Crimes Act. It was a case of persecution, as he had previously given a satisfactory account of himself.

THE Utah Commission met in Ogden, Tuesday. It consists of Hon. A. Ramsey (Chairman) of Minnesota, Colonel Godfrey of Des Moines, Iowa; ex-Congressman Pettigrew of Arkansas, ex-Senator Paddock of Nebraska, and Judge Carlton of Terra Haute, Indiana. They will have charge in Utah of the elections and will remain until some time in November and carry out their special work. The first thing is to attend to registration, for which they will appoint registrars. They will receive and canvass votes, and issue certificates of election. One of their most important duties is to disfranchise all polygamists from voting and holding offices. The election of delegates to Congress comes before the people this fall, and this is followed by an election of a legislature.

THE Utah extension of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway is completed to Cimmarron, 330 miles from Denver and 407 miles from Salt Lake. As the company has now completed and in operation in Utah about 108 miles extending eastward from Salt Lake, less than 300 miles remain ro be built to complete the connection on this link. Grading is nearly finished and preparations for rapid track-laying indicate the opening of this new through line by December 31st.

SINCE serfdom was abolished in Russia the gold mines of Siberia have lost much of the value formerly set upon them, for the cost of working them has been thereby increased, as was the working of cotton fields in this country after the war. Between 1825 and 1850 was the period of their greatest prosperity, in spite of the fact that in more recent years the number of mines has been largely augmented. The official estimate of the average value of the yearly production is now $30,000,000.

THE managers of Robinson's circus offered to pass in the inmates of the Orphans' Home at Vallejo, but the directors of that institution refused to allow the little prisoners an opportunity of seeing the strange animals, the trick horses and the clown. These long-faced, dried-up old fossils should be removed and liberal-minded men put in their places. It is bad enough at best to be an orphan and locked up in a dingy building.

THE seventeenth annual exposition of the Mechanics' Institute, San Francisco, was formally opened Tuesday afternoon in the new pavilion. The opening address was delivered by President P. B. Cornwall and the oration by Chancellor Hartson, which was followed by a recitation and musical exercises. The attendance was quite large for the opening and the display was very creditable. The exposition will continue for one month.

IN Denver there are half a dozen leading houses which are rapidly accumulating wealth selling specimens of Colorado geology to Eastern tourists. One of those traveling chaps, who will demand a judicial investigation if he is charged over ten cents for a cigar, will readily give $5 for a piece of polished cobblestone, under the impression conveyed by the seller that it is the only one left in the country.

THE New York Tribune of the 29th, says that a returned Mormon Bishop, with nine female converts, was seen on the street yesterday afternoon, making for the west-bound train. The Bishop created a sensation by stating that he had converted the women to his faith and ideas of matrimony and he would marry all of them as soon as they got to Salt Lake City, where the "people are more civilized."

THE immigration to the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1882, was 789,003. This is the largest immigration in one year in the history of the country, the next largest being last year when it reached 669,431, and the third largest was in 1873, when it was 459,803. The average monthly immigration last year was 65,750, but the arrivals in the single month of June were 90,971.

RUFUS HATCH and Lawrence Jerome of New York, in connection with several London capitalists, have purchased 750,000 acres of rich grazing land on the Yellowstone River, near the border of Dakota, twenty miles from the Northern Pacific Road, on which a city will be platted, and 50,000 head of young cattle turned loose.

THE Republican primaries were held in Mono County last Saturday. In Bodie two tickets were in the field, and the contest was very exciting, 652 votes being cast. On the usual basis, this would give Bodie a population of over 5,000. The Free Press says the result places Mr. Showers (present incumbent) in an excellent position to receive the nomination for Sheriff.

TEXAS bids fair at no distant day to have the most elaborate school system in the country. Her 500,000 acres of school land are rapidly appreciating in value, and it is expected that in the near future the school fund from their sale will aggregate a quarter of a billion of dollars. This is a sum greater than the combined school fund of all the States.

WHAT is the cure for gossip? Simply culture. There is a great deal of gossip that has no malignity in it. Good-natured people talk about their neighbors because, and only because, they have nothing else to talk about. Gossip is always a personal confession either of malice or imbecility, and the young should not only shun it, but by the most thorough culture relieve themselves from all temptation to indulge in it. It is low, frivolous, and too often a dirty business. There are country neighborhoods in which it rages like a pest. Neighbors make enemies by it for life. In many persons it degenerates into a chronic disease, which is practially incurable.

FOR District Attorney we have the name of Charles R. Barry, a young lawyer of great promise who came to this city a few months since to make it his home for life. He is a graduate of the Hastings Law School of San Francisco, and is entitled to practice in all the Courts of the State. His career as an attorney in this County has been such as to commend him to the esteem of the bar, Court and people. His ability to discharge the duties of the office is not doubted, and his honesty and integrity is not questioned.—Red Bluff (Cal.) People's Cause.

THERE is no person in this Senatorial District whom we would support more willingly than Hon. P. Reddy. Mr. Reddy is a gentleman of ability, and he way matters stand at present, we believe that he will be the next Senator. His great popularity in his own County shows that he is a good man.—Kern County Gazette.

A $46,000 Find in Georgia.

Near Norcross there resides an old German geologist who loves to live among the peculiar specimens of mineral and vegetable matter which he has unearthed and housed. He is an elderly gentleman of little sociability, but of great mental acquirements. His physical endurance is simply astonishing. For days at a time he wanders over the hills and through the dales near his home, collecting rocks and stones, limbs and roots, the properties and qualities of which are unknown to all but himself. The room in which his collection is is wonderful. In one receptacle are arranged a number of stones whose bright rays remind the observer of diamonds. In the center of this long room there rests a stone half the size of a hen's egg, which was picked up by the owner months and months ago. It was found by its owner one rainy afternoon. For nearly a week he had been on a tramp through the hills and dales near his home, and, weary with ceaseless toil, he was wending his way home, when his eyes fell upon something from which the rays of the sun were scattered in a thousand directions. With little thought of what he was doing, the geologist stooped down and picked up the object. It was nearly half the size of a hen's egg, and of an irregular shape. It was covered in many places with thick, heavy clay, which was removed with great care. It was found to be exceedingly hard, and whenever struck with a hard substance gave forth but little sound. It was almost colorless, with here and there a tinge of green. Its form was that of an octahedron, but some of the faces or sides were inclined to be convex, while the edges were curved. It was subjected to acids and alkalies without experiencing any perceptible change. Some friends induced him to place it on the market, and only a day or two ago he received a letter from a diamond dealer in New York offering him $46,000 for it.—Atlanta Constitution.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

ATURDAY, AUGUST 19.....1882

SUDDEN DEATH.—On Wednesday, the 2d instant, John Clement died suddenly in Death Valley from sunstroke. On the 23d of July he wrote a letter to Dr. Blair, of this place, beginning it as follows: "You no doubt will be surprised to know that, although I have crossed the Valley of Death, I am still alive." Little did he think when he penned the above that in one week more his earthly career would end. He had, indeed, crossed the valley of death! Three months ago he left Independence and was, at the time of his death, in the employ of the Death Valley Borax Company. He had resided in this County some fourteen years, being engaged in various business enterprises. The deceased had many warm friends, who mourn his death. He leaves a wife and several children in Upper Canada.

HIS LAST VISIT.—Rev. F. M. Willis, pastor of the M. E. Church at Bishop, is now making his last visit to this portion of the County. At the meeting of the M. E. Conference, which will be held at Reno, Nevada, on the 27th of September, Mr. Willis will be assigned to some other pastorate. He leaves this circuit because he has already served it three years, the limit allowed by the Conference. Next Tuesday evening he will preach his farewell sermon in this place. Mr. Willis is much beloved by his congregations, and the entire community will regret his departure from this valley.

FOR SHERIFF.—In another column appears the announcement of Mr. J. H. Shannon for Sheriff. Mr. S. has resided in this County for a number of years, being engaged in teaching. Previous to his removal here, he was Principal of the High School at Folsom, Cal., and was once the Republican nominee for Superintendent of Schools of Sacramento County. As a citizen he bears an unblemished reputation, and his qualifications for the office of Sheriff are unquestionable. If he receives the nomination, his name will add strength to the ticket.

PERSONAL.—Mr. M. A. Wheeler and Mr. W. G. Woodhull came up from the Hawley mill last Monday. Tuesday morning the former returned to the mill and the latter took the northern stage for San Francisco.. ..Mr. R. Frewen departed Wednesday morning for Southern California. He expects to return here in two or three weeks and engage in some mining enterprises.... Jas. E. Parker arrived from Bishop Wednesday evening. Yesterday morning he left for Deep Spring District, and will be absent a week.

PANAMINT.—Supt. Pheby returned to Panamint last week. He has been below for several weeks, purchasing supplies and transacting other business for the Inyo Con. Company. In the meantime a large amount of ore has been extracted from the company's mines—over 200 tons from the Wyoming alone. The ore is also of higher grade than that heretofore encountered. The big mill is being put in shape for another run, which will commence about September 1st.

BIG WATERMELON.—Last Monday "Sher." Stevens placed a 31-pound watermelon at the disposal of the Blaney House boarders. It was cultivated by Colonel Stevens, at Lone Pine. Sheriff Stevens says he has "raised" melons larger than the one above referred to. No doubt he has. But these questions present themselves: Where was the man who owned the melons? Did he swear when he discovered his loss?

THE HIRSCH MINE.—Capt. Watt, James and Tom Ferguson expect to begin taking out ore from the Hirsch mine next week, to be worked at the Brown Monster mill. We are assured by those who have recently visited this mine that its showing of what at least appears to be fine ore is something really astonishing in extent. There is no doubt but that a fair proportion of this immense deposit of ore can be made to pay well.

SETTLING UP.—The low-lying lands all along Owens river, are being settled up rapidly, not alone for stock raising, but for general farming. There are no richer or better soils to be found in this State than portions of these in question, but fears of frost have hitherto deterred agriculturists from making use of them for other than stock purposes.

DANCE.—The dance at the Blaney House last night was participated in by about twenty couples; the music furnished by Dan Crough and William Matlack was first class; the ladies were all beautifully attired; the gentlemen were unusually light-footed; and taken all in all, it was an enjoyable occasion.

THE BROWN MONSTER MILL.—Mr. Chalfant, who has put in most of the Summer at the above-named mill, claims that it is now in as good working condition for crushing and concentrating gold-bearing ores as any mill in the county, notwithstanding its general dilapidated appearance.

CLOUD-BURST.—Tom Crough writes that the southern stage was caught in a cloud-burst last Saturday between Olancha and Darwin, the passengers being thoroughly drenched. The stage was delayed about an hour by a washout. No further damage is reported.

WANTS "A INVENTION."—One afternoon recently several ladies were discussing political matters. After attentively listening for some time, a bright little six-year-old chipped in with this information: "Mamma, Johnny Irwin wants a invention."

REMEMBERS THE PRINTERS.—Mr. J. A. Lank produces the largest, sweetest and best watermelons in this section. At least that was the verdict of THE INDEPENDENT boy's this morning.

THAT DIAMOND.—Joe Schalten created a sensation at the ball last evening with his immense diamond. Its brilliancy equaled the trailing meteor in a dark sky. There is a history connected with this valuable jewel, which will comprise a chapter in Jim Farris' forthcoming novel.

FOR KING'S RIVER.—T. F. A. Connelly and Billy Lake started last Tuesday for the King's river country. They will be absent several weeks. When they return, "Con." and Billy will probably have many lies to tell about big trees, bears, fish, etc.

SOLD OUT.—Mr. G. W. Betts has sold his place located at the foot of the mountains west of Lone Pine to the Messrs. Rittgers, and is now visiting the coast counties in search of a new home.

EARTHQUAKE.—Wednesday afternoon, about 1:30 o'clock, a very perceptible jarring of the earth occurred at this place. It lasted four or five seconds.

FREE DELIVERY.—When business is dull, Postmaster Hardy exercises himself by delivering mail throughout the town.

PRICE REDUCED.—James Mitchell, of Big Pine, announces that he has reduced the price of lumber. See notice.

I. O. O. F.—Members of this Order should not forget the meeting to be held at the Blaney House this evening.

IMPROVEMENT.—A new sidewalk has been laid in front of the Blaney House.

WHY?—No Bishop Creek correspondence this week.

Our State's Bigness.

California's gross area is 158,360 square miles; of coast waters, 540; of rivers and smaller streams, 240; of lakes and ponds, 1,600; making the total water surface 2,380 square miles—leaving the total land surface 155,980 square miles. The measurements include the bays of San Francisco, False and San Diego; half of thr boundary portion of the Colorado River and the portion of Lake Tahoe within the State line.

The only State larger than California is Texas, with a land area of 260,290 square miles. The Golden State is larger than the nine States of New York, Ohio, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Delaware and Rhode Island, combined. And yet she has less than a million inhabitants, while the States enumerated contain an aggregate population of 13,519,144! Verily, we have much room yet to accommodate immigration and the most industrious efforts in this direction of natural increase.

The county having the largest area is San Bernardino—23,000 square miles; the next San Diego—14,000, Los Angeles stands ninth in the list, with 4,750 square miles (but in this area is enough good land to make a State rich). The smallest county is San Francisco—40 square miles; the next in size—Santa Cruz—420; third, San Mateo, 440. The area of San Bernardino County is within a fraction of the combined area of the five states of Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut, Delaware and Rhode Island, which aggregate 23,385 square miles. It is nearly half the size of the great Empire State, New York, and larger than many a European principality which figures prominently in the affairs of the old World.—Los Angeles Mirror.

Who Is He?

Luning is a swift little town in many ways, but sometimes it is too swift and overleaps itself. A few days since a well-known citizen of Bishop Creek tarried for a short time at the aforesaid town. The reason he did not tarry longer was because the town did not like him and he did not like the town. He had only posted himself on the corner lamps of Luning before one of its leading men informed him that there were enough tramps in town and that he had better move on to some more genial burg. The young farmer from Bishop Creek did not have on his best clothes, or for some other reason he was mistaken for a tramp. He viewed the town over and then told the party who had advised him to move on, that as that town had never a man in it like him he would leave on the morning train, which he did. He had intended selling out his large interests in the Bishop Creek country and locating in Luning, but the reception he got there changed his mind, and he will henceforward stay at home and attend to his farms and bands of stock and keep away from mining towns where the people are liable to take an honest granger for a tramp. Thus doth Luning lose her chance to increase her taxable property, and Bishop Creek retains one of its leading citizens—he will never go to Luning again.—True Fissure.

THE Defiance mine in Inyo county had considerable notoriety during the palmy days of Darwin. Since the collapse of that mining camp the Defiance has had many ups and downs—principally downs. It has suffered from a visitation of the Sheriff, and gone through all the legal formalities of red tape, legal cap paper, and big blotched seals. The owners of the Defiance are J. S. Gorman and P. and E. A. Reddy. These gentlemen have had an abiding faith in the Defiance, and stood by it in all its vicissitudes until the law's delay has perfected their title to the property. Mr. Gorman has always been on the ground and vigorously prosecuting the work of prospecting. His labor has at last been rewarded by last week opening up a rich body of galena ore—750 tons in sight, which will yield from $120 to $140 to the ton. When it is understood that the owners are amply supplied with steam hoisting works, smelting furnaces, and all the appliances for the speedy and cheap reduction of this ore, the value of the strike can be readily estimated. The ore is now reduced for $9 a ton, about two thirds less than it was formerly, and the cost of freights and other expenses have been reduced fully one half. The Messrs. Reddy and Gorman have spent a large sum of money on this mine, and it is thus that the labor of the faithful is rewarded. It is not at all improbable that Darwin will be again heard of in stock circles.—Bodie Miner.

Solar Printing.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has adopted a process of copying plans and outlines so simple and yet so effective as to have an important bearing on all the methods of engraving, lithographing, photography, and even drawing as at present conducted. It is what is known as the "blue print process," and is a sort of easy photography, by means of which a mere child may copy in the most perfect and exact manner any object whatever, the lines of which can be embraced in the dimensions of a large pane of window-glass, for instance. Larger outlines can be copied, but require more care and a little more apparatus.

A piece of pure, untinted paper is taken and made "sensitive" by means of a chemical wash, consisting of 1¼ ounces of red prussiate of potash and 1⅞ ounces of citric iron and ammonia, dissolved in 10 ounces of water. This, when applied to the paper in a dark closet by means of a broad cloth brush, gives a peculiar rich, glistening, yellow surface. This paper, when dry, is ready for printing. If at this stage a fern leaf is taken, or a few sprays of grass, or a feather, or any drawing executed on translucent material, such as onion-skin paper, it may be perfectly copied in every minute detail within the space of four or five minutes. The object is simply laid on the paper and a piece of glass put over it to hold it in position, and then exposed to the meridian sun. The yellow paper then turns rapidly to a dull blue, then to light gray, whereupon, at the expiration of about three minutes, it is withdrawn. But one thing remains to be done, the sensitive paper is given a bath in pure water and instantly a perfect copy of the fern leaf, grass, or drawing appears on the blue surface of the paper, in white, as if traced by hand. The philosophy of the process is that the black lines of the drawing or the filaments of the grass or fern are opaque, and consequently refuse admittance to the light which operates upon the open sensitive spaces, causing them to undergo a chemical change. As utilzed by railroads, iron companies, ship-builders, and architects and artists, however, in multiplying their maps and plans, and even circular letters, the process becomes a little more complicated. Instead of merely placing the design to be printed over the sensitive sheet and leaving the rest to the light, large glass frames, with wooden lids, are used, inside of which the drawing is placed, face downward, and covered with the sensitive paper. The frame is then reversed, leaving the plan exposed to the light. A full bright sun is not absolutely requisite, but a longer time is required for exposure on a cloudy day. There is one photographic firm that uses the electric light entirely and prints by night as well as by day. A step further has been made also in producing a white background with blue lines.—Philadelphia Times.

Mining Industries.

The number of people and the amount of capital in the mining industries of the Pacific Coast have never been as large as at the present time. What population Nevada has, came from California; New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado have been populated mainly from our State. San Francisco outranks every other city in the world in the manufacture of mining machinery. The stock boards are languishing; all of the wealth of the mines of later discovery will not be concentrated in a few individuals, as in the case of the Comstock mines. The men who have discovered, or who have bought this property, are retaining the profits. Instead of a small annual crop of millionaires, there is a large crop of people who have passed into a condition of financial independence. The hydraulic mines, which are the cause of so much commotion, produce but a comparatively small proportion of the precious metals. As so much of this business is carried on beyond our geographical borders, though by men who recognize California as their permanent home, the full extent and importance of the industry here is not as evident as it otherwise would be. We boast much about the great agricultural wealth of the State, and with good reason, yet no less wealth is derived from the work of the smaller number of persons who are delving in the mines. The spirit of adventure which still survives, is of inestimable value, and imparts to the general population some of its most admirable characteristics.—Oakland Times.

THE Democrats of the Eleventh Illinois Congressional District took fifteen hundred and twenty-one ballots before they could effect the choice of a Congressional nominee. Mr. James W. Singleton, the present incumbent of the seat, which he will have held for two terms at the expiration of the present Congress, led nearly to the last, when his column of supporters broke, and the honors fell upon James Riggs.

SOME of the richest gravel ever found in Sierra County is found in the channel of the Pioneer claim, Grass Flat. Some of it prospects $100 to the pan.

Chances of Finding Mines.

Twenty years ago, a good many people thought that a few more years would exhaust the area on this Coast, suitable for prospecting. Ten years ago, a great many more people thought that the area was circumscribed; but within the past two years larger tracts have been opened than ever before. The wide regions in Arizona, New Mexico, Idaho and Montana, which have been overrun by prospectors within the past year or two, have shown up a very large number of leads. Montana and Idaho were considered some years ago as about played out for miners, yet they are more prosperous to-day than they were even at that period or ever before. Arizona and New Mexico, of course, are newer regions and have offered wider fields and attracted larger populations, though now the tide of prospectors has turned northward.

Here, in California, even, scarcely a day passes that new discoveries are not made, and the prospector, by no means, finds it a barren field. The limit of areas on the Pacific slope, which are unopened by the prospector, are, of course, being gradually reduced, but there still remains much country which, for all practical purposes, is still unknown to the miner.

It is not enough for his purpose that nearly all parts of the country are, even when not settled up, occasionally visited by hunters, stock men, etc., or run over hastily by people not seeking precious metals. Every day fresh discoveries are being made in places which have had a small population in the vicinity for years, and we have no reason to assume that a tract contains no gold, silver, lead, coal or quicksilver, because up to the present time it has not attracted the attention of the miner. The prospector has not to travel far to find new country, and in the neighborhood of older mining districts there are many tracts yet undeveloped. Moreover, there are many claims which were abandoned years ago, before perfect appliances for saving the precious metals were thought of, and when labor and food was high.

It is, moreover, by no means certain that because other prospectors have passed over ground that there is nothing to be found. Many of us remember instances where ground was supposed to have been thoroughly prospected, and after, perhaps, a hundred different men had gone over it, another man would come along and strike it rich. The writer recollects having camped in one locality a week with three other prospectors, and thoroughly worked over a small section, finding nothing. Two weeks after two men camped at the same spring, and found a vein cropping out, which, after working about three years, they sold for $130,000. This vein was not 200 yards from the spring where the camps were located, and the first party had passed over the croppings, which were small, many times without seeing them. This is by no means an isolated case.

Many old miners, however, prefer to work and re-work well-known gulleys and flats rather than spend their time in making trials in new ground. It is often stated that in new camps, the miners, curiously enough, almost always accidentally open the richest claims first; but those who make this statement do not always take care to examine the facts. At first any new discovery—the finding of any rich pocket—excited the public mind, and even without exaggeration, the facts made known in the early days of our gold mining were startling; but more extraordinary results are obtained now, week after week, than many which occurred in early days.—S. F. Scientific Press.

DR. WOOD of Bishop's College, Montreal, has reported numerous cases in which rheumatism has been cured by fasting from four to ten days. The patients were allowed to drink freely of water and lemonade, but no medicines were given. Dr. Wood is inclined to believe that rheumatism is simply a phase of indigestion, to be cured by giving rest to all the viscera.

Something Curious Happened.

A boy ten years old, pulling a heavy cart loaded with pieces of boards and lath taken from some demolished structure—an every day sight in all our cities. Tired and exhausted he halted under a shade tree. His feet were bruised and sore, his clothes in rags, his face pinched and looking years older than it should. What must be the thoughts of such a child as he looks out upon the world—the fine houses, the rich dresses, the rolling carriages, the happy faces of those who have never known what it was to be poor? Does it harden the heart and make it wicked, or does it bring a feeling of loneliness and wretchedness—a wondering if the rich man's heaven is not so far from the poor man's heaven that he will never catch sight of their pinched faces?

The boy lay down on the grass, and in five minutes was sound asleep. His bare feet just touched the curbstone, and the old hat fell from his head and rolled to the walk. In the shadow of the tree his face told a story that every passer-by could read. It told of scanty food, of nights when the body shivered with cold, of a home without sunshine, of a young life confronted by mocking shadow.

Then something curious happened. A laboring man—a queer, old man with a wood-saw on his arm, crossed the street to rest for a moment beneath the same shade. He glanced at the boy and turned away, but his look was drawn again, and now he saw the picture and read the story. He, too, was poor. He, too, knew what it was to shiver and hunger. He tip-toed along until he could bend over the boy, and then he took from his pocket a piece of bread and meat, the dinner he was to eat if he found work, and laid it down beside the lad. Then he walked carefully away, looking back every moment, but hastening out of sight, as if he wanted to escape thanks. Men, women and children had seen it all, and what a lever it was. The human heart is ever kind and generous, but sometimes there is need of a key to open it. A man walked down from his steps and left a half dollar beside the poor man's bread. A woman walked down and left a good hat in place of the old one. A child came with a pair of shoes, and brought a coat and vest. Pedestrians halted and whispered, and dropped dimes and quarters beside the first silver piece.

Something curious had happened. The charity of a poor old man had unlocked the hearts of a score of people. Then something strange occurred. The pinched-faced boy suddenly awoke, and sprang up as if it were a crime to sleep there. He saw the bread—the clothing—the money—the score of people waiting around to see what he would do. He knew that he had slept, and he realized that all those things had come to him as he dreamed. Then what did he do? Why, he sat down and covered his face with his hands, and sobbed like a grieved child. They had read him a sermon greater than all the sermons of the churches. They had set his heart to swelling and jumping until it choked him. Poor, ragged and wretched, and feeling that he was no more to the world than a stick or a stone, he had awakened to find that the world regarded him as a human beidg worthy of aid and entitled to pity.

General Harney in a Hurry.

The following comical story is told of General Harney, when he was in command at Camp Verde, Texas. He was an intensely dignified officer, and if there was one thing he detested more than another it was undignified haste. One evening, just as he was about to hold dress parade, he perceived that he had forgotten his handkerchief, and as the weather was very hot, he said to his orderly: "Go to my quarters quick and bring my handkerchief." The orderly touches his cap and started for the quarters, several hundred yards distant. After he had proceeded a short distance, remembering that there was no time to lose, he broke into a trot. "See that —— —— scoundrel running as if the Indians were after him. If there is anything I hate it is to see a soldier running instead of marching properly. Here, my man," continued Harney to another soldier, "go after that man, and tell him I say to walk, d—n him!"

The second soldier started after the first, but as the first one kept on running, the second saw his only chance to deliver the message was to hurry up, so he, too, broke into a run. To say that Harney swore is to use but a mild expression.

"Here, Sergeant, go after that man and tell him if he don't stop running I'll hang him up by the thumbs."

The Sergeant started out on a brisk walk, bnt as his predecessor had a good start, he, too, began to run as hard as he could.

"If all three of the scoundrels ain't running like jack-rabbits!" ejaculated Harney. "I'll show 'em," and tucking his sword under his arm, he started in pursuit as fast as he could run; but suddenly remembering his dignity he came to a halt and walked stiffly and slowly back to the place where the dress parade was to come off.

PROF. SCHMALE, an eminent pathologist in Bonn, Germany, recommends persons who wish to live to old age to swallow the juice of from six to eight lemons daily. The citric acid, he thinks, will dissolve and carry off the surplus of food and decaying matter quickly, and preserve health almost indefinitely. One man who tried it lived to be 110 years old.

Newspapers and the People.

An esteemed contemporary truly observes that it is tough work to make a newspaper to please everybody. If there is trouble in the community and the newspaper espouses one side, it is bought, of course; if it lets both sides alone, it is a cowardly sheet that does not dare to express an opinion; if it tenders a little advice to both, it is interfering in the private business of people. Two miners get into a law suit about a title. One demands of the newspaper that it shall espouse his cause and show up the robbers and thieves on the other side in their true characters. When told that it is not well for a newspaper to anticipate the judgment of a Court in a case pending, the indignant miner stops the newspaper and tells on the outside that the paper has been bought up against him. The other miner comes and wants to know if, after subscribing for a newspaper for three years, he cannot have its support when assailed by vampires and highwaymen. When the duty is declined he stops his paper and reports that the other side have subsidized the paper, and nothing can be hoped for. After a while the miners come together, consolidate their claims, elect themselves trustees, presidents and secretaries; the vampire and highwaymen lead the thief and robber to the newspaper office, they together announce the consolidation, and expect the newspaper to state that great things are expected of the new company, not more on account of the value of the property than from the fact of the well known perfect integrity and business capacity of the directors. There are entertainments at the respective houses of Smith and Rogers. If the notice given Mrs. Smith's party chances to be five lines less than that furnished Mrs. Rogers', from that moment Mrs. S. is the secret enemy of the newspaper and her daily prayer is that a live journal may be started by somebody. Every day men want their enemies attacked and shown up in the interests of society. When told that the editor knows nothing of the facts but will be happy to publish a card signed by the informer, he flies into a passion and calls the editor a coward. It is common for miners to send specimens and to just mention that the ledge is quite fourteen feet between the walls and that the specimen is just an average. The same spirit runs through all trades, professions and to every branch of business; it extends to politics, to society—everywhere. The newspaper is the stay of more enterprises, the builder up of more men, the champion of more struggling causes than all other agencies, and during the year receives more abuse and less pay for its work than any other of the modern slaves of this huge old inconsistent world.—Bodie Press Press.

THE copper mines now worked in Michigan, on the shores of Lake Superior, are situated on the workings of that interesting race, the copper miners of Lake Superior. Their excavations can be readily traced at a depth of from 10 to 20 feet in the solid rock. Their pits, on the Isle Royale alone, covering an area of more than a mile and a half in length. Their hammers are frequently found in large heaps. Although they carried away an enormous quantity of copper, and must have worked through many years, yet they seemed never to have known that copper could be smelted, for they left all fragments too small to use, and the masses too heavy to lift, and no traces of the action of fire have ever been discovered. Some Cornish miners working recently in one of the mines cut down a dead cedar. As they were hewing it out a small, but perfectly formed hammer dropped from the center of the log. The tree was found to be nearly 850 years old, and had been dead hundreds of years. How curious it seems that the Cornish miners have come from the East to continue the work of departed Asiatic race, who came from the West, at a period far back in the shadowy past.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Los Angeles Herald, in speaking of a hardy class of prospectors which are indigenous to all the country south of here, gives the following characteristic sketch of the Mexican prospector: "He travels with a bag of pinole, and endures the hardships of the hot climate where a white man would perish. He knows every spring and water hole in this dry country, and every gulch and hill, and the knowledge of the deserted mines he has inherited as the son of the soil. I pity the hardy white men who venture out here on a prospecting tour. Though safe to travel, they endure great hardships; they may famish or starve in a country where money can't buy provisions, and game is scarce. To-day we must leave it to the Mexican to discover the mine, claim and hold it according to the laws of the land, which is easily understood, and from him, if promising, buy it for a moderate sum. In this way the best mines have been secured, but none, as yet, to my knowledge, were discovered by an outsider, although many mines were reopened, or new discoveries taken in hand by them from the start."

A short time ago the grading on the Bodie and Benton Railway was stopped en route to Benton, and much disgusted were our people thereat, but matters are not so bad as we supposed. The company will build the road from the Benton junction, instead of from the Mono Lake end, as by so doing its rolling stock, rails, supplies, etc., can be received entirely by rail, making a great saving in time and money. The surveyors of the company are now in the field locating the route from Benton this way, and as soon as the route is selected, grading will be commenced and the road pushed to an early completion. —Bodie Miner.

AN agreement has been made between the United States and Mexico which will make it impossible for Indians to dodge back and forth across the border line to escape pursuit by troops of the two countries. Formerly there was much trouble because of the unlawfulness of crossing by troops of one country to the soil of the other, and ferocious savages have frequently escaped merited punishment by means of it. But now it will be lawful for Mexican troops to pursue Indians into the United States, and for United States troops to pursue them into Mexico, provided that the border line is not crossed within two leagues of any town or encampment, and that the troops return to their own country as soon as they have fought the band of which they were in pursuit or have lost the trail. Each government is bound to punish its own troops for any crime committed upon the soil of the other. The agreement will hold good for two years unless annulled by either party, four months' notice being required. The arrangment will be bad for bad Indians, but so good for the United States and Mexico that Secretary Frelinghuysen should extend its scope so as to permit similar pursuit of cattle raiders.

MR. W. B. EWER, in his letter to the San Francisco Scientific Press, makes the following allusion to California's exhibit(?) at the Denver Exposition: "The place of honor, at the very entrance of the pavilion, was left for California. Every other State and Territory—even Colorado herself, which last year took the lead in bullion—has voluntarily taken a back seat to let in the first born of the Pacific States with the magnificent exhibit which all recognized she could, and which most people have fully believed she would, present. That place is still conspicuous for its emptiness, and will probably continue so throughout the entire exposition. It is creating a worse impression among visitors than did the empty and useless mansion which she reared on the Centennial grounds at Philadelphia, six years ago. Eastern visitors, particularly, express much surprise, as all such had fully expected to see something unusually fine from the gold-yielding mines and placers of California."

THE water supply of Alexandria has been a difficult problem for two thousand years. It is related in the Commentary of Aulus Hirtius on Cæsar's Alexandrian war, that the general of the Egyptian troops, one Ganymed, tried to cut off the water supply of Cæsar's troops by introducing salt water into the canal which supplied the quarter of the city in which they were stationed. This measure occasioned a panic among Cæsar's troops, but that great leader, as fertile in engineering expedients as in strategic and political movements, told them that they could find fresh water by digging wells, "since sea coasts naturally abound in fresh springs;" which they proceeded to do, and worked with such diligence that during the first night abundance of fresh water was found. Perhaps Cæsar's expedient may be again found useful.

ACTING under the tremendous pressure that England brought to bear, the Sultan of Turkey has at last proclaimed Arabi Pasha a rebel. He commands Egyptian allegiance to the Khedive. This means that Egypt can expect no assistance from Turkey. Arabi will probably raise the flag of the Musselman's and commence a religious war, in which event he would have the sympathy of all the lower classes of the Ottoman Empire, who might join his troops in spite of the pronunciamentos of the Sultan.

GENERAL GRANT and Mr. W. H. Trescot have been appointed commissioners to negotiate a commercial treaty with Mexico. Should they be successful, the bonds of mutual interest which unite the two republics, and which are growing in volume steadily, would be much strengthened. The mining interests, and the machinery and other allied industries, will be great gainers should a treaty favorable to them be framed and adopted.

THERE are now in the treasury $90,000,000 of new silver dollars, which are lying idle, and $28,000,000 in fractional currency, making a total of $118,000,000 in silver coin on hand. The silver dollars increase at the rate of $3,000,000 each month, $2,000,000 of which are coined by the mints in accordance with the law.

TEACHERS in the public schools of France are very seldom paid more than $5 a week, and as the expenses for salaries now amount to over $15,000,000 per annum, the Minister of Public Instruction refuses to add to this amount, and so increase taxation.

A "WONDERFUL DISCOVERY."

A San Francisco friend and long-time subscriber—a druggist, by the way—favors us with a copy of the elaborate circular which envelopes the bottles containing "the greatest blood purifier known to the civilized world, and a positive cure for most all diseases, whether internal or external." The article is asserted to be "a production of Nature, and not a compound devised by science or quackery." Among other things set forth is an analysis by Thos. Price, the chemist and assayer, which states that the "water" contains the following ingredients:

Magnesia,	Iodine,
Carbonate of soda,	Sulphate of soda,
Peroxide of iron,	Silica,
Organic matter,	Lime,
Chloride of sodium,	Chloride of potassium,
Boracic acid.

With all the foregoing constituents, the great cure-all is dirt cheap at four bits per bottle, containing six ounces. Only 25,000 bottles, however, have been sold at that price. "The Eradicator, so appropriately named, is a volcanic mineral spring water, the discovery of which was the result of an accident." So says this truthful account, and the country generally must have been hot when such an extensive "spring" was formed by Nature.

Mr. Blunkensquiz, "the discoverer, was an old miner and prospector, and had long suffered to a certain extent with rheumatism. He had tested everything known in the shape of cures and remedies, with little or no benefit. In fact, he was worse off; for the many different pretended cures he had tried—in many cases compounded by quackery and speculative genius—had filled his blood with mercury and other poisonous drugs, which spoke loudly for themselves in the shape of a running sore on the unfortunate man's leg. While out prospecting one day he came across a spring, and, being thirsty, took a drink. The first mouthful of the water convinced him that it was not a beverage, and having heard of mineral spring water, concluded he had found such. He determined to remain in the vicinity for a few days, to see perchance if the water contained any medicinal properties applicable to his case. The result was magical. In four or five days the inflammation in his leg was greatly reduced and the sore commenced healing. Thereupon he brought a quantity of the water to San Francisco, and by its continued use for a period of less than four months he was permanently cured. We say permanently, from the fact that the events above narrated occurred six years ago, and Mr. Blunkensquiz has enjoyed good health ever since."

All the foregoing and many other interesting matters shown in the advertisement are provocative of comments, to say nothing of the comical trademark representing old Moses smiting the rock, etc.

In all of this there is a great deal of truth thus claimed for the merits of Owens Lake water—for such the "Eradicator" is. Only that San Francisco and the world generally can obtain it free of cost by the millions of gallons, without paying the "California Volcanic Mineral Water Company" 50 cents for a small bottle thereof.

AMONG the many gentlemen whose names are mentioned as candidates for Congress in this the Fourth District, is Hon. W. J. Hill, at present a State Senator. Mr. Hill resides in Monterey County and is proprietor of the Salinas Index. He is a gentleman of good attainments and is a hard worker. Those who have known the Senator for ten or fifteen years say he would make an excellent Congressman. He is one of those men who wear—the longer you know them the better you like them. He has performed excellent work in the Legislature, which is one good indorsement.

We quote the above from the Bodie Free Press. The kindly indorsement of "Old Hill" is timely and well deserved. If the good advice of this independent journal amounts to anything, the Republican delegates to the State Convention from Inyo and Mono will support Hill for the Congressional nomination. If nominated, he would command the votes and influence of leading miners, newspaper men and in fact all who knew him during his career in this State and in Idaho. Moreover, his brains and ability are of the best order; his presence in Congress would be manifest, and his work for Southern California, generally, and the mining interests in particular would be effective and advantageous to all of us.

THE Mexican transportation steamer Mexican is expected daily at Guaymas with a general cargo, and ex-Governor Torres with an escort of 500 federal troops. The general rumor throughout the State is that they come for the purpose of overthrowing the present government, of which Governor Carlos Artez is at the head. It is well known that the Governor has been of late organizing companies in all the towns of the State, and at Alamos he has 800 national guards under arms with two Gattling guns. He has 4000 stand of Remington guns with a large quantity of ammunition. General Carbo and Governor Artez have for a long time been abusing each other through the press of Mexico, and there is a terrible feeling existing which will eventually end in a duel or a general revolution in Sonora.

CALIFORNIA'S twenty-ninth annual exposition will commence on the 11th and end on the 16th of September.

THE Calico Print, of the 10th instant, says that Walter James, accompanied by the Hirshfield brothers, prominent merchants of Bakersfield and Tehachipi, arrived in town Thursday. The party came in a private conveyance and passed along the line of the railroad from Mojave to the end of the track, which is now twenty-five miles distant from Waterman's, on the river, which point it is expected will be reached early in September. The company has increased its working force by one hundred and fifty men. A well has been sunk and an abundance of good water obtained about fourteen miles from the river.

IT is said President Arthur's voyage from Washington to New York is the first instance in which a Chief Executive of the nation ever made that journey by water. His avowed object in the "new departure" was to avoid the annoying attentions of land travel. When the steamer on which he and his party had taken passage was entering New York harbor, she was boarded by the Health Officer, to ascertain if she was free from infectious disease—a precaution which created some amusement, but could not be regarded as otherwise than proper, notwithstanding.

A somewhat spirited correspondence is passing between the postal authorities of Great Britain and of the United States with regard to the stoppage of the delivery of certain mail matter. It appears the British mail authorities not only prohibit the circulation through the mail of certain American newspapers inimical to the interests of that government, but that registered letters and packages suspected of containing seditious information or dangerous preparations are interdicted by the same authorities.

A BLAST furnace was started up in Ogden on Saturday which promises to turn out an excellent quality of pig iron. This is a new departure for the inter-mountain country, and shows that the patriarchal life which has been the pride of Mormonism is rapidly coming to an end in Utah. Railroads, iron foundries and machine shops will kill polygamy more effectually than acts of Congress.

THE people of Chicago are awakening to the fact that much of the wine grown in California is quite as good as most of the wines sent to America from France and Spain. This is a cheerful sign, and encourages the belief that before a great while Eastern wine-drinkers will not have to be tempted into drinking products of California vineyards by bogus labels.

DURING the absence of THE INDEPENDENT man the San Francisco Alta strung out a column or so attacking the Panamint mines and their management. But three copies of the daily issue of that paper reaches this County, and it was not without trouble that we finally got possession of one containing the article in question. It shall receive attention next week.

No person can vote who is not registered on or before October 7th, 1882. All native born persons who will become of age by or before November, 1882, can be registered upon making the proper affidavit that they will be twenty-one years of age between now and November 7th, or on that day, and filed with the County Clerk on or before October 7th, 1882.

THE Mormon war is opening. The polygamists have engaged four of the best lawyers to fight the matter through for them. The first battle will come on the law empowering the Governor to fill vacancies occurring in Territorial offices. Vacancies have already occurred and the fight begins. The Commissioners are there to see that all is fair.

IN the criminal court at Baltimore, one day last week, a colored man was convicted of beating his wife and sentenced to receive thirty lashes. This is the first conviction and sentence under the late Act of the Legislature, but the Court stated that hereafter all convictions will be followed by the lash.

IT is said that plaster of Paris of hardness sufficient to be employed as a mold for metal may be made by using ten per cent. of alum in the water which is intended to be mixed up with the plaster.

FRIEND HOOVER: With THE INDEPENDENT to-day comes a budget of private letters from the sons of the "old ducks" that in early days made Bishop lively. They seem to think that they used to know me, and some of the boys are pretty close in their guess; then others are not so sure, and so they range over the list of Bishop's old birds and finally go to sleep guessing. When I wrote my first letter to THE INDEPENDENT I had no idea that it would extend any further; it only opened a door of memory that has flooded the mind with hundreds of names and photographs that had actually faded from the roll of recollection.

When Bishop began to cut out the willows and drain the swamps and improve the door-yards; to house the cattle and pen the hogs; when shanties gave way to marble palaces, hotels and large reduction works, a lord from England came along and bought the Ford ranch, and turned it into a race-stock brood farm, from which came Snorter and Electric Light, which swept the stakes for a million in the races yesterday.

The most amusing little local item is that of the game of nine-pins played by Dr. Wainright and his old friend Henry Ward Beecher, who came to Bishop to lecture to the college lyceum. Henry is now about the age of his father when he died, and bids fair to strike 100. Doc. Wainright slew him in the game and Beecher returned to New York and, it is said, beat Tilden, his old friend, out of $100,000 at draw poker, just as a trial game. People have different views now about games than those in vogue in 1880. It is well that old creeds get out of the way for new views.

Fred. Smith, who once played the "devil" for the Bishop Creek Times office, married one of the city belles and is proprietor of the Mustang, which has quite an extensive circulation. Fred. don't set type now; he lives in grand style and drives his four-in-hand on the boulevard from Bishop to the old Watson ranch. * * * *

Some years ago it was strongly hinted that the straightforward system of government founded by the patriots associated with Washington and Jefferson, and nobly sustained by Jackson and Lincoln, was not high toned enough for the sagebrush kickers that made some money and wanted the division wider between the mudsills and the peers. This idea advanced slowly and has finally become sufferable as a source of amusement at the Capital, now situated on the Yellowstone in Government Park, and it is one of the grandest cities of all history, blending the population, wealth and luxury of Babylon, Damascus, New York, San Francisco and Bishop in one solid city. The Society of Royal Imperialists has the wealth but not the Government. I see by one of the dailies of last week that Masters Mallory, Munson, Turner, Hutchison and Will Yaney are all dukes, and Lessie Horton is an earl. All these boys flew over to Europe and brought wives back, and are settled in their palaces about the Capital, rolling in wealth, occasionally amusing themselves by lobbying around Congress for the passage of bills regulating the quality of drinks and fashions. They are marvelous evidence of the results of small beginnings in the early days of Bishop.

I met our friend Ben Williams, of stage line notoriety, and asked how the matrimonial market was, and he remarked: "Uncle, when your girl has got to attend a squalling baby and is obliged to hold on the rubber attachment to the nursing bottle, you must have a better use of the ten Arab signs than I have to convince her that married life is altogether a bird."

Near the prospect hole on Laurel Hill, where W. J. C. Gill went broke in 1880, on the "eve of May," I found Orson Vaughn sitting on the only orifus to a hornet's nest. He said he had no friends to help him in his extremity, and thought it would be better to stand the punishment in a subscribed era than to get up and stand the assault "all along the line."

James G. Birchim took one of his mountain cut-offs in 1884 and has not been heard from since. Fears are being entartained for his safety. If not heard from by spring a party will be organized and take his trail.

Bob Russell went to see the "twin babies." It was too much for his sensitive nature. When leaving he shook hands with Jim and said he was sorry the doctors knew as much as they did about prolonging life. * * *

BISHOP.

THE Gilman (Iowa) Dispatch of the 10th instant, comes to hand. It contains a column of resolutions of respect adopted by the Masonic Lodge of that place and the lodge of A. O. U. W., in memory of the late W. S. Horton, who died recently at Bishop Creek. The sentiments expressed are very earnest and affecting, indicating the high esteem in which the deceased was held at his home. Among the resolutions adopted by Cyrus Lodge, No. 338, F. & A. M., was the following:

Resolved. That, to Bro. J. H. Stoutenborough, Past Master of Pacific Lodge No. 136, under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Cal. and to other brethern at Bishop Creek, Cal., who were so attentive in ministering to his comfort during the last hours of his life, and also to the Brethren of Inyo Lodge No. 221, Cal., who performed the last sad rites that mortality can receive from the hands of Friendship, Love and Fraternity, we extend our heartfelt gratitude, and we can only say that your memory like that of the departed one shall ever be green in our recollections.

NOTHING can exceed the tangled state of Egyptian affairs. One of the newest complications is the report that De Lesseps is authorized by Arabi Pasha to command the services of a number of Bedouin chiefs to protect the Suez Canal. It is not stated whom they are expected to fight.

THE most perfect specimen of a type-setting machine, says a Hartford (Conn.) letter, is now substantially complete in a private room at Colt's. It has yet to stand the test of manufacture and actual trial, but as it now stands it is a marvel of ingenious and yet not complicated mechanism. Judged from description, the machines used by the London Times are not to be named the same week with this. According to a recent account, the Times machine destroys three or four columns of type a day and will not "distribute," so that it has been found necessary to have new type cast daily and brought to the machine in tubes. Now every one who has seen the Colt machine work admits that its work in setting the type and in distributing it is faultless. By a very ingenious arrangement it distributes while it sets, and the work of distribution being slightly more rapid than the setting the cases are always full. The distributor is regulated in such a way that the instant the most frequently used letter case (say that of E) is filled the work of distribution stops, to be resumed as soon as the case begins to be emptied. If the machine will do the work of two men in setting type (and much better than this is claimed for it), it can readily be said to do the work of four, since the tedious work of distribution is disposed of at the same time as a sort of side issue. And each goes into its appropriate case as certainly and regularly as the Yale key fits into its own lock. The only doubts about the machine are as to the "justifier," but this is claimed to be complete now, and certainly it would seem a simpler thing to arrange this than to have made the other parts.

We quote the foregoing from an Eastern exchange. It undoubtedly emanates from a diseased brain and reads like fiction. Printers need not worry about the success of this great invention!

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 26 1882

A SAD DEATH.—A week or more ago a report was brought in that William Ritchie had become crazed and was lost in the rugged cañons of Beveridge District. The statement has proved only too true, reports having arrived Thursday night to the effect that his body had been found. The deceased was a miner, aged about 45, and came to this Coast from Canada, where he leaves a wife and family. He had just completed a contract for running a tunnel in the Keynot mine, and paid a visit to Lone Pine. While there he drank heavily, though he was strictly temperate for months and years at a time when at work or in the mountains. Upon the night after his return to Arastra Cañon he wandered out without clothing, became deranged and perished as stated. The Mexicans made every possible exertion to find him, and only finally succeeded in discovering his remains by the aid of Indians. The body was so decomposed that the only thing which could be done was to cover it with rocks where found. Ritchie was a man who enjoyed the most profound friendship and respect of all who knew him. His sad ending is much commented upon and greatly deplored.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—At Monache Valley, last Thursday, occurred an accident, the account of which, with what meager details we have, will be read with the most profound regret by all old residents of this section. Miss Sarah J. Nichols, neice of John and J. S. Broder, has been passing the season with her Uncle John in that beautiful mountain valley. On the evening of the day mentioned the lady alighted from her animal and assisted in taking off the bridle. She loosened the long hair rope and threw it around her arm, when the animal—a mule—started to run. In some inexplicable manner the rope caught and Miss Nichols was dragged over the rocks. Her injuries consist of several very severe contusions about the head, rendering her almost unconscious at the time the messenger left for medical assistance here. Dr. J. D. Blair started out immediately, accompanied by his wife. He had a ride of fifty odd miles to make to reach his patient, and there is much anxiety to hear his report of the matter, which will doubtless arrive by mail to-night.

MONO NOMINATIONS.—The Mono Republican County Convention assembled at Bodie on the 22d instant, and regularly nominated the following ticket: Sheriff, Jas. Showers; Clerk, Harry E. Battin; Assessor, J. B. Marshall; Treasurer, W. T. Elliott; County Superintendent, Mrs. C. W. Sullivan; Coroner, Jas. Millner; Supervisors, J. B. Fort and Wm. Wetherill. Following is the report in the Free Press of the action of the Convention in regard to the Assembly business: "Mr. Van Voorhies moved that a committee of three be appointed by the Chair to meet a similar committee from Inyo County to agree upon a nominee. Should the Inyo County Committee be composed of more than three members, the Mono County Central Committee is empowered to increase the membership of this committee to equal that of Inyo. Adopted. After several names had by request of the Chair been suggested as members of the committee, the following were chosen as the committee: William Wetherill, R. J. Van Voorhies and James Millner."

SLATE RANGE.—From Mr. Stephen Decker, who was in town yesterday from the lower country, we have the information that the new mines being opened by Supt. Spear are developing splendidly. They are situated about three miles south of the Shepherd Cañon road, between Darwin and Panamint Valley, and were recently purchased by Ed. Reilly, a New York operator, through John Ely's agency. A great deal of preliminary work, such as putting up necessary buildings, etc., has been completed, together with a mile and a half of water pipe from the nearest spring, which has been laid. The principal mine, the "Bonanza King," has been opened to a depth of 70 feet, and shows a twelve-foot ledge. This will average $70 per ton silver, independent of the rich seam, which is from twelve to eighteen inches wide and assays $1,500 per ton. Mr. Decker has been mining since '59, and says that this is the best quartz mining propositions he has ever seen.

SALT.—There are few in this valley who do not know of the small lake just north of Hessian's place, a mile or so above Big Pine. This season the little lake has evaporated down to a comparatively small pool, leaving the surrounding edges open to investigation. It has been found to be a bed of salt, and a section of the mineral land has been taken up by S. G. Gregg and others. The salt layer varies from four inches in depth to an indefinite thickness in the center, the material being unusually clear and fine. With proper washing and grinding it will undoubtedly equal the best found in natural beds. Two or three wagon loads have been delivered here to local merchants, for sale to the quartz mills. Upon the approach of the Carson and Colorado Railroad it can be sent all over the country, and will doubtless prove a veritable bonanza to the lucky owners.

IN THE FIELD.—Mr. J. C. Irwin, the present incumbent, shies his political castor into the ring as a candidate for County Assessor. For a green hand at it, Johnny has made a very notable success in his onerous duties the past year. So far as heard from he has no opposition for the Democratic nomination.

A FISH PLANT.—The little fresh water lake near McMurry's place at Deep Springs has been stocked with carp by Mr. J. W. McM. himself. The experiment has proved very successful, whereat the residents of that region rejoiceth muchly.

THE WATER CURE.—It has remained for the Lone Piners to bring about a very effective water-cure, especially in its application to drunken Indians. Last Sunday a dozen or so drunken aboriginees were captured and securely tied to the iron railing in front of Hughes' saloon. The fire hose was brought out and water turned on. The prospect of a powerful drenching seems to have had more effect on their nerves than would guns or six-shooters, for they soon gave in and informed on the party who sold them whisky. Subsequently a committee of citizens visited the man, and we hear that he promised to do so no more.

FOR SHERIFF.—The announcement elsewhere this week of Steve Gregg's candidacy for the Schrievalty settles a much-mooted question as to whether he would or would not accept the office. In a recent conversation with Mr. Gregg he stated that he had held off in favor of Mr. W. L. Hunter, of Lone Pine, but as that gentleman had not come out he (Mr. Gregg) would submit his name to the Democratic County Nominating Convention. Mr. Gregg's former connection with the office and his superior qualification for the place are too well and favorably known to make necessary any comments on our part.

ASSAULT.—In Justice Parker's Court yesterday Phillip Gehrig withstood trial for an assault upon Joseph Fernbach, by whom he had been employed as a brewer. District Attorney Laird appeared for the prosecution and Nathan Rhine, Esq., for the defense. The defendant was fined in the sum of $35. The details are hardly worth recounting, except that Gehrig took a shotgun from Fernbach and brutally beat him over the head with it. Mr. Fernbach is able to be about and will be well again in a few days.

INSURANCE.—The insurance books of Messrs. Harris & Rhine, local agents of the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Co., make, so far as the business of the Company in this County is concerned, a very credible showing. Since June, 1871, up to date, the total premiums collected amount to $43,051 15, while the losses during the same period foot up to only $3,800. These were covered by three items in all, which were promptly paid to the insurers, without cost to them.

THE CREEK.—Little Pine creek, the beautiful stream passing through town, is being fouled by the tailings from the Pioneer mill at Kearsarge. Since the water furnishes the most of that used for drinking and domestic purposes throughout the town, and since there is a probability of all the thousands of trout being killed by it, the people feel as though the mill men should provide some method of keeping the slum out of the creek.

HARDWARE.—'Mongst the new "ads." this week witl be noted that of our old friend George Stevens, who set out in his line of business in this place years ago, took in Panamint, Darwin and Mammoth, and has finally located at Bishop Creek. His stock, consisting of stoves, hardware, tinware, hardwood and shelf goods generally, is complete as any in the County. And he offers his goods at the smallest living profit, for cash.

HIS BARBER.—"Sher." Stevens asked a little boy, whose hair was cut pretty short, who cut it for him. "My papa," was the answer. His little sister, a bright Miss of four or five years, who was with him, looked up and said: "Mr. Stevens, if they had cut your hair any shorter they would have cut your head off, wouldn't they?" Mr. Stevens says he will buy a wig as soon as they come down to four bits apiece.

NEW ADVERTISEMENT.—Attention is directed to J. H. Stoutenborough's column on second page. He carries an immense stock of general merchandise, and bears an excellent reputation for square dealing. He is not undersold by any house in the County. When in need of any article you can procure it at either of his stores—Bishop Creek or Round Valley.

NEW STORE.—Uncle Elisha Mallory, the well known Nevadaite, flings out this week an advertisement of his new merchandising establishment at Bishop Creek. If our readers in that section of the country want to see a good stock of new, fresh and standard goods they will do well to call at Mallory's place, see what he has and how low he sells.

BENEFIT.—The citizens of this place propose giving a grand ball for the benefit of Mr. J. L. Wood, who has been dangerously ill for some time past. The ball will take place at the Court House on Friday, Sept. 8th. Full particulars will be given in our next issue. The cause is a worthy one, and we hope to see all turn out.

STAGE MATTERS.—Mr. R. B. Thomas, the new contractor of the Southern mail line, accompanied by his managing agent, Mr. Geo. M. Snodgrass, came up the road during the week as far as the Junction, but for some reason or other turned back from there. In the meanwhile Hamilton continues to run the line.

THE KEYNOT.—Messrs. A. Chavaune and J. Lematre, the capitalists who were formerly here looking after the famous Keynot with a view to investment, arrived in town Thursday last and went out the next morning to Lone Pine. It looks very probable now that a sale will be made.

ACCIDENT.—John Lubken, the well-known brewer of Lone Pine, met with an accident last Wednesday, by which he sustained a fracture of his leg. We have no particulars, save that he was at the time working with a refractory horse.

THRESHING.—One of Hessian & McGovern's threshers, which has been undergoing repairs at Big Pine for the past week, will resume operations at Camp Independence next Monday, and work on down to George's Creek.

A TERRIBLE EXPLOSION AT BISHOP!

John Stoutenborough's Large Warehouse Wrecked and Many Other Buildings Badly Damaged—The Dastardly Deed of a Drunken Indian.

BISHOP CREEK, August 25.

At 4:10 this morning our townspeople were awakened by the cry of "Fire!" Several pistol shots were fired by K. C. Johnson, who, it is believed, was the first to notice the reflection through the windows of W. B. Hutching's saloon. The fire was at the warehouse of J. H. Stoutenborough, just back of his dwelling house. Before anyone could get to the scene of the disaster an explosion of giant powder occurred, spreading havoc and desolation all over town, but more especially in the vicinity of the fire. About seven cases of giant and probably three kegs of black powder were stored in the warehouse, and exploded with force sufficient to have killed anyone within 100 feet of it, but fortunately no one arrived there until after it occurred. It required great exertion to save the dwelling house and other buildings of J. H. Stoutenborough, the brewery, etc. They are, however, almost as completely wrecked as though they had been burned. The brewery and Stoutenborough's dwelling house are literally wrenched to pieces. Scarcely a pane of glass facing the explosion remains.

It is impossible, under present circumstances to estimate the amount of damage sustained by our people. Stoutenborough, of course, is the heaviest loser. His loss, I should say, does not fall short of $3,000. Among others who sustained quite extensive losses are A. K. Briggs, S. G. Sneden, Elkeles & Lasky, Manzinger, Phillippay & Co., Dr. Middleton, Dr. Howell, W. C. Brierly and Barney Peeler.

The current opinion as to the cause of the fire is that it was started by drunken Indians—doubtless the correct one. A "noble red" was heard to say last evening that he would burn Stoutenborough, Briggs and Brown, and offered to bet $4 on the proposition. These are facts. A calamity of this kind has been staring us in the face for many years, and still the Indian in all his drunken glory has been suffered to parade our streets, knife in hand, "seeking whom or what he might devour." Worse than all, the miserable wretch who, in the teeth of the law, will persist in selling whisky to every Indian who asks for it, has been permitted to live right in our midst and carry on the lucrative traffic with perfect impunity. Something should be done. Those who sell whisky to Indians should be compelled forcibly to leave the place. Our laws in this respect are inadequate. Leastwise they have never been enforced, to my knowledge. The Chinese quarters of town should be besieged and every one compelled to evacuate. The Piute element should not be allowed to remain within the town limits after sunset.

These suggestions are not made with a view to inciting anyone to override the law or the rights of any American citizen, but on the contrary I believe they are the sentiments of every property owner in town to-day, and in consideration of past damage, as well as prospective danger, I say that something must be done.

Baby and Bruin.

Henry Flynn, who resides up in the hills near Inskip, is in town to-day, and had the following incident to relate, in which a bear of the cinnamon species abducted his three-year-old daugter, not with any desire to harm the child, but though a strange kind of affection. It appears that Mr Flynn started one morning to take a horse to pasture, about two miles distant from the house, and as his little girl seemed anxious to go, he put her upon the horse's back and let her ride a short distance, perhaps forty rods from the house, when he put her down and told her to run home. He noticed that she continued standing when he left her, and on looking back, after going a little farther, saw saw her playing in the sand. He soon passed out of sight, and was gone about an hour, expecting, of course that the child would return to the house after playing a few moments. On returning home he made inquiries about her of her mother, who said she had not seen her, and supposed he had taken her along with him. On going to the spot where he left her he saw huge bear tracks in the sand, and at once came to the conclusion that the child had been carried off by the bear.

The family immediately made search through the forest, which was grown up to almost a jungle, rendering their search very slow. All day these anxious parents searched for a trace of their child; nor did they stop when darkness came on, but remained in the woods, calling the lost one by her name. Morning came, and their search was fruitless. A couple of gentlemen from below, who are travelling through the mountains buying stock, came to the house, and being informed of the circumstances immediately set out to find her. The gentlemen wandered about, and as they wer passing a swampy spot where the undergrowth was thick, called the child, or else they were talking loud, when one of them heard her voice. He then called her by name, and told her to come out of the bushes. She replied that the bear would not let her. The man then crept through the brush, and when near the spot where she and the bear were, they heard a splash in the water, which the child said was the bear. On going to her, they found her standing upon a log, extending about half way across a swamp. The bear had undertaken to cross the swamp on the log, and, being pursued, left the child and got away as rapidly as possibly. She had received some scratches about the face, arms and legs, and her clothes were almost torn from her body; but the bear had not bitten her to hurt her, only the marks of his teeth being found on her back, where, in taking hold of her clothes to carry her, he had taken the flesh also.

The little one says the bear would put her down occasionally to rest, and would put his nose up to her face when she would slap him; and the bear would hang his head by her side and purr and rub against her like a cat. The men asked her if she was cold in the night, and she told them the old bear lay down beside her, and put his "arms" around her and kept her warm, though she did not like his long hair. She was taken home to her parents. It is thought that the beast that has acted so strangely toward the little girl, without hurting her, is a pet one that recently left Pres. Longley.—Chico Record.

A RECENT writer asserts that for a hot weather drink, nothing equals buttermilk. It is, he says, "both drink and food, and for the laborer is the best known. It supports the system, and even in fever will cool the stomach admirably. It is also a most valuable domestic remedy. It will cure dysentery as well as and more quickly than any other remedy known. Dysentery is really a constipation, and is the opposite of diarrhœa. It is inflammation of the bowels, with congestion of the 'portal circulation'—the circulation of blood through the bowels and liver. It is a disease always prevalent in the summer and autumn. From considerable observation, I feel warranted in saying that buttermilk, drunk moderately, will cure every case of it; certainly when taken in the early stages."

THE total number of letters and other articles mailed at and passing through the New York Postoffice during the fiscal year just closed, exclusive of those for city delivery, was 504,369,488. The total number of sacks of domestic and foreign mail matter made up was 1,389,225, a daily average of 4,540. Papers and packages to the number of 265,243 imperfectly directed were forwarded after correction of their addresses. The average weight of mail matter received and sent daily by the Postoffice was 140 tons, of which 45 were received and 95 dispatched. The heaviest weight on any one day was 125 tons dispatched and 60 tons received, and the lowest weight on any one day 82 tons dispatched and 37 tons received.—New York Sun.

THE Denver Tribune says: "In the eastern transept, Utah intends exhibiting the silver output of the Ontario mine, of the Uintah mining district. It will make a brick about 19 ft. long, 9½ ft. wide and 4 ft. 9½ inches high. It represents a silver valuation of over $11,000,000."

DISPATCHES from Victoria state that two of Foster's freight wagons and twenty oxen were drawn over a bluff into Frazer river and lost, with all the goods in the wagons, valued at $5,000. The bluff was 400 feet in height.

The War in Egypt.

The prospect of a speedy termination of the Egyptian difficulty does not improve. Indeed, it looks now as though England has on hand a serious war which is not likely to be brief, even if no general European complication arises from it.

Meantime the industries of Egypt are grievously deranged; trade is at a standstill; all manufacturing operations are suspended, and agriculture is largely interrupted.

The geographical and the social characteristics of Egypt are peculiar, and of such a nature that war affects the country far more disastrously than would be possible in any other land.

The Europeans who have been driven out furnished most of the capital for all commercial and industrial enterprises, filled most of the positions requiring scientific knowledge or mechanical skill, and controlled the majority of the means for making productive and profitable the labor of the native masses. In their absence a speedy revival of prosperity is impossible, even if the war should end at once.

Within the past twenty years the agricultural products of Egypt have been nearly trebled by means of the capital and machinery introduced from Europe. The irrigation and consequent cultivation of vast areas of sugar and cotton and corn land have been made possible by the introduction of steam pumps and other modern irrigation machinery. Were the natives able to operate such machinery they can not now do so for lack of coal, and so to a serious extent they cannot produce the crops on which their prosperity depends.

The cotton-ginning factories and steam presses, by means of which the cotton crop of Egypt has been made fit for profitable exportation, were introduced by Europeans and largely operated by them. The same is true of the sugar mills and the railways and other means of rapid and economical transportation. The natives themselves are incapable of operating the railways or of conducting an export trade, were such trade possible in time of war. As a consequence the gathered crops are lying in the interior unsold; cultivation is largely suspended, and thousands of native workpeople are threatened with starvation.

The commercial and industrial arrangements incident to the war are not confined to Egypt. Even if no harm befalls the Suez Canal, and there is no suspension of traffic through it, England cannot but suffer severely, though indirectly, in her commercial and manufacturing interests.

Fully two-thirds of the cotton crop of Egypt, averaging 280,000,000 pounds, has hitherto gone to England. In the Bolton district alone 5,000,000 spindles are employed on Egyptian cotton; and in the whole of England some 25,000 workpeople are employed upon this staple. The stoppage of the supply cannot but affect them disastrously.

The large dependence of English industry upon Egyptian products is further illustrated in the case of cotton seed, about $9,000,000 worth of which is imported annually. Last year Hull alone took 120,000 tons, and in its crushing 2,500 men and boys were employed. Still more serious will be the effect of the stoppage of the supply of Egyptian cotton seed upon English agriculturists, who depend largely upon cotton-seed oil cake for feeding their cattle. The English soap boilers use about 50,000 tons of Egyptian cotton-seed oil a year, and must likewise severely feel a cutting off of the supply from that region. England also draws from Egypt annually $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 worth of wheat and beans, $3,000,000 worth of sugar, and more than $2,000,000 worth of wool, ivory, gums and other native products.

In return for all these, Egypt has taken manufactured goods, machinery, coal, and cotton fabrics, the producers of which cannot but lose heavily by the ruin which has fallen upon Egypt.

How far these English losses will react upon American trade it is impossible to foresee. The deficiency in cotton and corn can be made good from this side, but it is doubtful if any marked advantage will accrue to American producers unless the war should involve other powers than Egypt and Great Britain.

The first effect anticipated by our shipping merchants is an advance on ocean freight and in marine insurance, through the withdrawal of first-class steamers for transport service to the seat of war, and the substitution for them of second and third-class freighters in the regular carrying trade.—Scientific American.

A Remarkable Discovery.

The Patent Office has just extended its wing over one of the most remarkable discoveries of the present century, and one, it is safe to say, which will not only effect a revolution in the present methods of producing and applying heat, but seriously undermine the very structure upon which the at present generally received scientific notion of heat rests. The model apparatus, patented by Mr. Calver, the inventor, consists of a number of small looking-glasses, arranged in rows upon a frame, so fixed that they can be converged upon any one point.

A working model, of which he has a number, was recently exhibited to a reporter. Forty innocent, guileless-looking, fifteen-cent gilt-framed mirrors, each 3¾ by 4¾ inches, were arranged upon a frame propped up like an artist's easel and bearing a striking resemblance thereto.

Facing the easel was the fragment of what was once a barn door, also propped up and partly covered with a worn and faded sheet of zinc that bore the unmistakable evidence of having been burned through in several places. It was but the work of a minute to converge the forty mirrors upon a space 3¾x4¾ inches upon the barn door, and then the revelations began. As each mirror cast its quota of sunlight upon the common store, the parallelogram of light grew whiter and more dazzling, until at last it looked like a patch of electric light. But little patience was required to await results. In less than thirty seconds a thin, curling puff of smoke gave evidence of the progress of the experiment. In a minute the board was bursting out in flames. The focus was then shifted upon the zinc. In a few minutes it began to turn color; then shrink as if anxious to get away where it was cooler, and then in less than three minutes the entire surface covered by the focus was literally melting, drop by drop. To melt zinc requires a temperature of over 700 degrees Fahrenheit.

The most wonderful feature about the whole thing is the brillliancy of the light. Each mirror adds not only heat but light. The forty mirrors produced a light more brilliant than an ordinary electric light. A hand held so as to intercept the focus becomes as white as driven snow. A white handkerchief defies ordinary sight and conveys but an impression of beautiful, impossible whiteness. It is as hard to look at as the sun itself.

The possibilities of Mr. Calver's invention are boundless. With a combined square surface of twenty feet of mirrors, lead melts quicker than thought, wood bursts into flames and is gone into ashes, and iron melts in less than twenty minutes. Each mirror adds so much to the heat and light, and Mr. Calver has found by actual experiment that a comparatively small collection of mirrors each one foot square will melt all known metals in a very few moments. He has produced over 4,000 degrees of heat with his mirrors. By calculation it is shown that 1,000 mirrors each a foot square, will melt iron and steel with the rapidity almost of thought.

A NOVEL apparatus for separating gold from sand was recently completed and tested in the East. It is intended for use in the placer regions of the West, Mexico, and Central America, where gold-bearing sand is found at a distance from water sufficient for hydraulic mining. The machine is about five feet in diameter, and is arranged to throw the sand by centrifugal force against a "wall" of mercury, maintained in position by centrifugal action. In this way, it is claimed, every particle of gold is brought in contact with the mercury and amalgamated, while the sand is blown away by means of an air blast. The machine is said to clean a ton of sand in twenty minutes, and to be so thorough in its operation as to make it possible to work with profit the tailings of mines worked by other systems. The power required to operate the machine is not stated.

ONE of the heaviest rains ever known, continuing three days and nights without intermission, stopped falling in Western Texas last Saturday night. Some places, where tradition says it never rains, have the appearance of a sea. The rainfall is estimated at six feet. In several places serious washouts on the railroads have occurred.

A PECULIAR wild beast has made its appearance at Yankee Blade, near Austin, Nev. It lurks about the cabins and dwelling places wherever there is a cat, and lays for that until it catches and devours it. This wicked beast has killed and eaten a dozen domestic cats, nearly all there were in the settlement.

Soda With a Wink In It.

There is a beautiful young lady—a temperance girl—who has a pair of eyes that sparkle so that a stranger would think she was winking when she looked up and smiled. She would not wink for anything, but when she smiles the selvage around the eyes seems to draw up, and—well, if it isn't a wink it is well calculated to deceive. She was on the way to the temperance lodge the other night and stopped at a soda fountain to get a glass of soda, and when the clerk asked her what flavor she would have, she looked up at him and smiled, and said: "I will leave that to you." The clerk said afterward, when her brother came in after the lodge was out to whip him, that he would have sworn that she winked. It seems that some of the customers want a little brandy in their soda, and the proprietor told the clerk that when anybody winked and looked cunning, to put in a little brandy with the flavoring. He thought she was one of the winking customers, and he thinks now he might have put in a little too much. The Noble Duke of the lodge refuses to accept the explanation up to this time, though it is thought he will get over his annoyance before the next meeting, and let the girl remain a member if she desires to do so, though she says she does not see how she can ever look the brothers and sisters in the face. They tell two or three stories about it, but the version of the Grand Worthy Chaplain of the lodge seems to be accepted as the true one.

The soda began to take effect on the girl just as she got into the ante-room, and instead of whispering the pass word to the outside sentinel, that worthy official, who is a young married man, says she put her mouth up to his ear and bit it, and threw her arms around his neck. He would not have cared so much about this, only his wife was in the ante-room putting on her regalia. The soda girl caused remarks in the ante-room by getting into her regalia feet first, and pulling it on as she would a pair of drawers. The outside sentinel says that what struck him as being the most unusual was the way she gave him the pass word. However, he let her into the inner room. There is a hole in the door through which the applicant for admittance whispers the pass word into the ear of the inside sentinel, who is a lady. The soda girl put her mouth up to the hole, after giving three distinct raps, and as the ear of the sentinel covered the hole on the opposite side of the door, the soda girl said: "Set 'em up. Soda with perfu—(hic)—mery in it." As the quarterly pass word was "Strong drink is raging," and the inside sentinel smelled liquor on the breath of the applicant, she thought some saloon character was trying to get into the lodge; so she drew her stuffed club, the badge of her office, and opened the door. Seeing that it was a member, the guard let the girl in, after reprimanding her for levity, and the girl marched to the middle of the room, a little shaky in the legs. The custom is for a member on entering to go to the middle of the floor, look at the grand worthy chairholder, place the right index finger to the right of the nose, and keep it there until the chairman responds, when the newcomer takes a seat. The girl instead, placed her thumb to her nose and wiggled her fingers, and went and took a seat beside the chaplain, and put her feet upon the desk in front of the good man. If a large firecracker loaded with Bourbon whisky had exploded in the lodge room it would not have created more consternation.

The chaplain fainted, the worthy chairman declared a recess, and the members all gathered around the sister, whose face was flushed. Her hair was scrambled, caused by taking off her hat without removing the hairpins, her frizzes were around her left ear, and one bang was on the back of her neck, while the places where her hair was parted ran across her head from ear to ear. Her brother came up and put her feet down from off the desk, and asked her if she had been run over by a wagon or chased by a dog. Everybody smelled the liquor, and when the chief accused her of having tampered with the soul-destroying beverage which steals away the brain, she told him he was a "prevar(hic)cator," and hit him on the ear with a gavel. The sisters tried to get her to go into an ante-room and soak her head, but she said she wanted to ride the goat, and she took a run and jump and sat upon a table as though it was a side-saddle, and laughed so loud the brothers and sisters thought she would disturb the worshippers in a saloon not far away. Finally the choir struck up the tune, "Cold Water, Bright Water," and the soda girl sang, "Johnny Fill Up the Bowl," and tried to put her thumbs in the armholes of her vest, and walk like Pat Rooney. Her brother finally got her to go home, and now it is go-as-you-please between the girl and the drug clerk and the proprietor as to who is to blame. She says if she is forgiven for this she will never swallow another glass of soda until it is analyzed by a competent chemist. The lodge is all broke up about it, because outsiders talk the affair over and say all sorts of funny things.—Exchange.

JAMES E. PARKER.

THE news from Egypt does not show that the invading army is making quick work of Arabi and his forces. The reception he gave Sir Garnet's charge at Ramses proves that the Egyptians have fighting stuff in them, and that it will be a long road from Alexandria to Cairo for the British. Perhaps Gladstone has taken a much more serious and difficult contract than he can carry out. Arabi is evidently backed not only by the national sentiment of Egypt, but has the active sympathies of every true Mohammedan elsewhere. His power is increasing daily, and he may yet be able to oppose to Great Britain a force which cannot be annihilated by long-range guns. It is one thing to bombard a city from ironclads armed with 38-ton guns that throw shot each weighing 1,700 pounds. It is quite a different thing to perform successful military feats under a canicular sun, on yielding sand, where the northern constitution is overcome by a climate to which it is not inured. In a few weeks the Nile will rise and flood great expanses of Lower Egypt. This will be another impediment to the operations of Sir Garnet and a positive benefit to Arabi.

AMONG the appropriations in the River and Harbor bill are one of $260,000 for the improvement of the Sacramento river and its tributaries, and one of $40,000 for the San Joaquin. These appropriations were made on the report of Colonel Geo. H. Mendell to the Secretary of War, on the best plan of protecting the navigable waters of California from the effects of hydraulic mining. The plan presented by that officer contemplates the erection of two dams on the Yuba river for the purpose of storing debris, and, after some years, a third; the building also of four other similar dams on the Bear and American rivers and their affluents. The estimated expense of these for the first year is $491,379. The total expenditure on the Sacramento and its branches is estimated at $1,516,700, to extend over about eight years. The plan for the San Joaquin has not yet been drawn up, but will probably call for somewhat less than the Sacramento.

THE Supreme Court has decided—in the case of the County of Sacramento vs. The Central Pacific Railroad Company, an action to recover State and County taxes—that "the Attorney General, as the law officer of the State, has a right to be heard in a case involving the revenue of the State." On the other hand Judge Sawyer, of the U. S. Circuit Court, has decided in the tax suit of Kern County that the Attorney General has no right to take control of the case as the law officer of the State. Which of these decisions is right? Is it any wonder that the people are losing respect for judicial decisions when they find the Courts expounding the law in diametrically opposite ways? Which of these opinions must be taken as the correct one? They cannot both be right, and the people are therefore as far from knowing the true interpretation of the law as they were before the highest Courts made it "confusion worse confounded."

ACCORDING to the telegraph dispatches the troubles anticipated in Corea have broken out in good earnest. The natives, led on by the father or uncle of the king, have committed horrible murders and shed much innocent blood. They have taken a dislike to missionaries, and no doubt many of these foreigners have lost their lives. Corea is a peninsular Kingdom of Eastern Asia, tributary to China. The population is estimated at from 5,000,000 to 20,000,000. The people are ruled by a monarch, who is despotic. The features of the Coreans are more pronounced Mongolian than those of the Japanese. It was a rule, 100 years ago, to keep out of the kingdom as much as possible all foreigners, but missionaries managed to creep in and preach the gospel. The natives have no written language of their own. The Chinese characters are invariably used.

THE Commissioner of Internal Revenue reports for the fiscal year ending April 30, 1881, 4,112 wholesale and 170,040 retail licensed liquor stores in the United States. This gives one liquor store, on the average, to every 286 inhabitants. Arizona and Montana have one to every 51, and California, Colorado, Nevada, Idaho, New Mexico and Wyoming each reports under 100 of population to every saloon. South Carolina, Kansas, West Virginia and Maine are the banner temperance States, according to the figures. South Carolina would scarce be suspected of using less liquor than any State in the Union. It is likely that the licensed stores in certain States do not comprehend the whole of their citizens' facilities for imbibing the "ardent."

THE COMING C. & C. RAILROAD.

A few general statements regarding the railroad prospects may not be out of order, although what there is of the subject is generally known. For the present the Bishop Creek farmers and the grain merchants feel the effects of a road which is near enough to afford a serious opposition and yet too far away to bring about the good which will ensue when it reaches the valley. Agents visiting the railroad managers so far have been unable to make contracts for the sale of flour or grain except from one-half to one cent per pound less than former rates. Assistant Superintendent Laws says that he can procure such supplies from Sacramento at much less than asked at Bishop, while they can bring in their hay supplies from Mason Valley at less cost than it can be hauled from here. However, Superintendent Holt, of the Bodie and Mono Lake Road, has been at Bishop and has probably taken some contracts which will consume the grain product of that section. In this connection, we may say that the greatly increased demand in the southern end of the County, on account of the renewed mining activity, will require certainly all of the crops south of Big Pine.

The heavy work now on hand will take the railroad company about four months more to get through with. Getting a track around the rugged mountains down to the valley level is no small business. The work being done is of the most substantial character. One "fill" alone is 212 feet in length and 70 feet deep, with two or three others corresponding. Arched stone culverts are being built under them. A tunnel 500 feet in total length is being run. A force of about 600 men, mostly Chinamen, is kept at work. These facts go to show that the road is progressing as fast as can be expected, and leaves no doubt as to the Company's intention to finally push it through—for there could be no earthly reason of incurring such enormous expense simply to get nowhere. A gang of surveyors are running a line above Benton and to the northwest of Black Lake, but whether this is by the Bodie road to make the connection, or whether by the C. & C. Company with a view to getting through the Indian District and Clover Patch region we are unable to say. We are inclined to believe that the C. & C. people are looking for a route through that section—which is the coming rival of Bodie—and that they intend to reach this region by way of Round Valley, and will consequently come down on this side of Owens River.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

The Republican State Convention assembled at Sacramento last Wednesday. According to the dispatches to our nearest newspaper neighbor which receives them—the Bodie Free Press—"The personelle of the convention is of a high order, and as a whole far surpasses the Democratic gathering at San Jose. The intelligence of the State is fairly represented. It is anticipated that harmony will prevail in the convention." Newton Booth wes elected temporary Chairman by acclamation. This action, in our opinion, settles the gubernatorial honors upon M. M. Estee, and presages a general anti-railroad ticket. Newspaper gossip has it that our townsman Judge A. R. Conklin is willing to accept the nomination for Lieutenant Governor, which he could probably receive if he wants it, which is extremely doubtful.

At this distance it is profitless to speculate upon what they will do or have done—upon facts which are probably known all over the Union, before it can reach here. The campaign will be hot and lively, while we of this section will have one deplorable and almost disgraceful fact to ruminate upon—that we can't get the news by telegraph.

SAN FRANCISCO presents for the year past the highest death rate known there in ten years. This was 21.34 per 1,000. The health officer in his annual report calls attention to some of the causes of this alarming increase. The principal of these are bad sewers, defective drainage, poor quarantine facilities and the liability to epidemics consequent upon having so large a number of Chinese domiciled in the heart of the city. He reports, however, that Chinatown is in much better sanitary condition than ever before, and the death rate there—239—is not very much higher than in the rest of the city, notwithstanding the fearful overcrowding and filth. The Chinese are especially free from zymotic diseases. This he attributes to the fumes of opium and tobacco, which seem to be fatal to the germs by which such diseases are contracted.

IT is so rare a thing to get a murderer hung in San Francisco that the papers are rejoicing that Messer Smith's imprisonment for life is at last, after three years, secured.

CASSIDY, M. C. of Nevada, was received at Eureka, his home, by a nonpartisan ovation of the heartiest sort. He made a speech explaining his votes and actions.

PROFESSOR ATWATER, of Princeton, secured the closest attention of the bankers in convention at Saratoga for his paper on "The Currency of the Future." One point of his paper deserves especial attention. He urged that, whatever changes may be made in the national system of finance, a plan should be adopted to allow bars of silver, as well as of gold, to be deposited with the Government, entitling the depositor to receive certificates of such deposit in denominations to suit his convenience, the bearer of the certificates being entitled to receive the weight of bullion specified upon the face of them. The circulation of such certificates would be very general, especially during a period of stringency in the money market, Professor Atwater thinks, and thus they would contribute to the prevention of panics.

A DISPATCH dated Calabasas, A. T., August 30, says: A band of unknown Apaches raided the valley this evening, it is reported they killed quite a number of men, women and children, amounting to twenty in all. They have raided all the ranches from Calabasas to the line, and the people are coming into Calabasas for safety. Jack's band have crossed the river into Arizona. It is believed he it is who is raiding the settlements. Capt. Madden, commanding at Fort Huacouche, is in pursuit of the Indians raiding Santa Cruz valley. The killing of Martinas and family yesterday, occurred only fifteen miles south of the tragedies reported from Calabasas.

SARAH WINNEMUCCA, in her historical paper in The Californian, for September, reflects very severely on the Republican management of Indian affairs. She says, with deep pathos and bitterness: "I see very well that all my race will die out. In a few short years there will be none left—no, not one Indian in the whole of America. I dare say the white men are better in some respects; but he is a bigger rascal, too. He steals and lies more than an Indian does. I hope some other race will come and drive him out, and kill him, like he has done to us. Then I will say the Great Spirit is just, and that it is all right."

PRINCE BISMARK has hit upon a most effectual plan for keeping inquisitive intruders away from Varzin. He has issued a peremptory mandate forbidding all the inhabitants of the village and neighboring country to entertain any strangers whatever. So strictly enforced is this order that a newspaper correspondent recently was compelled to tramp to town several miles away at midnight for the shelter that was refused him by the Chancellor's tenantry at Varzin.

MINING and all that legitimately pertains to it is severely honest and upright. It partakes of the rugged integrity of the everlasting mountains, and men to obtain the best results, must come with clean hands into the courts of this massive industry. The failures of the past which have been attributed to mining as a business, are instead, failures of ignorant or dishonest schemes to prostitute mining to some unnatural purpose.

THE Indian Queen Mining and Milling Company of Nevada paid a dividend of two cents per share, or $2,500, at Boston on the 19th. This makes a total of $325,000 paid to stockholders to date.

WHEN you hear a croaker growling about the approach of a railroad—that he wouldn't allow it to run through his land, etc., you can set it down as a dead shot that he don't own a foot of real estate.

DESPITE the Governor's proclamation the saloons openly carry on business at Missouri Valley, Iowa.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 2 1882

THE NEW MILL.—During a late visit to Bishop, in company with John Clarke and Johnny Stoutenborough, THE INDEPENDENT man paid a pleasant visit to the well-known Bishop Creek Flouring Mills. Messrs. Blair and Dugan were there in their glory, just starting up as fine a set of new machinery as any mill in the State can boast of. The old mill building itself has been enlarged and the interior changed about generally. The first thing attracting attention is the beautiful joiner's work of the entire concern, which was executed by Charley Wonacott. From the hopper the grain is conveyed to a new cleaning machine, which by a series of vibrating screens, aided by a strong blast of air, furnishes the clean grains to the burrs. These are also entirely new, and are of the most approved pattern. The new middlings purifier receives the ground grain and puts it back into the burrs for further work there. The burrs receive the whole and ground grain at the same time. The purifier is a complicated machine of the most beautiful construction, which involves fans, dust chambers and a belt around which revolves a brush which clears away all impurities. The bolt has been renewed, and to all appearances everything worked to perfection. Blair and Dugan said so, and Clarke and Stoutenborough looked wise as owls and nodded approval. This item will give only a general idea of the new apparatus to outsiders—to anyone thoroughly understanding the business of making flour by new machinery it will be evident that the writer of this knows nothing at all about what he speaks of. At all events it is well known that John Blair understands the chemistry, theory and practice of making flour, and we can aver from observation that he and his partner have put in some very perfect and expensive machines. The farmers of Bishop feel rejoiced thereat, and soon the mill will regain its most enviable reputation.

CHANGING BASE.—N. Gilbert, of the well known station bearing his name in Deep Spring Valley, is about changing his location to a point about one and a half miles north. It will be nearer on the direct road to Pipers, in Fish Lake Valley. The water of Wyman Creek, which was formerly used to irrigate his ranch, has not run across the valley this Summer, except on one occasion when it was accelerated by a cloud-burst in the White Mountains. When the creek did run by his present place Gilbert sunk a well 110 feet in depth, but failed to get to water. He must have started in to move it as well as his ranch, as we noticed that the hole was not there any more, and he thinks good well water can be obtained at his new place. At any rate he will be certain of water in the ditch from Wyman. When Deep Spring District shall boom—and the time is near at hand—we trust Gilbert may be awarded for his long years of work and isolation.

MONTEZUMA.—Mr. A. H. Griswold arrived last Wednesday from San Francisco. It will be remembered that last Fall he made a conditional purchase of the big lead mine, the Montezuma, better known as Billy Lake's, which is situated in the Inyos opposite Fish Springs. Mr. Griswold then spent considerable money in developing it, but his backers finally failed to purchase it. He has now completed arrangements to get it, and will at once put up smelting works. He has purchased a complete furnace at Darwin and intends to push matters fast as possible. As giving an idea of the importance of this enterprise we may state that he will start in on 3,000 tons of silver-lead ore, on the dumps and in sight at the mine. He expects to be prepared to purchase silver ores to increase the rate of his bullion, which fact will be good news to many mine-owners all over the upper portion of the County.

THE STAGE LINE.—Thursday evening last Wm. Hamilton and W. T. Field came in from the South. Hamilton has sold out and henceforth the line will be run by Mr. Field, representing the big mail contractors whose headquarters are in Texas. He informs us that he will return within ten days or so, and intends to bring his family to Independence for permanent residence. In the meantime we understand that he is making arrangements to put on sulkies and pony-riders to carry the mail from here to Caliente and intermediate points of the route, pending a change which has been petitioned for to get a route direct to the railroad at Mojave. More particulars will be known in a few days. Mr. Hamilton, we are pleased to add, says that he intends to get back here and turn himself loose on some of his mining properties at Cerro Gordo and Beveridge.

CURIOSITIES.—Last week Mr. W. L. Hunter left at this office some more curiosities from Death Valley. One is an iron ring staple for an ox-yoke, another relic of the fated immigrant train. The others are remarkable pieces of blue lime, polished by erosion or the action of the water, but covered with silicates, evidently the remains or work of sea worms which existed ages ago in the dried up sea like the coral insect works in the depths now. They are intended by Hunter for the State Museum, but the Independence cabinet men will hang on to one of them.

FOR TREASURER.—The political announcement of A. N. Bell, Esq., as a Democratic candidate for the position of County Treasurer, is given this week. As a leading citizen, whose honesty and high standing are unsurpassed, he has been a representative of an important industry of this County since pioneer days. Though always identified with the Democracy, Mr. Bell is not a machine politician, and in case he is nominated it will be in accordance with the desire of his friends and old citizens generally.

BEVERIDGE.—Supt. McEvoy, of the Taylor, McEvoy & Co. mill at Beveridge District came over the Inyo ridge a day or so ago. He says that the mill has just completed some small lots of chlorider's ore from the Boraga mine. Seven tons yielded 30 ounces of gold, and some four or five tons turned out about $40 gold per ton. Antonio Moreno has put a force of men at work on the Consejo mine, getting out ore for the mill. The mill company have developed quite a good body of ore in the Gold Hill mine. They will start the mill next week for about a months run on Keynot ore, after which they expect to work their own ore and that from the other claims mentioned. W. L. Hunter and Manly Conkrite have commenced getting out ore for a run at the Hunter steam arrastras.

THE LATEST.—The only news from Monache relative to the condition of Miss S. J. Nichols, whose unfortunate accident was mentioned last week, is from Billy Staines, who came in two or three days ago. Her injuries consist of severe scalp wounds, there being no bones broken. She was in a semi-conscious state, the main trouble probably being from the terrible nervous shock received. Dr. and Mrs. Blair, accompanied by Mrs. Taylor of Lone Pine, are attending her. On their trip over the mountain the Doctor and party were led off the trail and had to lay out over night, without preparation for such a contingency. However, with the bracing mountain air and the most careful attention, the best hopes are indulged in for the patient's recovery.

TRANSFERS.—According to deeds placed upon the County records by Recorder Crough during the past week, the following transfers of properties have been made: Francisco Miranda to Lorenzo Miranda, 150 feet in the Keynot mine and the same interest in eight other of the Keynot series. Also, 233⅓ feet in the Hidalgo; consideration, $3,000. These interests Lorenzo Miranda subsequently transfers to J. E. Strauss. According to another deed, My. Harmon is getting into Death Valley borax matters, having purchased a one-fourth interest in sixteen locations, from C. C. Blench, I. Danet and J. A. McDonald, paying $4,000 therefor. They are located near what is called the Big Hole, "if you know where that is," as Johnny Crough said about it.

BROWN MONSTER.—Mr. Chalfant (he has some sort of a deep-rooted prejudice about using the terms "able and efficient," etc., in connection with the word Superintendent, hence we do not say "Supt." instead of Mr.) will start up the Brown Monster mill next Monday on a lot of ore from the Hirsch mine. If he can profitably work the peculiar ores of the mine, which are essentially the same as the old Eclipse, only more so, he will have solved many mooted points which have bothered people about this region for years—one being as to whether the ores will pay for reduction or simply pay the Superintendent in charge, as may have been the case heretofore.

THOSE TAILINGS.—In regard to an item of last week referring to the muddy condition of the creek running from Kearsarge Cañon down through town, Mr. Thorpe, one of the owners of the Pioneer mill, says: "You can mention in your next issue that we have about completed a dam with the intention of saving the tailings so as not to muddy the water any more than we can possibly help." We hear from other sources that the boys were sluicing out an excavation above the dam for a reservoir, hence it was simply earth which soiled the water. There was probably no damage to the little pet fishes, and there will be no trouble about the water hereafter.

BENEFIT BALL.—The announcement is given this week of a grand ball to be given for J. L. Woods' benefit, at the Court House, Independence, next Friday evening. Aside from the enjoyment of the affair—the managers assuring the public that nothing possible will be left undone to secure a social success—the noble charity of its purpose should prompt the most general attendance. Mr. Woods is an old man, alone in the world and physically helpless. His own unostentatious charity throughout his long and blameless life in this County should now be remembered, in his hour of need.

PANAMINT.—Supt. Pheby, of the Inyo Con. Company, is working a large force of men in the Wyoming and Hemlock mines, extracting ore. The ore is of much higher grade than any heretofore taken out, and it is expected that the next run will be much larger than the last. Two hundred tons of ore have been delivered at the mill and this amount will be increased to 500 tons within the next few days. Some new machinery for the big mill is now en route from San Francisco, which will be in place and the mill ready to start up on or about next Tuesday.

NEW PROJECTS.—There is a statement afloat that the machinery for a new smelter has been ordered for Keeler City—probably by the Swansea Company. That old Swansea slag pile is an attraction and may work out some good in the way of getting a new furnace started there. It would prove a boon to the miners of Cerro Gordo, as what they need now is a place whereat to get their ores honestly worked, or bought.

AT BISHOP.—On Wednesday a public meeting of citizens was held to devise means for the suppression of the liquor traffic with Indians....John Stoutenborough is rusticating in the mountains ....Miss Mina Tibbets and Miss Eva Shepherd, of Independence, are visiting friends here....Louie Munzinger is about to challenge Tug Wilson. Bud Stoutenborough will be his trainer.

THE SAW MILL.—The legal notice published elsewhere informs us that Sam Thomas and Jake Shoemaker are now the sole owners of the Black Rock saw mill—Messrs. Jos. Garringer and H. T. Thomson having sold out their interests to them.

COUNTY MONEY.—At the monthly count of County moneys, August 31st, by the District Attorney and County Auditor, Treasurer Hardy's cash in hand was found to be as follows, agreeing with the Auditor's accounts: Gold, $3,007 50; silver, $525 96; currency, $70; redeemed warrants, $481 30; swamp land warrant, $248 60; school fund warrant, $804 45; certificate of deposit, $2,102 47; total, $7,240 28.

LOOKOUT.—Frank Fitzgerald returned from San Francisco to Lookout on Friday of last week. He has a new lease from the Company of the Modock mines and the furnace, and is now putting on miners, coal and wood men as fast as he can get them. Under his new and more favorable arrangement with the Modock Company "Little Fitz" will greatly improve on his former successful handling of the property.

ANOTHER.—The new advertisements of this week, elsewhere, contain the announcement of Frank R. Parker, before the Republican County Convention for Assessor—"another Richmond in the field." Frank has been a resident of Inyo for the past ten years or more, and comes well recommended from the big end of the County, as an honest and competent man.

A NEW DEAL.—Big Pine rejoices in an immense improvement in the hotel, since Mr. and Mrs. Wemple have leased and practically overhauled the whole business. Everything about the place is the very perfection of cleanliness and order. The tables are supplied in a style to please the daintiest epicure and enough to satisfy a miner or rancher with prodigious appetite.

RELIGIOUS.—The Fourth Quarterly Meeting of the M. E. Church will be held at Bishop Creek on the coming 9th and 10th instants, Rev. F. M. Willis presiding. Sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered at the close of the 11 o'clock services on Sunday. Friends are invited and expected from the lower end of the valley.

HIGH TONED.—Reports reach us from Panamint and Darwin of a high-toned matrimonial affair which didn't quite stick, on account of the obstinacy of the Darwin Justice, who demanded the production of a regular license before performing the ceremony. The details are interesting, but a little too tough for publication.

HAS ARRIVED.—The "sere and yellow leaf" of Autumn, is upon us—at least, a hint of the same, as evidenced in the cooler nights, the hazy atmosphere, the dried-up streams, the snow-bereft mountains, the multiplicity of candidates, and, lastly, because it is September. This means that it is a good time to settle with the printer.

A SUCCESS.—The many old time friends of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Keppler will be glad to learn what a popular success they are making in the restaurant business at Bishop Creek. Madam Keppler is not slow at good-humored joking, and is the boss cook of the valley. May their shadows never grow less.

FOR SALE.—Some good and enterprising business man, with a little capital to start out on, will find a splendid opportunity by visiting or corresponding with E. Chenot, in regard to his proposition to sell his store business at Camp Independence. See the advertisement.

HIS ANNOUNCEMENT.—Dr. W. H. George's announcement will be found in the usual column this week, as a candidate for—a customer or two who want to buy some good harness and a saddle. See notice, and find out that the Doctor has for sale at low figures just what somebody wants.

SURPRISING.—The Calico Print of August 24th mentions the arrival there of "Geo. Desalier, formerly proprietor of the Pioneer Hotel, Independence, Inyo County." That must have been about the time Fremont's party first struck the valley.

AN IMPROVEMENT.—A big freight load of twelve-inch iron water pipe passed through town Thursday for Bell's mill. It is to be used for the water power, doing away with the old flume.

REX MONTIS.—Supt. Holt is now keeping the Rex Montis mill going steadily on tailings, intending to keep up operations indefinitely, or until the work is completely cleaned up.

MEN WANTED.—A Darwin letter says: "Men are very scarce around here, and I think about 30 could get work between Panamint, Lookout and this place."

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—See the official notice this week of the regular and special meetings of the County Board of Education.

Card of Thanks.

GILMAN, IOWA, Aug. 23, 1882.

MR. EDITOR:—Allow me through your columns to extend to J. H. Stoutenborough, John Clark, John Laird, J. F. Hutchison, T. K. Hutchison and wife, W. O. Harrell, F. M. Willis and wife, Frank Parker, Thos. Furbee, W. J. C. Gill, J. S. Graham, Dr. George and many others of Bishop Caeek, Cal., and elsewhere, for the many acts of kindness and the very efficient aid rendered during the last illness of my departed husband. I feel that their kindly acts and cheering words did much to lighten the burden of those weary weeks, and for all this I can but offer my thanks and pray that Him who ruleth all things may reward them for their labor.

PETER COOPER dispenses about $20 a day in small change to men who have seen better days, and apply to him regularly as he leaves his place of business. The veteran philanthropist says it does him no harm and does them a heap of good.

"FIVE big watermelons for a quarter," is reported from Hollister, Cal.

Representative Patriots.

Two candidates for the Governorship meet on C street—one a Democrat, the other a Republican. They shake hands warmly and lean up against a post for a confab.

"How is she looking?" asks the Republican.

"Way up," replies the Democrat. "I think I have it dead. How is it with you?"

"If the boys out in Eureka and Humboldt stand in I think I can get away with it on the first ballot. I'm going to take a run out East and gin up the populace. Will you get away with the Douglass delegation?"

"I'm working on it. I think I can get the pull on most of them."

The statesmen perceive that a crowd is gathering around them, and the Democrat cries in a rather loud voice:

"The times are ripe for political reform, sir. The masses are groaning beneath the load of taxation."

"I agree with you sir," cries the Republican, also in a loud voice. "Especially here in Nevada governmental retrenchment is exceedingly necessary. Do you hope for the Democratic nomination, sir?"

"I will be proud, sir, to receive such an honor at the hands of my party, but I do not seek it, sir. I bow to the people and leave to them without interference to choose their public servants. You are also, I believe, an aspirant?"

"My name has been mentioned sir; but I hold aloof from personal participation in the machinery of politics. If nominated I will endeavor to win."

They shake hands all round with the impressed crowd, go around the corner, take a quiet drink and exchange a wink as they raise their glasses.—Virginia Chronicle.

CONGRESSMAN GEDDES, of Ohio, is being laughed at greatly just now, the reason being as follows: A certain constituent of his, who is a barber, conceived the idea that Congressional documents might be utilized for shaving paper, so he wrote to the Congressman saying that he was greatly interested in his speeches, and begging for copies of them and other Government publications. He received a quantity, and presently other barbers, getting wind of the transaction, followed suit, and Mr. Geddes had an unprecedented demand for "documents." It is said that now every barber shop in Mansfield has enough shaving paper on hand to last two years, and public opinion seems to favor this mode of utilizing Congressional oratory and Government reports.

THE Philadelphia Mint settlement shows that the total coinage for the twelve months ending June 30 was: Gold, $50,678,437 50; silver, $11,062,388 75; minor coinage, $644,757 75—making a total coinage of $62,385,583, which is the largest coinage in any fiscal year in the history of the Government.

How Hazing Was Suppressed at Harvard.

Many have wondered why there has not been any hazing at Harvard for the past three months. We are informed that hazing has been broken up at that college, and forever, by these means: Just after Sullivan whipped Ryan he was called to Harvard, and the faculty explained a plan to him, and he fell into it readily. He was to attire himself as a Quaker young man, and apply for admission as a freshman, and let nature take its course. Mr. Sullivan appeared at the college under the name of Abija Watson, and was assigned to a room, and placed on the roll of freshmen. His appearance was commented on, and as he passed through the college grounds with his peculiar garb, young fellows shouted, "Shoot the hat!" "Get on to His Nibs!" and other collegiate literature. It was all Mr. Sullivan could do to restrain himself from whipping a couple of dozen of boys then and there, but he decided to wait until the proper time, when he would be able to get enough for a mess. That evening he was approached by a young man who pretended to be his friend and invited to accompany him to a room where some boys were going to open a few bottles of wine. So they went to a large room where about seventy smart young fellows were congregated with all the appliances for hazing. Sullivan says there were seventy, but the faculty only found sixty-five smart Alecks when the door was opened, but Sullivan thinks a few may have jumped out of the window and taken to the woods. It seems that when they got the "Quaker" into the room they locked the door, and the ringleader told the peaceful man to strip off his coat, vest and shirt. He objected, but finally took them off. Some of the fellows who have since got out of the hospital say they noticed, when he removed his shirt, that he was put up like a hired man, and they thought it queer that a Quaker should have an arm as big as a canvas ham. They then told him to prepare to meet his God, and then got out the iron to brand him on the back. He told them that he knew he was in their power and was willing to submit to anything that was right, but he asked them not to bear on too hard, as he was of a nervous temperament and might faint. Then they decided not to brand him until later, but throw him in a blanket first. So they got the blanket and tipped Sullivan over onto it and about twenty of the smartest hazers took hold of the sides and tossed him up. When he came down he knocked four fellows senseless with his fists, kicked four more across the room, and then got on his feet and began to knock them right and left. He knocked down about twenty, stopped to spit on his hands, and said: "Is it hazing yez want? Well, yez can have plinty," and he went at them, and in about fifteen minutes he corded up the whole gang, and hazing was broken up in Harvard College. As he threw his coat and shirt over his arm and met the Faculty in the hall, he said: "Trow wather in their faces and they'll be all right in from ten minutes to half an hour," and he shook hands with the Faculty, received his $500 and left for New York.—Peck's Sun.

JONES is a timid man. He lives out of town, and out of town he has remained for a month. Every morning he starts for the train, gets nearly as far as the railroad, sees the red flag at the station, and returns homeward, wondering how much longer that case of smallpox is to keep him away from the depot.

THE DENVER MINING EXPOSITION.

The National Mining Exposition just opened at Denver, Colorado, would be a credit to the oldest and richest of mining regions. Indeed it may be doubted if in any other part of the world so large and instructive an array of precious metals and their ores could heve been collected for such a purpose.

The effect in convincing the visiting world of the substantial wealth of a multitude of mining districts scattered over the Rocky Mountain country, and now known only as outlandish names on the newer maps, cannot but be enormously beneficial to the States and Territories represented.

The exhibition was opened the first of the month, and has been a popular success from the start.

The exhibition building is a handsome and substantial structure covering four acres, It is in the form of a cross, 500 feet from north to south, and 200 feet from east to west, with spacious vestibules and entrances at the four extremities. There are 2,000 linear feet of galleries, 29 feet in width, supported by solid columns, and approached by eight broad and easy stairways. Two more stairways and two elevators give access to the central tower, 80 feet in height. Each of the eight corner towers, 70 feet high, is approached by a special stairway. The building is lighted by 800 windows.

The exhibits are arranged in thirteen departments: (a) Mineralogy, with eleven classes, comprising ores of the precious and the useful metals, clays, coals, and other metalliferous specimens; (b) Geology, eight classes,; (c) Hardware, edge tools, and all cast and wraught iron goods, in four classes; (e) Agricultural and horticultural products, ahd floral displays, dairy products, etc., six classes; (f) General machinery, including steam engines and machine tools, printing, pneumatic, leather working, and laundry machinery, five classes; (g) Agricultural and horticultural implements, machinery, tools, carriages, wagons, etc., four classes; (h) Textile fabrics, leather, furs, and the like, four classes; (i) Household goods, watches, jewelry, optical and scientific instruments, ornamental articles, ceramics, etc., six classes; (k) Liberal arts, natural science, and education, five classes; (l) Food preparations, and miscellaneous articles used in domestic economy, miners' supplies, etc., three classes; (m) Chemical and medicinal preparations, illuminating and lubricating oils, etc., four classes; (n) Missellaneous unclassified articles. The main building contains over 150'000 feet of floor area, yet the demands for space have made several annexes necessary.

The machinery is driven by a 250 horse power Corliss engine of Chicago make. The display of mining machinery is very full and attractive, particularly to those directly interested in mining. Popular interest, however, naturally centers in the vast and varied collections of ores and minerals, which have been gathered by carloads from hundreds of mining districts scarcely yet heard of by the Eastern world.

Through her advantages of situation and superior mining developement Colorado naturally leads in the richness and variety of exhibits. This State has suddenly risen to the first rank as a silver producer, and stands close to the head of Gold States. In the relation of production to area Colorado holds the first rank; for gold and silver combined she stands at the head, and likewise for silver alone. Exclusive of coal and iron her metallic product the census year was twenty-two and three quarter million dollars, and nearly if not quite as much last year. Lake County, which yields more than half the total product of the State, is richly represented in the exhibition, but not quite so brilliantly as the newer district of Gunnison County, which has required an annex to receive the excess sent by the enthusiastic miners. The Gunnison exhibits include thousands of pounds of rich carbonates, great blocks of ruby silver, native silver, iron, coal, and marble. For the transportation of one block of galena weighing 4,000 pounds a special road had to be constructed over the mountains. From the other mining districts of the State generous contributions of gold, silver, lead and copper ores have been sent to the exhibition, the baldest enumeration of which would fill columns.

The exhibits from Utah rank next to those of Colorado in variety and volume. About fifty productive mines and over a hundred prospects are represented. The majority are silver-load ores; among the rest are ores of antimony—one block of 3,000 pounds assaying 60 per cent; bismuth; a 500 pound block of sulphur, nearly pure; great masses of iron ore; brown coals from beds of three to thirty feet in thickness; mineral wax from the Wahsatch Mountains; marbles in great variety, and other minerals testifying to the vast undeveloped wealth of the great basin.

The exhibits from New Mexico embrace a great variety of silver, gold, copper. and lead ores, turquoises, and small specimens of all the minerals found in the Territory; also a fine display of native jewelry, Pueblo pottery, blankets, etc. Grant county sends specimens from two hundred mines, and other counties are represented by ores from a hundred mines or more each. The Arizona exhibits come mainly from the Tombstone District and from Pima and Pinal counties.

The Copper Queen mine sends a pyramidal mass of copper ore weighing two tons. It is a carbonate, assaying from twenty-three to twenty-five per cent. A seven-ton block of galena is to be added to the exhibits from this Territory. Some of the richest ore is contributed by the West Side mine, assaying 3,339 ounces silver to the ton, with a large assay of gold. Another specimen yields 2,905 ounces of silver and 21.88 ounces of gold. The Contention property exhibits a sample of telluride of gold and horn silver that assays $1,762 gold and $12,378 15 silver. A specimen from the Grand Central mine, Tombstone District, weighing 115 pounds, runs $11,923 22 to the ton, of which $2,286 29 is gold and $9,536 93 silver.

Wyoming, Montana, Dakota and Idaho are represented by specimens aggregating many tons, among them a block of soda from Wyoming, weighing 500 pounds, and Montana ores assaying as high as 3,300 ounces of silver.

Though presenting less of novelty, the agricultural displays are large and attractive; and the same may be said of the machinery departments, which comprise a great variety of crushers, amalgamating machines, pumps, engines, excavators and other appliances for raising and reducing the buried wealth of the mountains. The exhibition will remain open until October, and part of it is intended to be permanent.—Scientific American.

A RECENT writer asserts that for a hot weather drink nothing equals buttermilk. It is, he says, "both drink and food, and for the laborer is the best known. It supports the system, and even in fever will cool the stomach admirably. It is also a most valuable domestic remedy. It will cure dysentery as well as and more quickly than any other remedy known. Dysentery is really a constipation, and is the opposite of diarrhœa. It is inflamation of the bowels, with conjestion of the 'portal circulation'—the circulation of blood through the bowels and liver. It is a disease always prevalent in the Summer and Autumn. From considerable observation, I feel warranted in saying that buttermilk, drunk moderately, will cure every case of it; certainly when taken in the early stages."

AN expedition is going into the Olympic or Coast range of mountains, Washington Territory. The expedition witl be commanded by Colonel Chambers. Its route will be via Port Discovery bay. One endeavor will be to find the headwaters of the Dungineess river, and another to find an immense plateau said to be situated somewhere in that region and which has never been trodden by the foot of the white man. Thirty or forty men will comprise the party.

THE Western Union Telegraph Company's gross earnings for the past twelve months, according to a New York dispatch just received, shows $17,000,000 against $14,000,000 for the twelve months preceding.

THE brokers of Richmond are buying Confederate bonds again. As much as $7.50 per $1,000 was paid for them. It is evidently a speculative scheme, and will soon explode.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

ON Wednesday the Mono County Democratic Convention was held at Bodie. Every precinct in the County was represented. W. J. C. Gill and Chas. A. Schuman were delegates(?) from Bishop Creek, although only the latter participated in the proceedings. C. F. McKinney was nominated for Sheriff; Ben H. Miller, Clerk; Richard McAlpin, Assessor; Z. B. Tinkum, Treasurer; Frank P. Willard, District Attorney; Miss Naomi Angell, Supt. of Public Instruction; J. H. Warren, Coroner; Surveyor, to be selected by the County Central Committee. Jos. McDermott and T. G. Kelty, Supervisors. Hon. Patrick Reddy was heartily indorsed by the Convention as a candidate for State Senator from this district. T. J. Ingram, Richard Pierce, B. B. Jackson, Ed. Boynton and Jos. McDermott were selected as a committee to confer with a similar committee from Inyo County in regard to nominating a Joint Assemblyman from the two Counties.

THE Supreme Court has riled things again in San Francisco by deciding that an election must take place this Fall for all the elective municipal officers. This gives a chance for many fellows to get even with the officers recently seated, who failed to give them appointments. Some of the Supervisors are in agony to think that life is so long and terms of office so short. If the citizens will go for a new charter or city organization, the next fellows elected may come to a sudden end, also, on a short term. The new Constitution, like a bull in a china shop, has played smash with local office holders all over the State. Nearly all now in office were elected for one year, but a kind providence and the new Constitution gave them three.

THE Nevada Republican State Convention met at Reno last Tuesday and made nominations as follows: For Governor, Enoch Strother of Storey; Lieutenant Governor, C. E. Laughton; Congressman, C. C. Powning of Washoe; Supreme Judge, O. R. Leonard (renominated); Clerk of the Supreme Court, C. F. Bicknell; Secretary of State, J. M. Dormer of Esmeralda; Controller, J. F. Hallock; Attorney General, W. H. Davenport; Supt. of Public Instruction, S. W. Young of Storey; Surveyor General, —— Preble of Washoe; State Printer, J. C. Harlow of Ormsby.

AS YET the engagements between the forces of the English and Arabi Bey have been little more than skirmishes, but now a battle seems impending. Sir Garnet Wolesley has the confidence of the English Government and of his army. He is an able general, and so far has proved it by his movements. The enemy is inclined to dispute every inch of ground, and yet the result is regarded as a foregone conclusion. The heterogeneous and undisciplined troops of Arabi will make a hopeless defense against the trained columns, heavy ordnance and improved arms of the British.

IT is estimated that nearly 2,000,000,000 pounds of paper are produced annually, one-half of which is used for printing, a sixth for writing, and the remainder is coarse paper for packing and other purposes. The United States alone produce 200,000 tons of paper, averaging seventeen pounds per head for its population. The Englishman comes next with about twelve pounds per head. The educated German takes eight pounds; the Frenchman seven pounds, whilst the Italian, Spaniard and Russian takes respectively three pounds, one-half pound and one pound annually.

A CHICAGO dispatch of Wednesday last says: A special train bearing the Marquis of Lorne, Princess Louise and party arrived about noon at the Rock Island depot. They visited Pullman early in the morning, and on reaching the city were driven direct to the hotel without ceremony or reception. At the hotel twenty-one rooms were reserved for them. They have arranged to spend the day quietly in the city and proceed to San Francisco on the Rock Island road to-morrow morning.

DENMARK has a ship searching for the North Pole. It is under command of Lieutenant Hovgaard, and is bound to Franz Josef Land, where it is the intention of the Lieutenant to establish Winter quarters, and resume operations next Spring. It will therefore be several months before we shall hear of a relief vessel being sent in search of the Danish adventurer, whose fate, with that of his officers and crew, will in the meantime be a matter of conjecture.

THIS is "admission day," the great State of California being thirty-two years old.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

On the first page of this issue will be found the ticket nominated by the Republican State Convention. From the outset there was hardly a doubt about Estee's success, and our guess last week about Judge A. R. Conklin for Lieutenant Governor proved to be the correct one. Amongst the old-timers there is probably no better known man or more shrewd worker than Seth G. Sneden. With only their three votes, the Inyo delegation easily walked off with the second honors. While THE INDEPENDENT does not propose to particularly support any one or any party in political matters, it is free to say that it is glad of the honor paid to this County and our townsman. Judge Conklin is an able man, well qualified to fill any public position of honor and trust. Before the canvass is out the the people of the State will find that he is a gentleman of the highest education, a lawyer and journalist of the best order.

With his aid on the platform the eminent orators on the Republican ticket--Estee, Edgerton, Woods, Neumann, Page and DeHaven—the party has a decided percentage over the Democrats.

THE public printer, Rounds, has locked horns with Senator Mahone regarding the assessment of employés of the Government Printing Offices from Virginia. Several cases were brought to the notice of Rounds in which employés who had cheerfully paid to the National Congressional Committee the account assessed against them, were beseiged by collectors representing the Mahone faction. In consequence of this, these employés were informed by the public printer that any assessments made on them by Senator Mahone's committee should be paid voluntarily, and no one should lose his position in the Government Printing Office for refusing to contribute. This decision incensed Senator Mahone and his strikers, and a vigorous assault will be made to effect a reconsideration; but, from the general reputation of Rounds, it is understood that he has put his foot down in earnest in this matter, and will not be bulldosed by the Virginian. The example set in this department will, it is said, be followed by the secretaries ot the other departments, who are opposed to the wholesale system of levying assessments not only by national but local committees.

A DISPATCH from Bakersfield, Cal., dated last Wednesday, says: Two carloads of sick Chinamen arrived to day, several of them in a dying condition and one dead. They were from the advance of the Southern Pacific Railroad in Texas, and the rumor that the disease was yellow fever caused much excitement and fear. A coroner's jury could not be obtained to sit on the deceased. It is not known what the disease was, but the report of yellow fever is not authenticated.

THE nomination of Judge A. R. Conklin is the first ever accorded by a State Convention to this side of the mountains. The nearest we ever came to getting a representative on a State ticket was when Paul Bennett was beaten by Jim Green only a few votes for State Controller, by the Republicans. In the same year Jim Mooney, of Mono, got left just a little for the same office in the Democratic Convention.

THE Grernback State Convention met at San Francisco on Wednesday. Delegates were present from sixteen Counties. The meeting was anything but harmonious, one wing desiring a fusion with the Democracy. The anti-fusion members were in the majority.

IN Mono County there are three female candidates for the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction. Mrs. Sullivan is the Republican nominee, Miss Angell is on the Democratic ticket, and Mrs. Carroll announces herself as an independent candidate.

THE Nevada Democratic State Convention assembled at Eureka, Wednesday last, and nominated Jewett W. Adams for Governor; Congressman, Geo. W. Cassidy; Justice of the Supreme Court, Col. M. N. Stone.

LOS ANGELES, by her Council, has adopted the Brush electric light system, and will have seven light-towers, at an annual expense of $7,000, which is about the cost of the present gas-light system.

ACCORDING to a census bulletin just issued there are in the United States—the Territories not counted—12,870,117 persons of the male sex over twenty-one years of age.

THE Hindoos and Mohammedans near Calcutta are having a terrible time. Atrocities perpetrated on the Mohammedans are terrible and all kinds of excesses continue.

LIFE seems to have been too lively with the Prince of Wales. His doctors have cruelly confined him to cold water, and miserable medical spring water, at that.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9... ..1882

REGISTER.—Less than thirty days remain in which electors can qualify themselves by registration for voting next November. Notwithstanding the official notice published for the past eight months by order of the Board of Supervisors, and our frequent reference to the subject, there yet seems to be manifest considerable stupidity about the matter. We heard a man at Bishop the other day say: "Well, —— ———, if they can't put my name on the list after I've been here so long, — — —— I won't vote!" The notice referred to was shown him, and after a little explanation he signed one of the printed applications for re-registration, without which simple formality he was before willing to get left out in the cold. As it is now he will probably be right in the heat of the canvass. At Deep Springs, among the very old-timers, there is not yet a registered voter. At Panamint, where there are about thirty or more electors, there are about five registered. County Clerk Crough, through the agency of a Deputy visiting there, swore in a Deputy and had left with him a full series of blanks, covering re-registration—"native born," "naturalized," "by naturalization of father," "where papers are lost," etc., etc.—but Mr. Crough has never received any information from him which would intimate that anyone out there wants to vote. Bill Johnson was the Deputy sworn in there, but he has since left the camp. Ex-County Judge Hanson, who has been offered a Deputyship by the Assessor and by the Clerk, declined to swear to an affidavit for registration of his own name, which of course precluded his eligibility. His ex-Honor insisted upon having a transfer from San Francisco to place him upon the Great Register of Inyo. Of course, the general cancelation there does away with transfers, making an affidavit of proper residence here and regular registration necessary. At Darwin the voters are lax in the business of getting on the register, and we doubt if in the new precinct at Sherman there will be registered voters enough to open polls election day. The Assessor and Clerk have used their official authority in appointing Deputies for registration purposes as follows: At Bishop Creek, S. G. Sneden and Chas. Schuman; Lone Pine, D. H. Williams; Darwin, J. J. Gunn; Lookout, Frank Fitzgerald. In order to place names on the printed Great Register, the registration must be made before October 7th, when the "copy" is given to the printer. The number now registered is 480, whereas there should be about 700. It looks as though the respective Central Committees have not been very active in organizing their forces.

THE SIXTEENTH.—Elsewhere in this issue will be noted the general programme of the regular Mexican Fourth of July celebration at Lone Pine. For many years long gone by, in days of old in this county, the observances of the "16th" at Lone Pine, by the Mexican population have been quite notable occurences, especially in connection with the usual Chileño continuation, which occurs on the following 18th. It is a well known fact that the managers of these affairs invariably effect the most perfect success, as regards the police regulations during the day, and the social dances during the evenings. The celebration is commemorative of the National independence of Mexico, the revolutionary and successful fight of the native Central American races for freedom from Spanish rule. We are told that the chosen orators on such occasions do full justice to their theme. At all events, for those seeking relaxation from business, about the 16th will be a good time to go to Lone Pine.

MONTEZUMA.—Supt. A. H. Griswold has made purchase of this mine, as mentioned last week, and is now engaged in the work of getting a smelter in operation. He has bought a water-jacket, engine and a nearly complete outfit at Darwin, which teams from Big Pine will start after during the coming week. Mr. Griswold is determined upon making a success, and to start with has the rare good judgment to employ local men—men who can help him out. We refer to Mr. S. D. Woodhull as master smelter and Wm. Hedge as mechanic and engineer. With their aid, and his own good practical management, if he don't make the big mine—or deposit—pay, it would seem that it were hardly worth while to attempt any mining enterprise anywhere.

THE PALMA.—During his late work on the Palma, the old "Gold Hill" gold mine of Cerro Gordo, Supt. M. A. Wheeler has continued work on the two openings—tunnels respectively 220 and 230 feet in, with winzes 15 and 10 feet in depth. Mr. W. has some sixteen men at work, extracting ore for reduction at the mill. According to the report of Tom Treglone, a well-known miner who lately came from there, the developments are showing up well. Mr. Wheeler intends starting the mill within a week or so and keep it constantly running.

PANAMINT.—Superintendent Pheby is doing good work in the Inyo Con. Company's mines. He has about 300 tons of ore at the mill, 100 tons at the mines, and will extract enough more to make the September run fully 500 tons. The ore is all of high grade and will average at least $100 per ton. Supt. Pheby says the outlook for large bullion outputs there was never so favorable as at the present time. The mill machinery referred to in these columns last week has arrived and is being placed in position. The mill is probably in operation at this date.

SHORT.—Attention to a great deal of job work and other multifarous rackets accumulated during the proprietors absence has necessarily "left" to-day's paper way behind as to amount and quality of reading matter.

THE INDIANA.—Mr. C. J. Johnson has returned from San Francisco, where he went with a lot of ore from the Indiana mine. The certificates show that thirty sacks of it assayed at the rate of $626 59 in silver per ton, lead 37.70 per cent. Another lot of eighty sacks assayed $278 41 per ton, with 21.60 per cent lead. There is at the mine some ten tons more, which will assay $100 per ton, with much more in sight. It will come in handy when semebody puts up a smelter at some central point on the river.

JUSTICE'S COURT.—Justice Parker of this township has a case in hand which has been set for trial Monday next. Mrs. Moran, of the classic precincts of Whisky Flat, made complaint against Mr. Grimes—probably a son of the old man whose cellar door was made a general sliding place—for grand larceny. There is a band of horses, several lawyers and a lot of other facts mixed up with it, the points of which may be given when the Court finds out about it and the details become public property.

RETURNED.—Mr. W. S. Woodhull was here yesterday, en route from San Francisco to the Hawley-Keeler mill on the Lake, where he will resume his duties as foreman. He reports having had a good time at the Bay, but the most important mention about it is that he be brought along, as a compliment to his big brother—Mr. S. D.—several volumes of the very latest and most expensive works on metallurgy.

FOR ASSESSOR.—The only political announcement this week is that of Mr. J. F. Dillon, who submits his name to the people for the office of County Assessor. The contest for County officers will be a free and easy go-as-you-please affair, with party lines loose. Mr. Dillon is well known all over the County, he having very creditably served in the same position for eight years.

BULLION.—George Thorpe brought down from the Pioneer mill, last Thursday, forty-five pounds of silver bullion, worth $15 per pound. This was the result of working about 100 tons of the old Kearsarge tailings. The bullion is a surprise as to its fineness, but does not amount to as much per ton of tailings as expected. The best part of the old tailings reservoirs is yet to be worked.

FOR MONACHE.—Ex-Sheriff Greenley was in town yesterday from the Deep Spring region, bound for Monache, to assist John Broder and his neice. The report from there, brought in by John Alexander, is that Miss Nichols was neither worse nor better than as published last week. She is suffering from concussion of the brain, which may require a long time to recover from.

LOST.—Johnny Heckel writes from Bishop Creek that while here he somewhere mislaid or lost his pocket-book. It contained his discharge papers from the army, a mining deed and other matters of no value to anyone save the owner. We trust that whoever may find it will leave it at this office or forward it to the Postmaster at Bishop Creek.

COUNTY BUSINESS.—The Board of Supervisors will hold their next meeting October 7th, to fix the tax for the current fiscal year. On the following day they meet for the purpose of making orders for printing, election proclamation, etc., and for business relative to the resignation or appointment of township officers.

ACCIDENT.—Julius Chelious, much better known as "Butch," somehow managed to fall into the cellar-way of his butcher shop at Darwin, thereby sustaining a bad dislocation of his right shoulder. He was brought into Lone Pine for surgical assistance.

PRIMARIES.—The Democratic primary election takes place throughout the county to day. At this precinct the ticket in the field is as follows: For Delegates—S. P. Moffat, Wm. J. Lake, George Bartshe, Thomas Webb, and John Alexander.

RETURNED.—Mr. Crittenden Hampton has returned from his visit to old Tuolumne, and will reopen the Big Pine school next Monday. The "Professor" looks as though he had enjoyed himself somewhat while across the ridge.

GOOD.—The ball last night is reported to have been a grand social success, generally and in particular. The net result was $108 50, which is a popular tribute worthily bestowed upon the beneficiary, Mr. J. L. Woods.

MODOCK.—F. Fitzgerald has eighteen men at work on the Bismark mine, and five taking out ore from the Modock property. He calculates that the next run of the furnace will be the "boss."

A Good Turn.

A month's time has made a great change in the prices of some of the Comstock securities, says the Bodie Free Press. Below is a comparative table for August 4th and September 4th:

DR. BLISS, who attended President Garfield, has overcome his modesty and informed the Board of Audit that he wants $25,000 for his services.

IT is proposed to run a railroad to Nova Scotia and thus shorten the voyage from New York to England, so it can be made in four days.

THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR.

Mr. H. Z. Osborne, editor of the Bodie Free Press, in a letter to his paper depicting scenes at the late Republican State Convention, refers as follows to the nomination of Judge Conklin:

The Lieutenant Governorship falling to Judge A. R. Conklin, of Inyo, was not only very gratifying but a great surprise. It was one of those rare cases where a good speech obtains for a man a distinguished position. In indorsing the platform Dr. Tucker of Alameda, who was not indorsed by his own delegation, made a very timid address, and Judge Sterns of Santa Barbara, who is a phenomenally homely man, made a poor speech. When Judge Conklin's turn came he walked up the aisle with a gallant, military bearing, escorted by his colleague, Seth G. Sneden, and on taking the platform made a brief, but concise and eloquent speech, addressing himself closely to the platform, and although scarcely a score of men in the convention were acquainted with him, he had made an unmistakable agreeable impression, which the subsequent ballot attested. He was liberally voted for down to Mono, which was the first county to cast its solid vote for him. Afterward many counties voted solidly for him, and at the end of the ballot there was a stampede in his favor in the way of changing votes and he was finally made the unanimous choice of the convention. So much for a good little talk at the right time. On the other hand Surveyor General Shanklin fairly talked himself out of a nomination. He has been an excellent officer—the best in that position for many years; but he was very unfortunate in his remarks, intimating that no one could properly perform the duties of the office except himself, and proposing to add three resolutions to the platform. Chairman Booth interrupted him here, and the convention nominated his competitor, Wm. Minto.

Naming a Mine After His Girl.

A young and enthusiastic prospector returned to this city yesterday from Wood River. looking bronze and weather-beaten. He hadn't proceeded far on his way home before meeting his sweetheart going to the depot to meet him.

"Why, George, you look like an old smoked ham," were the endearing words that greeted him.

George had been living on ham for the past two months, and when his girl referred to that article he didn't know but there was something hoggish-looking about him.

"Nothing mean or hoggish about me, Jane; bet your bangs on that. Found a mine up in Wood River and named it Jane, after you."

"What are you giving me, dear George? What do you take me for?"

"Fact, Jane; named after you."

"How jealous that'll make the other girls in the Fifteenth Ward. Won't their bangs curl down on their for'ard? Won't the green-eyed monster rankle in their bosarums, though? Oh! you're so nise, dear George."

And Jane laughed all over, and insisted upon carrying his blankets and the grip-sack.

"That's all right, Jane; carry this over-coat too."

"How did you come to name the mine after me, you too-too-tootsy Georgie?"

"Because it didn't amount to anything. Nothing in it, Jane."

When the grip-sack came down on his head George thought a snow-slide had struck him, and he swears he will never name another mine after a Salt Lake girl.—Tribune.

A TRAVELER in South Africa witnessed not long since a singular combat. Musing one morning, with his eyes on the ground, he noticed a caterpillar crawling along at a rapid pace. Pursuing him was a host of small ants. Being quicker in their movements, the ants would catch up with the caterpillar, and one would mount his back and bite him. Pausing, the caterpillar would turn his head, and bite and kill his tormentor. After slaughtering a dozen or more of his persecutors, the caterpillar showed signs of fatigue. The ants made a combined attack. Betaking himself to a stalk of grass, the caterpillar climbed up tail first, followed by the ants. As soon as one approached he seized it in his jaw and threw it off the stalk. The ants, seeing that the caterpillar held too strong a position for them to overcome, resorted to strategy. They began sawing through the grass stalk. In a few minutes the stalk fell. He was killed at once, and the victims marched off in triumph, leaving the foe's body on the field.

A RIVAL FOR SUGAR.—A a recent meeting of the German Technical Society, Dr. Constantine Fahlberg read an interesting paper describing a scientific research which had resulted in his discovery of a new body, possessing to an eminent degree the property of sweetness. The new substance would be called, in chemical language, "anhydro-sulphaminbenzoic acid." It is a white crystalline substance, very soluble in water, and has the property of sweetness to such an eminent degree that the merest trace of the alocoholic solution in water suffices to impart a distinctly sweet taste to it. The discoverer estimates that it has from twenty to thirty times the sweetness of cane sugar. The new substance may come in time to have important technical uses.

THE peaceful conquest of Mexico, "in a business sense," is not being accomplished by merchants of the United States, alone, by means of the railway facilities now afforded them in that Republic. Enterprising exporters and others are fairly anticipating the completion of the lines of American railways building in Mexico, and are investing heavily in printers' ink. The New Orleans journals are regularly getting out editions for Mexico, printed in Spanish, advertisements and all. And now comes the Monterey (Mex.) Revista, containing the "cards" of leading houses in the United States, "done in the purest Castilian." The American commercial Alexander will not have to "cry for new worlds to conquer" for many years to come.

Two or three reliable facts illustrate the force and extent of the Grinnell (Iowa) tornado. The top of a piano that was in the third story of the college building which was blown down was found in Belle Plain, sixty miles northeast, and out of the real path of the storm. Some notes belonging to Mrs. Day—a sister of Hon. J. B. Grinnell—and some sermons of her husband, now dead, were found twenty-four miles southeast of Grinnell in an untorn condition. They were in a bureau or chest in her house. The house was blown flat, the chest carried off, and now these papers are found thus far away, carried through the air that distance and landed in good condition.

For a time at least the traditional policy of Russia seems to be reversed. For the present the policy of the Empire is declared to be peace. The dream of conquest both southward and eastward seems to be laid aside for the time being. The internal disorders which have afflicted the Empire are an all-sufficient cause for this change of policy. To preserve this throne and his life gives the Czar full occupation for his leisure time, while the great expenses of her military operations during the past few years have seriously impaired her finances. For some years, therefore, Russia may not be considered as one of the disturbing elements in the European family of nations.

THE Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company has sold to an English syndicate 1,000,000 acres of land at $4 50 per acre.

THE total indebtedness of the United States on August 1, 1882, was $1,905,225,546.

Some News in Brief.

At Salt Lake the Utah Commisioners adopted rules for the registration of voters in the November election for Delegates to Congress. Supervisors of regiptration are to be appointed for each county, and the lists now in the hands of the County Clerks will be taken, and each person whose name appears on the list will have to take an ironclad oath that he is not in polygamous relations. Failing to do this, his name is stricken off the register. They have power, also, to strike the names of polygamists off arbitrarily.

Acting Treasurer Govern has sent instructions for the transfer to the Mint at Philadelphia, for re-coinage, of all uncurrent subsidiary silver held at different depositories throughout the country. There are about 500,000 of these coins at the various offices, including three-cent, five-cent and twenty-five cent silver pieces, and other uncurrent silver.

Secretary Folger has decided to issue a call for bonds. It will embrace all continued sixes remaining uncalled and which have not been surrendered for new threes. It is estimated that there are about $4,000,000 of this class.

Commissioner of Pensions Dudley has given Dr. Mary Walker a clerkship in his bureau without the conditions imposed by a former Secretary of the Treasury, that she should don the regulation attire of women.

Dick Little, who gave information against the James gang, to which he at one time belonged, has been arrested for complicity in the robbery of a United States Paymaster at Mussel Shoals, Ala., in March, 1881.

Professor Walcott has shipped over two tons of fossils from Eureka, Nev., to Washington, which he and his party have collected in White Pine County. He says they comprise over 400 different species.

The Idaho Telephone Company expect to have the Wood River towns connected by telephone lines this Fall, and will also run a line along the Wood River branch of the Oregon Short Line.

Major Sumner, of the Fifth United States cavalry, stationed at Fort Robinson, Neb,, advises the War Department to send out additional troops to overawe the Sioux.

Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, recommends that the streets of that city be narrowed, in order to save paving expenses and to lessen the cost of keeping them in repair.

Among the incidents of the recent fire at Red Bluff, the People's Cause notices that five saloons were burned, and yet the price of gin remains the same.

In Omaha the citizens gave a banquet to Gen. George Cook. late in command of the Department of the Platte, prior to his departure for Arizona.

It is denied in the Treasury Department at Washinton that there are irregularities in the accounts of the Superintendent of the Carson Mint.

Lord Dufferin, the British Ambassador, has promised that pilgrims to Mecca will be permitted to traverse the Suez canal as usual.

Donner Lake is lower at the present time than it has been known for years. Not a particle of water now flows out at the outlet.

The Union Pacific Railroad Co. has abolished the office of General Superintendent, and divided the track into general divisions.

The British Association for the Advancement of Science has decided to meet at Southport in 1883, and at Montreal, Canada, in 1884.

General Sherman will ask to be placed on the retired list in November, 1883. He would be compulsorily retired in 1884.

The Atlantic and Pacific railroad track is completed to Pitman valley, A. T., 80 miles from Prescott.

The bond indebtedness of the Sutro Tunnel company is $1,000,000, and there are 1,000,000 shares out.

At a city in Hungary over 100 women are on trial for poisoning their husbands.

METALLIC CITY, near Cendelaria, boasts of an unique house. Its walls are made of empty candle boxes filled with sand and piled on each other. The outside has been painted a brick color, and striped so that the structure looks as though it was made of bricks. The mantlepiece is made entirely of human bones taken from some medical college, each corner being ornamented with the skulls of men who died in Pioche with their boots on. On this ghastly structure rests a picture of the "living skeleton," the man who was in Barnum's collection of curiosities. The frames around this picture is composed of the teeth of coyotes. There are other equally odd pieces of furniture and bric-a-brac in this house. The occupant is an old man who is said to have been nine times bitterly disappointed in love. What is quite strange, he has four brothers, each one of whom have had their lives blighted by cruel young ladies.—Free Press.

THERE is a proposition before the French Government to make a navigable river of the Seine from Paris to Havre. Steamers of light draught now ply the river from Havre to Rouen, making the trip in seven hours. Above Rouen there is little navigation, but it is proposed to dredge the channel of the river deep enough for ocean steamers to Poissy. At this point the bottom of the river will be fifty feet below its present level. From Poissy a series of locks will bring vessels up to the walls of Paris. The cost of the work is estimated at $50,000,000.

LABOR strikers all through the land are succumbing to capital. There is only one period when labor can dictate, and that is when the demand is greater than the supply. That brings employers of labor into competition with each other, and a rise in the rates of wages is invitable. When the reverse is the case, laborers come into competition, and down go the rates. The law is unalterable, and it was proven so in the recent contest in the East.

A Quartz Mill and Wind Mill.

Nearly twenty years ago, when each and all of the thousand and one quartz veins in the surrounding mountains were supposed to be undeveloped Comstocks, what was known as the Humboldt Canal Company was organized in San Francisco to divert the waters of the crooked and sluggish Humboldt river from the natural channel into a canal, which was to convey them from Golconda down the valley about fifty miles to Mill City, where they were to be utilized in running quartz mills. Over thirty miles of the canal bed was excavated, and water was conveyed by it at one time to this place; but the mines were not developed as rapidly as the promoters of the canal enterprise anticipated, and the thirsty soil absorbed all the water which the dry atmosphere did not evaporate, and it was demonstrated that for months in the Summer season, if all the water in the river was turned into the canal at its head, not a bucketful would reach its mouth, and Mill City remained in name only, a city of mills. Now, however, two mills are to be built at the proposed terminus of the canal. One is a five-stamp quartz mill, which Gould & O'Donnell are erecting, and the other is a turbine wind mill, which is being built by Peter Woolcock, proprietor of the Mill City hotel. The quartz mill will be located near the foundry, and there will be an O'Hara roasting furnace attached to it for the treatment of base and rebellious ores. The foundation is now being laid, and the lumber for the superstructure is arriving. The wind mill will be an iron turbine, capable of pumping several thousand gallons of water daily. These mills will give the place a start, and its name will no longer be a misnomer.—Silver State.

YESTERDAY a block of coal, four feet wide, four feet high and ten feet long, weighing 12,900 pounds, was taken West on a flat car, on the way to the Denver Exposition, where it is to be exhibited. It was taken from a coal mine in Utah owned by the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company, who are now building a road from Salt Lake East, to intersect their line to the Rio Grande. This company is at war with the Union Pacific, and rather than patronize or accept a favor from that road, they send the coal, which was mined within a few hundred miles of Denver, north on the Utah Central to Ogden; thence west, on the Central Pacific, to Lathrop, California; thence south, to Yuma and east to New Mexico, on the Southern Pacific; and thence north on their own road to Denver.

A COLORADO correspondent of an Iowa paper is responsible for the following: "Bill Nuckells, a prospector, fell down a prospect shaft forty feet deep, right into a nest of black snakes. Most men would have died of fright, but Nuckells was not that sort of a man. He tied several snakes together and started them up the side of the prospect shaft, tying a fresh snake as fast as the rest went up. Pretty soon the head snake got over the edge and started down hill. Nuckells kept tying on fresh reptiles until he had used up a couple of hundred—every snake there was in the shaft. By this time the crowd of snakes on the outside was strong enough to pull him out, and he soon reached Mead's ranch, safe and sound.

The Cost of Milling Ore.

This would seem to be a year in which more new ore reducing machinery has and is being brought out, than during any previous one. This State has produced one or two apparatuses, notably that of Kinkead, of Reno, which will be more and more brought to notice as the machines get into general use. The Pinal Drill of Arizona has the following in regard to milling ores and reduction machinery. A great many changes have taken place within the past four years, but none so notable, perhaps as that of milling ore. The fact of having the free gold ore treated in a twenty-stamp mill during the year 1877 was $20 per ton. In 1878 it was reduced to $6 per ton. In 1879 it was reduced to $4 per ton, and at the present time it is in some districts only $1.-25 to $1.00. At this reduced figure, by using the desired economy, there is a profit of about thirty-five cents, and with modern attachments the profits will be something like fifty-five cents per ton on the lowest grade of ore worked. From the above figures it appears that the milling is the most expensive operation connected with the low grade of ores, but it is mainly due to the cost of transportation and the manner of handling the ores, providing all things are equal. The stamp may yet be considered but little beyond its infancy, as at present are all processes connected with the reduction of ore. It is but twenty years since this country began to produce silver on a large scale, and the problem of extracting that ore at a reasonable price when found in conjunction with base and rebellious metals, has yet to be solved. It is a problem which involves thousands of millions of dollars. Hundreds of minds are constantly working on it, and its solution is only a matter of time. When that time comes, fresh life will be infused into districts which now lie idle, and great cities will spring up in deserts which are now abandoned to the vulture and coyote.

Laramie's New Postmaster.

Acting Postmaster General Hatton has received the following characteristic letter of acceptance from Bill Nye, of the Boomerang, recently appointed Postmaster of Laramie:

LARAMIE CITY, WYO., Aug. 29.

MY DEAR GENERAL: I have received the news by telegraph of my nomination and confirmation as Postmaster at Laramie, and wish to extend my thanks for the same. I have ordered an entirely new set of boxes and Postoffice outfit, including new corrugated cuspadors, for the use of the female clerks. I look upon the appointment of myself as a triumph of eternal truth over error and wrong. It is one of the epochs, as I may say, in the nation's onward march towards political purity and perfection. I don't know when I have noticed any stride in the affairs of State which so thoroughly impressed me with its wisdom. Now that we are co-workers in the same department, I trust that you will not feel shy or backward in consulting me at any time relative to matters concerning Postoffice Department affairs. Be perfectly frank with me, and feel perfectly free to just bring anything of that kind right to me. Do not feel reluctant because I may appear at times cold and reserved. Perhaps you think I do not know the difference between a general delivery window and a three-em quad, but this is a mistake. My general information is far beyond those of my years. With profoundest regard, I remain sincerely yours,

BILL NYE, P. M.

THE extent to which the manufacture of locomotives is now carried on in the United States may be gathered from the figures given below, which we take from Mr. Drummond's report: There are now 15 locomotive works in the United States, with a capacity of from 8 to 50 engines per month. Add to this 300 built by railway companies, and we have at least 3,000 new engines constructed during the year, besides those rebuilt. At the commencement of last year there were, speaking roughly, 18,000 locomotives running on the 94,000 miles of railway in the Union, or an average of about one engine to every five miles. If, as is probable, the new railway construction this year reaches 10,000 miles, this average would call for 2,000 new engines. The life of a locomotive is estimated by manufacturers to average from 15 to 20 years. The latter figure is is probably more nearly correct, as the improved condition of American railways has prolonged the existance of engines considerably. At this rate about 1,000 new engines per year would be required to keep good the reduction by decay. Adding this to the 2,000 presumably required this year for the increased mileage, we find that about 3,000 new engines will be demanded.

THERE is now a gap of a little more than 600 miles between the approaching ends of the Northern Pacific Railroad, which is being closed up at the rate of nearly four miles a day. There are 816 miles of completed road between St. Paul, Minn., and Forsyth, M. T., and 497 miles finished on the Pacific coast side, bringing that end of the line to Rock Island, M, T. On the first of this month a daily line of four-horse stages commenced running between the two ends of the line, and by October 1st the schedule passenger time between Chicago and Portland will be reduced to eight days, which is less than the present time between the two cities by way of San Francisco. A force of 8,000 men is employed in pushing forward the road, and the whole line is expected to be completed and in running order early in 1883.—Salt Lake Tribune.

A KITE measuring 250 square feet made of timber two inches by one-half inch, covered with manilla paper, has been amusing the citizens of Brockport, New York. It was kept under control by a rope 6000 feet long, and floated at a height of one mile. A team and pulley were required to haul it down.

JAMES E. PARKER.

IT will not do to conclude, says James Delevan, in a letter to the New York Record, that there are no veins whose trend is not northerly and southerly that do not prove that they extend downwards as far as those whose trends are northerly and southerly, and also retain their width or grow wide as they extend downwards, as well as richness. As a general thing the trend of fissure veins is northerly and southerly, and but comparatively few are easterly and westerly. It is true, also, that not all of the former contain sufficient of the precious metals to be worked at a profit, as well as many of the latter. The rule that fissures must run northerly and southerly and not easterly and westerly, to be valuable, may do in some localities but not in others. In Esmeralda County, Nevada, the course of the veins is easterly and westerly, and many of them have proved by actual working that they retain their richness to the depth of 1,000 feet or more.

OVER 230,000 telephones are in use in the United States, and 5,000 are added to the number every month. The fundamental features are the same as established by Gray, Bell and Edison. Lines are constantly lengthening. Most New England towns are now connected with one another, and the time is thought to be not very distant when New York will be able to talk directly to Chicago. The capital stock of the various telephone companies aggregates $30,000,000. Every telephone, it is thought, gives employment to one person. The first telephone company, known as the Gray and Barton Company, began operations in 1869. It had a capital of $2,000. From this sprang the Western Electric Company, with a capital of $150,000, which has since been increased to $1,000,000. It has manufactories at Boston, New York, Chicago, Indianapolis, Detroit, and Antwerp, in Belgium.

THE penitentiary at Snake Hill, Idaho Ter., is in a state of siege. Rival Wardens claim possession. Warden Meehan, who holds the fort, has closed the gates and no person can enter or leave. Warden Bowens has secured a warrant for the arrest of Meehan, but it cannot be served. A number of constables determined to effect an entrance and arrest Meehan and take possession by force, but one of them used a telephone to inform the men holding the penitentiary and the plan failed. When the gates were closed one of the prisoners, a mail carrier, was outside of the penitentiary and there he is still.

IF anyone thought that the Mormons would accept the situation in which the passage of the Edmunds bill put them, he can now undeceive himself. The Church of the Latter Day Saints will make a strong fight for the institution without which their religion has no charms. Such is their position as declared by their leaders in an address to the faithful which abounds in sickening cant and stale platitudes. "Many wives or none" is their shibboleth. It is plain that these defiant law-breakers must have the benefit of further legislation.

SOME time ago we called attention to the fact that owners of land could make no more profitable investment than that of planting black walnut trees. A late article in the New York Tribune states that large dealers in black walnut timber assert that the supply of the wood is rapidly diminishing, and indeed practically exhausted in several localities whence it has hitherto been chiefly obtained. No timber is of more general use, and will always bring a good price. Why do not our valley people plant forests of these trees? There is money in it.

THE Oakland Times, a thorough-going Republican paper, has the candor to say: "The pop-gun fusilade which a few papers have opened on Stoneman is not hurting him any, but is somewhat disgusting, and if it has any effect at all, it tends to help him. It is not necessary to go back very many years to find examples where such tactics placed men in office, instead of keeping them out."

THE quiet city of Des Moines, Iowa, has become so infested with garroters that the citizens talk of organizing a vigilance committee and making an example of the ruffians. There is nothing so effectual in dealing with gentry of this class as a lynching party; but the next best thing is a Judge who will sentence every one convicted to a term of twenty years.

EX-GOVERNOR SPRAGUE has been victorious by force of arms and process of law in maintaining his hold on Canonchet. It will evidently take a man of more force than Moulton, of the Beecher trial, to oust the old war Governor.

ANOTHER LOCAL HONOR.

The Senatorial Convention, to nominate a Democratic candidate for Joint State Senator for this District, met at Bakersfield on the 7th instant and concluded its labors by the nomination of Hon. Patrick Reddy. All the five Counties—Fresno, Tulare, Kern, Inyo and Mono—were represented, there being twenty-six delegates in all. Through the thirty-two ballots taken, the successful candidate, although leading, was opposed by M. K. Harris of Fresno and John Touhey of Tulare. The final ballot stood, after Mr. Harris had withdrawn, eighteen for Mr. Reddy to eight for Mr. Touhey.

Papers throughout the District concede the eminent ability of the nominee, while the Democratic papers are strong in their indorsement.

We believe that the Democrats of Fresno and Tulare, jointly, are about 600 in the majority. In Kern the parties are nearly even, with chances in favor of any popular candidate receiving the greatest number of votes regardless of party. The same is true of this County, although combined with Mono the Republicans have from 75 to 100 majority. In our opinion, Mr. Reddy will much more than overcome this here, and make equal headway in Kern and Tulare as against the Republican nominee, whoever he may be. We feel assured that no fair or reasonable man can doubt the almost certainty of Mr. Reddy's election.

Hon. P. Reddy is the peer of any lawyer in California. He is pronounced in his opinions, and fearless in uttering them. He is keen and ready in debate, a tireless and indomitable worker in any cause in which he may engage, whether for a client or a constituency. His record in the Constitutional Convention is indeed enviable. If ever the term "self-made man" was properly applied, it belongs to him. He began the practice of law in 1862, in the obscure mining camp of Montgomery, in Mono. From there he moved here, and without previous study, rapidly arose to prominence in criminal and mining law, till he has become one of the leading practitioners before the Supreme Court of the State. Of his career here and in Mono, of his business enterprise and public spirit, there seems no occasion to speak—there being scarcely a man or woman in the two Counties but who know him or of him.

DURING the past year the Chronicle has at intervals urged the necessity of so amending the Constitution as to reduce the number of State offices. We aae glad to see that both the Republican and Democratic State Conventions have adopted a resolution for the calling of a Constitutional Convention to carry this proposed reform into effect.—Virginia Chronicle.

Nevada will find a Constitutional Convention a far more costly concern of itself than would suffice to run the State on its present basis for the next twenty years. California is heartily sick of her reform Constitution, at any rate.

DAVID R. ATCHISON was President of the United States for a day and a half. He was President of the Senate when the interval occurred between the end of Polk's administration and the inauguration of Taylor. He lives in Missouri, and is a very tall, straight and hearty old gentleman.

CAPTAIN BOYNTON offers to go over Niagara in a life-saving suit for the trifle of $5,000. The Virginia City Enterprise thinks the clerks in the civil service would willingly raise the money to see Hubbell make the trip.

IT is asserted that in spite of their natural reluctance fully three-fifths of the clerks in the Departments in Washington have paid their assessments "suggested" to them by the Hubbell "voluntary" circular.

TEXAS has very hard luck. Along the Rio Grande the towns have been scourged with yellow fever in its worst form. Now upon these troubles comes a great flood, doing a large amount of damage.

THE annual State horse races are in full blast at Sacramento. If the people didn't have to pay so extravagantly for it, even reading accounts of it would be an improvement on tiresome politics.

BIDWELL BAR, at one time a flourishing town, and where the Butte Record was started in 1853, now numbers, it is said, but thirty persons—men, women and children. At one time it contained several thousand inhabitants.

WE are told by statisticans that the decline in the value of land continues in England. A Yorkshire farm, for which $60,000 was refused a few years ago, has been sold for $35,000.

IT is announced that the Tariff Commission will not make a visit to this coast. It is an open question whether the coast will lose anything by their absence.

THE Greenbackers have nominated Thomas J. McQuiddy, of Mussel Slough noteriety, for Governor.

THE latest is that Wolesley has licked Arabi—killed hundreds and captured 3,000 prisoners.

Carp Breeding.

There are two carp ponds of small dimensions near Bakersfield, in each of which the plant was made last Spring. The fish are doing well and there are to be seen great numbers of young fish. It cannot be long before this market will be well supplied with this excellent fish. It would be well for every farmer who has half an acre of ground fitted for a pond, with a certain supply of water, to raise these fish for the household alone, as they raise their fowls.

The Foothill Tidings tells of Rev. J. W. Brier, who is breeding carp some three miles from Grass Valley. He finds that 1,000 carp will live and grow finely upon what one hog will—in both cases from birth to two years old. At this age the carp would weigh 4,000 pounds, the average lot, while the average porker will weigh 250 pounds. At present prices for the two articles of food, the fish would bring $1,000, the hog $24.

The South Coast, published at San Luis Obispo, says that a Mr. McLellan, a resident of that County, recently caught 300 carp at one haul of a seine, in a small lake in that County, where only a little over two years ago ten were planted. Owing to a rent that was in the seine he thinks he did not secure more than half that were in the net. The average weight of the 300 was about one pound.

A recent foreign writer says: "Prince Christian assured my father that at Schleswig-Holstein the carp lakes are periodically formed by sowing the bottoms with rye grass and some other cereal, cutting it and afterwards turning in the water and fish, to the manifest advantage of the latter."

The good influence of this procedure has been recognized by old Gervase Markham, who, when speaking under the heading, "How to Make Carp Grow to an Extraordinary Bigness in a Pond," says: "Perceiving about the month of April that your pond begins to grow low in water, then, with an iron rake, rake off the sides of your pond where the water is falling away, then sow some hay seed and rake it well. By this means at the latter end of the Summer there will be a great growth of grass, which, when Winter comes, the pond being raised by rain to the top will overflow all that grass. Then the carp, having water to carry them to the feed, will fill themselves and in a short time become as fat as hogs that are kept up for that purpose."

The difference between the directions of the old sportsman and the German plan, as the reader will perceive, is very slight.—Kern Co. Gazette.

THROUGHOUT the universe are scatered myriads of star-systems, each appearing to the unaided eye as a single point—so great is the distance from us—but each consisting of two or more great blazing suns widely separated but revolving about a common center of gravity, and doubtless attended by planets traversing bewilderingly complicated orbits. Of the double stars many systems have components of different colors, the colors being complementary. This peculiar feature must produce a striking effect upon the planetary attendants of the colored suns. "What," says Mr. W. Dofrck in a recent paper on double stars, "must be the nature of those worlds illuminated by two different suns, one yellow and another purple? Now rises the one and all is clothed in yellow, now the other, and illuminated from complementary sources, every object appears in natural color. Then sets the yellow sun and what must be the diversity of the effects as it approaches the horizon. And behold! Nature puts on a purple mantle. Then also that sun sets and in the darkness of night, though there is seldom night where there are two suns, the starry heavens are seen there much the same as here, except, perhaps, for moons and reflecting light from the differently colored suns. But stars that seem large to us are hardly visible there, while our sun is perceived in the telescopes of the beings that inhabit those strange globes as only a faint star, and metaphysicians there prove from a priori consideration that no life could bask in the feeble glare of a single sun—how all would famish but for the opposite effects of the two suns. And no doubt life there is heightened, seeing how glorious is the creation on this poor orb that is kept alive but by one sun."

AT Washington, last Monday morning, the Star Route jury entered the Court-room and through their foreman reported to the Court that they had reached a conclusion as to four of the defendants, but stood as on Saturday as to the others, being unable to agree as to them. The Court declined to receive the verdict and took a recess until 2 o'clock P. M. At five minutes past 2 o'clock the jury entered and through the foreman reported that they were unable to agree. The Court stated that it had come to the conclusion to accept the partial verdict. The roll of defendants was called and all answered. The jury then rendered a verdict of acquittal as to Turner and Peck, and guilty as to Miner and Rerdell; as to the others they were unable to agree. One of the jurors says that on a trial ballot the vote as to Brady was ten for conviction and two for acquittal; vote as to S. W. Dorsey was nine for conviction and three for acquittal; vote as to J. W. Dorsey was ten for conviction and two for acquittal. On the objection of Merrick that Peck had not been arraigned and consequently could not be included in the verdict, the foreman repeated all the names except Peck's. The jury was discharged, and Hinckle and Williams, for Miner and Rerdel, respectively, moved for the arrest of judgment and for a new trial.

THE Deseret News complains that some travelers spend but a few days in Utah, and yet go home and write a lot volume about Utah and the Mormons. That's nothing. They shoot through this State in a week, and the results a series of books treating of our whole 700 miles of sea-coast and all our fifty-two counties.—Record Union.

THE Central Pacific has reduced the rates from the West on the class of goods that heretofore has paid 232½ cents to 154¾, and that of 192 to 144¾. The articles affected are different kinds of furniture, coal oil, stoves, stove-furniture, agricultural implements, etc.

THE earthquake which visited the Isthmus of Panama last week was one of great severity and did great damage. A few weeks ago we reviewed an article in the International Review on the subject of Interoceanic Canals. The article was written by an experienced engineer of this city, Col. G. Butler Griffin, who resided for many years in South America. In that article the idea was advanced that no canal structure which could be built through the Isthmus of Panama would be proof against the earthquakes that so frequently visit that region. He showed that locks would have to be constructed to equalize the difference between the tides of the two oceans, and that the masonry of these structures would be dontinually exposed to disturbance and fissures by earthquakes, rendering them not only useless but opening the whole adjacent country to sudden overflow. Such an earthquake as visited the Isthmus Thursday would have destroyed the canal had it been built. A shock that would sink the track of the railroad and throw a great stone warehouse into ruins, would open the sides of the canal at various points and irreparably damage any system of locks that could be devised. Col. Griffin has pointed out the danger, and we doubt whether any engineering skill can guard against it.—Los Angeles Express.

THE FUTURE VALUE OF COPPER.—Soon we will not allow telegraph wires to be strung through our streets and over our buildings to the detriment of life and property. And when the time comes that telegraph wires must go under the ground it will not pay to use any other metal than copper, or steel copper-coated. Even now, between our populous towns and cities, it is a question whether it would not be cheaper, in the long run, to string our telegraph poles with copper wires, or steel wires copper-plated, owing to their great durability and connectivity, just as railroads have found it more economical to use steel rails rather than iron. For conducting electricity for lighting, heating and power purposes, copper wire must be used, and of considerable weight and thickness. It is said that Edison estimates that he alone will require 2,000,000 pounds of copper in 1882. There are many other similar companies at work, not only in this country, but all over the civilized globe. The same activity prevails wherever there are energetic and civilized nations. As no man could foresee the extraordinary demand for iron that would grow out of the invention of the steam engine, so no man living can form a correct estimate of the demand for copper for the coming time, that will be created by this more modern invention of the dynamotor.—Mining Gazette.

A BLARSTED LIE NAILED.—It won't do for these war correspondents to be too bold in their assertions. We have still science and mathematics to protect us. A shell fired by the Egyptians is said by an official report to have passed a few feet over Sir Garnet Wolsley's head, and then takes off the leg of a horse only ten yards behind him. Now let us figure on this for a moment. Allowing that the head of the General on horseback was nine feet from the ground, that the shell passed three feet higher and that the horse's leg was struck two feet from the ground, the trajectory of the shell would show a fall of ten feet in a flight of thirty feet. Calculating the speed of the shell from these data, it will be found that it required five-eights of a second to travel thirty feet, a velocity insufficient to take off the horse's leg. We have nothing further to say; only we don't want the public to be deceived by such extavagant yarns. The Miner, as a truthful paper, won't stand it.—Bodie Miner.

THE investigation into the tangled afairs of the Veteran's Home seems to be seriously crippled at the outset. An investigating committee and a financial expert were appointed at the meeting hed a week ago. The members of the committee appear to have shifted all their responsibility upon the shoulders of the expert, and the expert is carrying on his investigations of the books atthe Harbor Commissioner's office, in the rooms of Mr. Blanding, lately deposed from the charge of this trust fund. This may be a direct and honest way to straighten out the accounts and get at the truth of the blunders in the recent management, but the public will be loth to look at it in this light. The matter must be settled, and any attempt to cover up carelessness or fraud will be sure to call down heavy censure on the head of the man who is guilty of it.—S. F. Chronicle.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 16.....1882

RECOVERING.—Mr. J. L. Wood, who, as is well known, has been suffering from paralysis, is now getting better and seems to be slowly recovering the power to move the limbs of his left side. He has been taken from his house to A, Parker's residence, where he is being cared for by Mrs. Johnson. A somewhat strange incident has occurred in the case worth mention, considering the talk it has occasioned. For a time it required two men to attend him; one was dismissed and Mr. Jas. Sharpe left in charge, acting under the general direction of A. Parker and Wm. Matlack. Mr. Sharpe, on the 29th of last month, he now says, in the work of cleaning up the the place took hold of a cloth sticking out of a small box. Some money fell upon the floor, and in answer to an inquiry Mr. Woods said about $100 was there—a statement he corrected very soon by saying there might be $50 more. On counting it Mr. Sharpe found exactly $845 gold. He at once reported the find to Messrs. Parker and Matlack. It seems they decided to keep the matter quiet until after the benefit ball, which occurred on the 8th of the month following. The next day after the benefit Mr. Sharpe related the circumstance to a merchant in town, when the news spread. It was of course a welcome fact for the friends of the old man Woods to hear, however eccentric or miserly he may have been. The $110 realized by the ball was distributed by the committee, $70 to the discharged nurse and $40 to the physician. This sum was raised not only from those who attended and enjoyed the ball, but from many who bought tickets out of pure charity. THE INDEPENDENT made no charge for work and advertising amounting to $20; the committee spent their time in writing letters, their influence and their own money to make it a financial success. Now they are bitter, and we think justly so, at the parties who kept this discovery a dead secret so long. They say that they would not have solicited the sale of tickets outside of ball-goers, and would have paid all legitimate bills, before applying the proceeds. When said proceeds were collected and applied, then Sharpe let the cat wholly out of the bag and says that Parker accused him of "tattling." We give the matter as we hear it thus far. When asked about it yesterday, Mr. Parker related the fact of the finding of the money; that Jimmy Sharpe promptly reported it. "There was nothing about it; on account of the coming ball we concluded to say nothing about it." He then stated that $12 had been found with Mr. Woods before, which with $23 he had made for him peddling stuff from the old man's garden, had been devoted to his interest; that he had washed his clothes and carried him his meals and other matters which everyone knows to be true. Mr. Parker also said that $39 had been used out of the purse in paying off Sharpe; that the balance of it was intact, and that he proposed keeping a strict account of every cent of it. He is satisfied that Mr. Woods will never be able to resume work, and, like everyone else, is glad of the fact that he had a little money when no one supposed he was possessed of a dollar.

DARWIN INCIDENTS.—"Lately," says a reliable correspondent at Darwin, "Several of the 'bon-tons' were having a fine chicken supper at the hotel. One was burning a little brandy in a saucer, at the same time giving a toast. The waitress, who is a French lady lately from Cork, observed the fire and made several unsuccessful attempts to 'slash' it out with a dish-rag. Failing to extinguish the flames she let several whoops thrt would turn a Commanche Indian pale. Of course this brought out the fire brigade; the first to arrive being Jack Gunn with his big horn, lately presented to him by the Bodie Department. After quiet was restored, other than a few slight bruises, nobody was found to be hurt. Great praise is certainly due to Jack (or his horn) for his or its timely arrival, thus undoubtedly preventing a serious conflagration." Another interesting episode was a hotly contested personal encounter between a couple of well known operators of the lower section, named respectively Sullivan and Tug Wilson. They "fit and fit" beautifully, mutually letting up now and then to allow the most winded one to recover. They came out with mugs considerably banged up, both claiming to have got licked.

TROUBLE IN HIGH LIFE.—The distinguished couple recently wedded at Panamint don't seem to find the matrimonial sea any more smooth than might be expected. Many old lovers are accused of interfering with their domestic felicity, a distinguished and handsome ex-Judge being among the number. At all events, last week there occurred a lively row in front of the Company's store, in which the couple made things fly, "tumblers, chairs, rocks and clubs," and Mrs. ——— fell early tn the fight, very much bruised and out of wind"—says our correspondent. We believe the sequel to this occurred in Darwin, where the frail but talented bride received an ugly cut across the head and sundry bruises at the hands of some lover who objected to her cutting a bran new side-saddle—a present to her—all to pieces.

FAREWELL SERMON. — At the new M. E. Church, Bishop Creek, Rev. F. M. Willis will hold his last day's services on Sunday, the 24th instant. Preaching at 11 o'clock A. M. and 7:30 P. M. On the following morning Mr. Willis and family will start for the Annual Conference at Reno, Nevada. During their religious work in the valley Mr. Willis, his talented helpmeet and estimable family have won the love and esteem of church-goers and the best respect of everybody. The good-will of our people goes with them.

HURT.—Mr. J. T. Thompson is in town, suffering with a badly damaged head. A few weeks ago, while on a fishing excursion on Kern River he undertook to shorten his route by passing around a steep cliff of rocks. He was burdened with a goodly string of fish, which he was endeavoring to get to some of the party coming in to Lone Pine. In crawling around the sharp cliff of lava rocks one which he had caught hold of gave way, throwing him head first down about thirty feet and rolling him some distance further. It was almost miraculous that he was not killed outright. After recovering consciousness he found himself covered with blood flowing from his head, mouth and nose, his body aching from hurts all over. He hardly knows how he got to camp, but once there he was fixed up the best possible by Mrs. A. C. Harvey. His trip over to Lone Pine a day or two after was the most trying ordeal of all. That was some three weeks ago, and he is far from being well yet, though his many friends will be glad to hear the fact that he is improving.

THE DELEGATES-ELECT.—Following are the names of the delegations to the coming Democratic County Convention, to be held two weeks from to-day: Bishop Creek—Chas. Hollenbeck, P. W. Forbes, H. H. Howell, J. L. Bourland, J. W. Mahoney, Barney Peeler, W. G. Zimmerman, W. B. Hutchings. Big Pine—Peter Laird, Richard Hessian, W. A. Baker, John Mullane. Independence—S. P. Moffatt, Thos. Webb, Geo. Bartshe, Wm. J. Lake, John Alexander. George's Creek—John Shepherd. Lone Pine—J. R. Hughes, C. Meysan, J. G. Dodge. Darwin—J. J. Gunn, John Eddy, J. A. McKenzie. Lookout—Frank Fitzgerald. Panamint—Harry Carbury. Olancha—Ed. Walker. Deep Springs—H. C. Wright. Round Valley, Cerro Gordo and Fish Springs have not yet reported.

AT HOME.—Saturday evening last Judge A. R. Conklin and wife reached home. The Judge received the heartiest congratulations of his many friends here. He at once set at work on his accumulated law business, and has been busy ever since. He intends a trip to Bodie, where, we learn from the papers, the Republicans are making elaborate preparations for his reception....Hon. John A. Hannah, Superior Judge, came in by the Northern route last Wednesday, after several month's absence. He has been holding Court nearly every day. Legal matters will now run with wonted facility and everybody is glad of his return, especially as he is in much better health than for a long time past.

THE MONTEZUMA.—Mr. S. D. Woodhull returned from Big Pine last Wednesday. With Supt. Griswold he selected a site for the new furnace. It is about a mile and a half above the mine, near Slippery Rock spring. The grade from below the mine to the furnace site is nearly level, with little or no expense on road account. The spring runs two full miners' inches of good water. Mr. W. says the mine looks like a small mountain of ore. The furnace at Darwin has been taken down for shipment, and the teams are loading now. Mr. Griswold has let contracts for coal, wood and lumber already, and the whole outlook is immensely favorable.

PANAMINT.—Through breakage of freight wagons and accidents and delays to the pack train, the new castings and machinery for the Inyo Con. Co's big mill at Surprise Cañon were delayed, and the repairs were not completed until the 10th. The mill was to start up the following day, in perfect shape. The Company has expended nearly $5,000 in this work, and has now as complete reduction works as can be found in the State. The mines have developed so well that, with the 500 tons of ore now out, Supt. Pheby thinks he can run over 1,000 tons—the best ever made in the camp.

DISCHARGED.—On Thursday last the Superior Court, on a writ of habeas corpus, discharged ——— Reinhart from custody, on the ground of lack of evidence to commit him on the charge, and for informalities in the commitment and lack of necessary papers. Reinhart is the man who, through the Justice's kindness at Bishop Creek, was sent to jail(?) to answer a charge of felony, in having stolen an Indian's horse—on Indian testimony. However, he was not wanted at Bishop Creek on other counts, and for the last two months or so has had a "soft thing" on the County.

THE '78.—Such is the name of one of the finest looking mines we have seen in the County for years. It is situated on the east side of Cottonwood Creek, Deep Springs District, and belongs to Berry, Greenly and Broder—being actively developed by the last-named gentleman. Mr. Woodhull yesterday made an assay of a sample of the gold ore, which resulted: Gold $325, and silver $10 per ton. Greenly and Scott propose putting up a 5-stamp mill of their own, to work free ores from this mine, the Gold Coin and others in the immediate vicinity.

WHO WAS IT?—Wonder if the following from the Bodie Miner of the 12th refers to our Jimmy Graham, who used to live here? The last heard of him he was up in that country somewhere: "James Graham, while riding on horseback near Clinton on Sunday evening, by some means, the particulars of which we did not learn, was violently thrown from his horse. Mr. Graham was taken into the camp and properly cared for, but it was discovered that he had suffered internal injuries which may prove fatal."

THE SIXTEENTH.—The annual Mexican celebration commenced at Lone Pine yesterday, the exercises and fun continuing over till Monday. To-day the national salutes will be fired, with a grand free ball to transpire this evening. THE INDEPENDENT man hoped for the pleasure of attending, but finds it impracticable.

An Important and Proper Manifesto.

BISHOP CREEK, Sept. 14th, 1882.

TO THE EDITOR: The citizens of Bishop Creek and vicinity after witnessing for so long a time the persistant determination of many reckless parties to violate law and decency in the traffic of liquor to Indians and common drunkards, and recognizing the futile efforts so far to enforce the law against such parties, have formed themselves into a protective union, whereby each and every member binds himself by mutual pledge to use every vigilance to secure evidence against guilty parties and by their mutual co-operation, morally and financially, prosecute such parties to the full extent of the law. To which end they stand one and all determined; because, the peace, safety, prosperity and welfare of the Indian demands it. To this end we ask all law abiding citizens of this County to join us with their moral and financial influence, and we feel that before long law and order can and will prevail as the result of the efforts put forth by a determined law abiding community.

COMMITTEE.

Bad News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10, 1882.

INYO INDEPENDENT: A letter was received here the other day from the Postmaster at St. George, Utah, saying that two Indians had arrived at that place, carrying with them a small sack containing papers which seemed to be the property of George Jackson, lately of Cerro Gordo. Some of the papers showed that he had had correspondence with Mr. V. Hoff, consequently the Postmaster wrote to him notifying him of the circumstances. The supposition is that Jackson was murdered, or probably perished on the desert. I thought I would write to you, knowing he had a great many friends and acquaintances in your section. If I learn any more particulars I will inform you.

Yours truly, PETER TAYLOR.

A NEW REFRAIN.—The latest song in Bishop Creek, as sung by the leading politicians of both parties, is something like the following:

I want to be a delegate.
And in Convention stand—
A pledge upon my conscience—
A proxy in my hand.
There right before the Chairman,
So glorious and so tight,
I'll nominate the candidate
Who is sure to win the fight.

MOUNTAIN HARRY.—Henry Carbury, the well-known veteran, prospector and packer, arrived in town from Panamint a day or two since. He wears handsome medals won in the Mexican and Indian wars and the war of the rebellion, as well as the marks of a number of severe wounds. His three Government pensions, with the arrears due, will amount to a large sum of money. Two of these have been approved by the Pension Bureau and he is in a fair way to obtain another.

KEARSARGE DISTRICT.—The Pioneer mill boys have completed their contract for sinking the fifty-foot shaft in the Kearsarge tunnel, and we hear that the bottom shows a fine ledge of good ore. The battery of the mill has been put in order for crushing, and will begin operations on a lot of ore from Pat. Clinton's mine. If this pays as expected the mill will be kept hard at it indefinitely, working at intervals on the Kearsarge tailings.

FRUIT CANS.—The abundant yield of fruit in the orchards all over the valley, and its cheapness, has set many housewives at the work of "putting up" peaches, plums, pears, grapes and apples. Good tin cans, of the most improved pattern, which are good for use year after year, can be had from George Stevens, Bishop Creek, who makes and sells them at lower rates than they can possibly be imported for.

A ROW.—A little rumpus occurred the other day at Lone Pine, which might have proved more serious than it did. As reported here, "Potts" was sitting in a chair whittling, when a man named Murry, a big, stout fellow, stepped up and struck him on the side of the head. Potts sprang up and stuck Murry in the neck with the knife—a small, short-bladed affair—inflicting quite a severe but not dangerous cut.

REGISTRATION.—Only twenty days more remain in which voters can register and get their names upon the printed Great Register. The Deputies appointed at various points in the County by the Assessor and Clerk have been very lax in the work, and we are informed that the officers themselves propose making trips through the County on registration business.

FISH PLANTING.—Coming over the mountains the other day via Kearsarge Pass, Supervisor Robinson and Billy Lake brought up from one of the small tributaries of King's River about seventy small trout, which they planted in the two beautiful little lakes near the summit.

LOOKOUT.—Fitzgerald is working 10 men on the Modock and wants more. A rich body of ore was struck in the mine last Sunday. Quite a quantity has been taken out already with more in sight. A run will be made in a short time.

TO MEET.—The County Board of Educatian will meet at the School House next Tuesday and Wednesday, for the examination of applicants for teachers' certificates and the transaction of other business.

FOR SHERIFF.—The announcement will be noted this week of Sheriff James W. Smith's candidacy for re-election as Sheriff, subject to the Republican Conuty Convention.

NEW P. M.—Mr. H. H. Welch has been appointed Postmaster at Panamint, vice W. R. Johnson.

HARVESTING.—All the Piute mahalas are in the mountains gathering pine-nuts.

Mrs. Moran and "Old Grimes'" Son.

The preliminary examination of George Grimes, charged with grand lorceny, came up before Justice Thomas Parker on Monday. W. P. George and District Attorney Laird represented the prosecution, and P. W. Forbes and George M. Gill appeared for the defense. The facts, as near as can be ascertained, are briefly these: Some time in the early part of August, Mrs. E. J. Moran entered into a contract with George Grimes for the sale of her band of horses to him, agreeing to let him have them at $15 per head, with the understanding that Grimes was to gather them at his own expense. It appears that Grimes did not have the cash to pay for the horses, and so it was understood between them that Grimes should place certain personal property in the hands of J. L. Bourland (Mrs. Moran's agent), which was to stand as a pledge for the payment of the purchase money due Mrs. Moran. Grimes proceeded to gather the horses, and it was found that he had not deposited sufficient property in pledge with Bourland to cover the value of the horses he had gathered. Mrs. Moran then required of Grimes further security, and in response to her demand he obtained the endorsement of a responsible citizen of Bishop Creek to his (Grimes') note for the sum of $100, and placed the same in the hands of Bourland. Mrs. Moran, it seems, for some reason became unsatisfied with her bargain and desired more security from Grimes, which he refused to put up. Before the delivery of the note to Bourland, Mrs. Moran examined it and agreed with Grimes that if Bourland accepted the same as good security for the balance of $100 due her on the horses, that he (Grimes) could take the horses away at any time. These conditions were all fulfilled and, after the acceptance of said note by Bourland, Grimes proceeded to take the horses, which Mrs. Moran would not consent to. He took them, notwithstanding her objections, and hence the prosecution of Grimes for an offense against the peace and dignity of the people of the State of California, but more particularly against Mrs. Moran and her mustangs, for which it would seem she had already received her pay, or at any rate a sufficient amount of security to indemnify her against loss. The prosecution, however, set up some points in the affair differing somewhat from the above statement. On a warrant issued by Justice Daniels, of Benton, Grimes was taken there for examination on a charge of grand larceny, when the same attorneys named appeared. After two attempts the matter was thrown out of Court altogether. Mrs. Moran then made complaint in the Justice's Court here, and got out another warrant. Grimes was arrested by Sheriff Smith and brought in. After an examination extending over two days, Justice Parker bound the defendant over in the sum of $500 to answer before the Superior Court. Yesterday the case was brought up in the Superior Court on a writ of habeas corpus, and after argument by counsel the prisoner was discharged from custody on the ground of want of jurisdiction of the Justice's Court which committed him, inasmuch as the deposition upon which the complaint was based did not aver that the property had been brought into this County. This looks like a fine point, but as the whole fun originated in Mono it seems like it should have been settled there. On an order of the Justice's Court, Sheriff Smith directed the horses to be delivered to Mrs. Moran, upon her paying the expense of keeping. It may now be necessary for Mr. Grimes to replevy the property, sue for damages, etc., and if Mrs. Moran has been aggrieved she can get recourse in a civil suit for balance due. In the language of O'Trigger, "it's a very pretty quarrel as it now stands."

Church Entertainment.

A sociable, as a farewell benefit for Rev. F. M. Willis, will be given at the M. E. Church, Bishop Creek, Wednesday evening, September 20th. A short programme of vocal and instrumental music and recitations will be rendered. The ladies will have for sale baked beans, brown bread, chicken, clam chowder, coffee, cake and ice cream. All are invited to attend and participate. Admission free. Exercises will commence at 8 o'clock or shortly after that hour.

MRS. DR. HOWELL,
MRS. ALBERT WAYLAND,
Committee.

BALLOTS.—The several County Central Committees of Inyo and Mono are notified that THE INYO INDEPENDENT job office will be prepared to print any number wanted—from 1,000 to 20,000—of election ballots, prepared strictly according to law.

PASSING AWAY. — The pioneers of California are fast passing away. The funeral procession winds its way daily through some one of our mountain towns, bearing to their last resting place the remains of an "old timer." We use the term with respect. They were a brave and sturdy race of men, the generation which first upturned the sods above the placer gold, and who plowed the first furrows of civilization upon hillsides where now are the homestead, the school-house and the church. They have done their work. Coming generations will profit by their industry. The monuments they have reared to themselves have been often the crumbling pile of "tailings" destined to be leveled again by the hand of the farmer; and with the rude emblems of their toil disappears perhaps the last trace of many a rough but kindly hand. The years will be but few when the last pioneer shall be borne to his long home; when the romance of early California life will live only in fiction; and when the argonaut of the West shall have become a strong historic character in one of the world's strange episodes.—Tuolumne Democrat.

THE Indian Queen Mining and Milling Company of Nevada paid a dividend of two cents per share, or $2,500, at Boston, on the 19th. This makes a total of $325,000 paid to stockholders to date.

Assessment Work.

The United States Mining Laws provide that in order to hold a mining claim, a certain amount of work shall be done on it each year, or improvements made, otherwise it shall be forfeited, and be subject to relocation by any one who comes along after said forfeiture. The law is a good one, and prevents one or two people holding on to a whole lot of claims for an indefinite time. As to what are and what are not legitimate expenses to be charged under the head of assessment work, there seems to be some doubt. A man in Eureka wrote to the Secretary of the Interior on the subject, and received in reply a letter which explains itself, and which is to the following effect: "I am in receipt of your letter of the 8th inst., in which you ask if the expenses incurred in traveling to a mining camp, and locating and recording a mining claim at the time of discovery, can be properly charged to account of assessment work. In reply, I have to answer your question in the negative. The expenditures required by law must be paid upon the claim itself, or other improvements used or to be used for or in connection with the development of the claim."—Scientific Press.

THE burning of the California iron works in Placer County is a great loss, not only to the company, but to Oakland and the whole State. The smelting furnace cost $150,000, and the 3,000 bushels of charcoal is also a great loss. It may retard the opening of the Judson iron works here which depend upon the works at Hotaling for pig iron. Judson, Scott and Hotaling are men of wealth and great energy and may rebuild their works at once.—Oakland Tribune.

AT the election in November not only is a full State ticket to be elected, but six Members of Congress, two Supreme Judges and a full State Senate and Assembly. The Counties all over the State elect the entire list of county officers. It is probable that in no future year in California, unless there shall be another change in our organic law, will there be so many officers to be elected by the people as in the coming Fall.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1882

He Resumed.

An easy-going, honest-minded old country merchant in Iowa had been in trade for a dozen years when he took in his son as a partner. The boy had lived in Chicago for three or four years and was up to snuff. One day after the partnership had lasted six months the old man came down in the morning and found the doors of the store closed and a sign up to the effect that the firm had failed. He walked over to his son's house and asked:

"James, did you lock the store?"

"I did."

"What's the matter?"

"Why, we have failed and can only pay 15 cents on the dollar."

"James, continued the old man as he pulled down his hat, "I'm going down and open the door with a crow-bar and resume business at 100 cents on the dollar! For thirteen long years I have given 15 ounces to the pound and measured both fingers with every yard of cloth, and the idea of taking any further advantage of the Lord goes agin my conscience. Just consider that we have resumed and come along and scrape out them sugar barrels."—Wall-street Daily News.

WARSAW society is still excited over an exhibition of fantastic extravagance with which a number of Russian officers have recently entertained themselves. Adjutant General Count Pillar and Prince Mijanowicz, of the Hussars, conceived the idea of a Roman banquet in the style of Lucullus, and twenty-six other officers united in the novel diversion. The banquet hall was filled with roses and perfumed with all the odors of Arabia, and the feasters arrayed themselves in Roman togas and wore garlands of roses on their heads. Swallow's nests from India, wild African pigeons, and a ragout of nightingales were among the costly viands with which they were served. The banquet lasted eight hours and cost $21,000, or $750 apiece. This gastronomical extravagance has provoked bitter criticism in Warsaw, where it is denounced as a wicked imitation of the wanton luxury which preceded the fall of the Roman Empire, and where it has, at least, done nothing to make more agreeable the relations existing between the Polish population and the Russian garrison.

J. W. LAWTON tells a good story in which the late Thomas A. Weed was one of the actors. Not far from Mr. Lawton's residence in Jefferson County, Mo., many years ago lived a brother of Mr. Weed, a farmer, whose name was Daniel. The two clergymen, Edward and Thomas, were visiting him and one day the three were in a barn together, when the conversation turned upon the remuneration received for different kinds of labor. Said Daniel: "You can get ten or fifteen dollars for a talk of half an hour, while I must work a whole week for that amount." "Dan, if you will get up on that bench and talk ten minutes on any subject you choose, I'll give you five dollars," quickly responded Thomas. "And I will give you five more," said Edward. "Do you suppose I'm going to get up there and make a fool of myself?" returned Daniel. The speech was not made.

THE President's new flag is 14 feet long by 11 feet broad, the material of navy blue bunting. In the centre is the American coat-of-arms, the eagle holding in its mouth the pennant on which is inscribed "E Pluribus Unum." and perched on a shield, grasping in one claw a bunch of arrows and in the other a bunch of oak leaves. Above the coat-of-arms, arranged in a semicircle are thirteen white stars, representing the thirteen original States. If the design of this flag is adopted—which in all probability it will be—one will be placed on board of each United States vessel, and whenever the President goes aboard one of these vessels the President's flag will fly from the main-mast.

WALTER BLAKE, a young man from the country, was brutally beaten in a house of ill fame at Kansas City, Sept. 9th, by a pimp named Johnson. Blake left the place and soon returned with two six-shooters. Five shots were fired and soon five persons were lying dead. Johnson was among the victims. Blake made his escape and has not since been seen.

EXPEDITIONS to observe the transit of Venus will be sent out by the German government to Connecticut, South Carolina, Costa Rica, and the Straits of Magellan. Each party will comprise two astronomers, a student and an assistant.

"WHY do old maids multiply?" is a question asked and answered by a London letter. In London it may be all right, but in Petaluma they don't multiply at all. They daren't do it—society wouldn't stand it.—Petaluma Courier.

OVER 13,000,000 pounds of tobacco were used last year to sweeten America's breath.

A REMARKABLE scene was witnessed at the Faith-cure Camp Meeting at Old Orchard Beach, Me., a short time since. More than 600 invalids presented themselves to be cured of their diseases by prayer. One by one they were taken before Dr. Charles Cullis, the manager af the meeting. Dipping a finger of his right hand in oil, Dr. Cullis laid his hand on the head of each, uttering a fervent prayer. Some departed from the meeting declaring themselves cured of their diseases. For hours the procession filed along. All ages were represented, some tottering on crutches, some in invalid chairs, the dwarfed, the crippled and the blind.

THREE young men have discovered a gold mine sixty miles north of El Paso, in the Orega mountains. A piece of ore weighing two pounds contained $150 worth of precious metal. A shaft has been sunk seven feet to the vein which is three feet wide. A ton of such ore would be worth $100,000.

American Inventions in the Egyptian War.

Among the supplies for the British army in Egypt mention is made of driving apparatus, tubing, and pumps for two hundred "Abyssinian wells," by which name American drive wells are known in England, from the circumstance that they were first used by the British army in the Abyssinian war. It is estimated that two hundred wells of the capacity ordered will furnish from two to three million gallons of water a day, and make the army independent of the surface water sources of the country. Seeing that the fresh water canals are largely in the control of Arabi, the success of the invasion may be largely contingent upon the ability which drive wells give of obtaining water anywhere in the desert.

This, however, does not exhaust the indebtedness of the British forces to American inventors. The great war ships of England are supplied with the Brush electric lamps invented at Cleveland; and, as every reader will recall, it was by means of the powerful lights of the fleet that Arabi's attempts to strengthen the forts about Alexandria, under cover of night and contrary to agreement, were detected and frustrated. After the bombardment began the electric lights played a not less important part in directing the movements of the ships at night, in guarding against surprises, and in watching the movements of the enemy on shore.

During the bombardment the most effective service was done by turreted vessels; and the revolving turret is an American invention.

The machine gun, another American invention, has proved an extremely efficient arm for the invading forces. One vessel fired 6,000 pounds of shot from Gattling guns the first day of the bombardment. A handful of marines, with guns of this type, were able to disperse the Alexandrian "looters" and restore order in the afflicted city, where many times their number would have failed without such aid.

In the subsequent skirmishing with Arabi's troops about Alexandria, and later in the capture of Shaluf and other fortified places along the Suez Canal, the same guns on the gunboats and on the shore have been in constant use.

It is not so well known that the small arms of the British soldiers are but slightly modified American guns, made with machinery patterned after that developed in the shops of Springfield, Mass. The system of fixed ammunition for small arms also, and the machines by which such cartridges are made, are all of American origin.—Scientific American.

THE fiction that French brandy is distilled from French grapes is pretty thoroughly dispelled by the American Consul at Rochelle, who has made a tour of investigation through the wine regions of France for the purpose of enlightening his Government on this point. He says that the variety of grapes that once produced French brandy are now almost unknown. The vines have died out, and but very few of them are now to be found in the entire grape-growing district. The failure of the grape, however, has not led to a failure of the brandy crop, as might naturally be supposed. That article is now distilled from potatoes and beets, or is made by "doctoring" cheap American whisky, which is sent to France in large quantities to be thus transformed. The Consul warns Americans against this compound, and thinks it should be excluded from the United States for sanitary reasons. The proper thing for American tipplers to do, apparently, is either to join the prohibitionists or stick to native liquors.

FRED. BURKHARDT and his young bride left on Tuesday for Lone Pine, Inyo County, where the happy couple intend to make their future home.—Aurora Herald, 16th inst.

THE Union Pacific has now about 4,000 miles of railway. It expects to complete 500 miles during the present year.

The Value of Ore.

An item from the Bonanza Enterprise, Colorado, illustrates the necessity of frequent assays during the development of a prospect, or even in the working of a mine. It says, "that for a few days past the ore taken from the winze in the Empress Josephine mine showed large quantities of a bluish crystallized mineral, in appearance resembling low-grade galena. The ore assorter had put it aside, in doubt whether it should be thrown over the dump or put with the third-class ore. Its value was put at about $40 per ton. At a suggestion of one of the owners, it was decided to have it assayed. An inferior sample was selected, knowing that that would show the value of the pile. It proved a rich telluride, having a value of 1,748 ozs. in silver and 5 ozs. in gold, making an aggregate of over $2,000 per ton."

In paying mines this uncertainty is well understood; therefore, samples are taken from every carload or bucket taken from the mine, and many assays are made daily, that the management may detect the slightest change in the grade and character of their ore. If so much attention is paid to this matter in mines of known value, how much more the necessity of pursuing a like course in a mere prospect. Every change—even the slightest—in the appearance of the ore should cause the management to have it tested. Mill men well know the difficulty of dealing with prospectors who bring small lots of ore to them for reduction. In nine cases out of ten, the estimate placed upon the ore is from 30 to 50 per cent more than the ore will sample, as it comes from the batteries, and the result is great disappointment, and too often accusations of dishonesty on the part of the mill men. It is often the case that paying ore is indiscriminately mixed with the waste and thrown over the dump. We heard of a case of this kind only a few days ago, where rich ore, that on the outer surface was so discolored that it showed no evidence of value, was being thrown over the dump as waste. By accident a piece was broken when an examination showed that it was literally covered with horn silver. Since then the dump has been overhauled and the rich ore assorted out and saved.

There is no excuse for anyone in charge of a mine being deceived in the value of his ore, thereby misleading the mine owners and the public. The underlying causes for this state of things are three, viz., ignorance, penuriousness and design. Of the three, the worst is that of design, for that is done to promote stock sales, and someone invariably gets cinched. The State Lines and South Pacific are cases in point, and more might be cited were it necessary. Too much stress cannot be laid on the necessity of frequent assays, in all stages of the developement of mines.

THE passage through this city, and over the various railroad lines of so many "specials," or, in other words, Pullman and other private cars, chartered by persons of endless means or extensive influence, is so common an occurence that the following information in regard to the charges for a car, including services of a conductor, porter and two waiters, will be interesting: The Pullman Company charges $85 a day for the use of a car, which includes the services of a conductor, a cook and two waiters. Besides this, the person hiring a car—or in fact any car—must buy eighteen full tickets of the railroad line over which the car passes for hauling it. The car is usually attached to a regular train, and if a special engine is secured, which is rarely the case, the cost is greatly increased. Provisions and liquors are supplied by the Pullman Company at cost, or the person to whom the car is let may stock it himself. Sleeping cars are let at the rate of $65 per day, including a conductor and porter, and hotel cars at $75 a day, including a conductor, cook and two waiters. The Pullman Company also has two hunting and fishing cars. One is named the Davy Crockett and the other the Izaak Walton. The charge for these cars is $35 a day, which includes cook and waiter for each. These cars are provided with kennels for dogs.

A WRITER to the Aurora Herald gives the following items of interest from Sweetwater and the neighboring mining camps: The mines are looking better as further developments are being made. All are waiting in hopes that things in general will take a turn for the better before snow flies. The Summers mine is working a full force of men, there being employed at the mine and mill thirty men. The little mill is running to its full capacity, turning out its usual amount of bullion, which is about $500 a day. The pack train makes its regular trips, transporting about ten tons of ore per day from the mine to the mill, which is two tons more a day more than the mill will crush.

THE Los Angeles Express states that Justice Field, who is a leading candidate for President on the Democratic ticket, has started in to decide away the provisions of the Chinese restriction law. He holds that a Chinese merchant, who comes to the United States indirectly by way of other countries than China, can land without the certificate required by law. This looks like the first move towards a judicial nullification of the law, and Field is just the man to take the initiative.

AN amusing hoax was lately perpetrated on the managers of a church bazar in Sheffield. An offer of a horse and trap was tendered and thankfully accepted. One of the directors, who had been duly advised by telegraph, met the train by which the costly gift was expected, and received a clothes horse and a mouse trap.

FRIENDSHIP does not seek pleasure for itself. It does not shun pain or inconvenience. When friends cherished and long held come to grief, it does not seek some dark way by which it may avoid a dividend of sorrow or suffering, and if need be, shame. True friendship is eager to give—to give all; for in the soul's commerce he who gives all keeps all.

JAMES E. PARKER.

THE Hillsdales were beaten on the Thames by two lengths, and the American team was beaten at Creedmoor by 170 points, out of 1,975 for the British team and 1,805 for the American. So far as the reports have come from the Hillsdales, they seem to have done pretty well. They had the race up to the time the slide broke, and in spite of this were in less than two seconds behind at the finish. But accidents do not count in races. The Hillsdales might have won if there had been no accident, but it is not certain that they would. The London Standard claims that they were tiring rapidly when the mishap occurred. The Thames crew may not give the Hillsdales another chance, but there is little doubt that the British rifle team will accommodate the American team with all the shooting they want. The practice has shown that the American team was not the best that could have been selected, and their trial performance was not equal to their practice. The American eagle has not got much voice just now, but may scream audibly at some time in the near future.

ENGINEER MELVILLE has returned at last to his native land, and now there will be an investigation of the loss of the Jeannette, which it is expected will damage several reputations, and clear up several misunderstandings. Melville was put under a cloud by certain very cowardly and unmanly statements in regard to his conduct in the De Long search. An attempt was made to demonstrate that he did not use needful diligence and energy on that occasion, and what renders the affair more painful, some of his brother officers appeared more than willing to injure or destroy his reputation during his absence. He, however, is not the man to put up with injustice of this kind. He has come back determined to have the whole facts revealed, and there is reason to expect that when all the testimony is before the public they will see him to have been cruelly and grossly calumniated.

EVER since the last war France has been held up to view as a country with a marvelous financial system and with marvelous debt-paying powers. Of late it is more the just to point to it as a land of remarkable extravagance, where the tax gatherer calls often, and where the burdens which he imposes become daily harder to bear. The expenses of the government for the coming year will amount to $1,000,000,000, or two and one-half times as much as the expenses of our government, with a larger population here, and an almost infinitely vaster expanse of country. The French taxes amount to about $80 per head of the population, or, say $150 for the average family. The debt of France has steadily increased under the republic, and now amounts to $4,000,000,000, or double ours, and the interest is $150,000,000 a year.

IN the matter of the free transportation of coin, the people of the Pacific Coast are not placed on an equality with the people of the Eastern States. The United States Treasurer has issued a notice to the public, from which we select the following paragraph: "Standard silver dollars are also sent by express at the expense of the Mint, in sums of $500 or any multiple thereof, directly from the Mint in New Orleans, Philadelphia or San Francisco, for deposits of currency or gold coin with the Assistant Treasurer in the same city." The provisions of this order have not been carried out on the Pacific Coast, the presumable reason being that Adams' Express, which is relied on to do the work of the department, does not extend its operations to this coast.

IN Merchantville, N. J., a magistrate fined a boy $1 for swearing. This furnishes a basis for calculation to a brother of Colonel Sellers, who lives in Camden. He reckons that in Camden County there are 70,000 people, half of whom swear. That would be $35,000 for an oath apiece. Each fellow swears fifty times a day. That makes $1,750,000 daily income, $12,250,000 per week, and, counting twenty-six good working days to the month, $318,500,000 each month. If he will come to California and make a like calculation on our "cursing" habit, he won't be able to find figures enough in which to announce the result.

BLAINE has again carried Maine by a handsome majority. The New York World declares that the victory was won by the corrupt use of money. Money is still, East and West, North and South, the all-powerful lever in politics.

THE jute factory in the San Quentin prison is now turning out 8,000 yards of burlap per diem, with 302 men. The net receipts of the factory for last month were $6,000.

HON. JOHN P. IRISH.

During his late visit to this Coast we took occasion to say something concerning Hon. John P. Irish, of Iowa, with whom this scribe worked in printing office harness years ago. Although yet in the very prime of manhood, Mr. Irish has for about a score of years been the recognized leader of the Democratic forlorn hope of the banner Republican State. From humble pedagoguing he stepped into the local editorship of the Iowa State Press, and through a knack of brains and energy he soon became sole proprietor. During the while he mastered the French, German and Bohemian languages, and was admitted to the bar, as well as acquiring a classical education besides. Being a fluent and logical talker, and commanding the most elegant diction in writing, he naturally became an honored leader, as stated. He ran for Governor, and for Congress, being defeated, of course; but he represented his District in the State Senate whenever he wanted to. His was the lone vote which stood fast for S. J. Tilden as against Gen. Hancock in the Cincinnati Convention.

As Mr. Irish is to make California his home—we do not know now exactly where—we give this mention for the information of our contemporaries throughout the State, and append the following from a great number of notes from the Iowa papers:

Is it creditable to Iowa that one of the very brightest of her children is compelled to desert her because of her failure to appreciate and employ his abilities? John P. Irish is about to emigrate to California, and with him will go as much brain and sterling manhood as any man in Iowa can boast of. If he were a truckler or time-server he would long ago have been a member of Congress; he would have deserted the minority party and joined the one in the ascendant. But he was and is honest. Neither money nor the prospect of satisfying his ambition have ever allured him to sacrifice the political doctrines which he deems essential to the welfare of the State and Nation, and although we may not indorse his sentiments, we cannot fail to admire his consistency and courage. Envy and malice have hurled many shafts at him, but he will leave the State without a stain upon his name. In almost any other commonwealth Mr. Irish would be honored. Unfortunately the people of Iowa are so blinded by political prejudice that they cannot see the man's wonderful gifts or realize his great natural capabilities for legislative work. His departure will be a loss to this State which every Iowan who respects pluck, intellect and honesty will regret, and our loss will be California's gain. Heaven has endowed Mr. Irish with a wealth of brain and heroism, which we trust will meet with full recognition on the shores of the Pacific. It is a shame that a man so admirably fitted to honor the State of his birth in any high official capacity should be compelled to leave.—Dubuque Telegraph.

The genial, aggressive and talented John P. Irish is no more one of the Iowa fraternity. His paper has been sold, and in a short time Mr. Irish will be a native Californian. The Leader regrets exceedingly to see him go. It will miss his incisive editorials, with their terrible invective and withering sarcasm. We will miss his familiar face and voice at our party councils and conventions. We have not always agreed with Mr. Irish, and at times the Leader has criticised him. But we have always known where to find him. Never have we known him to conceal or shade his opinions. They have been given with a blunt force and backed with an eloquent tongue that carried conviction, at least of honest intent. The loss of Mr. Irish will be a State loss. Trained in the arduous school of politics from his early boyhood, he was master of all its intricacies and full of ripe suggestions for every emergency. No man in the State could sway an audience like him, and none could draw such a crowd. But what is bad for Iowa Democracy is best for Mr. Irish. He goes to a State which is swaying on the pivot of doubt. He goes to a State where the majority is small. When he goes to Congress one of these days, as go he will, then Iowa will watch with pride an honest, forcible, aggressive Democrat in the halls of the trimmers. Good-bye, John—may you live long and prosper.—Des Moines Leader.

That was a delicate and deserved compliment paid Hon. John P. Irish at Marshalltown, Tuesday, by the Democracy of the State, showing the high estimation in which he is held, and the appreciation felt for the unselfish devotion he has ever manifested in advancing the Democratic cause in State and Nation. On the eve of his departure from the State, to make his home in California, he was, in preference to all others, selected as permanent chairman of the State Convention—an honor which, under the circumstances, he was truly grateful for and especially proud of. The Convention, very appropriately, also adopted a resolution expressing the regret of the Democrats of Iowa in losing him as a citizen, and extended to him their best wishes wherever his lot in the future be cast. His departure from Iowa will be deeply felt, his wise counsels in party matters seriously missed, and his inestimable service, by voice and pen, ever remembered. California gains an able and enthusiastic Democrat, a valuable citizen and an honorable gentleman—all of which Iowa loses.—Davenport Democrat.

THEY are having the same difficulty in Ohio that is being experienced in California. The temperance and anti-temperance people are at lagerheads on the question of the liquor traffic. This great question is destined to cut an important figure in the future politics of the United States. It will be impossible to satisfy everybody, and many people will be greatly "put out" whichever way the vote stands.

WE were about to inquire as to who Mr. G. Rice was, anyhow. But the Visalia Delta drops in with the following regarding the Republican nominee for State Senator from this District: "No better nomination for the position of State Senator could have been made than that of G. F. Rice, of this county. He is a man of the people and for the people. Beside, he knows the wants of this section, having lived here for the past twenty-seven years, during all of which time he has been identified with the agricultural interests of the county. We favorably recommend him to our neighbors of the adjoining counties."

THE Bank of England, in settlements involving fractions of a penny, always reckons such fractions in its own favor. It has thus accumulated the astonishing sum of $716,360. The London Economist cites this as an example of the power of accumulation of small amounts, and praises the wisdom of the English Government in establishing the postal savings bank, in which deposits of one penny are received. During the year 1881 the deposits in this institution were $12,500,000.

THE Kenebec Journal publishes full official returns from Augusta, Main, September 18, except from six small plantations. Robie's plurality is 8798. The Republican candidates for Congress are elected by pluralities in excess of that for Governor. The Republicans carry fourteen or sixteen counties. Of the Senators 28 are Republican, and 3 Fusion; of the members of the House 108 are Republicans, and 41 Fusion. In two districts the elections are not yet determined.

THE sea voyage of the President has not entirely cured the malaria contracted at the White House. He proposes to try a ten days' trip to the mountains as first proposed by his physicians. A special says: "The President is really a sick man. The change in his hours for meals and rest since Garfield's death has pulled him down. He is full of malaria and is ordered not to live at the White House again until the cellar has been placed under the building."

CHANCELLOR HARTSON informs the Napa Register that the Veterans' Home Committee has decided to purchase the A. G. Clark place, seven miles above Napa, and erect thereon the Veterans' Home. The property now belongs to Mr. Gibbs, of Yountville, comprises several hundred acres of land, is well watered, and is as fine a site as could have been chosen.

THE Ford brothers, who treacherously killed Jesse James, are trying to make money out of their criminal notoriety. After appearing in several cheap variety theaters in Chicago they have now gone to New York to freeze the blood of the Bowery boy with "bel-udy" border melodrama.

IN the Joint Assembly Convention of Ventura and Santa Barbara Counties, held in Santa Barbara on the 16th instant, Peter Bennett, of Ventura, received the Republican nomination for the Assembly. Mr. Bennett is a brother of Paul W. Bennett, and formerly resided in this County.

The Boston Advertiser says: "The White House will have a mistress next Winter. President Arthur is undoubtedly engaged, and the marriage will take place early in the Fall. The name of the lady is for the present a State secret. The engagement was made last Spring."

THE Philadelphia Ledger says: "Ethe-realized vacuity is solid substance compared to the information investigators have been able to extract from the inventor of the Keely moter, touching his devices for evolving something from nothing."

THE papers of New Mexico, complain that there both the mail and telegraph service are badly in need of reconstruction. Matter sent by either is uncertain of reaching its destination at any given time, if at all.

The Next Assemblyman—Necessary Reforms.

LONE PINE, Sept. 20.

MR. EDITOR: As a Joint Assemblyman has to be elected for the Counties of Inyo and Mono next November, I have the honor to submit some remarks in regard to the same, and intended to be for the benefit of citizens imbued of the principles of equality, justice and equity.

The first point to be acted upon by each political party will be to make its own nomination. There is no doubt that each member of the committee appointed to nominate said Joint Assemblyman will be possessed of the best good will to select the best man amongst the candidates, but it is much more difficult to select a member of the Assembly than it is to select any of the County officers, for the law fixes the qualifications required of some of the County officers, and fixes all the duties required of each of them, whereas the State laws do not fix the qualifications required of the Assemblyman. That part is entirely left to the judgment of the nominating committee, and, when elected and after taking the oath of office, his duties concerning the framing of the State laws are discretionary with him; he acts either according to the best of his ability, if for the interest of the people, or according to his own will if he chooses to work against the interest of said people, subject only to the rules of the House and the restrictions contained in the State Constitution.

Now, Mr. Editor, comes the most important point to be decided upon—who is the most competent person for the office of member of the Assembly? The question is very easy to answer in regard to the required qualifications, but it is not quite so easy to find out the man.

Evidently it requires men of more than average intelligence for the whole construction of the State laws contained in the four codes, but the present position of the State does not require such work to be done. The four codes are already framed, and the work required of our Legislators is to make the necessary reforms, in adding to or amending the present State laws; to reach, as near as possible, perfection; and according to my views in this matter it is not necessary that each and every member of the Legislature be an eminent legist or a powerful orator. To show that my assertions are correct, we all know that each House—Senate and Assembly—forms at least two groups, and each of the groups have their prominent legists and distinguished orators, and that in many cases those men belonging to the two groups, having the same qualifications, knowledge and intelligence are opposed in their votes. Therefore, some of those prominent men must be in the wrong; and the qualifications of a high education, acquired in going through all the branches of studies in the high schools and academies, are not a title to make a good Legislator, and any person of good common sense who has gone through the studies of a public school, and willing to be a Legislator, may make a very good Legislator.

Here, Mr. Editor, we will leave the theory aside and come to the practice of my arguments, and to what occurs in the State Legislature: Suppose that the Assembly be composed of men forming three classes of knowledge, the first class representing the most remarkable intelligences, being thirty in number; the second class composed of men having a fair education, being forty-five in number; the third class composed of mechanics, farmers, miners or merchants, of a very limited classical education, and possessing good common sense, and being five in number. And of the first class, sixteen of them are employing their remarkable erudition to amend the existing laws of the State, introducing the most useful practical reforms, and such a bill being set before the House for consideration sustained by the most powerful arguments of said amending party, and out of the thirty members forming the first class only sixteen vote in favor of the amendment, therefore there must be two opposing interests, and it is evident that the sixteen votes cast in favor of the amendment represent the interest of the State at large, or the public interest, and the others (fourteen votes) favoring the capitalists controlling the strongest companies in the State. And out of the second class, as above represented, twenty of them are sincere and earnest concerning their duties, and vote for the amendment, or in favor of the public interest. And the third class, composed of five members, none of them can make an exciting speech, but their good sense and experience tells them that the best side of a case is not always represented by the best speaker, and as no bill is acted upon without first being printed for the use of the members, they compare the existing old section with the amendment and each of them affirm that their judgment is as sane as that of any member of the House, and declare positively that the amendment under consideration is one of the most necessary reforms needed and that any other interpretation contrary to the same is also contrary to the public interest, and the five votes are cast in favor of the amendment, which is carried.

There are so many industries in this world that many workers and producers are inclined to believe that they are entitled to some laws made to their advantage, so that they can make an immense fortune in a short time, and in order to come to their aim they combine. They send in their State Senators and members of the Assembly to the State Legislature, and when in session they form their groups and compromises to sustain one another in their proposed bills. The head of each group is represented by some of the most eminent men of the House, and by their oratorial talents or otherwise they succeed to influence and gain to their cause some of the men of the House who neglect to employ the best of their ability and energy in favor of the people. There are so many interests of different natures to be acted upon during a term of the Legislature that no member can foresee what he will have to do during the session to comply with the duties of his office, especially if he intends to serve the public interest, and some of this last category have voted for laws which were unconstitutional. They would not have voted for such laws if they would have had energy enough to consult the State Constitution. It is for lack of energy of this last category of Legislators that the two Houses passed the County Government bill in 1880, which was introduced by parties working against the new Constitution. From July, 1880, all the Counties in State were without laws for their government. We have had the amendments of 1881, but there still remain several points concerning the government of Counties which leaves all the Counties in the State without laws.

By the above-given illustration I consider, Mr. Editor, that the five Assemblymen of the third class can be classified as good Legislators, and I hope that the next Joint Assemblyman to represent Inyo and Mono Counties be one of this kind. As I am sick I cannot continue to write my remarks, and I will send them to you at some future time. Very respectfully,

C. MEYSAN.

THE war against Arabi, for neatness and dispatch has no parallel. It was hardly begun till it was done. It was incommoded by no siege, by no set back. All the wiseacres, whose wishes took the shape of prophecies of a long fight, with plagues and the desert, and foreign interference, have been, happily for civilization, disappointed. The invocations of the gentlemen at home and abroad, for a rising of all the Mohammedan tribes, with all the accompanying horrors of "a holy war," fell upon waste ground. The Ulemas did not startle Europe for an instant. The dancing Dervishes did not venture out of Arabia. The "swarming Bedouins" frightened nobody but a few helpless women and children. They swarmed back into the desert at the first shower of shot and shell from the English batteries. They are proved the inferior of the Arizona Bedouins in every thing but savagery. With the best of arms, an abundance of ammunition and supplies, the moral support of the country, the lively sympathy of the Sultan, a training and discipline of years by American and other foreign officers, the the Egyptians have disgracefully failed as soldiers, adding another to the many prior illustrations of the impossibility of making a "silk purse out of a sow's ear." The fact is, that with all their training, the average Egyptian soldier is a slave, and slaves will not fight because they have nothing to fight for—no home, no land, no country, no Government. The Turks who fought at Plevna were gentlemen compared with the followers of Arabi. They had at least a Government at their back, and a country, worm-eaten and decayed as it is.—S. F. Chronicle.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 23.....1882

ANOTHER VICTIM.—Panamint Valley gains another victim this year in the person of Michael McReate, more generally known as "Dublin." He left Nadeau's station at the mouth of Panamint Cañon, August 30th, to cross the valley to Lookout, since which time no traces of him can be found. He was not missed until the 16th instant, when messengers were sent from Darwin to Borax Lake, Snows' Cañon, Slate Range and Lookout. Messrs. J. J. Gunn and Arthur Smith, accompanied by Indian Tom of Panamint, then searched for two or three days pretty much all over the valley without success, the high winds having obliterated his trail. The deceased—for there seems no doubt of his having perished on the desert—was one of the first prospectors of Darwin, where he had some property, the Vulcan or old Grand mine belonging to him. This month seems generally to be about the hottest season in Panamint Valley, most of the victims having fallen there about this time of the year.

ACCIDENT.—During the celebration of the anniversary of the independence of Chili, at Lone Pine last Monday, occurred one of those almost inevitable accidents which result from firing giant powder salutes. One of the most active and patriotic spirits in this exercise was Domingo Santurañ, a Chilañ about 97 years of age. He was a soldier in Chili's war of independence from Spanish rule in 1810, and according to the laws of that country must have been 25 years old then. He was rapidly firing pieces of giant, when one exploded in his right hand, tearing it off at the wrist. He coolly directed the others to go on with the salutes and never mind him. Dr. Colleau severed the stump at the wrist, the brave old man having nothing to say except that after having so long celebrated the glorious day he had fought for so long ago it was bad at his age to get crippled. The Diaz brothers immediately removed the old man to their home, where they have Serano—a 90-year old man, too—to wait upon him. The Messrs. Diaz intend to care for both as long as they live.

AT BISHOP.—Our correspondent says: The weather has been very cold for the past few days, and in consequence the corn crop is much injured. Vegetables of all kinds were destroyed... Everybody talking politics....Mr. T. T. Cook and wife have removed from the Indian Queen mine and will reside in Bishop....Mr. and Mrs. Herb Wells have returned from Los Angeles.... The owners of the Sacramento mine have five arastras in operation in Piute Cañon. They made a clean-up the other day, with good results....Mexican Independence Day was celebrated here. There was much enthusiasm. A number of Americans participated in the festivities.....The "opposition" are circulating a story to the effect that George Gill while out hunting recently fired several shots at an old log, mistaking it for a deer....Wash. Brierly's friends contradict the report that he cannot distinguish the difference between a white shirt and a napkin.

THE FROST.—Friday and Saturday last this region experienced a remarkably severe cold snap, ice forming during the night in some low places in the valley to the thickness of half an inch. The loss is indeed serious. All the late corn in the upper portion of the valley has been killed, and from the earlier fields not more than half a crop will be gathered. All vegetables still out are pretty much destroyed, and the remaining fruit crop considerably damaged. It will be remembered that the season opened a month late in the Spring, and this almost unprecedented early frost has clapped the climax. After giving the farmers a lick of this kind it now appears as if the weather clerk had ordered a spell of mild, pleasant weather, to continue indefinitely.

A FINE SPECIMEN.—There has been on exhibition at the Independence assay office during the past week one of the finest gold specimens ever seen in this town. The piece is from the Palma gold mine at Cerro Gordo, now being developed under the general superintendence of Mr. M. A. Wheeler. The specimen is about eight inches long, four inches wide and three inches thick. The surface is literally studded with fine points and grains of bright gold of a high grade of fineness. Mr. S. D. Woodhull, who brought up the specimen, informs us that similar pieces are taken out almost daily. Mr. Wheeler is pushing the work with great energy, and there is every prospect of his being rewarded by soon opening up one of the richest gold mines found in Inyo County.

THE HONORABLES.—Independence is to be congratulated upon the most distinguishé assemblage which has been gathered here at any time within our recollection. The Board of Education, which is concentrating its power upon one weak and unfortunate victim, consists of—A. R. Conklin (candidate for Lieutenant-Governor), J. W. Symmes (candidate for County Assessor), J. H. Shannon (candidate for Sheriff of Inyo County), P. A. Chalfant (candidate for County Assessor) and Daniel Crough (candidate for County Superintendent of Schools). The intense sympathy of the entire community is manifested in behalf of Dan—the only Democrat in the outfit. It is supposed that their several salaries of $5 per day will be consumed in repairing button-holes.

DANCE.—The young folks, taking advantage of the presence in town of Mr. Taylor Aistrop and assistant musicians, enjoyed a fine social dance at the Blaney House on Thursday night. The evening before the boys passed in serenading, and for several sweet discourses THE INDEPENDENT returns thanks.

Board of Education.

This honorable body met in special session on Tuesday, September 19th, pursuant to call, for reorganization, etc., and preliminary to the work of the second semi-annual session to begin on the following day.

Present—A. R. Conklin, President; J. W. Symmes, County Superintendent, and Secretary, ex-officio; Dan'l Crough, J. H. Shannon and P. A. Chalfant, comprising a full Board.

Mr. Shannon and Mr. Chalfant took their seats, the latter on reappointment vice himself, the former vice R.H. Hagerman, term expired.

In the matter of reorganization, upon motion of Supt. Symmes, Mr. Chalfant was chosen President of the Board for the ensuing year.

Sub-committees were appointed as follows:

Daniel Crough and J. H. Shannon, to conduct examinations and to report questions upon the following studies: Spelling, grammar, arithmetic, word analysis, history of the United States, geography, modes of teaching, algebra, natural philosophy, physiology, penmanship, bookkeeping, composition, reading.

Constitution of the United States and of California—A. R. Conklin.

Music and Industrial Drawing—P. A. Chalfant.

Diplomas and Certificates—The entire Board.

General Supervision of the Whole—The entire Board.

The special meeting then adjourned sine die.

REGULAR SESSION.

The Board of Education met in regular session at 9 A. M., September 20th, all the members being present.

Miss M. A. Tyrrell, Lone Pine, presented a petition for a first-grade County certificate, based upon a California Life Diploma. Granted.

Geo. F. Willis, Bishop Creek, presented application for examinatiob for teacher's certificate. The applicant being present the required examination was at once begun, and continued until 1:30 P. M. Friday, at which time he had attained a fraction over 80 per cent., entitling him to a second-grade County certificate, which was duly granted.

The Board then adjourned for the term.

A SUCCESS.—The sociable that came off in the M. E. Church at Bishop Creek last Wednesday evening was one of the best managed and most enjoyable affairs of the kind that was ever held on Owens River. The committee had arranged with the good people so that everything was in abundance, and all moved on like clock-work. Every one seemed to be brim full of happiness and the very greatest of satisfaction is expressed with the singing and recitations, as well as with the net result, which was $70. Mr. and Mrs. Willis are thankful alike for the benefit and the great crowd which assembled on the occasion.

NEW SPECIMENS.—The Independence assay office has received some valuable additions to its collections during the past week. One lot consists of twelve large rich specimens of silver ore, representing twelve different mines in Panamint District. These specimens make a very fine showing and attract much attention. The ores come under the head of argentiferous tetradhedrite. Assays by Mr. Woodhull show their value to be from 100 to 200 ounces of silver per ton.

CONCERT.—Prof. Dorrego, the celebrated musician, will give an entertainment at the Blaney House to-night, with the assistance of some of our best local talent. The Professor is an accomplished master of music, his concerts bordering upon the unique and delightful in every respect, creating quite a furore wherever he has appeared. We understand that he intends visiting Big Pine and Bishop Creek. See his advertisement.

MUSICAL.—The attention of our many musicians and families throughout the valley enjoying the comfort and luxury of pianos and organs, and some who don't but ought to, is directed to the advertisement this week of Messrs. Sherman, Clay & Co., of San Francisco. This is the most extensive house on the coast. We can heartily recommend it as being the best place to procure anything wanted in the line of music or musical instruments.

THE NEW FURNACE.—A. M. Stetson, one of the new Montezuma owners, was in town last Tuesday evening. He has been engaged in tearing down and loading up the furnace and machinery at Darwin for the new works. It is expected to have the material on the ground by next Monday, when the work of putting it up will be pushed rapidly as possible.

COMING.—A large number of orders for job work at this office have been unavoidably delayed by the non-arrival of necessary material. The present freighting business makes bad work, as compared to the former system. The freight en route comprises a heavy stock of all kinds of paper, stationery, type, etc., etc., and after it comes such delays will not again occur.

DELEGATES.—At the Republican primary to-day there were two tickets in the field, the contest being between the candidates for Assessor—Messrs. Stevens and Chalfant. The Chalfant ticket was elected by the following vote: T. F. A. Connelly 22, R. C. Julian 22, Fred. Schabbell 19, to 14 for the opposing ticket.

DRAKE'S HOTEL.—One of the most homelike and best-conducted hotels in Inyo is at Bishop Creek, managed by the popular hostess, Mrs. Sarah E. Drake. The very best of everything is served up in a style so unexceptionable as to satiate the appetite of the veriest epicure in existence.

TENNESSEE furnishes a terrible picture of depravity in the slaughter of a Sheriff and his deputy, and the rescue of a prisoner on his way to jail.

AMMONIA IN BAKING POWDERS.

Its Importance as a Culinary Art.

[From the Scientific American,]

The recent discoveries in science and chemistry are fast revolutionizing our daily domestic economies. Old methods are giving way to the light of modern investigation, and the habits and methods of our fathers and mothers are stepping down and out, to be succeeded by the new idea, with marvelous rapidity. In no department of science, however, have more rapid strides been made than in its relations to the preparation and preservation of human food. Scientists, having discovered how to traverse space, furnish heat, and beat time itself, by the application of natural forces, and to do a hundred other things promotive of the comfort and happiness of human kind, are naturally turning their attention to the development of other agencies and powers that shall add to the years during which man may enjoy the blessings set before him.

Among the recent discoveries in this direction, none is more important than the uses to which common ammonia can be properly put as a leavening agent, and which indicate that this familiar salt is hereafter to perform an active part in the preparation of our daily food.

The carbonate of ammonia is an exceedingly volatile substance. Place a small portion of it upon a knife and hold over a flame, and it will almost immediately be entirely developed into gas and pass off into the air. The gas thus formed is a simple composition of nitrogen and hydrogen. No residue is left from the ammonia. This gives it its superiority as a leavening power over soda and cream of tartar when used alone, and has induced its use as a supplement to these articles. A small quantity of ammonia in the dough is effective in producing bread that will be lighter, sweeter, and more wholesome than that risen by any other leavening agent. When it is acted upon by the heat of baking the leavening gas that raises the dough is liberated. In this act it uses itself up, as it were; the ammonia is entirely diffused, leaving no trace or residuum whatever. The light, fluffy-flaky appearance, so desirable in biscuits, etc., and so sought after by professional cooks, is said to be imparted to them only by the use of this agent.

The bakers and baking powder manufacturers producing the finest goods have been quick to avail themselves of this useful discovery, and the handsomest and best bread and cake are now largely risen by the aid of ammonia, combined, of course, with otther leavening material.

Ammonia is one of the best known products of the laboratory. If, as seems to be justly claimed for it, the application of its properties to the purposes of cooking results in giving us lighter and more wholesome, bread, biscuit and cake, it will prove a boon to dyspeptic humanity, and will speedily force itself into general use in the new field to which science has assigned it.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 23 1882

Johnny and Mrs. Skae.

Johnny Skae has almost dropped out of mind since he parted with the $15,000,000 that he made on the Comstock and squandered in various places, and the world had almost forgot him when the San Francisco newspapers a few months ago published with glowing headlines the fact that he had been arrested as a common drunkard, and dwelt on the fictitious belief that he was reveling in poverty and rags. Since that digging up of his wonderful career nothing has been said of him, and few know where he is. The other day a San Jose gentleman who was rusticating on Pine Ridge in the mountain east of the Eighteen-mile House, took a tramp, and when six miles from camp came to a beautiful little valley nestling in the mountains. The locality is known as Soda Springs, and it is the haunt of a few who ken the whereabouts and beauty of the place. The scenery is wild and grand, with an endless succession of boulders and precipices frowning down upon the snug little valley beneath. In this little valley, in a sea of green grass and wild flowers, several rude cottages nestle, and in one of these are the person and family of Johnny Skae. Appearances do not indicate that they are in the full enjoyment of abject poverty. On the other hand, Mrs. Skae's comely person is adorned with some handsome diamonds, two of them being as large as the ends of a coal heaver's fingers, to say nothing of e comfortable assortment of comely clothes. Nor does starvation stare them in the face, judging by the well-stocked larder that is always at the disposal of the hungry wayfarer. Of course it is generally known that he settled $100,000 on her before the crash came; and this, together with some $50,000 in sundry trinkets, is sufficient to keep the wolf from the door a short while longer.

DEBRIS DAMS.—It will not be long before the anti-debris people will have an opportunity to try the effect of the injunctions they have threatened against the proposed dams to impound the mining debris on the Yuba, Bear and American rivers, as it is understood that Col. Mendell will be authorized to commence structures of that kind, in conformity to the plans he has heretofore submitted to the War Department, a large proportion of the $250,000 recently appropriated by Congress to "improve and protect" the navigation of the Sacramento, Feather and San Joaquin rivers being used for that purpose. As these works will be undertaken under the auspices of the general Government, the valley people, if they are disposed to try the effect of injunctions, will be compelled to go into the U. S. Courts, where it is not at all likely they will get what they ask for with the same ease they have done in our County Superior Courts. These dams will be constructed by U. S. engineers, and if the Congressional appropriations do not go far enough for the current year, the voluntary contributions of the miners will be given to aid in the building of the dams. It is a hopeful sign that something practical is about being accomplished, as so far about all that has been tried is useless litigation and unsatisfactory declamation.—Grass Valley Union.

WHEN the sun, the earth and Mars come again into line with the earth in the center, at the next opposition of Mars, on the 31st of January, 1884, some of the great telescopes that are now being built will be in successful operation. With these increased facilities for a nearer view, we may hope to learn something more tangible concerning the curious movements that are taking place on a planet whose real features are more nearly within the power of the human eye to grasp than those of any member of the solar family.

THE highest elevation reached by the Northern Pacific Railroad at any point between the lakes and the Pacific Coast is at the crossing of the belt range of the Rocky Mountains. This point is about 5,500 feet above the level of the sea, and is 500 feet lower than Cheyenne, and more than 2,500 feet lower than the high point reached by the Union Pacific road. Helena, Montana, is 1,200 feet lower than Denver, Colorado. There is less than 250 miles of the Northern Pacific road that exceeds 4,000 feet in altitude.

A MACHINE has just been put in operation in Pittsburg which cuts nails from steel wire. Mr. Taylor, an English mechanic, is the inventor, and the funds for the construction of the machine were furnished by Pittsburg men. It is claimed for the invention that it can cut steel nails at the rate of 15,000 to 40,000 per hour, and the nails produced are much superior in strength to the ordinary kind.

IT is said that the story of Sampson has misled people into believing that abundant hair is a sign of physical or mental strength. Madhouses and idiot asylums prove the contrary. Esau, who was so easily duped out of his birthright, was hairy; the mighty Cæsar was bald. Long-haired men are generally weak and finatical, and men with scant hair are philosophers, soldiers and statesmen of the world.

IT is rumored that at the meeting of the Northern Pacific directors, to be held on the 21st, a motion will be made that the Duluth division shall be ballasted with gravel instead of lobster cans. Considerable other business of similar nature will be brought up.

DR. SIEMANS calculates that the present annual yield of all the coal mines of the earth would suffice to keep up the fire of the sun, at its present intensity of light and heat, for about the forty-millionth part of a second.

A GOOD cement for mending glass may be made by dissolving fine glue in strong acetic acid to form a thin paste.

IT is said that 50,000 mines are represented at the Denver Exposition.

IT is an unwritten law, well understood in journalism, that no editor is under the slightest obligations to give a reason for his acceptance or non-acceptance of a manuscript. He is not called upon to write a private critique on the article to the author of it. His acceptance or rejection is an absolute and unqustionable fact. Among amature writers this does not seem to be understood. All sub-editors and reporters understand that it is an unjustifiable impertinence to ask the managing editor his reason for publishing or not publishing any matter submitted to his judgment. Outside writers and aspiring amateurs rarely seem to comprehend this truth, and their transgressions are largely from ignorance rather than from inattention. The nature of editorial work requires absolute power of decision, in order to preserve the unities of the journal the editor conducts.—Exchange.

THE amount paid for pensions during the year, including cost of disbursement, was $54,296,280. Total number of pensions on the roll, 285,697; gain over previous year, 16,867. The total amounts paid by the government for pensions from 1791 to 1861 was $81,480,455. Total amount paid from 1861 to June 30th, 1882, was $760,641,324. Out of this amount and since 1871, $25,234,121 has been paid to survivors of the war of 1812, and to widows of of those who served during that war. Deducting this latter amount and estimating that which may have been paid to pensioners on account of wars prior to 1861-65, about $530,000,000 has been disbursed on account of pensions.

THIS is one and the best of the resolutions passed by the Greenback Convention in session at San Francisco last week:

We hold that the inalienable right of every human being "to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" carries with it the equal right, to all the natural elements necessary for existance, among which are land, light, water and air.

THE Georgeians have started a subscription for the erection of a monument to the late Senator Hill. The movement is designed to be a popular one, in which the whole people of Georgia are invited to participate. The fund to be raised is $30,000 and contributions will be received of from one cent to $10, to be limited to the latter amount.

THE yellow fever still continues on the Texas border, although its virulence is much lessened. The record of deaths has dropped to about a score a day, and there is good prospect that early frosts will give the death-blow to yellow jack.

THERE are no taxes in Newcastle, Delaware, for the support of the local government and schools, William Penn having endowed the town with land which now rents for enough to pay all the municipal taxes.

THE commanders of war vessels will have to study up, as hereafter they are to pilot their ships into the harbors of the world without calling on local pilots. Naval men think ships will be lost, and the order rescinded.

Irrigation in Egypt.

The American Consul General at Cairo states that the tillable land of Egypt consists of the delta of the Nile, and a narrow valley extending from Cairo southward. This valley is generally from one to ten miles wide, though for about one hundred and fifty miles above Cairo it has a width of from ten to thirty miles. Both the delta and the valley, except so far as the former borders on the Mediterranean, are bounded on all sides by mountainous deserts, and for more than two thousand miles from its mouth the river has not the slightest tributary.

It rolls on towards the sea, unlike other rivers, constantly decreasing in volume. As there are no rains of any practical importance, it sustains all vegetation, and all the inhabitants of Egypt and its herds drink of its waters. For two or three months in the year, a considerable portion of the country may be irrigated by the natural rise of the river, but with the exception of certain sections, the water is not permitted to flow freely over the land. It is taken from the river and conducted by canals alongside the fields where it is to be used, and spread over the different parcels of land, if it is sufficiently high, and if not, it is raised by some of the various modes employed for that purpose. Small embankments prevent the water from running on to other lands that may not at the time be in a condition to receive it; in fact, the processes of overflowing the lands, plowing, sowing, and harvesting are often being carried on simultaneously in adjoining fields.

When the land is sufficiently irrigated the water is shut off, or the pumping discontinued. The process of irrigation is required to be repeated several times before the maturity of the crop, the quantity of the water depending very much upon the kind of product. Rice requires a large amount of water, and wheat, rye, and oats much less. There are in Egypt 8,406 miles of irrigating canals, of which 1,897 are navigable. There are also great dikes along the river and its various delta branches, to prevent their overflow, and innumerable small ditches and embankments everywhere throughout the country. In consequence of the muddiness of the waters of the Nile, the canals require frequent cleansing, and the high waters injure the dikes and render it necessary to repair them every year.

The greatest amount of labor is, however, that required in raising the water from the river and canals to the level of the lands. Dipping, drawing, and pumping are processes going on nearly the whole year, and nearly half of the whole irrigation is done by these means. Its water is raised from one or two feet to twenty, and sometimes more, according to the location of the land and the height of the river. The following is a description of the manner in which water is raised by means of the "shadoof." The "shadoof" is simply a leather basket-shaped bucket attached to a pole, suspended in the same manner as an ordinary well-sweep. The sweep is very short, and the bucket of water is balanced by a mud weight. The instrument is of the rudest character, but by this means water is raised to the height of eight or nine feet with considerable rapidity. If the water is to be raised twenty feet, one man close to the river raises it from four or five feet into a basin made of clay in the side of the bank, and from this point two men, each with a bucket, raise it about eight feet to a similar basin, and two others in the same manner to the required height, whence it is conducted by small earth sluices to the required place, often a considerable distance from the river.

It requires the constant working of these five "shadoofs" for forty-eight hours to water one "feddan" (equivalent to one acre.) This, by changing once in four or six hours, would require ten men, each of whom would apply twenty-four hours' labor to the watering of one acre. This process requires repeating at least three times for each crop. Thus the labor required for the irrigation of one acre would be 720 hours, or seventy-two days of ten hours each. The labor is of the most severe kind, and the fellah, with nothing except a cloth round his loins, is compelled to apply himself to his task with all the energy at his command. In the delta, and some parts of Upper Egypt, the water being taken from the river at some distance above the point where it is used, is kept for a considerable portion of the year, on very nearly the same level as the land. If, however, it has to be raised at all, it requires at least fifteen days to the acre. When the water is raised only a few feet, the more ordinary method is that of the "sakis," a rude machine propelled by oxen, cows, and horses, and sometimes camels and donkeys, and which raises the water by means of earthern jars attached to an endless rope chain passing over a vertical wheel.

There are a few steam pumps but fuel is too expensive, and labor too cheap to permit of their general use. The number employed is about 400, and these are mostly in Lower Egypt. They are used principally on large estates, but in some cases by those who irrigate the lands of the small farmers, at a fixed price per acre. This is generally where cotton is produced, which requires watering once in eight or ten days throughout the season. The water has ordinarily to be raised but a few feet, and the quantity required each time, when the watering is so frequent, is much less. The usual price paid per acre is about 30s., and it is only the low price of farm labor that renders it practicable to cultivate lands requiring so much irrigation.—Scientific American.

The European Lead Market.

The London Times publishes an elaborate article on the condition of the lead trade of Europe, in which it arrives at conclusions which will be satisfactory to American producers. We are now, and have been for some years past, slightly influenced by the foreign markets, which have checked too rapid an advance only during one or two periods of scarcity. As we have already noted, we are gradually but surely approaching a critical period, when the capacity of our own country to take care of our increased product will be severely tested. It will certainly be gratifying news to be told that we can work out our own salvation without being hampered by any outside pressure. The writer in the Times combats the prevalent idea that the production of lead in Europe is in excess of consumption, and he asserts that heavy stocks accumulated in past years in England have been worked off, leaving them now at about 20,000 tons. This stock he does not consider high, and he points to the heavy stock of copper to show that an advance may occur in the face of it. He seems to forget, however, that a large part of the stock of copper in England is held by one firm, which has the means to keep it from the market indefinitely. He attributes much of the weakness of past years to the fact that same of the Spanish smelters began to do their own desilverizing, and, having the advantage of lower cost of production over their competitors, demoralized the trade. It is not stated that this cause has been removed; but it is urged that average European mines can not put lead on the market for less than £16 10s., or $80 per ton, without encroaching on their reserves, and this most of them are reported to have been doing for the past five years. Improved prices would not, therefore, cause such a rapid increase of production as many have seemed ready to believe. A strong point is made of the growth in the consumption in the markets which European lead commands, and some importance is attached to the probability of a heavy demand for electric storage batteries for lighting, it being calculated that about two tons of lead would be required for every house lighted by from twenty to thirty lamps, should the accumulators be used. As yet, however, we are unable to learn that their use is indispensable, and it would not be wise to look for much relief in that direction. Still, these arguments seem to have been received abroad without being contested, and, if borne out by the future, will guard us against the invasion of any heavy quantities of lead, and will enable our producers to realize the full price which the relation between home consumption and production entitles them to.—N. Y. Mining Journal.

The General Land Office at Washington has made the following ruling: "Lands which produce wild grass, but not in sufficient quantity to pay for cutting as hay, are desert lands, and may be entered as such; but when the character of the land is such that a crop of hay may be produced without irrigation, such land is not subject to desert entry.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 03.....1882

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

TWO RESOLUTIONS.

Among the other proceedings of the Democratic Convention, held here last Saturday, were the adoption of two resolutions. The first, "That in the sense of this Convention the Board of Supervisors of this County in fixing the tax levy for the ensuing year should reduce the maximum rate of said levy to a sum not exceeding $3 on the $100 of taxable property." We reserve comments on this resolution for the present.

The second resolution, by Mr. Moffat, was one strongly endorsing the action of the late Senatorial District Convention, at Bakersfield, in nominating Hon. P. Reddy for State Senator from this District.

It is sufficient to say of the latter that THE INDEPENDENT most cordially endorses the action of the Convention in its endorsement of Mr. Reddy's nomination, and, so far as it can in consistency with its neutral policy in politics, will earnestly urge his election.

Though no special legislation in the particular interest of Inyo or Mono or any other County is now possible under our Constitution, it is a matter of importance to have our comparatively unknown section brought to the notice of the business world somewhat in accordance with its real merits.

If the people of Inyo and Mono, (whose interests are absolutely identical in every particular connected with the proposed representation) are true to themselves they can have a representation at Sacramento, which in its personnel, as well as prominence of stations, will stand the peer and more than the peer of any county or any two counties in the State, San Francisco not excepted. This representation is given to the people of these two counties to chose; first, the Lieutenant Governorship and Presidency of the Senate in the person of Judge A. R. Conklin, (whose abilities and address will more than honor those high stations) and a representative each in both the Senate and House of Representatives. Who the latter may be is yet to be determined, but for the other we have Mr. Reddy, a man who makes his mark wherever he may be, in whatever he undertakes; a man, who as a lawyer, has ever been distinguished for making a client's cause his own cause to the very letter while maintaining it, therefor no less distinguished for his remarkable success in sustaining any causes he undertook; an able jurist, able to cope with the shrewdest law makers of the land—in short, the man for the place, and the man to give prominence to the constituency he represents.

Given these two, and yet a third of anything like equal powers in the other House, and this sage-brush region, hitherto a terra incognita to all the world, may well be proud, and certainly no less well assured that whatever of good can come of such an introduction to the world will come beyond peradventure, for, under the peculiar personal obligations these representatives must feel and do feel toward their constituent land, they will bend their every energy to that end. Such a brilliant opportunity for distinguished consideration in the political fortunes of this State will probably never again be offered to the people of this Eastern Slope, this Inyo County more especially. Now let us make the most of it.

THE Republicans of Esmeralda County, Nevada, have made the following nominations: For State Senator, G. B. Gallagher; for Assemblymen, T. H. Wells and Robert Morris; for Sheriff, Clem Ogg; for Assessor, E. L. Bunckingham, for Recorder, Frank Rice; for County Clerk, — Blakely: for Treasurer, Ira P. Hale; For Superintendent of Schools, Rev. G. B. Hinkle; for Surveyor, A. M. Haston.

A BETTER opportunity for the application of the homely old adage, "Do not count your chickens before they are hatched," was never given than in the case of the Bath, Me., lady, who, when about to be married, cried piteously because her new home was to be near the steep bank of a river, down which bank her children might fall, and in which river her children might be drowned. She has now been married more than fifty years, and has never borne a child.

THAT the Democrats of Inyo mean business is evidenced by the fact that they have nominated their ablest man for Assemblyman. A personal acquaintance of nearly a quarter of a century with James E. Parker warrants us in saying that in point of ability as a legislator he will take rank far above the average.—Bodie Miner.

SOLAR RESEARCHES IN THE HIGH SIERRAS.

Whatever may be said of the expenditure of public moneys for work upon insignificant rivers or creeks, no one will complain of any proper outlay to increase our knowledge of the relations of our globe to the sun. This, at least, is a public purpose in the widest sense. When, therefore, the astronomers of the Alleghany Observatory, by experiments in 1879 and 1880, found reason to believe that errors had been made on estimating the amount of heat sent to us by the sun, and devised means of verifying them which required such aid as a Government only could give, it was accorded readily and without complaint.

The point was, to ascertain how much heat was produced by the sun's rays irrespective of the action of the atmosphere by absorption. This could only be done by simultaneous observations at the sea level and on top of a lofty mountain. And nowhere could a point be found so favorable as where Mount Whitney, in the Sierra Nevada of Southern California, lifts its peak nearly as high as Mount Blanc, and so abruptly that two stations can be established within easy signaling distance, while yet one is 11,000 feet higher than the other. To reach this point, so formed by nature for searching the depths of space and measuring the power of the source of heat and light, it was necessary to transport observers and instruments to a point on the railroad four hundred miles south of San Francisco, and then one hundred and twenty miles across the Inyo Desert, shadeless and waterless, to Lone Pine at the foot of the Sierras. This required Government aid for success, and even for safety, and it was provided freely through Gen. McDowell, of the Department of the Pacific, who sent a military escort and two United States Signal Service officers with the scientific party and apparatus from the Alleghany Observatory. This was in August and September of last year, and Prof. S. P. Langley, the Director of the Observatory, who conducted the experiments, has communicated to Nature, in its issue of August 3d, 1882, the general results of the effort, in anticipation of the volume now in preparation which will contain the details of their observations, and the important conclusions to be drawn from them.

At the close of July the party found themselves at the foot of Mount Whitney, which rose like a perpendicular wall of granite, with the summit shining 11,000 feet above them and sixteen miles away, and yet seeming so near through the dry, pure air, that it wore the aspect of a quite neighboring pile of lofty and moss-covered gray rock with patches of white and a wildly jagged outline. With the telescope these mosses were revealed as great forests and the white patches as vast snow fields. It was found impossible to ascend with the instrument without making a detour, which occupied eight days, in order to avoid the precipices on the eastern point. They traversed a trackless wilderness, and scaled the peak at last, and there, upon a point almost as high as any on the continent and yet within sight of their fellow-workers in the lower world, they planted their delecate instruments and began to question the Sun as to the extent of his power, and the manner in which it is exerted upon this planet of ours through its atmospheric envelope.

The object, as before stated, was to discover what part of the surface temperature of the earth is due to the sun's direct radiant heat, and what part to the effect of the atmosphere in storing this heat. Of course they were at a point in the atmospheric envelope but little above the general surface of the earth, in camparison with its entire thickness; but by measuring the heat on the summit where the atmospheric effect was so different from that of the point where their companions were at work below, and comparing results, they "were enabled to determine the rate of absorption for each ray, and, differentially, to place the observer wholly outside our atmosphere, and to reconstruct the whole spectrum with the hitherto unknown distribution of energy which must exist there."

In other words, this was a scientific effort of man, not only to lift himself above the clouds, but to soar, in effect, entirely beyond the limits of the very air we breathe, and from a post of observation in space, to measure without earthly obstruction the power of the solar heat, and, unwinding each ray with his instruments, to learn how it falls upon the outermost covering of the planet, and how it will effect the solid globe when it is strained through the atmosphere and poured upon the mountains and valleys.

This is a striking and interesting effort of science. Prof. Langley in his preliminary paper only states the general results. They are, briefly, that the "true constant," which means the steady amount of heat the sun sends the earth, has been largely under-estimated. And yet the paradoxical conclusion is reached that if the atmosphere were wholly withdrawn, the earth at its surface would be so cold that mercury would remain solid under the vertical rays of the sun. And inasmuch as it is only the absorption of the air, but the manner in which such absorption selects the sun's rays, that maintains the surface temperature of the earth, it is doubtful whether, without this selective absorption, life could be maintained, even though respiration and combustion should go on. Thus "the temperature of a planet may depend less on its distance from the sun than on the nature of its gaseous envelope." If this is so, Mercury might be a ball of perpetual ice, and Neptune a green and habitable world, according to the atmosphere of each.

The experiments at Mount Whitney show, in a manner which we have not space to explain, that without our atmosphere the sun would appear of a strongly bluish tint, and that "white light is not the 'sum of all the radiations,' but a composition of the small groups of special rays which, starting from the sun, have struggled through the solar and terrestial atmospheres to us, while others of short wave lengths have failed on the way." The official report of the results of the expedition will be awaited with deep interest. —Leslie's Illustraled Newspaper.

THE MOHAVE.

The section of country in San Bernardino county known as the Mohave Desert, has been considered for so many years a worthless region, that it is almost impossible now to get anyone to look upon it in any other light than as a barren, desolate waste; but the enterprise of the bold pioneer and prospector is beginning to open it up and prove that it is valuable for many purposes—for mining, for coal, for wood deposits in sand-mounds, for stock raising and for farming to a large extent. Water can be had along the river bottom almost anywhere by sinking for it, seldom having to go but a few feet. There are immense tracts of land extending from the valley to the mountains on either side of the river used for pasturing cattle. At no distant day the bottom lands will be transformed into fields of grain, vineyards and orchards. The land is very cheap and the market for all kinds of produce extensive. The mining districts have commenced to produce precious metals in large quantities, and the section of country known as the Mohave Desert has commenced to present an appearance of thrift and prosperity. The Southern Pacific railroad passes through to the north-west, and the Atlantic and Pacific will soon be completed following along the Mohave river bed and passing near the rich mineral belt of Calico. With these facilities to open up the country, and with the resources enumerated, the old Mohave Desert will take rapid strides to wealth and population and soon cease to be termed a barren waste. To the contrary we expect a thriving settlement along the Mohave river, with her agricultural products, giving great wealth to a large number of people. It is not among the impossibilities that this great district of country will desire to cut loose from the present county affiliations and assume new robes as a new country before many months to come.

The foregoing is from the Calico Print of September 21st. It contains a very pointed suggestion—that the northern domain of Srn Bernardino and the southern end of Inyo shall be formed into a new county. There is not much question but that the mines and the railroad will soon bring in the necessary wealth and population to satisfy the constitutional requirements, when by the issue of bonds the new county might be wrung in to help pay off the debt of this, as we did with Mono.

Saline Valley.

Though many know it by name and have a dim conception of its character and location but few are familiar with the wonderful features of Saline Valley. It is one of the most peculiar and suggestive valleys of the coast. It is a great basin covering over 100,000 acres of level land lying along the eastern base of the Inyos, about 1,500 feet lower than the Owens River Valley. This extreme depth gives to the Inyos a heighth and contour more lofty and majestic than is seen at any other point on the range. These mountains as seen from the level of the valley rising to lofty altitudes; their swift uplift towards the sky, their mighty ribs of granite and lime, their profound depth of cañon, their faces of awful precipice, their varied color and hue present a splendid picture of mountain scenery at once peculiar, majestic and grand. As seen from these mountains the valley presents as wonderful a vision. From the lofty peaks down the swift declensions the eye ranges to its fields of salt and soda flashing in the Summer sun. Around it, bare, rugged and lonely, stand the enclosing mountains grand with color or somber with volcanic hues.

The position, shape, depth and appearance of the valley suggest to the geologist that in the formative periods of the world it was the crater of a vast volcano, that here for ages blazed in fury, and gave to this immediate region baptisms of fire, ashes and scoria which cooling at last has been by generations of convulsion, cataclysm and erosion of mountains filled in, forming the present valley levels.

Be this fiction or fact it presents a fine vision to the imagination and many suggestions of interest to the mind. Though denied the fertile fields, the grassy meadow and the purling stream which glorify the more favored seaward valleys Saline Valley is a region of great natural product and wealth, which though now beyond the immediate reach oi the world will in coming years be utilized and used. Its salt marsh covering several thousand acres and being of many feet in depth of pure salt forms one of the most extensive salt mines of the Continent, while thousands of acres of soda are holding their harvests for the necessities of the world when they shall be needed to fertilize and renew the exhausted fields which have been rendered barren by a too prodigal cultivation. The copper mines of Ube Hebe, rich and extensive, lying idle only because wood and water are as yet too distant to warrant their profitable working. The galenas of Waucoba, rarely rich; the slopes of Beveridge, profitable in gold; while the heart of the unexplored ranges roundabout hold undiscovered wealth—attest the wealth of this section.

We have examined more or less critically the mineral field in and about Saline Valley and have been greatly surprised at its extent and variety, and astonished that so little of development has been made upon propositions there presented. We were especially pleased with the prospects presented in the silver bearing ledges that occupy the slope of the mountains rising from the south west corner of the valley. Here are seen penetrating the slope and cliffs a number of most promising silver mines bearing ores of a remarkably rich and beautiful character. With a single exception little or no development has been done in this immediate district, though surface indications are highly suggestive of permanency and value, and such prospects as would in other places command immediate and extensive investigation. As representing the general character of these mines we would mention more particularly that series of ledges known as the Saline Valley Silver Mines, and as we understand, owned by W. T. Grant and associates, of Independence. Five ledges carrying pure chloride, sulphide, and native-silver ores of high grade are grouped in close proximity, in fact in one instance interlocked, forming that much to be desired junction prolific of richness in the common dhambers or chimneys formed by the intersection of ledges. The formation in which these ledges are encased is a soft and beautiful porphyry which shows in many places that fine grain known as the "birds eye." Through this formation these ledges cleave, strong and vigorous, visible upon the surface for several thousand feet, and climb the mountain with a strength that argues greatly for their staying qualities. Developments already made in tunnels show the ledges underneath in place between strong clear walls bearing the ear marks of true fissures. Judging from the appearance of ores taken from the breast of the ledge at the extreme end of the tunnel, now some considerable distance in, we formed a high opinion of their values and were pleased to learn that our opinion had been verified by assays. After several visits and examinaitons of these ledges we are satisfied they must have a certain and brilliant future, and that the time cannot be far distant when they will be developed and opened up as steady producers of bullion. They are most favorably situated for economical working; wood and water, salt and soda being just at hand. With their success and the development of kindred properties, and the cheap transportation of the endless quantities of soda and salt, Saline valley must become a rich and thriving section, despite its barren aspect, its lonely situation and its heated airs.

ARINGO.

THE Inyo county Democrats have shut out the Mono patriots, and that the latter children can do is to ratify and vote. Jas. E. Parker has been nominated for the Assembly, and the Inyo people could not have selected a better man. If the Miner had come out boldly Mono county would have secured the prize.—Bodie Free Fress.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 30.....1882

THE MONACHE VALLEY ACCIDENT.—Dr. and Mrs. Blair arrived home last Saturday evening from a month's sojourn in Monache Valley, away up in the high Sierras. Their visit there this time was not for rest and recreation, as might be inferred, but of a professional and "sisterly" nature, the occasion being the terrible accident to Miss Sarah Nichols, some details of which have already been given in these columns. The following additional, however, will be of interest: Miss Nichols, as was her wont, had been out riding with her uncle, Mr. John Broder, her riding animal being a generally perfectly docile mule. She had removed the saddle and bridle from the mule, and partially untied the hair rope, or macarté, from around the mule's neck, the remainder of the rope yet hanging in a knotted coil on the lady's arm, when the mule started off on a run to follow Mr. Broder's horse, just loosened and also running. The coil tightened around the arm, throwing Miss N. face downwards on the rocks, in which position she was dragged at full speed a distance of nearly two hundred yards. She was finally thrown with tremendous force against a large bowlder, and in such position that the now frightened animal could not go farther without taking the arm from the socket. But the extra strain on the rope partly turned the mule around, and in such manner that the partly untied bowline on his neck was freed so that the rope dropped loose. The inanimate form was carried to the camp, and upon the instant a messenger was started for Dr. Blair, at this place, with orders never to pull rein except to change horses till the intervening fifty miles was accomplished. The Doctor, accompanied by his wife, was on the way to Monache in half an hour after receiving the message, which was some ten hours after the accident. Arriving at Olancha just before night, Mrs. B. was left there for the night, while the Doctor, under guidance of Web. Walker, started to make the ascent that night. Unfortunately, however, they lost the trail in the darkness, and did not reach Broder's camp until 8 o'clock the next morning. The patient was yet perfectly insensible, and, it may be remarked here, remained in that condition for eighteen days. Her head was gashed up in a most shocking manner, but, remarkable as it would appear, neither the skull or any other bone was fractured. On the following day Mrs. Blair made the ascent on horseback, to the camp, without accident more serious than a ducking in a small creek in which her trembling and sweating horse attempted to bathe himself. The Doctor and his wife remained in constant attendance for just an even month, doing everything that skill and kind hearts could suggest, the more zealously because the sufferer was a cherished friend. At the close of this period the patient, though at first supposed to be injured beyond hope of recovery, was so nearly well as to be enabled to ride the mule that had caused the accident through the mountains to Weldon, on the western slope, whence she will soon return to her home in San Francisco, bearing scars, perhaps, but in other respects as strong and well as before the accident.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—Harry Wright is arranging a programme of racing and other sports, to take place at Taboose Station, fourteen miles north of this place, during the approaching Winter holidays. It is now understood that a number of racing horses are to be present from Mono County, Candelaria and other outside localities, so it behooves our Inyo people to rub up their singed cats to the very best possible working condition. Everybody knows that Harry Wright is one of the best and fairest managers of affairs of this kind to be found in the country.

A PROBLEM.—Among other problems submitted to the candidate for a teacher's certificate during the session last week of the Board of Education was the following, which, as will be seen at a glance, is quite simple and easy to answer, since it covers an every-day, practical question, with carpenters and builders especially—it is this: A room is 18 feet long, 12 feet wide and 9 feet high; what will it cost to weatherboard the walls of the same, allowing one-fifth for lap, the lumber to cost $40 per M? Send in your answers.

THE COMET.—There is a celestial tramp now to be seen in the eastern heavens of such vast proportions as to excite astonishment that he could be there without having caused more remark. What his name may be, whence he came or where bound, is more than we are able to say. For further information, get up at 5 o'clock in the morning and note what is to be seen directly in the line of sunrise, just above the crest of the Inyo range.

FOR SALE.—Mr. R. Fred. Brooks, of Bishop Creek, offers a splendid opportunity for some one to engage in a paying business. Aside from the variety store and cigar stand, Mr. Brooks has an extensive newspaper route and the agency for all the leading magazines and pictorials. His reason for selling is that he is desirous of engaging in other business. This is a rare chance for some enterprising man. Consult his advertisement.

LEFT OFF.—By an oversight of the compositor in the hurry of getting out the paper last Saturday evening, the names of J. J. Gunn of Darwin, H. H. Welch of Panamint and Edward Walker of Olancha were accidentally omitted from the list of Democratic County Central Committeemen, as chosen by the Convention of that day. These gentlemen are of that Committee.

DENTISTRY.—Dr. N. W. Parsons, of Stockton, Cal., will within a few days visit Lone Pine and Independence in a professional capacity. See notice elsewhere.

A Tragedy on the Desert.

Some five weeks ago there occurred a tragedy out here in the Death Valley region, which, in some of the particulars, would make a sensational chapter in the most imaginative dime novel. The details, in part at least, have already appeared in some of the Nevada papers. We now have the following (at second hands, however) from an eye witness of the final bloody affair:

One of the parties, named Gordon Ellis, made his home in this County for a time. The name of the other, and who was Ellis' slayer, is given by one authority as J. Center, and by another as Pat. Shea. In the uncertainties on this point, we accept the latter. The scene of the occurrence is laid at Bennett's ranch, located in Lincoln County, Nevada, in the midst of the desert region on our County's border out toward the Colorado. A short time before the bloody finale, Ellis sold some borax locations to the Coleman Borax Company, receiving $5,000 therefor. On the day before his last he got into a dispute with a Mexican whom he was gambling. He notified the Mexican that he should then and there shoot him, but only through the leg, as a warning of what would happen if he (the Mexican) did not conduct himself in a proper manner. Thereupon he did shoot the Mexican through the leg, and things then went on smoothly until the following day. Ellis then had some difficulty with Shea, with whom he was gambling; told Shea that he contemplated shooting him through the leg, as he had the Mexican the preceding day, if Shea did not amend his ways forthwith. Shea dared him to shoot an unarmed man, as he then was. Without much more ado, Ellis blazed away at Shea's leg, sending a ball through it below the knee. Shea began abusing Ellis after the fashion usual in such cases, whereupon, after due notice, Ellis perforated Shea's other leg, very much as he had the first. During the time some men present had started to their camp a short distance away to obtain their Henry rifles, whether to merely protect their own legs, or with a view of interfering in the wounded man's behalf, can only be surmised. While returning with their rifles they met Ellis, and with drawn guns compelled him to go back. Coming up to where Shea was, the latter, applying a foul epithet to one of the men with the rifles, added: "You cowardly ————, you want to shoot an unarmed man, too, do you?" At this the man addressed replied: "If you think I am a coward, come out here, you —— —," concluding the remark by throwing his gun down on the ground near Shea, and brandishing his fists as if they were to be his weapons in the impending conflict. Shea, though with a pistol shot through each leg, as before mentioned, advanced in a threatening manner toward the man with the fists and hot words, but got no further than the rifle which he immediately snatched up. Up to this point Ellis had remained sitting on his horse, apparently a disinterested spectator; but when he saw Shea pick up the gun, the seeming mystery of the bad blood became so clear to his mind that he instantly slid off his horse, but on the side farthest away from Shea. The latter then addressed himself to Ellis in language appropriate to the occasion and altered conditions of things, substantially to this effect, less the oaths, bad names, etc.: "Now, if you want to shoot at my legs any more, step out from behind that horse, and blaze away, you cowardly————" etc., etc. Ellis held his position behind the horse. Shea told him that he did not want to shoot the horse, but that if he did not come out at once, and "come a shootin'," he would drop the horse so that he could shoot the man. Ellis saw there was no help for it, and dodging under his horse's head, raised "a shootin'," sure enough, his first shot striking Shea (already twice wounded) in the groin and ranging upward. Shea, however, remained standing long enough to fire two shots at Ellis, the first with but trifling effect, the second knocking him in death throes to the ground, Shea falling at the same instant. Recovering sufficiently, Shea rose to a sitting posture, and called to the men who had in the meantime rushed in to "stand out of the way till I give the ———— another shot." The dying man, hearing the remark, whispered, "Do not let him shoot; I've got enough." Shea was assured that there was no need of another shot, and laid down satisfied. Ellis almost immediately breathed his last.

Deceased had about $100 on his person, which sum was used to defray burial expenses. As mentioned last week he also had some $1,800 on deposit with Harris & Rhine in this place, which sum is now under claim of Public Administrator Thompson.

OFF FOR THE WARS.—Judge Conklin, Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, starts on Monday for Bodie, there, on Tuesday evening next, to fire his first shot in the impending battle. In plainer words, a grand mass meeting is announced to take place there that evening to be addressed by the Judge as the leading speaker, to be followed by others of more or less prominence. The programme is for a large committee of reception to escort the Judge from the Bodie Mill, as he arrives there on his journey, and escort him thence directly to the stand.

FOR BENTON.—Mr. Parker, of this paper, left on Thursday morning for Benton to attend the Democratic Legislative Convention, to be held there today. He goes accredited as one of the three delegates from this county to meet a like number from Mono, and also as the Democratic Inyo nominee for Joint Assemblyman.

HENCE!—The Convention of last Saturday together with the two to-day—at this place and Benton respectively—has made and is making quite a draft upon the limited INDEPENDENT force, both editorially and typographically, hence some matters and things worthy of mention have necessarily to be passed unnoticed.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

There is Some Bucking and Kicking and Splitting—The Democrats are Greatly Comforted.

The Inyo Republican County Convention met at the Court House, pursuant to call, this morning at 11 A. M., and was called to order by T. F. A. Connelly, Chairman Central Committee.

A temporary organization was soon effected by the election of Capt. J. M. Keeler as Temporary Chairman and G. H. Gregory, Secretary pro. tem.

Committees were appointed as follows:

Credentials—D. H. Williams, A. H. Wemple and E. Goodale.

Permanent Organization—John Kispert, Web. Walker and I. P. Rittgers.

Order of Business and Resolutions—R. C. Julian, Ed. Steers and G. H. Gregory.

Recess was then taken until 1 P. M.

Here comes in a word of explanation. The Bishop Creek delegation had come in the evening before. It soon became evident that they were much vexed in spirit, and that there was trouble in the wind. The grievance was, primarily, that the apportionment of delegates was unfair to the upper portion of the County; secondarily, that as that section now and always heretofore, would and had furnished the greater bulk of the Republican vote of Inyo it was clearly entitled to at least an equal representation in County Nominating Conventions, and no less clearly, at least one prominent place on the ticket. Under existing conditions, the accordance of the latter was understood to be their ultimatum—the Sheriff's office was the place demanded, but that one only, and that chiefly that it would tend materially to draw out a full vote in aid of the State ticket, although it was still none the less a right due in other respects. Their choice of a man for the place was one to give strength to the whole ticket, not alone because of high standing of the candidate himself, but by reason of the extinguishment of all sectional feeling—dead lines would then be no more. This demand appeared to be backed but by seven or eight assured votes, while the other fellows felt certain of nearly twice as many in the matter of the particular office in question. So the fourteen votes, more or less, while freely admitting the great sentimental force of the arguments of the seven votes, more or less, pronounced them practically quite absurd. Then it was given out that Bishop Creek, backed by Round Valley, would not go into Convention at all. So the gloom became general and obvious, and the shades of night closed in. Morning came and merged into midday, but the political situation remained unchanged—and still remains unchanged.

The representative candidates in this issue were Jas. W. Smith, of the region south of the dead line established for the occasion through force of its vote at or near Big Pine, and Jas. H. Shannon, of the region north of the same.

All other candidates, though individually of some importance in their respective spheres, were rated as small potatoes in this issue. But the fates of a number hinged on the solution of the vexed Sheriff question, in which the real issue was local, not at all personal, for both gentlemen were popular on both sides of the Wemple dead line.

So, on reassembling at 1 o'clock, the Bishop Creek and Round Valley chairs remained vacant for the reasons named, and three others for lack of accredited delegates. Hence there were but thirteen delegates present on an apportionment for twenty-three.

In accordance with report of Committee, the temporary organization was retained.

There was no issued raised on the reports of the other Committees, which were adopted (if a motion to simply "receive" adopts) as read, including all the resolutions as given below—but afterwards there came trouble about one of them, as will be related.

No candidates except those actually nominated asked for anything. There were different reasons for this, but it is no matter what they were.

The nominations were made in the order given below.

The admission fee, as fixed by vote, was $5 on each nomination, which sum was duly deposited by each in turn.

Mr. Smith endorsed platform and resolutions—specifically the one to vote for and support the State ticket.

Mr. Hardy signified his willingness and intention to do both, but declined to take such a pledge, as he deemed it a bartering away of his rights as a voter and citizen. This was a "kick," and there was some cheering in the pit.

Mr. Connelly interpreted this as a Democratic manifestation of delight, and bucked accordingly in quite a telling speech, concluding with withdrawing Mr. Hardy's nomination.

Mr. Web. Walker renominated Mr. Hardy. The latter stood to his guns.

A motion to ignore the resolution and go on was overruled.

A motion to rescind the objectionable resolution was made and carried on a call, 8 to 5, reported 9 to 4.

This relieved Mr. Stevens, who had repeatedly vowed never to vote for Mr. Estee, because of a personal trouble between them years ago—some time since the Pliocene Period. How it affected other candidates does not appear.

Mr. Connelly and Mr. Rittgers then withdrew from the Convention, and there was no more trouble to the close.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Committee on Credentials reported the following-named as accredited delegates:

Sherman—R. C. Speers (J. M. Keeler, proxy).

Panamint—Thomas Pheby (D. H. Williams, proxy).

Olancha—W. H. Walker.

Cerro Gordo—Ed. E. Steers.

Lone Pine—D. H. Williams, I. P. Rittgers, Paul Houard (George H. Gregory, proxy).

George's Creek—John Kispert.

Independence—T. F. A. Connelly, R. C. Julian, Fred. Schabbell (Gus Stecker, proxy).

Fish Springs—Thomas Goodale (E. W. Goodale).

Big Pine—A. H. Wemple.

The Committee on Platform and Resolutions submitted the following:

Resolved, That the Republicans of Inyo County in Convention assembled do hereby fully and unequivocally endorse, in its entirety, the platform declared by the late Republican State Convention at Sacramento, and most emphatically the principles set forth in paragraphs 5, 9, 14 and 19, severally reading as follows;

Fifth—History and experience unite to prove the necessity of preserving one day day in seven as a day of rest from labor. Without legislation on this subject, the laboring classes might be compelled to continue in unceasing toil. Therefore, we are in favor of observing Sunday as a day of rest and recreation; and while we expressly disavow the right or the wish to force any class of our citizens to spend that day in any particular manner, we do favor the maintenance of the present Sunday laws, or similar laws, providing for the suspension of all unnecessary business on that day.

Ninth—We denounce the railroad contract system as a deliberate attempt to enslave the commerce and trade of the whole Pacific coast and subjugate them to the control and caprice of the railroad companies. It is against public policy, because it seeks to make use of the national bounty to break down the healthful competition which it is the policy of the nation to encourage. It is unjust and oppressive because it discriminates in favor of the strong at the expense of the weak, and offers bribes to the rich which it collects back from the poor. It is arbitrary and tyrannical because it arrogantly interferes with the fredom of trade and proposes to prohibit those who make use of its transportation facilities from doing business with any one who refuses to submit to its dictation. Its existence is a threat and its abolition a necessity. The Republican party pledges itself to prohibit the making of such contracts by proper legislation to the extent, if necessary, of making the same a public offence.

Fourteenth The Republican party demands that the public schools shal receive a generous support, as the pillar of the government; that education, from the primary school to the State University, shall be free, and within the reach of the children of every citizen; that, in furtherance of this principle, we recommend to the Legislature the establishment of some system by which the State shall print and provide the reading and other text books used in the public schools, supplying the same to the pupils at actual cost.

Nineteenth—We insist upon economy in the administration of the government, integrity in office, and honesty and efficiency in every branch of the public service.

Resolved, We declare that railroad companies, the same as individuals, should be dealt with in fairness and without injustice; but, by reason of their relation to the people, they should be kept in subordination to the interests of the people and within governmental control. And we hereby pledge our nominee for the Assembly to use his utmost influence to procure the passage of laws prohibiting the use or enforcement of the "railroad contract system," as referred to in paragraph 9 of the State Platform; and to procure the passage of a law making the enforcement of such contracts a penal offense.

Resolved, That every candidate, before receiving a nomination at the hands of this convention, shall pledge his vote and support to said Platform and the State ticket. And

WHEREAS, For the first time in the proceedings of any Convention of this "Eastern Slope," so-called, this Inyo County Convention here assembled is now privileged to endorse the nomination of one of its own citizens for a high State office; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we do acknowledge the nomination of Judge A. R. Conklin, a leading and representative citizen of the County, for the Lieutenant-Governorship of this great State of California, as an honor in fact to this hitherto neglected region; and, furthermore, as an honor fairly deserved by the distinguished nominee for his marked abilities in his profession and as an orator and parliamentarian, and more particularly for his proven patriotism as established by over four years of soldierly service to his country in time of its greatest need, and his staunch Republicanism at all times.

Resolved, That a copy of this Platform and Resolutions be furnished THE INYO INDEPENDENT with request to publish the same.

Adopted.

There being no contestants for any office, the following were nominated by acclamation:

Sheriff—James W. Smith, of Fish Springs.

Treasurer—Geo. H. Hardy, of Independence.

Assessor—S. V. Stevens, of Lone Pine.

Clerk—T. T. Cook, of Bishop Creek.

Coroner—V. G. Thompson, of Camp Independence.

Supt. of Schools—Chas. H. Groves, of Round Valley.

Surveyor—Jos. Seely, of Lone Pine.

The following-named were selected as delegates to the Joint Assembly Convention, which meets at Bishop Creek, Monday, October 9: George M. Gill, D. H. Williams and A. H. Wemple. The delegates were not instructed by the Convention, but it is understood that they will support a candidate from this County.

At 4 o'clodk the Convention adjourned sine die.

Letter From Big Pine.

BIG PINE, September 26.

This place is dull at present, but has great hopes for the future, based on the success of the Montezuma mine. The greater part of the furnace is on the ground where it is to be built. A number of workmen have already secured situations. Besides he ore taken from the mine there will, in all probability, be custom work, also, so that the furnace is sure of being at work all the time. Mr. Griswold, one of the most energetic men in our community, has high hopes for the success of the mine, in which he has always had confidence.

The sawmill is shut down for want of a sawyer.

Professor Dorrego favored this place with one of his excellent musical entertainments last evening. A few who were present did not seem to appreciate some of the fine selections—too operatic, perhaps, for rural minds to comprehend. If any one cannot behave gentlemanly at an entertainment, common sense should lead them to stay away.

Mr. A. A. Riddle and Mr. A. K. Wren are back from Saline Valley, looking bronzed and healthy.

WADE.

Clover Patch District.

CLOVER PATCH, MONO CO., CAL., September 26, 1882.

INYO INDEPENDENT: Perhaps a few lines from this comparatively unknown section may be acceptable to parties who are interested in mining matters.

Clover Patch is situated about ten miles west of Benton, and is destined to become a camp of considerable importance.

The principal mine in the district is the Banner, owned by Jos. McDermott, P. Dowd, J. Lewis and others. They are building a five-stamp mill and intend adding five stamps more next Spring. The mine is in a granite formation, with porphyry and limestone walls. The ledge trends northeast and southwest for a distance of seven to eight miles, and from three to forty feet in width. There are some thirty locations on the main ledge. The Banner ore is free milling, and assays from $25 to $150 per ton; general average, about $50. The company have about 500 tons of fine-looking ore on the dump. Twenty men are employed at the mine and mill.

The Shay mine is situated on the northern end of the ledge, and was discovered in 1876 by Messrs. Neal and Shay. Considerable work has been done on the property. The main ledge is from 16 to 18 feet in width, with from 10 inches to 2½ feet of solid ore. Capitalists have made offers for the mine, but without procuring it.

The north and south extensions of the Shay mine are owned by Thos. G. Kelty and others of Benton, who are doing considerable work on them. The ore is about the same character as that of the Shay mine, and assays from $15 to $75 per ton. More anon.

OLD SNOB.

Card of Thanks.

The undersigned, in behalf of his grateful and suffering family, returns his most heartfelt thanks to the people of Independence and vicinity for the liberal contributions toward defraying the expenses of self and family to San Francisco, and he hopes that their charity toward worthy causes may never be missed. Yours very truly.

REINHOLD LANGER.

COMMITTEE MEETING.—The Republican County Central Committee met and effected an organization as follows: V. G. Thompson, Chairman; and S. D. Thurston, Secretary. The Executive Committee consists of five members, as follows: J. H. Stoutenborough of Bishop Creek, A. H. Wemple of Big Pine, Geo. H. Gregory of Lone Pine, V. G. Thompson and S. D. Thourston of Independence. The Central Committee as appointed by the Convention is as follows: George H. Gregory, Lone Pine; Ed. E. Steers, Cerro Gordo; W. H. Walker, Olancha; V. G. Thompson, S. D. Thurston, P. A. Chalfant, Independence; John Kispert, George's Creek; Thos. Boland, Darwin; A. H. Wemple, Big Pine; Geo. M. Gill, J. H. Stoutenborough, Bishop Creek; Thos. E. Jones, Round Valley.

LOST.—Last Tuesday, between Independence and Big Pine, Mr. S. D. Woodhull lost a package containing some clothes and a book on mining. Any person finding the same will oblige Mr. Woodhull by leaving it at the hotel at Big Pine.

ONCE AGAIN.—Any one wanting either a single or double set of buggy harness, —as good as new and at a materially less cost—or a buggy pole or a pair of thills, or a cheap saddle, will find just such an opportunity by calling on Dr. George at his office in this place.

One of the chief uses of mica at the present time is for stove doors and lanterns, the fire-resisting qualities of the mineral, together with its transparency, rendering it specially adapted for the purpose. But only the very clearest and best sheets of mica can be thus used. Vast beds of the substance exist in various parts of the country, for which, except the finest portions, as above mentioned, there is little demand. New uses will, however, doubtless be discovered and invented, for mica is made up of valuable materials. We notice among the recently granted patents two inventions in this line. One is for the manufacture of journal boxes of cement, ground mica and flour; the ingredients are mixed, pressed into shape, and baked. The other is an apparatus for reducing mica to an impalpable powder and preparing it for use as a mixer in starch gloss and oily compositions. Chemically regarded mica is made of silica, alumina, and potash. Silica is one of the hardest substances in nature, known in its purest and most beautiful form as rock crystal. Alumina is another exceedingly hard substance. One of its most useful but impure forms is emery or corundum, now so extensively employed for grinding and polishing purposes. The most elegant and purest examples of silica are seen in the well known precious stones, the ruby and the sapphire. Potash, the remaining ingredient of mica, is familiar to everybody, and is extensively used in the arts. Our commercial supplies of potash chiefly come from the ashes of plants and trees, and their roots take it from the ground, the granite rocks being the original source. Granite is composed of quartz, feldspar and mica.—Scientific American.

HENRY GAUVANS, another of the survivors of the wrecked steamer Asia, reached here Sept. 23. He said he had his suspicions of the vessel and was very cautious. She was laden so that the fore part was thirty feet out of the water, while the stern was sometimes plunged into the lake and she refused to obey her helm and rolled in the trough of the sea with every strong puff of wind that came. Her forepart swung until she actually moved as on a pivot. More than one hundred people were on board, half French and half English, all screaming at once as the waves broke over the vessel. The officers could do nothing their commands being unheeded in the confusion when it became evident that the vessel would go down. —Toronto Paper.

POLITICAL speeches will have very little influence in the present campaign. The newspapers bring out all the facts and figures that carry weight with the public, and it signifies little what this or that candidate says to an excited crowd of men and boys. There is no longer any romance in a political campaign.—Stock Report.

Successful Mining.

The experience of the last thirty years has greatly enhanced the value of mining properties. As now conducted, mining has become a science, and as such is being conducted with as much certainty of success as any other branch of business. A mining company to be successful must possess the following requisites. Paying ore properly developed, and as the ore is being taken out, other ore should be exposed in equal amount, thus keeping up the supply in sight. Ample machinery of a suitable kind in every particular to work that ore. Ample means, expended honestly and in the most capable manner, when the ore is low grade and refractory, the reducing processes should be the best attainable. Many exceedingly valuable properties have failed to pay because the machinery and process used in working its ore were not suitable. Some ores have a large portion of its metal in fine particles, which either floats or is blown away during the process of reducing it; others, owing to sulpher, arsenic or other substances, are difficult to separate at an expense that allows a profit.

Many valuable properties are now idle because the companies owning them were unable to obtain all the money required to develope them up to a paying condition; other companies have failed because their money was paid in small sums, at long intervals, thus necessitating its expenditure in such a way that the expenses were double or more than they would have been if ample means had been supplied at the beginning of work. Many companies have plenty of rich ore and ample means, but have come to grief because the managers were incapable, or, being capable, were indifferent to the interests of stockholders, or, being dishonest, have appropriated the resources of the mine to their own use.

Let the ore be ever so rich and the supply unlimited, yet if there is a deficiency either in money, machinery, capacity or honesty, failure is certain. Before a company spends any money on a mine, it should have an estimate made by those capable of making an honest statement regarding the amount required to place the property in a paying condition, without further expenditure except for mining and reducing the ores. Place that sum in the treasury before work at the mines is begun. A company formed on this basis is certain to succeed. No company should be formed until the property it is to work has been developed to such an extent as to enable the engineer to make an accurate estimate regarding its mineral value, and the amount of the capital of the company should be regulated accordingly.—Mining Stock Register.

VANDALS find plenty of material in and about the public buildings to operate upon. It is the favorite amusement of some people to put a cigar stump in the mouths of some of the statues in the Capitol at Washington. Relic hunters chip off pieces here and there. Thus the dying Tecumseh, which for so many years rested in the crypt of the Capitol and now in the Corcoran Art Gallery, had his tomahawk, one ear and one finger stolen. Vinnie Ream Hoxie's "Carnival Girl," in the ladies' wing of the Senate, every now and then has appeared with a quid of tobacco in her mouth. Greenough's "Washington," a work that has been more savagely criticised than almost anything in the line of art in the city, has been the subject of merriment for some time, Washington's big toe having been stolen. However, Mr. Lot Flannery has put on a new marble toe. The restoration was so neatly done that unless the foot is very carefully examined the substitute cannot be noticed. The figures of the famous bronze doors at the Capitol have suffered from the same cause. It is proposed to pass a law at the next session of Congress making this class of offenses punishable by severe penalty.

IT has cost Chili $50,000,000 to the present time to prosecute the war with Peru.

The Washington Monument.

The white, tall, plain shaft of the Washington monument is foot by foot daily rising skyward, and its completion in due course of time is now assured. It is already a landmark visible from any part of Washington, and the inhabitants, after a generation of ridicule, are beginning to be proud of it. Apart from its unique character as an architectural wonder, modern science proposes to utilize it for the public benefit. The signal service office expects to have a prominent station at its summit, and its officers say that observations of the air and atmosphere movements taken at an altitude of 550 feet will be of great value. Observations are taken, of course, at far greater altitudes than this, but the gradual slope of even the most precipitous mountains, and the presence of large masses of rock near the observatory, create surface currents, even on mountain heights, and interfere with the study of the phenomena of the highest levels of the atmosphere. It has often been proposed to institute a series of experiments by means of captive balloons, but the expense of such work prevented the plans being carried out. At the time of the Centennial it was proposed to erect a skeleton tower to the height of 1,000 feet in Fairmount Park. Had this been done the signal officers would have utilized the observatory for the benefit of meteorological science, but the tower stopped at 300 feet. The signal officers say it would not be impracticable to build a tower 1,000 feet high, or even higher, and that the erection of such a tower would be of great service. The monument is now 290 feet high. The original design contemplated a height of 500 feet, but at a meeting of the Commissioners two years ago, when it was decided to resume work, it was voted to make the monument the highest artificial structure in the world. The Commissioners examined the heights of all the noted monuments, towers, pagodas, spires, buildings and flag-poles, and found that to safely distance all rivalry a height of 550 feet would be necessary. It was therefore determined to complete the shaft on this plan, and the drawings were modified to that end. What was the surprise and gratification of the Commissioners to find subsequently that the new proportions of the shaft as now adopted were exactly those of an Egyptian obelisk?

AN exchange says too little attention is paid to recording, in the County Clerk's office, annual assessment labor on mining claims. If there were more recording done there would be less litigation. It is true that a "jumper" is required to show that a full assessment has not been worked, but the actual owner is also required to show that the work was done according to law. The value of recording work, however, is most forcibly felt when a sale is about to be made. If the owner or his agent is abroad endeavoring to effect a sale, and the title of the property is questioned, reference is at once made to the county records. If the work has been recorded, with other neceessary documents, it shows care on the part of the owner. Official record of annual labor has saved many a man's property, and neglect of this duty has lost many valuable claims. There are a hundred and one reasons why every owner of a claim should have his work recorded. Claim owners who are non-residents should be especially particular to have the work recorded, and no contract for assessment work should be let without a clause providing for the affidavit and proof of record. To our readers in the States we call particular attention to this matter. The cost of record is trifling, compared to its value. Bear this in mind, or you may some day regret it. As a class, our miners are thoroughly honest, but now and then a scallawag turns up who will accept $100 in payment for $50 worth of work. If he is required to make an affidavit that he has complied with the law before receiving his money, he will hesitate a long time before swearing falsely.

MEN differ greatly in the amount of work they can get out of a team of horses, and the animals know this as well as the drivers. Some will fret and sweat and steam when only drawing an empty wagon, while others will drive the same horses before a large load and not wet a hair. This difference is more easily seen than described. Kindness in manner and tone of voice go a great way towards making the load draw easily, the owner's handling of the reins is frequently far different than that of the hired man. We have seen teams kept poor in flesh by an almost incessant worry from an ill-fitting harness, an inhuman jerking upon the bits, or a frequent and injudicious use of the whip. Boys are not exempt from these strictures. Many teams have had their usefulness impaired by a disregard of the feelings of the horses. It is not the well-fed horse only that does the most work and keeps in the best condition; he must also have a kind master, and be treated with a just regard for equine sensibility.
